FAMILY 144.

2301. Abraham⁶ Humphrey, [946] (Capt. Abraham,⁵ Isaac,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 4 May, 1799, in Goshen, Ct. He married, in Victor, Ontario Co., N. Y., 19 May, 1831, Amna* Palmyra (dau. of Jacob and Hannah Boughton) Lobdell, a native and resident of Victor, N. Y., b. 5 Aug., 1798. Her father was one of the earliest pioneers of that region, being the first white man who spent a winter in Victor. Mrs. Humphrey died in South Norwalk, Ct., 12 Aug., 1872, æ. 74 years.

The following appeared in the Victor Weekly Herald, December 7th, 1882:—

“Died quietly, after a short indisposition, at South Norwalk, Ct., on Friday morning, Dec. 1st, 1882, Abraham Humphrey, at the residence of his son-in-law, S. Chauncey Palmer.

“Mr. Humphrey came to Victor, in the year 1821, when twenty-one years of age, and settled on Boughton Hill. Sixty-two years have wrought many changes in this locality, and the pioneers who at that time came into a comparatively new country, found then enough to do in the way of clearing their farms, planting orchards, and making homes, to learn well the meaning of the words privation and hardship. But while they labored and endured, they gained for themselves physical strength, vigorous and sinewy bodies, and characters as strong and stable as their constitutions. Mr. Humphrey was notably industrious, economical and prudent, and by the exercise of these virtues succeeded in gaining a competency. Another eminent quality was his strict integrity in all his business relations, and the common affairs of life. Being a man of strong religious convictions, he was a constant attendant upon divine worship, and always contributed liberally to the support of the church of his choice. After the death of his wife, in 1872, he was left mainly dependent upon their only surviving child, Mrs. Ellen M. Palmer, for that loving care which children alone can give, when the form is bent with years, and the infirmities of age weigh heavily. He spent most of his time with her, but he sadly missed the familiar faces and old friends of former years, for he had grown too old to again form new ties, so he was brought back to the spot he loved so well, Boughton Hill, and laid to rest with his kindred and neighbors.

“A brief service was held at Norwalk before leaving, and upon arriving at Victor, the remains were taken to the residence of Mr. Luman P. Miller [Fam. 143 (2278), S.²], where the funeral was attended on Sunday afternoon, December 3d. Thus ended a long life of eighty-three years, peaceful, happy and well-spent.

‘Of no distemper, of no blast he died,
But fell like autumn fruit that mellowed long,
Even wonder’d at because he dropped no sooner;
Fate seemed to wind him up for fourscore years,
Yet freshly ran he on three winters more,
Till, like a clock worn out with eating time,
The wheels of weary life at last stood still.’”

Children (born in Victor, N. Y.):

2302. I. ELLEN MARIA,⁷ b. 2 Mch., 1836; married, in Victor, N. Y., 18 Jan., 1860, Seymour Chauncey (son of Adam and Mary Fuller) Palmer, of Bridgewater, Onondaga

FAMILY 145.

2307. Hon. Harvey⁶ Humphrey, [962] (Jonathan,⁵ Isaac,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 24 December, 1796, in Goshen, Ct. He married, in Rochester, N. Y., 2 October, 1828, Elizabeth Rogers Perkins, a native and resident of Norwich, Ct., b. 24 Dec., 1808, dau. of Dyer and Charlotte Sophia (Woodbridge) Perkins. She is related to the Griswolds and Huntingtons, and is a niece of Harriet Augusta Woodbridge, wife of Augustine⁶ Humphrey, [Fam. 146, S.²] She resided (1882) in Rochester, N. Y.

When Harvey Humphrey was two years of age, his father, having bought a farm in East Bloomfield, Ontario Co., N. Y., then on the extreme Western borders of civilization, removed there with his family. Here, for some years, in his log-cabin, built with his own hands, he passed a life of hardship, with his strong right arm subduing the forest, letting in the sunlight where for centuries it had not shone, and making the wilderness to bud and blossom as the rose. The subject of this sketch used to recall with pleasure the perils and labors so well endured, the pride with which, at an early day, he competed with men in holding the plough and swinging the axe and scythe. He could bring to mind many hair-breadth escapes in encounters with wild beasts, and in perils by flood and field. He liked to tell also, of his scant winter schooling, and of the studies pursued by firelight, late into the night, and of the two or three books so thoroughly scanned and studied and mastered. Among these was the old Bible, read and re-read, until its wondrous lessons stamped vividly on his memory became the seed which in after years sprang up in the high morality, and the rugged honesty, which dignified his manhood. He bore bravely the yoke in his youth and found its blessing after many days in fearlessness of hardship and brave bearing of burdens, which seemed light in contrast with those of his early life.

In 1816, he entered Hamilton College, and for four years held the first place in all his studies. His classmates were Bishop Ives, Rev. Albert Barnes, and Harvey Johnston, the famous western missionary, and ten others hardly less well-known. He graduated in 1820, pronouncing the Salutatory, and would have been Valedictorian but for the fact that he had neglected too much the art of speaking. After graduating he entered the law office of Nicholas B. Randall, of Manlius, and studied law for two years. He was then elected tutor in Hamilton College. He accepted the position and discharged its duties with honor until 1824, when he removed to Rochester, and soon commenced the practice of his profession. Not long after his admission to the bar, he was appointed Justice of the Peace, which position he continued to fill for many years; was one of the members of the first Common Council of the City of Rochester, for many terms Supervisor, and, from 1852 to 1856, first Judge of Monroe County. All these offices sought him on account of his peculiar fitness for them, as he had all his life long a peculiar horror of self-seeking and political wire-pulling.

In the practice of his profession, he was a wise and peculiarly judicious counselor, a close and very lucid reasoner, and in all things thoroughly reliable and trustworthy. His services were in great demand as a referee and arbitrator, and few weeks passed without his decision of some difficult and important case.

As a scholar he had few equals in the State. He acquired in college a love of classical literature, which continued while he lived. His later years were mellowed and lightened by pleasant and intimate converse with Demosthenes and Plato, with Horace and Virgil, and other master-minds of Greece and Rome. Their works he studied critically in their own language. They were his daily delight, recreation and solace, affording pleasant occupation to all his leisure hours, even to the last day of his life. The poetic temperament was in him most decided. In his earlier life, he was a most cherished and prominent contributor to the best literary publications of the day; and this work had such fascination for him, as to necessitate his entire declination of it, upon his entering upon the more arduous labors of his profession.*

In 1851, his son, George Harvey, was admitted to practice, and the firm from this time continued to be H. & G. H. Humphrey until his death, which occurred in Rochester, N. Y., May 1st, 1877, at the age of 80 years. To the last he kept up his interest in current events and in the duties of his profession. Although his physical force abated, his mind remained clear and his memory perfect. His cheerfulness was never dimmed; every year he thought happier than the preceding. The day of life, with advancing years, grew more and more serene and unclouded until its growing light faded into the dawning of the other and sunnier shore.†

2438. Charles Milton⁶ Humphrey, [1079] (Nathaniel,⁵ Thomas,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 14 June, 1816, in Coventry, Chenango Co., N. Y. He married (1) in Sidney, Delaware Co., N. Y., 28 Dec., 1838, Emeline Salvina (dau. of Josiah) Chase, of Sanford, Broome Co., N. Y., b. 23 June, 1816, Maryland, Otsego Co., N. Y.; d. 18 May, 1866, Bennettsville, Chenango Co., N. Y. She was a sister of the second wife of Nathaniel⁵ Humphrey, her father-in-law. [Fam. 56, S.²] He married (2) in Bennettsville, N. Y., 10 Feb., 1867, Mary Jane Gardiner, b. 23 Feb., 1847.

* This corrects the statement concerning his death given on page 377.

Mr. Humphrey learned the carriage-maker's trade, and carried on the business at Bennettsville, N. Y., until the spring of 1869, when he sold out and removed to Michigan. The climate not agreeing with him, he returned to the State of New York in the fall of the same year, and settled at Afton, Chenango County, where he continued to reside until his death, which occurred in that town, 29 June, 1877, at the age of 61 years. Mrs. Humphrey's P. O. address was (1883) Windsor, Broome Co., N. Y.

2440. II. CHARLES EDWIN,⁷ b. 11 Dec., 1850, Bennettsville, N. Y.; in 1867, attended the Commercial College at Binghamton, N. Y. In the spring of 1870, he joined the Greeley Colony and went to Greeley, Colorado; but sold out shortly after and entered Afton (N. Y.) Academy, where he continued his studies until the spring of 1872. He then went upon a farm, which he had previously purchased at Solomon, Kansas, with the expectation of working it. After a day's trial he abandoned the attempt, as he found it was almost impossible for him to raise his foot after putting it down on the ground. He had bought what is called "gumbo" land; it had rained the day before his arrival, and such soil cannot be worked after a rain.

After occupying several positions of trust in public institutions at Kalamazoo, and at Jackson, Michigan, from 1872 to 1879, he bought out the drug store which he now owns (1883) at Jackson, Mich. He is unmarried.

FAMILY 170.

2486. Deacon Stephen-O.⁶ Humphrey, [1109] (Hon. Noah,⁵ Noah,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 22 Sept., 1811, in Goshen, Ct. He married, 21 Mch., 1833, Phebe Sophia Robbins, a school-teacher, of Norfolk, Ct., b. 26 Aug., 1813. She was a granddaughter of Rev. Ammi R. Robbins, of Revolutionary memory, who was the pastor of the church in Norfolk, Ct., for sixty years. They removed, in 1837, from Goshen, Ct., to Hinckley, Medina Co., Ohio, near two of his brothers, Dea. Julius⁶ and Dea. Silas⁶ Humphrey, who were then residents of Summit County, and there lived for six years. In 1843, they removed, with some of their neighbors, to a place near Rockford, Winnebago Co., Ill., and thence, after a few years, to Beloit, Rock Co., Wisconsin. In this new country, surrounded by a thriving New England element, Mr. Humphrey found an ample field for usefulness, and in promoting the religious and educational interests of the neighborhood he was ever earnest and laborious, often sacrificing his own time, strength and pecuniary means. His peculiarly pleasant deportment, and a certain winning manner of address, gave him great influence, even with those of less breadth of views and of more selfish dispositions. Yet he was always consistent, persistent and firm in the line of what he deemed to be duty. It is related of him that, while residing near Rockford, the lack of a school-house and educational facilities for the children of the numerous families settled on the prairies thereabout induced him to open a room in his own house as a school-room. He constructed the benches and writing-desks, and made due provision for all whom he thought would require to be accommodated; but he had under-estimated the need, and his room and house were soon filled with scholars in such numbers as to prove quite inconvenient to himself and family. His residence also became the meeting-house of the settlement, in which ministers of every denomination officiated, as opportunity offered. Dea. Humphrey's musical abilities added largely to the interest of these meetings, and he was generally looked up to as the leader on all such occasions, and in all social and public movements, the community showing, both by words and deeds, that he possessed their respect and confidence. During seasons of sickness, he was in universal requisition, since a natural gift for nursing the sick, and a knowledge of the action of medicines upon the human system (a subject upon which he had been at considerable pains to inform himself by observation and study), peculiarly qualified him for such services. In this new country, where physicians were scarce, he was frequently called away from his family and business to minister, for weeks at a time, by the beds of the sick and dying.

In public matters he was also the recipient of repeated tokens of the confidence of his fellow-citizens: was frequently Justice of the Peace; Administrator of Estates; three times Treasurer of the town of Beloit; and three times Treasurer of the city, after its incorporation, resigning at length on account of declining health. Upon his removal to Beloit, he united with the Presbyterian church, and was chosen one of its elders, and subsequently, as the town increased, found it convenient and in the line of usefulness to join the Congregational church. The following notice written by his pastor, and which appeared in the local paper after his death, which occurred in 1863, will best characterize this faithful, earnest man:

"Mr. Humphrey had his monument, self-erected in the hearts of those who shared his kind offices. For thirteen years, he was known by us only to be loved for his devotion to the happiness of those about him. In all the walks of life, his cheerful temper and hopeful spirit drew toward him those who needed sympathy in the hour of affliction, and in the chamber of sickness and death his Christian kindness and fidelity were especially manifest. At the age of sixteen, he publicly professed his faith in Christ, and united with the church in Goshen, Ct. It is the testimony of those who knew him best, that, from that time onward, his religion was the religion of principle, made practical in the details of every-day life. His funeral was attended by a large concourse of people, at the Second Congregational Church, of which he was a member."

The widow of Dea. Humphrey continued to reside in Beloit, Wis. She survived her husband only a few years.

2565. Otis Milton⁶ Humphrey, M. D., [1154] (Luman,⁵ Daniel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 26 Apr., 1832, in Victor, Ontario Co., N. Y. His early life was passed upon the farm, and in attending, during the winters, the common public schools. At the age of eighteen, without means or much assistance, he resolved upon a classical collegiate education, and by labor during vacations and in term time, and by teaching, supported himself, and at East Bloomfield Academy, N. Y., and at Temple Hill Academy, Geneseo, N. Y., prepared and intended to enter an advanced class in Williams College, Massachusetts, when, in 1853, failure of health interrupted the plan. After a long period of invalidism, followed by employment for a few years as a commercial traveller, successively for Mr. A. W. Harrison and Messrs. H. P. & W.

* William McCarty died in 1858. His widow removed to Ohio, and married Edmond Motts. They res. (1884) in the township of Clarence, Calhoun Co., Mich.

C. Taylor of Philadelphia, carrying with him his text-book and reading medicine during leisure time, he afterward applied himself exclusively to the study of that profession under his uncle, Dr. Newman Dryer, of Penfield, N. Y., and afterward under Prof. Walter Burnham, M. D., of Lowell, Mass., and graduated M. D. at Philadelphia, in 1860. After a year of practice at Natick, Mass., he attended a course of lectures and graduated from the Long Island College Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1862, and on the 20th of August of that year was, by Gov. John A. Andrew, commissioned Assistant Surgeon of the 6th Reg. Mass. Vol. Infantry, then re-recruiting at Lowell, Mass. Here he married, 28 Aug., 1862, Sarah Frances Dennis, youngest daughter of Richard and Lucy Ann (Hooper) Dennis, of that city. She was born 8 Feb., 1840, in Lowell, Mass. Richard Dennis, now deceased, was son of Jonathan and Hannah (Sherman) Dennis, of Portsmouth, R. I., members of the Society of Friends. Shortly after his marriage, Dr. Humphrey proceeded to Washington with the Regiment, which was thence ordered to Suffolk, Va., and there and thereabout remained on duty till the expiration of its term of enlistment in 1863. Here he was joined by his wife, who shared his camp life (as she also did his subsequent life in the service in Louisiana) till, by General Orders, after the approach and threatened attack of the Rebels, the presence of ladies was prohibited in the command. At the expiration of this term of service, Dr. Humphrey applied for appointment to the medical service of the United States, in the class of U. S. Volunteers,—passed his examination before the Examining Board at Washington, and was by President Lincoln commissioned Assistant Surgeon U. S. Vols., and ordered to report at New Orleans. He was there assigned to the Barracks of the U. S. General Hospital, where he remained till the summer of 1864, the latter portion of the time in charge. Late in 1864, at his request for field duty, he was successively assigned as Chief Medical Officer on the Staffs of Maj.-Gen. J. J. Reynolds, commanding at the mouth of White River, Ark.,—of Maj.-Gen. F. Steele, commanding U. S. forces at Kenner, La.,—and later, of Maj.-Gen. Frank Herron, commanding at Baton Rouge, and after Lee's surrender, at Shreveport, La. He resigned at the close of the war, with the brevet rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, conferred "for faithful and meritorious services"; and settled in private practice at Boston, Mass., in October, 1865. Having been, long prior to the war, engaged on a collection of Humphrey genealogy, this work was now resumed, and Dr. Frederick Humphreys, of New York City, was soon heard of as interested in the same subject, and a conference between the two was had, leading to a fresh interest and impulse in the work. In 1870, through failing health, it was found necessary for the subject of this sketch to abstain from writing, and a change of residence was thought best. The then collected manuscripts of this work were accordingly turned over to Dr. Frederick Humphreys for completion and publication, and Dr. O. M. Humphrey removed with his family, in the autumn of 1870, to Minneapolis, Minn., where, with recovered health, he still resides (1884), and has since been usefully practicing his profession, and in some measure continuing to assist in this collection and compilation. He is a member of the various medical societies of his school of practice, and one of the founders and Directors of the Homeopathic Hospital of Minneapolis.

2584. Colonel Gad⁶ Humphreys, U. S. A., [1178] (Hon. Reuben,⁵ Esq. Oliver,⁴ Jonathan,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born in 1786, at Canton, Ct. He married Mary Stoddard Larned, born in Pittsfield, Mass., daughter of Sylvester and Eunice Larned, of Pittsfield, and sister of Paymaster-General Larned, who died during the war for the Union. Mrs. Humphreys died in St. Augustine, Florida, 25 Oct., 1879, æ. 82 years. She was esteemed as "exceptionally lovely."

Gad⁶ Humphreys was appointed, from the State of New York, in 1808, First Lieutenant in the Sixth Reg. Infantry, U. S. A.; was promoted to a captaincy in December, 1809; was wounded in the capture of York, Upper Canada, April 27th, 1813; was promoted to Major in the Fourth Reg. Infantry, April 18th, 1814. At the reduction of the army in December, 1815, he was retained as Captain of the Sixth Reg. Infantry, with brevet of Major; was appointed Major of the Sixth Reg. Infantry, March 31st, 1817; and Lieutenant-Colonel of the Second Reg. Infantry, May 13th, 1820; was disbanded at the reduction of the army, June 1st, 1821.

He was afterward appointed U. S. Agent to the Seminole Indians,† which position he held from May 20th, 1822 to March 31st, 1830. He established himself at Camp King, in the centre of the nation. In the treaty of Fort Moultrie, September 18th, 1823, the Indian chiefs and warriors requested, "as an evidence of their gratitude and humane treatment, and brotherly attention to their wants, that one mile square * * * be conveyed, in fee simple, as a present to Colonel Gad Humphreys."‡ He was a sugar planter near Fort King, East Florida, until the commencement of the Indian hostilities, when he was broken up, losing nearly all of his negroes and stock, and having his houses burned. He then removed to St. Augustine, Fla., and there resided till his decease in that town, 31 August,* 1859, at the age of 73 years.

The American Phrenological Journal gives the following:—

“The faculty of language was as signally developed in the character of Col. Humphreys as the organ was large in his head. He was one of the very best story-tellers to be found, and was almost always talking. In consideration of the ease with which he learned to speak languages from hearing them spoken, he was made Government interpreter to the Seminole Indians, whose language he learned to speak in four weeks, difficult as it is. With very inferior facilities, he had learned to speak several languages, by casually hearing them spoken. So retentive was his memory that he required to hear any word or expression interpreted but once always to remember it. He could repeat a sermon verbatim just by hearing it delivered: He had all the elements of a truly splendid orator, and would have been one but that he loved his ease too well to make the required effort.”†

From all I have been able to learn from my mother Anna (Landon) Humphreys, and from Hugh (the brother of Col. Gad) Humphreys and others, he was a most charming and accomplished gentleman, and noted as the finest story-teller and talker, and the finest humorist in the South. He was, like his father and ancestors, of large stature and commanding presence, full of information,—charming all who came in contact with him by his gentlemanly bearing and genial humor.

We are indebted to R. H. Farnham, Esq., for these reminiscences concerning his uncle:—

“Colonel Gad Humphreys was, beyond question, a man of great native talent, and his associates were always among the first of the land, wherever he went. Moreover, there was nothing of the snob about him. He was never in Attica but once, and that was probably about fifty-five years ago, when he came to visit my father’s family. The people here were very much taken with him. One day he paid a visit to the late Major Parmenio Adams, whose acquaintance he had made at Washington while the latter represented the Genesee district, in Congress. A ‘raising bee’ had assembled near by to help a neighbor up with a barn, when word came that they were short of help and could not get the frame up. ‘Well, Adams,’ said Col. Humphreys, ‘I reckon there is a job for you and me,’ and the two betook themselves at once to the raising, and, throwing off their coats, each with pike in hand, helped on the ‘job’ until the last heavy timber was in place.”

The following tribute of respect to the memory of Col. Gad Humphreys was printed soon after his death:—

“At a regular communication of St. John’s Lodge, No. 12, held on the 6th day of September, 1859, the committee appointed at a previous meeting called on the occasion of the decease of our Worshipful Past Master, GAD HUMPHREYS, consisting of Brothers James M. Gould, Ora Howard and William S. Harris, reported the following preamble and Resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

“It has pleased the Grand Architect of the Universe to break another link in our ancient and venerable Fraternity, and call to his reward and to receive his wages, our worthy, honored, and beloved Past Master, Brother Gad Humphreys, after a long and useful life of seventy-four years, devoted, both for his country and for our Order. Our lamented Brother was a native of Connecticut, and entered the United States Army about the year 1808 as a Lieutenant, and continued therein until the year 1821; and in all that period he had been regularly advanced and promoted until he had attained the rank of Colonel of his regiment. In this important interval,—in the ‘Second War of Independence’ he served his country with credit to himself and the approbation of the Government. In the year 1821, the United States Army was reduced to the ‘Peace establishment,’ and he with many others was disbanded.

“Shortly after his reduction, our deceased Brother was appointed by President Monroe, Agent for the Seminole Indians in Florida, which was in the year 1822. He held and faithfully performed the duties of his office, until about the year 1830, when he was removed, during which time he obtained the confidence of the Seminoles, and it is believed that, had he been continued in office, his influence would have saved his country a very large part of the many millions of money which it has cost the Government of the United States in that devastating Indian War.

"In the general wreck, on the outbreak of Indian hostilities in 1835, he, in common with others, lost his all, and only until recently has he been enabled to recover a bare portion of that which ought to have been promptly remunerated to him; but it is a happy thought that in his latter days comfort and competence surrounded him.

"For the last ten years he has held the office of Judge of Probate for St. John's County, and for more than twenty years he has been our almost daily associate.

"Such is a brief sketch of the life of our departed Brother, friend, and fellow-citizen; but something more is due.

"He was a bright and shining light, and devoted Apostle of Masonry. For more than forty years he had been one of its members, and for more than seventeen years has he been the zealous and active Master of this Lodge, the present members of which have almost all been raised by his hand.

"Our lamented Brother has held and filled the offices of Deputy Grand Master of the Grand Lodge, and also that of Grand High Priest of the Royal Arch Chapter of Florida.

"We deplore his loss to the Fraternity and can only say, 'the will of God is accomplished.' Therefore be it,

"Resolved, That in the death of our beloved Brother, GAD HUMPHREYS, our Fraternity has lost a bright and shining light, the community an upright citizen, and the friend and benefactor of the widow and the orphan.

"Resolved, That we tender our sympathies and condolence to the widow and family of our deceased Brother, and commend them to Him who only knows how to give relief and soothe their sorrow and distress in this their time of trouble.

"Resolved, That a Blank page of the Records of this Lodge be inscribed with the name of our deceased Brother and thus endeavor to perpetuate his memory.

"Resolved, That the members of this Lodge will wear the usual Badge of mourning for the space of thirty days, and that our Lodge Room be clothed in the habiliments of mourning for the term of six months.

"Resolved, That this preamble and the Resolutions be spread upon the Record, and a copy of them sent to the family of our deceased Brother, and a copy furnished to the St. Augustine Examiner for publication, and that all the newspapers in the State be requested to copy the same.

"A true copy from the minutes.

Signed,

JOHN LOTT PHILLIPS,

"JOINT OCCUPANCY;

OR,

HOW COL. GAD HUMPHREYS COMPROMISED WITH THE CHIEF OF THE SEMINOLES."

"A notice of the death of Col. Gad Humphreys, late Worshipful Past Master of St. John's Lodge, No. 12, which appeared in a recent number of the St. Augustine Examiner, reminds us of a characteristic incident in that worthy gentleman's life, which was related to us many years ago, in his presence, by his friend Capt. Graham, at that time in command of the troops stationed at Fort King, in Florida.

"During Major Fagan's Indian Agency, and while he was absent from the nation, we were present at the paying of the government annuity to the Seminole Nation, of which Micconopy (Pond King) was then the head chief. The entire nation—men, women and children—had assembled, and were encamped round the fort, waiting to receive their money, presents, etc. The important event had also attracted to the cantonment many white persons, officials, ex-officials, and others, among whom was Col. Gad Humphreys, who came to pay a visit to the tribe among whom he had so long dwelt as the representative and agent of the government.—The chiefs greeted him with unusual cordiality, and seemed to esteem it an especial honor to be permitted to shake hands with the ex-agent and to drink his good health at the officers' mess table. One old chief, by the name of John Hicks, who had formerly been the head chief of the nation, but who, for some cause, like Col. Humphreys, had been removed, or broken, as they call it, was very extravagant in his demonstrations of friendship and respect for his filien Col. Humphreys. There seemed to exist between them a peculiar relationship springing from some old reminiscence alike interesting to both, and to which frequent allusions were made on the part of Hicks, by certain pantomimic gesticulations and grimaces, which always ended in a hearty grunt and a proposition to shake hands.

"Much curiosity having been expressed by the white visitors to know the meaning of all these mysterious demonstrations, which seemed to be perfectly understood and heartily enjoyed by the Indian chiefs, Capt. Graham promised to give us an account of what he called 'Col. Humphreys' and John Hicks' compromise.' Accordingly one night after supper, when Hicks had gone through his pantomime, accompanied as usual with an amount of incoherent gibberish and awkward oaths, much grunting and vehement protestations of friendship for Col. Humphreys, and had taken his seat on the floor in the corner, where he vainly endeavored to keep the mosquitoes from biting his bare legs, occasionally brandishing his fists and shaking his head at the Colonel, our host, the commandant, proceeded to give us the story.

* "During the first years of Col. Humphreys' agency, the Seminoles had manifested much dissatisfaction with the treaty by which they had agreed to relinquish the western portion of the territory to the whites, and to confine themselves within the boundaries of their reservation. It was understood that Hicks, the then head chief of the nation, had never heartily sanctioned the treaty, and that he had exerted his influence with the nation against it. The presence, too, of the United States soldiers, sutler, agent, and other whites, at Fort King, within the reservation, was very distasteful to the old chief, who regarded it as an encroachment upon the rights of his people, who, by the terms of the treaty, were not allowed to go into the settlements or hunting-grounds of the whites without a written permit from the agent or commandant.

"Hicks was too crafty and too prudent to publicly manifest his daily increasing hostility to the whites, but it was plainly to be seen that he was exerting his influence to make his people discontented and to incite them to insubordination. The bearing of the principal chiefs was daily becoming unfriendly and reserved, while the younger ones were sometimes insolent and not unfrequently threatened the whites with whom they came in contact. Various alarming rumors were in circulation of Indian preparations for hostilities, and considerable uneasiness was beginning to be felt among the frontier settlers, who feared that without an augmentation of the military force in the nation, the whites could not long remain safe from Indian depredations.

"Hicks' visits to the Fort or to the agent's house, which stood some half a mile from the cantonment, became less frequent, and when he did come his conduct was haughty and his words often insolent, especially if he was a little in liquor.

"Col. Humphreys, who was a brave and resolute man, watched the growing discontent of the Indians, and the increasing audacity of Hicks with some anxiety. He knew well the Indian character, and he determined to avail himself of the earliest opportunity and most effectual means of checking the rising spirit of revolt.

"An opportunity soon presented itself.—One day Hicks, with a considerable party of Indians, came to the cantonment to trade. At the store they exhibited a very bad spirit, some of them refusing to pay for their purchases, and demanding liquor, which being denied them they became very abusive, swearing that the store-keeper should not stay in the nation. Leaving the store in a turbulent manner, they mounted their ponies and rode towards the agent's house which stood by itself about half a mile distant, surrounded by a few cultivated acres. The Indians, who had their rifles with them, halted at a short distance from the house, while their chief, Hicks, who was considerably under the influence of liquor, rode boldly up to the gate, dismounted and staggered up the steps to the high piazza of the house, calling in a loud voice for 'Humphreys!'

"Col. Humphreys, who happened to be entirely alone, promptly made his appearance, extended his hand as usual, and invited Hicks to take a seat on a bench.

"Hicks, haughtily turning from the bench towards the Colonel's large arm-chair, which occupied its usual place, said:

"'No, Humphreys! Me big cap'n!—my country!—me big Ingin, heap,' and took his seat very majestically in the arm-chair.

"Col. Humphreys saw plainly that his distinguished visitor, who seemed to have dressed himself for the occasion in all his gewgaws and feathers, meditated mischief. He was a powerful man, and fearless as he was powerful—qualities, however, in which the Colonel was fully his match, with this advantage, that he was cool and collected, while the chief was excited with passion and liquor. It would not do to permit the Indian thus to brave him in his own house. He felt that he must resent and punish the insult at all hazards, and his resolution was soon taken.

"'Hicks,' said he, 'get out of that chair,' looking the Indian sternly in the face.

"'Humphreys,' said Hicks, striking his hand on the arm of the chair, with an ill-suited oath, 'Mine!—my house, my land! my land, my house! All mine!'

"'Hicks, if you don't leave that chair and this house, I'll make you!'

"'Me!' exclaimed Hicks, with a look of savage defiance; 'me big Ingin, heap!—strong, like a jackass! Me damn big son of a —'

"But before he had finished the sentence, Col. Humphreys grasped him by the neck and the more substantial portion of his drapery, and, with one powerful effort raising him from the chair, pitched him headlong over the banisters, a distance of ten feet, on to the hard ground, where he lay kicking and senseless in full view of his party.

"The Indians came running in a body to the house, surprised into comparative silence by the feat they had just witnessed. Col. Humphreys stood in his door as they approached. Not a word passed between him and the Indians who gathered round their prostrate and insensible chief. After a few words of consultation they took him up and bore him to a branch some distance from the house, where they bathed him and applied mud and herb poultices to his bruises. When he was sufficiently recovered they placed him on his horse and conveyed him to his home.

"For several days not an Indian was to be seen about the cantonment. It was thought that they were meditating plans of revenge, and close watch was kept upon their movements, while quiet preparation was made at the fort to be in readiness for them in the event of an attack.

"Thus matters remained until about two weeks after the affair with Col. Humphreys, when old Hicks, a graver if not a wiser man, was seen on his pony alone approaching the house of the agent. Dismounting at the gate, he entered the enclosure and walked quietly up on the piazza from which he had so recently taken his headlong flight. As Col. Humphreys issued from the door, Hicks, with a serious and subdued look, extended his hand in token of friendship. It was promptly grasped by Col. Humphreys, who was about to speak, when Hicks interrupted him.

"Col. Humphreys, how do! how do!"

"After the usual response from the Colonel, Hicks continued, without changing the demure and serious expression of his face:

"Col. Humphreys, me big Ingin heap—got sense plenty—get drunk, damn fool too much. Your house, my land—your land, my house!"

"The Colonel, laughing, gave the old chief a hearty shake of the hand and invited him to take a seat in his arm-chair, which honor he promptly declined, preferring a less elevated seat, on a cowhide-bottomed chair which stood near.

"A long conversation ensued over a friendly glass and pipes, during which Hicks expressed his deep contrition for his uncivil conduct, for which he confessed that he had been justly punished, and took much pains to convince the Colonel of his perfect understanding of the nature of their joint occupancy of the Reservation. As he shook hands at parting he repeated, with marked emphasis—'Col. Humphreys—your house, my land—your land—, my house!'

"Hicks lived to be a very old man, his health being very feeble during his latter years. To the day of his death he retained his friendship for Col. Gad Humphreys, a feeling which was warmly reciprocated by the Colonel, and which found expression in many acts of kindness to the old chief of the Seminoles."*

2596. May⁶ Humphreys, [1181] (Hon. Reuben,⁵ Esq. Oliver,⁴ Jonathan,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 15 July, 1792, in Canton, Ct. He married, in Providence, R. I. 4 Nov., 1829, Mary Anne (dau. of George Washington and Mary Kennedy Philbrook) Hoppin, of Providence, R. I., born there, in 1803; died in 1873, æ. 70 years. Mr. Humphreys died in New York City, 7 Dec., 1866, æ. 74 years. The following appeared in the New York Evening Post, December 8th, 1866:—

“There died yesterday, at his residence in this city, Mr. May Humphreys, whose career as a merchant and man of business deserves more than this passing notice. Mr. Humphreys was born in New England, and his father was an officer in the Revolutionary army. At an early period of life he entered into business at Baltimore, and was present, as a volunteer, at the battle of Bladensburg in 1814. He subsequently settled in Philadelphia, where he carried on a large business, in the course of which he had frequent occasion to visit the West India Islands, and particularly in Jamaica; was well known and esteemed by the resident planters and merchants of those by-gone days, one of whom, Michael Scott, the author of that well-known book ‘Tom Cringle’s Log,’ first published as a serial in Blackwood, was his intimate friend.

“Subsequently, Mr. Humphreys married and resided in Philadelphia, becoming one of the directors of the United States Bank in its palmy days, and, being most esteemed by its president, the well-known Nicholas Biddle, was entrusted by him with the management of the large cotton operations of the United States Bank in 1838-39, and, going over to Liverpool, in the end of 1837, established the house of Humphreys & Biddle, the junior partner of which was a son of the then famous financier.

“At one time in 1838, Mr. Humphreys held the enormous stock of two hundred and fifty thousand bales of cotton for the United States Bank; and in October, 1838, having sold one day six thousand bales to certain speculators, with the agreement that he would sell no more for a week or ten days, the market instantaneously rose so much that the increased value of his stock required additional fire insurance in spite of the reduction of the six thousand bales.

“When Mr. Humphreys arrived in Liverpool, he was regarded with some jealousy and dislike as an interloper who was taking away the business of the old established houses; but he had been but a few months there, before he had entirely overcome this feeling by his tact and urbanity, and he managed the immense interests committed to his care so admirably and with such punctilious honor and liberality, that he won golden opinions even from his competitors in business.

“After closing up the cotton operations of the United States Bank, Mr. Humphreys re-

* Remained eleven years, as a merchant, in Liverpool, England, acc. to the Centennial History of Marcellus, N. Y.

“For one who had occupied so prominent a position in mercantile and social life, Mr. Humphreys was singularly modest and retiring, and it was only with old familiar friends that he would occasionally revert to some of the enormous mercantile transactions in which he had been engaged;—and so far as those in cotton were concerned, it is morally impossible that any one man can sell again, or have the control of such a mass of that material.

“Mr. Humphreys has died in a good old age, respected and loved by all who knew him.”

She was a daughter of Matthew Lawler and Deborah (Newman) Bevan, of Philadelphia. Mr. M. L. Bevan was a merchant and well known in connection with the shipping interests of that city, and as a Director of the United States Bank, and a prominent member of the Central Presbyterian Church.

Sterne⁶ Humphreys entered the Naval Academy at Middletown, Ct., when quite a lad, and was thence transferred to active service in the United States Navy, serving his country with distinction. He was commissioned Midshipman U. S. N., January 1st, 1818, and stationed on the Frigate Macedonian; in 1823, was serving on the ship Cyane; was appointed, from the State of New York, Lieutenant U. S. N., commission dated March 3d, 1827, and stationed in the Pacific Squadron; continued in the navy until about 1832, and resigned with the rank of First Lieutenant.

He then engaged in the shipping and, subsequently, in the iron business, as a member of the firm of Bevan & Humphreys, his father-in-law being his partner;—continued to fill this position until his death. In 1838, acting as agents of the United States Bank, they bought the entire cotton crop of the South in the interest of the bank, and consigned it to the Liverpool firm of Humphreys & Biddle, agents of the bank in selling the cotton.† [See Family 185, S.²]

Lieut. Sterne Humphreys died in Philadelphia, 18 Feb., 1856. His frank, easy, generous manners, and his genial disposition and great goodness of heart, secured him a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

2616. Esquire Oliver⁶ Humphreys, [1203] (Capt. Asher,⁵ Esq. Oliver,⁴ Jonathan,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 17 April, 1783, in West Simsbury (now Canton), Ct. At the age of eighteen he went to sea, returning home in three years.‡ He married, in 1804, Rhoda (dau. of John and Mary Higley) Woodford, of Canton, Ct., born in October, 1786.

In the war of 1812, he engaged in the manufacture of cutlery, in New Hartford, Ct. When the war ended and the embargo was raised, the company in which he was interested failed, and, in 1816, he removed to Ohio, where he settled in Vernon, Trumbull County, and there carried on the combined interests of farming and blacksmithing. In 1826, he was appointed one of the judges of the District Court of Ohio, which office he declined. He was for four years a Justice of the Peace; was a man of extensive historical reading and general information, and, both in Connecticut and Ohio, was for several seasons engaged in teaching. He was a large, athletic man and, in the prime of life, weighed two hundred and forty pounds. He died in Vernon, O., 12 Mch., 1851, æ. 68 years. His widow died in Orangeville, O., at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Moffitt, 24 Sept., 1867, æ. 81 years. They were buried in Burgh Hill Cemetery.

2637. Erastus⁶ Humphreys, M. D., [1204] (Capt. Asher,⁵ Esq. Oliver,⁴ Jonathan,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 17 May, 1785, in West Simsbury (now Canton), Ct. He married, in August, 1805, Anna (dau. of Giles* and Abigail Loomis) Landon, of Canton, Ct., b. 16 Oct., 1785, in Litchfield, Ct.; died in Rome, Oneida Co., N. Y., 19 May, 1866, æ. 80 years, and 7 months.

Dr. Humphreys' early youth was passed much after the fashion of the most favored of those days, in working on the farm during the busy season and attending school during the winters. He enjoyed, also, the training and benefit of the library of his uncle Rev. (popularly called "Priest") Hallock; and, at the age of eighteen, was teaching school during the winters and pursuing his more advanced studies during the summer, ending in his medical studentship with Dr. Solomon Everest, one of the most distinguished practitioners of his day, and from whose pupilage several of the ablest physicians of Connecticut were graduated, and received his diploma from the State Medical Society of Connecticut, at Hartford, in 1808. He rode with Dr. Everest two years thereafter, and removed to Marcellus, Onondaga County, N. Y., in 1810, where he at once assumed a prominent position in that county.

At Marcellus, besides a large practice for some years (prior to 1820) in connection with Dr. Bildad Beach, and subsequently alone, he was extensively engaged in business, owning and carrying on an oil mill, a flour or grist mill, a drug store, and during the war of 1812 a powder mill, besides being at times Justice of the Peace. While there, he was also Clerk of the Board of Trustees in the Presbyterian Society, under date of 1813; and, possessing decided musical abilities, served as choir-leader for many years.

From thence, in 1823, he removed to Auburn, Cayuga County, N. Y. At Auburn he was, for over twenty years, in the enjoyment of a large practice, and was regarded as among the most influential and skillful medical men of the day. He was several years President of the Cayuga County Medical Society, and was for some years Surgeon of the Auburn State Prison. In 1840, he became a convert to the Homeopathic system of medicine, and from that time to his death was an unwavering and consistent follower of that method of practice. He very soon introduced the practice into the hospital of the Auburn State Prison, of which he was then the surgeon, and his report to the State Prison Inspector the following year served to direct public attention still farther to the new system. In that report, which is believed to have been the first introduction of Homeopathy in any public institution in this country, he showed that the average number of deaths in the hospital of some 700 to 750 convicts, from year to year, had been from twelve to fifteen. That, for a year, under Homeopathic treatment, the deaths had been but five, and that for the last seven months there had been no death,—thus establishing the fact that Homeopathy was not only useful among children and nervous women, but among convicts and stalwart men, as well. While a resident of Auburn, he was much interested in educational matters, and was, for many years, President of the Board of Trustees of the Auburn Academy, School Commissioner, Trustee, etc.

After a brief sojourn at Syracuse he removed to Utica, in 1843, where he was joined by his son, Dr. F. Humphreys, the year following. In 1847, he removed to New York City, where he engaged sedulously in the effort of founding a Homeopathic Hospital, and which only succeeded thirty years after, and in the course of which he was prostrated by a sunstroke. From this shock he never recovered, but lingered in precarious health until the 9th of March following, 1848, when he died at Utica, New York, in the 63d year of his age.

* Giles Landon is thought to have been descended from Nathan Landon, who was born about 1664, and emigrated to this country;—was residing in Southold, L. I., in 1688. Some of his descendants settled in Litchfield, Ct. Giles and Abigail (Loomis) Landon had four children besides Anna;—Abigail, John, and others. Abigail Loomis was born, probably, 27 Nov. 1758, and daughter of Joel Loomis, of Windsor, Ct. She died in 1794.

His influence in introducing and building up Homeopathy in Central and Western New York was wide-spread and potent. He supplied the deficiency of many of the practitioners of the school in that day,—a comprehensive knowledge of the literature and practice of both schools, an experience of nearly forty years, a brilliant professional record, and a commanding personal appearance, and forensic talents of a high order, and these were fully consecrated to the promotion of the cause which had commanded his convictions, his judgment, and his heart.

He was a man of resources, possessing great versatility of talent, never annoyed or muddled, however many things or subjects he had on hand. He was always a great reader, the first in everything, acquainted with all subjects, and an authority in all that was new, recondite, or out of the every-day lines of thought. As early as 1830, he called attention to the then new disease, Cholera, in an address to the Cayuga County Medical Society, which was published and widely circulated, in which he traced its march and predicted its appearance in Western Europe and in this country.

A man of fine personal appearance, six feet two in height, and weighing over two hundred pounds, of engaging manners, and polished address, a fine conversationalist and ready speaker, he was one whose presence and address would naturally command attention in any assembly. He was scrupulously neat, almost fastidious, in dress and equipage; and as faultless in expression and language.

He was too versatile and visionary to succeed in making large accumulations, though he always maintained his reputable position and honestly paid his debts. In his later years his younger son, Dr. Frederick Humphreys, was in practice with him and had often occasion to admire his great fertility of resources, coolness and wisdom in emergencies.

He was one of the active business men of that city until a year or two previous to his death, when declining health induced him to seek retirement. When country stores were fashionable there, he had a flourishing business. In later years, he was successfully engaged in the grocery and provision trade, with the exception of two years in the hardware business. He was agent for several prominent insurance companies for some twenty years. Mr. Hayden was a life-long Democrat. 2660. XII. LAURA SERENA,⁷ b. 6 Sept., 1830, Auburn, N. Y.; was married by the Rev. Pierre Alexis Proal, D. D., in Trinity Church, Utica, N. Y., Tuesday evening, 21 Aug., 1849, to Hon. Henry David (youngest son of Hon. Eleutheros and Martha) Cooke, of Sandusky, O., where he was born 23 Nov., 1825.

The limits of these sketches cannot do justice to his varied and distinguished career, nor to his eminent capacity and character. The country will recognize the man and its obligations to his genius in the brother of Jay Cooke, of Philadelphia, and an enthusiastic and patriotic member of the firm of Jay Cooke & Co. in their advocacy and support of the finances of our government during our late war of the Rebellion. He graduated with the first honors, at Transylvania University, Kentucky, in 1844; pursued the study of law in Philadelphia till 1846-7, when, his health becoming impaired by application, he accepted positions as attache to the U. S. Consulate at Valparaiso, Chili, and correspondent to several leading public journals. On the voyage, the vessel was disabled and driven into

St. Thomas, where he remained a month, and from a suggestion of Hon. David Naar, our commercial agent there, he conceived and developed, and presented in his journalistic correspondence, and in Official Reports of the Consular Office to Government, the plan of the Chagres route to the Pacific Coast, in pursuance of which Mr. Polk, in his next presidential message, made favorable mention of the same; and in about two years the Aspinwall Pacific Mail Steamship Company was in operation.

Mr. H. D. Cooke subsequently engaged successfully in the California trade, and, in the schooner Kamahamaha, took out the first register ever issued to an American vessel on the Pacific Coast. Afterward, having lost his large property by the great fires of San Francisco, he again cheerfully began at the foundation, accepting the financial and editorial management of Hon. Morton McMichael's newspaper, the North American and United States Gazette, and later, of the Sandusky Register, and then the editorial and entire control of the Ohio State Journal, a leading Republican organ of the West. During his journalistic relations, he was deeply interested in railroad enterprises, and in the success of his political party, of which he was Presidential Elector for General Fremont. After this he was binder for Congress at Washington. In 1861, he accepted a position in the banking house of Jay Cooke & Co., assuming the control of the Washington Branch, and as President of the first National Bank at Washington, from which time, at home and abroad, in energy, in patriotism, and in devotion to the noble and benevolent enterprises of humanity and Christianity, within his sphere, he made his influence felt by society, and the nation; and his character and career may be presented for emulation as the pattern of a Christian gentleman. He occupied various municipal and official positions with great credit and popularity, and his appointment to the chair of Governor of the District of Columbia, by General Grant, was at once a tribute to his deserved popularity and his eminent and varied abilities. He was the pioneer and leader in the grand development of Washington City during the period when it emerged from an unpaved, muddy, hilly and unkempt town of magnificent pretensions, to the most beautiful city of the Western world. His fine taste and far-reaching views, his social and, subsequently, his official position as the Governor of the District, enabled him to accept the suggestions and direct the energies of others to the best advantage, while his unsullied integrity and devoted patriotism claimed the admiration of all. The debt which the city owes to his untiring efforts in its behalf, in planning its improvements, combating the prejudices of the croakers, struggling with its finances, laboring with Senators and Representatives in its behalf, and in numberless ways by pen, purse and person, can never be appreciated or repaid. He died in Georgetown, D. C., Thursday morning, February 24th, 1881, at the age of 55 years.

Mrs. Cooke shared the honors and successes of her husband, and filled her position of influence with the native gentleness and grace of her character, illustrating in her exalted domestic and social aims, and in her munificent benefactions, the impotence of wealth to stultify or pervert true worth. He has engaged in several oratorical contests, delivering a piece entitled "Judas Iscariot"—the first time at Knox College, for which he was awarded a prize of twenty dollars. This made him the representative of the College in the State contest held at Rockford, Ill., where nine colleges of Illinois took a part. There he was again victorious, winning the prize of seventy-five dollars. He thus became the representative in the Inter-State contest held at Iowa City,—Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Kansas participating. He received the first prize of seventy-five dollars, and this gave to Knox and himself the championship over seven States, which is quite an honor. At the request of the Faculty he delivered his prize oration on Commencement day, in 1884.

2729. Rev. Heman⁶ Humphrey, D. D., [1217] (Solomon,⁵ Solomon,⁴ Jonathan,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 26 March, 1779, in West Simsbury (now Canton), Ct. His father, Solomon Humphrey, was a farmer, and is described as "a man of good common school education, of more than ordinary taste for reading, of good common sense and unblemished reputation;—temperate, industrious and frugal." He was married twice, and Heman was the oldest child of his second wife, Hannah Brown, the daughter of Captain John Brown, of West Simsbury, Ct., who died in the service of his country during the war of the Revolution. He was the grandfather of the renowned John Brown, of Osawatomie.†

Heman Humphrey's mother is represented as a woman of uncommon mental capacity, who did what she could for the education of her children, in those days when the books upon the shelf at home would hardly number a half-dozen besides the Bible, Assembly's Catechism, and Dilworth's Spelling-Book; and those furnished by the district schools added but very few to the list. When Heman was about six years old his father removed to Burlington, Ct., where three years later the lad attended his first school, which was taught by a farmer in the neighborhood. At this time we also often find him bending with eager interest, by the light of pine torches or of the kitchen fire, over such books as Robinson Crusoe or the Pilgrim's Progress, furnished him from the small library collected by the pastor of the parish; or we see him watching impatiently for the post-rider who brought the weekly Hartford Courant. This was a very small sheet in those days, but the only newspaper that found its way into that retired region, and no word it contained escaped the eye of the boy, hungry for wider knowledge than his restricted life afforded. From this time, during several years, his summers were occupied either on his father's farm or that of a neighbor, while in the winter he attended the district school. One of these summers was spent upon the farm and in the family of Gov. Treadwell, of Farmington, Ct., and in allusion to this time he says, "I can never be sufficiently thankful for the kind Providence which gave me a home in this inestimable family." It was his habit during these seasons of labor to improve in study all the time that was his own, while the cattle were "baiting at the noon-spell." He used the cart for a shade and the "hind-board" for a desk. At the age of sixteen he made his first attempt at school-teaching, and for several years spent the intervals between the summers of farm life in this occupation.

In considering those early surroundings, which were most powerful in their effect upon his character and future course, we should not fail to recognize the decidedly religious character of his home. It is thus described: "The influence and savor of Christianity were always in the household where Mr. Humphrey was nurtured. His father and mother had both been trained in the atmosphere of Puritanism. Daily the father ministered at the family altar. All the outward observances of Christianity were rigidly enforced. The sunset of Saturday was the hither bound of 'holy time.' Then work ceased, and all were enjoined to lay aside worldly cares, and compose themselves for the worship of the following day. All were required to attend public worship with the strictest regularity, and the catechising of the afternoon made a Sunday School of the family."

* 1830, acc. to Judge H. H. Barbour, [Fam. 67 1229], S.] He died in Western Missouri, acc. to one record.

† See Family 18 124, S.

But, though the boy Heman was, by nature and training, reverent and conscientious in his attention to these external observances, it was not until the winter of his twentieth year, during a powerful revival under the preaching of Rev. Dr. Griffin, then settled in New Hartford, that his religious impressions deepened into the personal experience which he recognized as his conversion. It was such an experience as was the natural result of the yielding of his strong and earnest nature to the power of pungent and searching doctrinal truths, such as were presented in that day both from the pulpit and in personal appeals. In allusion to this period of his life he says: "If I was then born again, I was born a Calvinist; 'Not of flesh and blood, nor of the will of man, but of God, who hath mercy on whom he will have mercy.' I then fully embraced the doctrines of the Shorter Catechism, from which I never swerved." Yet though "the strong decrees" ever remained to him a bulwark and defense, it is equally true that faith in God's dear Son as the Saviour of the world was the vital element which inspired his faith, his preaching and his life.

When he was twenty years old, encouraged by his pastor, Rev. Jonathan Miller, who also volunteered to give him some instruction, he determined to advance in his studies beyond the point he had previously thought of. His biographer thus describes this attempt: "Two months in the harvest-field, then to study. Then teaching in the winter. Then once more to Latin; again to the harvest-field; and so the process went on in spite of enfeebled health, until, in the autumn of 1803, he passed successfully the examination which admitted him to the Junior class in Yale College." His earnest desire at this time was to prepare himself to become a minister of the Gospel. During the most of his college course he was obliged to replenish his purse by teaching, by assuming the duties of Librarian, and by other expedients, but his rank as a student was always good. He was diligent, also, with his pen, writing, among other things, articles for the New Haven papers over the signature of "Lictor," thrusting his manuscript under the Editor's door and hastily retreating. These articles attracted much attention from their ability, and much curiosity as to their authorship. In 1805, he was graduated with honor in a class of forty-two. Among his classmates were the distinguished Dr. Spring, long the almost unrivalled preacher and pastor of New York City, and Thomas H. Gallaudet, who introduced teaching the deaf and dumb into the country, and whose biography Dr. Humphrey wrote in after years.

As there was no Theological Seminary in the country at that time, Mr. Humphrey, according to the custom of the day, studied for the ministry, with four or five other students, in one of the small "Schools of the Prophets," conducted by the Rev. Asahel Hooker, of Goshen, Ct. Theology seems to have been almost literally the meat and the drink of the young divines, for in referring to this time he says: "Some theological question was proposed for discussion at almost every meal." Of the course pursued he says: "In these private schools there was no critical study of the original languages of the Scriptures. The period of study, which rarely extended over eighteen months, was almost wholly occupied in reading standard English theological authors, such as Hopkins, Bellamy, and, above all, President Edwards; also in writing disputations upon a long list of questions embracing the whole system of Christian doctrine, drawn from the Word of God, and embodied in the Westminster Assembly's Catechism."

If the truth thus sown though sound and vital was somewhat compact, it must in his case have fallen into productive soil, for we have, among many evidences of his theological ability as afterwards developed, this testimony from a distinguished New England clergyman: "When installed (in 1826) over the church at Amherst College, Dr. Humphrey gave the Council his system of theology, which for clearness, for conciseness, comprehensiveness and beauty, they declared they had never heard equalled."

In October, 1806, he was licensed to preach by the Litchfield North Association. He thus describes his entrance upon the active duties of the ministry: "With my license in my pocket, I purchased a horse, saddle, bridle and portmanteau, and was ready to enter the field, without knowing or conjecturing in what corner of it I was to find employment. I was 'even with the world'; had paid all my bills, and had a few—very few—dollars left for contingent expenses." He had defrayed all the cost of his education without aid, excepting that some of his clothing had been furnished by his mother. He preached his first sermon at Cornwall, Ct., and before a meeting of ministers. A week or two later, he was requested to preach, as a candidate, in the Congregational church at Fairfield, Ct.; and he was shortly after unanimously invited to become the pastor of that church and society. When Mr. Humphrey found that the measure known as "The Half-Way Covenant"—which he regarded as most pernicious because "it gave church membership to those who made no pretensions to personal holiness"—had gained a strong footing in the Fairfield church, he frankly told the leading members of the parish that he could not accept the position as their pastor on such a basis. It was a strong proof of their confidence in the young minister and of the earnestness of their desire to secure his services, that they authorized him to prepare a Confession of Faith, embracing all the leading orthodox doctrines, doing away entirely with the Half-Way Covenant; and that this ecclesiastical basis was adopted unanimously in a meeting of the church previous to his ordination, which took place March 16th, 1807.

The burning of the town of Fairfield during the Revolutionary war (commemorated elsewhere in this work in the poem by General David Humphreys,*) had swept away the old church and parsonage. Owing to the poverty of the people they were obliged, in rebuilding these, as well as their own houses, to adopt the plainest style consistent with comfort. At the time of Mr. Humphrey's settlement among them, enterprise and progress were at a low ebb, and the parish was small. Throughout the ten years of his ministry his zeal and labors for the temporal and spiritual welfare of the people were untiring. About a year after his settlement Roger Minot Sherman came to live in Fairfield, and was ever after a warm friend and an important helper to him in his work.

On the 20th of April, 1808, Mr. Humphrey was married, in Farmington, Ct., by Rev. Noah Porter, the brother of the bride, to Sophia Porter, only daughter and youngest child of Deacon Noah and Rachel (Merrill) Porter, of Farmington. The family to which she belonged has had its abode through successive generations, since 1652, in Farmington Valley. There were three sons in the immediate family of Sophia Porter. The oldest was Robert, who was a missionary, teacher and preacher in Central New York, as early as 1801, when that part of the State was mostly a wilderness. He was also principal of the Oneida Academy at Clinton, N. Y., out of which Hamilton College grew. The second son was Edward, who was a teacher and preacher in Connecticut; and the third son was Noah, who was the honored and influential pastor of the Farmington church for more than sixty years. It was at his house that the first meeting of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions was held, September 10th, 1810. There were five members of the committee for organization, previously appointed at Bradford, present: Governor Treadwell (the chairman), Samuel Spring, Jonathan Lyman, Samuel Worcester, and Calvin Chapin. Mr. Porter received the committee at his house, by special request of Governor Treadwell, and was present at their deliberations. In alluding to it he says that the Board had hardly gone from his house when his aged father, who was living with him at the time, pledged himself to give five hundred dollars to the new enterprise, though this was probably a fourth or fifth of all that he possessed. One of Noah Porter's sons, Noah, is well known as a distinguished metaphysician, and as President, for many years, of Yale College, while others of the family fill honored and responsible positions.

Sophia Porter, who became the wife of Heman Humphrey, was born in Farmington, Ct., December 27th, 1785. She is described as attractive in person, with a gentle dignity and grace of manner, and as expressing in her countenance the loveliness and nobility of character which distinguished her. She was a woman of transparent sincerity, of warm and tender affections, and a generosity of nature which manifested itself not only in ceaseless devotion to her family, but overflowed for the good of all with whom she came in contact. She had an unusual capacity for distinguishing between the false and the true, between the substantial and the superficial. Her mind was vigorous and well-balanced, and she was educated in the best schools of her day. In the varied duties which devolved upon her, as the mother of ten children, and as a parish minister's wife, in the impulse she gave to the best social, benevolent and religious enterprises, in the free and almost unbounded hospitality she exercised, as the head of the President's household, as the friend of poor divinity students, whose raiment she often repaired with her own fingers while she encouraged them in their efforts to secure an education, in every act of her life she manifested her desire to honor God, and to be of use to all whom she could reach. No wife was ever loved more truly; no children ever more revered a mother, before whom it was a delight to rise up and call her blessed.

During the period of Mr. Humphrey's ministry in Fairfield special attention was awakened in New England to the danger arising from the tide of intemperance which was sweeping over the land. It was at this time that he assisted in the organization of what was called the "Connecticut Moral Society." Its object was to secure a better observance of the Sabbath, to check intemperance and to encourage whatever would promote good morals. Mr. Humphrey's biographer* says of him: "He was one of the earliest and most vigorous pioneers of the temperance movement. He assailed the evil with his wonted fearlessness, and, in the winter of 1811-12, preached several sermons to his congregation on the subject, filled with strong arguments and glowing appeals. His fervid words were not without effect. They were repeated in other places. The subject was brought before the Fairfield West Association, with which Mr. Humphrey's church was connected. Resolutions were adopted by which the use of spirituous liquors was prohibited at meetings of the ministerial association, and pledges were made to discourage, by word and by example, both the use and the sale of ardent spirits." In referring to this movement, Mr. Humphrey says: "The reports of ministers and delegates at the next annual meeting were exceedingly encouraging. It appeared that a great change had been produced in the views and habits of all the more enlightened classes throughout the district. In some churches and congregations the consumption of ardent spirits had been reduced one third, in others, one half, and in others, more than half. In nearly all the respectable families within our limits, the decanters and glasses had been swept from the sideboards; a great many of our church members and others had adopted the principle of total abstinence; some of our largest farmers carried the principle successfully through haying and harvesting; all our ministers had entered heartily into the reformation; and I am confident that from that day to this, embracing a period of twenty-two years, no ardent spirits have been provided at their stated meetings."

At the end of ten years of happy and successful labor in Fairfield, the health of Mr. Humphrey yielded under the pressure of his work. His salary, also, of six hundred dollars, which was at first sufficient, became inadequate for the support of a growing family, as the war of 1812 occasioned a rapid advance in the prices of the necessaries of life. At length he felt forced to request a dismissal, and in the face of many protests from his people a meeting of the Consociation was called, and after a "full hearing" he was dismissed in May, 1817. So great was the attachment of the people to him that, a few months after his removal, while he was considering invitations to serve other churches, he was strongly solicited to return and be resettled over the parish in Fairfield. In November of the same year he accepted a call from the Congregational church in Pittsfield, Mass., and was installed in his new ministry during that month. "By the then existing laws of Massachusetts the whole population of each town was taxable for the support of the pastor excepting such as filed certificates setting forth that they belonged to some other than the Congregational denomination. Thus the settlement of a pastor was a 'town-meeting affair.' Certain lands for his use were set apart by the township, and the salary was thus provided for by a sort of Puritanical union of Church and State. When Mr. Humphrey was called to take charge of the church and parish in Pittsfield, the terms in which the invitation was expressed reveal the transition then taking place from the old parish system to that of modern times. The change is indicated in the following extract:

Voled, That in case the Rev. Heman Humphrey shall conclude to accept the invitation of the town to settle over them in the work of the Gospel ministry, they will, and do, hereby agree to grant him the sum of nine hundred dollars as his stated salary, so long as he shall continue their minister as aforesaid: provided that he shall relinquish to the town all claims that he may have to the ministry lands or property belonging to the town."

When he was installed, the whole town of Pittsfield virtually formed his parish. The Congregational church, however, was in a very divided and critical condition. The church had been rent a few years previously by a political convulsion. After seven years of division in separate churches, and much bitterness of feeling and recrimination, there was found to be a strong and general disposition to reunite. Both pastors resigned, the two congregations came together under the old roof, and Mr. Humphrey was invited to undertake the task of promoting organic union. This was a difficult work to accomplish. Neighborhoods and families had been involved in the long standing and bitter quarrel which had disturbed the peace of the whole town. But under the judicious management of Mr. Humphrey, and by the exercise of the benevolent spirit, patient energy and wise counsels so characteristic of him, the old wounds were healed, the spirit of harmony took the place of discord, and success crowned his labors both as preacher and pastor.

As illustrating his skill and prudence in winning the disaffected or the indifferent, an instance is still repeated in that region of his conquering the heart of a farmer who had steadily refused to attend the Sunday services:—"By visiting him in his harvest-field, and, without a word of professional exhortation, engaging him in conversation upon farming, and then taking his cradle and cutting a swath of grain as if he had been used only to a farmer's life all his days, Mr. Humphrey completely won the respect and admiration of his former opponent, who was known thereafter among his neighbors as 'the man whom the minister cradled into the meeting-house.'"

As a writer and preacher Mr. Humphrey is thus described: "What is most observable in his early productions is an intense earnestness and a certain robust quality. The sweep of his sentences is like that of the arm which could reap an acre per day in the harvest-field. The thought is clear and the manner of expression forcible and vivid. By practice he gained rapid improvement, and soon became one of the most attractive preachers of the day. His voice was strong and mellow, and his delivery animated, often powerful. His eloquence was never stormy, but was frequently impassioned in a high degree. His strain was always dignified and lofty, and he would sacrifice nothing to effect. He would make use of effect only so far as it might aid him in promoting the triumphs of the Gospel. His 'Invocation' in the Sanctuary was often as solemn as if he expected the departed glories of the Shekinah to burst again into the house of God. Though his preaching was in a great measure doctrinal yet he centered all his hopes and all the hope of the world upon the Cross. His presentation of truth was designed to promote an absolute dependence upon the Triune God as Sovereign, Sanctifier, and Redeemer. He was satisfied with nothing less than the rectification of the affections as well as of the will."

Mr. Humphrey was wont, with devout thanksgivings, to refer whatever success attended his ministry in Pittsfield to the abundant revivals with which the town was blessed during his pastorate. The most remarkable of these occurred in 1821, when the distinguished evangelist of that day, the Rev. Asahel Nettleton, D. D., assisted him in his arduous labors. He gives this account of its power: "The revival pervaded all classes, and extended to all parts of the town; but principally affected heads of families, and the prominent men of the village. The whole face of the community was changed. Religion was the all-absorbing topic of conversation. The revival continued all summer. On the first Sabbath of November the harvest was gathered in to the church, and a glorious harvest it was. Between eighty and ninety, the rich and the poor, the high and the low, the old and the young, stood up together in the long aisle, and, before angels and men, avouched the Lord to be their God, and were received into the church. Never had such a scene been witnessed in Pittsfield. The joy of the church overflowed in tears and thanksgivings. I am sure there must have been great joy in Heaven." The converts of this revival and their children have been among the most faithful members of the church to the present day. The experience thus obtained confirmed in Mr. Humphrey's heart a love for revivals which he never lost.

"Mr. Humphrey had at this time become identified with almost every prominent organization of the day for the spread of the Gospel. He enjoyed the honor of preaching the sermon at the ordination of the first Missionaries of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions to the Sandwich Islands,—Rev. Hiram Bingham and Rev. Asa Thurston. The service was held at Goshen, Ct., September 29th, 1819. He was interested in Asylums and Retreats for the unfortunate. He sought the mitigation of unnecessary rigor in prisons and penitentiaries, and was always seeking the wisest and best way to relieve the poor and down-trodden. His sympathy for the slave was quick and strong. While recognizing the constitutional difficulties which embarrassed political action in the matter of American slavery he looked with favor upon all schemes which promised a gradual emancipation, and he strenuously opposed all extension of the area of slavery by governmental action. He was an earnest friend of colonization so long as that seemed to promise most for the relief of the slave."

In 1823, Dr. Humphrey (who during this year received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Middlebury College) was invited to assume the Presidency of the institution which now bears the honored name of Amherst College. He refers to this appointment as occasioning the most trying crisis of his pastoral life. His attachment to his people was most ardent, and so great was their love for him that when he proposed a council of his ministerial brethren to aid him in deciding the question of duty his congregation refused to unite with him in the measure, and he was forced to take the step alone. The Council advised him to accept the Presidency, and the pastoral bond was severed.

There was little that could be alluring to an ease-loving nature or to a worldly ambition in the task which he now undertook. The Institution was in a rudimentary state. After several years of preparatory work it had developed into an Academy with an Act of Incorporation, with one Professorship, of Languages, and with a Charity Fund of fifty thousand dollars, designed to aid young men in their education who were preparing to enter the Christian ministry. The work of raising up and establishing upon this foundation a new College, which should honorably compete with older Institutions and become a power for good in the world, was to be the real life-work of Dr. Humphrey, and he threw himself into it with his whole soul. "Year after year, time after time, saw him calmly asking the State to grant a Charter to the Institution. The opposition throughout the State to the establishment of a third college (Harvard and Williams being sustained by powerful friends,) had to be overcome. From local jealousies half the town of Amherst itself opposed the location, and voted against it. No pen could ever record the long conferences, the perplexed thoughts, the fearful apprehensions, the wearying vexations, which excited the brain and wore on the nerves of one whose whole heart was given to this enterprise." As we follow the history of the desperate struggle we find the petition for a Charter at length prevailing in the Senate, but defeated in the House. We find Dr. Humphrey gathering funds to meet the requirements of the Legislature. Then we meet him in contests with unscrupulous lawyers in whose hands the scales are held. His wisdom and skill triumphed over chicanery, his patient persistence surmounted unnumbered obstacles, and at length, in 1824, the Charter was obtained. But this was only one step gained, though a most important one. Buildings must be provided. Recitation rooms, a chapel, library and apparatus were all wanting. Slowly the walls went up as did the walls of Jerusalem under Nehemiah. Besides all the outside labors President Humphrey was carrying on, he was instructing the Senior Class in more than a half-dozen branches, and for two years after the chapel was completed, 1827-28, he supplied the pulpit regularly. In 1834, his health had become so impaired by incessant toil that friends urged his spending some months in Europe, and defrayed his expenses. This journey was of great service to him. After his return his official duties were less burdensome, and the College was furnished with a full corps of eminent professors. "He was at this time a systematic student, devoting much of his leisure to literary composition. He was a regular contributor to the religious journals of the day. His public addresses in the pulpit and on the platform were frequent. His voice became familiar at all the great centers of benevolent effort. The soundness of his judgment became as widely known as the mingled wisdom and eloquence of his lips, and far and near he was consulted in ecclesiastical matters."

One of his most vigorous discourses was an address to the students of Amherst College, July 4th, 1828, the subject being "A Parallel between Intemperance and the Slave Trade." This address was printed, and gained a wide circulation. He delivered a discourse on "Indian Rights and our Duties," in 1829, which was occasioned by the forcible expulsion of the Indians from Georgia by a direct act of nullification, by the State, of treaties formed by the Federal Government. This address contained words of warning which in the light of to-day seem remarkably prophetic: "Do you tell me that there is no possible danger—that no man nor number of men will ever dare to assail our free and glorious institutions? Let the history of past republics, or rather, let their tombstones decide between us. So it would have been said, when Washington and Jefferson were at the head of affairs, that no one would ever dare to disinherit or enslave the Indians, protected as they are by more than a hundred and fifty governmental treaties. And how much better are our parchment defenses than theirs? If such encroachments, acquiesced in, do not prepare the way for even greater violations of the public faith, our children will have to be protected by higher munitions than our vaunted constitutional bulwarks."

In Dr. Humphrey's personal association with the students under his charge he was peculiarly happy in impressing them by the force of his character, and in gaining their confidence and reverent affection. By his familiar lectures in the class-room, and by his frequent fatherly counsels to all, he manifested his deep interest in whatever concerned their true welfare. None who watched his daily life, whether it flowed on in even course or led through peculiar emergencies and trials, could doubt that the Christian truth he so earnestly proclaimed was his vital inspiration and strength. A touching illustration of the spirit with which he met sore personal bereavement is given by one of his former students: "In July, 1840, President Humphrey's son Henry, then a member of the Sophomore Class, a young man of fascinating beauty and brilliant promise, was seized suddenly, in the midst of robust health, with an acute inflammatory disease, and died in a few hours. The next morning we were all surprised to see the President in his accustomed place at morning prayers in the chapel. His face was pale, and he had a worn and exhausted appearance, but he arose as the college bell ceased its ringing, and calmly, sweetly read, not any wail of lamentation and anguish, but the cheering words of the 103d Psalm: 'Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me, bless his holy name,' and so on to the impressive words, 'He hath not dealt with us after our sins; nor rewarded us according to our iniquities,' closing with the words, 'Praise ye the Lord.' Then he offered such a prayer as would be likely to follow such a Scripture read under such circumstances—a prayer that was full of tenderness but transparently trustful. There was nothing of stoicism or assumed absence of emotion in the service, but there was a quiet mastery of faith over feeling by a strength that was borrowed from the unseen and eternal."

In speaking of President Humphrey's connection with the College his biographer says: "Had he no farther honor than this, that he secured the launching and equipment of his ship, and piloted it out of a crooked harbor into an open sea, that were enough for one who beholds Amherst College as it is now. But his honor is greater than this. He, more than any one else, was instrumental in giving the College its character. Under his administration the purpose of its founders was realized. They desired it to be a training-school for the Church, a seminary for the education especially of ministers and missionaries of the Cross. That this desire might be realized was the potent motive which drew him from the pastorate in Pittsfield. He was unceasingly solicitous for the religious interests of the institution. In one of his addresses to the Alumni of the College he says: 'It seems to me the richest smile of Heaven upon Amherst College that no class has ever graduated without passing, at least once, under the cloud which has so often poured out righteousness upon it. If, in its former straits, every drop had been fine gold, how meagre the blessing compared with these effusions of the Holy Spirit. Let this College be swept from under these glorious skies sooner than any other Gospel shall be preached within these walls than that which has been made the wisdom of God and the power of God unto salvation.' During his connection with the College four hundred and thirty of the eight hundred graduates became ministers of the Gospel, and thirty-nine were sent abroad as missionaries. Let any one who is anxious to see what order of students has come from this institution study its Triennials, see what distinguished names are on its roll, and how many of those names are printed in the honored italics which designate ministers of the Gospel."

When Dr. Humphrey had reached the age of sixty-five, having filled the Presidential office twenty-two years, he felt that the time had come to retire from the burdens and responsibilities of the position. After his resignation, in April, 1845, he selected Pittsfield, Mass., as his residence for the remainder of his life—the town where he had passed the years of his second pastorate. Here he was welcomed with great affection, and his return was regarded as a blessing to the community. Says one: "The children of his former parishioners seemed to have brought such memories out of their forming years that they regarded him with a reverence as nearly saintly as is consistent with Puritan character, and all felt that it was like a benediction simply to see him passing through our streets." As the years went on, the position accorded him in the town was almost phenomenal. In connection with very many families his relationship was truly patriarchal. Their homes, their tables, their gardens with all they contained of beauty or fruitage, were as open to him as if each one had been his own. The sick and the dying watched eagerly for his coming, and for the comfort of his ministrations, and when some heavy sorrow fell with crushing weight upon a household, the most natural cry seemed to be, "Send for Dr. Humphrey."

He interested himself actively in all village affairs: in the establishment of a public library; in the introduction of water and gas; in the "Tree-Planting Association" which bears his name, for the shading of the streets; and in the building of a Medical College. "He found the old church whose severed parts had been so kindly knit under his ministry had become so large that division was as much a duty as reunion had been twenty-eight years before. A colony was soon formed with which he identified himself, although this step involved much self-sacrifice. A new house of worship was provided for the colony, largely in consequence of his influence and exertions." Nor were his labors confined to the town in which he lived. He went through the State endeavoring to arouse new interest in missions; he delivered lectures, and his pen was never idle. His contributions at this time to the New York Observer, over the signature of "The Old Man of the Mountains," were looked for with special interest. His services were in frequent demand to supply vacant pulpits, and his discourses to his latest years often glow with the fire which distinguished them in his youth. In an address delivered in Pittsfield, in 1854, (in his seventy-sixth year,) when the "Missouri Compromise," prohibiting the extension of Slavery in certain territories, was threatened with the repeal called the "Nebraska Bill," he thus poured out his indignant protest: "What if that venerable man of God, Rev. Thomas Allen (a former pastor of the Pittsfield church, who also served in the Revolutionary army), who sleeps in yonder tomb, could be waked up, and have the Nebraska Bill with its black section put into his hands—what would HE say? I declare to you, I would not for any price go and knock at the door of that tomb, if I knew that I could bring him up, except it were in the last extremity of expiring liberty, that he might again buckle on his armor and march up to the cannon's mouth. No! let him sleep, and never till the day of judgment know anything of the atrocious conspiracy which has been concocted this winter at the seat of Government!"

Dr. Humphrey's loyal heart was also intensely stirred when, in 1861, the storm of the Civil war rose in the sky with its threatening portents. "He was appointed, by the clergymen of Pittsfield, to deliver a sermon at a union meeting on the day of National Fasting and Prayer, which was observed January 4th, 1861. He accepted the invitation with all the ardor of youth, and the result was a discourse which, for argument, for eloquence, for religious and patriotic fire, equalled the best efforts of his meridian days. It was a wonderful discourse to have been prepared and delivered by a man standing on the edge of his eighty-third year."

Dr. Humphrey had a strong physical constitution. This enabled him to withstand to a remarkable degree the severe strains often made upon it, through the whole course of his life. In person, he was above the medium height and well developed. His eye was dark and mild; his Shakespearian head, as seen in his portrait, was in earlier life crowned with dark clustering hair, and until past middle life his face was full and ruddy. He was at that period a noticeably handsome man. His manner combined great dignity with true courtesy and affability.

In his home life Dr. Humphrey grew more and more genial and companionable with every advancing year. Though a man of rich and deep affections, which were bestowed without measure upon his family, yet the custom of the times and of the home in which he was reared, together with the degree of reserve always natural to him, made it difficult for him to "unbend" with his children when they were young, and he was not peculiarly demonstrative or familiar in his intercourse with them. But he grew more free and full in the expression of feeling under the mellowing effect of his later and less burdened years, and his companionship was the joy and delight of all. His conversation was lighted with the play of humor so characteristic of him, and he was always fond of a harmless joke. His biographer says of him: "He was a man of great simplicity and magnanimity of character; guileless and transparent as a child; ever ready to apologize for and to forgive an enemy. While always self-respecting in the best sense of the term, he united with this quality rare humility. His benevolence was large and systematic. Among his papers was a memorandum-book in which he was in the habit of entering each item of his income, the payment for a newspaper article or a Sunday's preaching among the rest. Against every entry was a cross, followed by the fractional sign which indicated the generous proportion he appropriated to benevolence. This was his 'charity fund,' and thus he had always something to give from that which had already passed into the Lord's treasury. Outside of this he would, in his charities, often 'give upon faith,' as he called it, gifts which might seem extravagant in any other light than that which shone upon them from his spirit of implicit confidence that 'the Lord will provide.'"

The Rev. John Todd, of Pittsfield, said of him: "Through Dr. Humphrey humanity was taught to the whole community. All the way through life he carried this trait. It sought the salvation of a world, the good of his country, and considered the need of the little child as he walked without shade to school." His kindly feeling always extended in a marked degree to the animals under his care. One of his daughters remembers standing, when a child, by his bedside one Thanksgiving morning, with all the usual glory of the day dimmed for her by the severe illness which had suddenly prostrated him and cast unwonted pallor over his face. She vividly recalls the gleam of relief that dispelled her alarm when she heard him speak in his natural tone and caught the glimmer in his eye as he said to her brother, "My son, do not forget that the cows have rowen on Thanksgiving day, and as much as they will eat." It had long been his custom thus to include even the cattle in the Thanksgiving feast.

Dr. and Mrs. Humphrey had ten children: Edward, James, Sophia, and John, were born in Fairfield, Ct.; Lucy, the first Mary, and Henry, in Pittsfield, Mass.; Zephaniah, the second Mary, and Sarah, in Amherst, Mass.

In 1858, the surviving children and grandchildren of the family had the happiness of celebrating the Golden Wedding of their revered parents. It was an occasion for home gathering of all the scattered branches of the household, and of grateful and tender rejoicings. The citizens of Pittsfield shared heartily in the festivities, and manifested their interest by gifts which are treasured as heir-looms in the family. The children of those friends in Fairfield who had welcomed the young bride to her new home, in 1808, came to share the sunset glow of the fiftieth anniversary.

In the spring of 1861, Dr. Humphrey, after a short illness, during which rapturous gleams and anticipations of the Heavenly state broke at intervals through the clouds of delirium, "fell on sleep," April 3d. His burial was attended from the Congregational church, and a most appreciative sermon was preached by Rev. John Todd, pastor of the church at that time. It was no formal tribute, it was but the natural sequel of all that had gone before, that when he was borne to the grave, the stores along the line of the procession were closed, all the bells of the village were tolled, and those who had abandoned all other duty went in solemn order to the place where the revered form was laid. A granite monument now marks the spot where he lies in the Pittsfield Cemetery, inscribed with the text upon which he so delighted to dwell, both in private meditation and in the pulpit, "Increasing in the knowledge of God."*

Mrs. Humphrey survived her husband several years, and died in Pittsfield, Mass., on Sunday, December 13th, 1868, æ. 83 years.

Among the most important of Dr. Humphrey's published sermons and addresses are:—

Her countenance was suggestive of hidden power and resource, reminding one of the vibration and light of the sea. Her eyes were dark and full of meaning; and when she spoke, her truth was in her words. Thus it was in Pittsfield, in her early youth; thus, when † John Neill, the first ascertained American ancestor of Dr. Henry Neill, entered upon the practice of the law, in the county of Sussex, in the State of Delaware, as early as the year 1739. The courts of Sussex were held at Lewes, and at that town he established his residence. He married Elizabeth ———, who survived him, and died 26 May, 1771. There is a tradition in the family that John Neill emigrated from Tyrone, Province of Ulster, Ireland.

Dr. John Neill, their son, and the grandfather of Dr. Henry Neill, was born 3 June, 1749, Lewes, Delaware; and died in June, 1816. He married, 16 June, 1773, Elizabeth Martin, of Snow Hill, Md., where they resided.

Dr. Henry Neill, their son, and the father of Dr. Henry Neill, was born 12 Mch. 1783, Snow Hill, Md.; d. 7 Oct. 1845, Belvidere, N. J. He was an eminent physician in Philadelphia; was married in that city, in April, 1806, to Martha Rutter Duffield, b. 5 Aug. 1780, daughter of Dr. Benjamin and Rebecca (Potts) Duffield, of Philadelphia; and granddaughter of Edward and Catherine (Parry) Duffield, of Moreland Manor, Bucks Co., Pa. Catherine Parry was daughter of David and Mary (Humphrey) Parry; and granddaughter of Owen Humphrey. [See the genealogy of the Humphreys of Pennsylvania.]

For an account of the families of Martin, Duffield, Potts, Handy, Rutter, and Savage, from which Dr. Henry Neill was descended, see his work entitled John Neill and his Descendants.

she received instruction away from home; and thus at Amherst, when, under the stimulus of literature, and the influence of her father's house and the college, and the admiration which her nature and acquirements commanded, she grew in that attractiveness which never left her. She was neither timid nor sad. She received the good that came to her, and enjoyed it. * * * Whilst gratified at the success of those who were dear to her, her life was in her affections. She loved her friends; and all beautiful things; and God. She was rich in trust and in hope. There was that in her which caused people to lean upon her, as she strengthened them by what her soul imparted. Her judgment was comprehensive, and seldom in error; and it was made generous by the breadth of her charity, and the depth of her feeling. Thoroughly educated, ripe in sentiment, profound and discerning intellectually, and of a warm heart, she entered the gates of light, beloved, as only such a wife, and mother, and sister can be. She received Christ so fully that her faith was not dependent upon her emotions. It was in the 'Lord our righteousness.'

Dr. Neill received instruction in Latin and Greek from Samuel B. Wylie, and entered the University of Pennsylvania, Freshman class, in 1829. He united with the First Presbyterian Church, under the care of Rev. Albert Barnes, in 1832. The following year he went to Amherst College, entering the last term of the Junior class, and graduated in 1834. During the years 1835-36, he taught the classics in Fayetteville, North Carolina; was at Lane Theological Seminary, 1836-39, and at Andover, in 1839.

He was installed minister of Hatfield, Mass., 16 April, 1840, and there remained till 15 April, 1846; was invited to Lenox, Mass., and installed there 26 Aug., 1846; continued there until 4 Jan., 1854. He was called to the pastorate of the Fort Street Church, Detroit, Michigan, in 1853, and installed over that congregation 15 Oct., 1854. During his ministry in Detroit, the house of worship known as the Fort Street Church was completed, and its membership largely increased. He resigned 15 June, 1857. December 6th, 1857, he was installed pastor of the Westminster Church, in the same city. This church was organized by Mr. Neill in connection with the Old School branch of the Presbyterian Church. He remained in Detroit until 24 April, 1861. During the war, he took charge of the church at Geneseo, New York, from 1 Jan., 1862 to 1 Jan., 1866; served the churches of West Stockbridge and Richmond, near Pittsfield, Mass., from 1867 to 1869. He was afterward installed over the Second Presbyterian Church at New Brunswick, continuing there from 1869 to 1871. Mrs. Neill being in delicate health, he went to South Carolina for her restoration, and officiated, for the winter of 1871-72, in the church at Hopewell, South Carolina; returned to Philadelphia in 1872, and organized the church at Bryn Mawr, Montgomery Co., Pa., in November, of that year, supplying the pulpit of that church from January to November, 1873. He retired from regular duties in 1873, and took up his residence in Philadelphia, where he died 21 April, 1879, æ. 63 years.

The published writings of Dr. Neill are as follows:—"The Atonement;" Lenox, Biblical Repository, 1849. "The Revealing Process;" Lenox, National Preacher, 1849. "Memorials for the Dead;" Pittsfield, 1850. "The Sanctuary;" Detroit, 1854. "Abolitionism, its Spirit and Fruits;" Detroit, 1858. "The Westminster Assembly;" Geneseo, 1865. * Jason Torrey was born 20 June, 1772, at Williamstown, Mass. He went, in 1793, at the age of twenty, to the wilderness of North-Eastern Pennsylvania, and was very prominent in developing the country. After the death of his first wife, he married, in 1816, Achsah Tyler.

His earliest ancestor in this country was William Torrey, from Combe St. Nicholas, Somersetshire, England, who was settled at Weymouth, Mass., about 1640. Mary, the niece of this William, after the death, at Scituate, Mass., of her father James Torrey, who was progenitor of Charles T. Torrey, the "martyr," became his ward. She married Samuel (son of Jonas) Humphrey. [See the genealogy of the Humphreys of Weymouth, Mass.]

Samuel Torrey, (son of William, born in 1632, in England, was pastor in Weymouth, in 1664, and onward. He three times preached the annual election sermon, and was twice offered the presidency of Harvard College, where he graduated in very nearly, if not quite, the first college class. He died 21 April, 1707, aged about 75 years. He had been in the ministry fifty years, and was an able and faithful preacher. His predecessor in the Weymouth pastorate was Rev. He was graduated at Amherst College, Valedictorian in the class of 1843, under the Presidency of Rev. Heman Humphrey, D. D.; and at the Union Theological Seminary, New York City, in the class of 1846. He was Tutor at Amherst College for one year, 1846-7; commenced his ministry as pastor elect at Delhi, Delaware Co., N. Y., in December, 1849, and was ordained and installed there, January 29th, 1850; remained there until March, 1860. He was pastor at Ithaca, N. Y., from March, 1860, until May, 1865; and pastor elect at Ann Arbor, Mich., from December, 1865, to April, 1867. He received the degree of D. D., from Hamilton College, in 1862; travelled in Europe and Bible lands, 1867-68; was pastor at Cazenovia, N. Y., from December, 1869, until November, 1881, when he retired finally from the pastoral office, but has since been almost constantly preaching. In 1883, he wrote a Memorial Sketch of Rev. Z. M. Humphrey, D. D., which was printed, with five of his sermons, by J. B. Lippincott & Co., as companion volume with Memorial Sketches of Rev. Heman Humphrey, D. first pastorate of the Old South Church, in Boston. From this Rev. Thomas Thacher descended five Rev. Peter Thachers, in successive generations, and the last of the five was grandfather of Achsah Tyler (wife of Jason Torrey), of Harford, Susquehanna Co., Pa., who was the aunt of Prof. William S. Tyler, of Amherst College.

William Torrey (brother of Rev. Samuel Torrey, and the ancestor of Jason Torrey,) was born in 1638, in England. He was a citizen of Weymouth, Mass., and "his name appears on almost every page of the records of that town while he lived." He was a member of the House of Deputies seven years, and again for three years, and Clerk of that House, in all, fourteen years. He wrote a book on Futurities, or Things to Come, with a preface by Rev. Mr. Prince, pastor of the Old South Church, Boston. A copy of the book is in the Boston Library.—Communicated by Rev. David Torrey, D. D.

2780. Hector⁶ Humphrey, [1280] (Sylvanus,⁵ Sylvanus,⁴ Charles,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 24 Dec., 1806, in Onondaga, N. Y. He married, 20 Oct., 1838, Hannah Maria (dau. of Elnathan and ——— Marshall) Patterson, b. 30 Nov., 1818, near Schuylersville, Saratoga Co., N. Y. They resided in Batavia, N. Y., where he died 5 June, 1855, æ. 48 years. Mrs. Humphrey's P. O. address is (1884) Batavia, N. Y.

Hector Humphrey was associated with his brother Bissell, in the hotel and stage business, up to the time the latter removed to Michigan; and he afterwards engaged in the livery business. He was much esteemed by his townsmen and a large circle of acquaintances as a good neighbor, and a man of probity and honest dealings. He was a born wag and story-teller,—“a fellow of infinite jest;” had a keen insight and appreciation of the ludicrous in character and might have made his mark on the “boards,” as a humorist or comedian. In his last sickness, his numerous friends took turns as night-watchers with him, among them the late Mr. Lucas Seaver, a brother of the late William A. Seaver, the recent editor of the “Drawer” in Harper's Monthly, and himself a man of many accomplishments. A few days before Mr. Humphrey's demise, he expressed his regret to Mr. Seaver that he should have been so much of a tax on the kindness and patience of his friends; but was promptly stopped with, “Mr. Humphrey, these apologies are entirely superfluous and unnecessary. The obligation is upon us. You have entertained us all.” And this undoubtedly expressed the general sentiment. There was no sting to our humorist's humor. The subject of it, while figuring for the amusement of others, generally acquired, in his involuntary role of a laughing-stock, a sort of compensating distinction and popularity that never forsook him. Mr. Humphrey had an inexhaustible fund of anecdotes about all sorts of odd customers who had been thrown in his way,—many of them his personal acquaintances,—and his good-humored delineations of their peculiarities, and stories in illustration of them, were inimitable in their way, and are still remembered and quoted. Doctor Samuel Johnson remarked to Boswell, that “to be a good mimic requires great powers; great acuteness of observation; great retention of what is observed; and great pliancy of organs to represent what is observed.” This is true without a doubt; and notwithstanding Dr. Johnson's accompanying observation that “it is making a very mean use of a man's powers,” it is a rare power, and the noted possessors of it have generally managed to secure their full share of immortality along with other artists.*

3047. Rev. Aaron Case⁷ Humphrey, [1465] (Lemuel Gordon,⁶ Samuel,⁵ Lieut. Samuel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born Sunday, 3 Feb., 1799, in West Simsbury, Ct. He married (1) in Columbus, O., 12 Dec., 1822, Betsey (dau. of John* and Betsey) Starr, b. 30 Aug., 1802, at Groton, Ct. Her parents removed from that town to Franklin Co., Ohio, when she was ten years of age.

Mr. Humphrey at first settled in Liberty Township, Delaware Co., O., where he was a mechanic and farmer. Under the ministry and counsel of a Rev. Mr. Bigelow he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and subsequently was an active local preacher, and served as a supply on different circuits in Central Ohio. He afterward became a Universalist. He was an early leader in the Temperance Reform, and was a popular and effective lecturer in the cause. In 1842, he removed to the vicinity of Tipton, Iowa, where he engaged in farming, and acquired a comfortable competence. There his wife died, 1 July, 1849, at the age of 46 years. He married (2) in Muscatine, Iowa, 6 June, 1850, Ann Maria (dau. of Levin and Martha Walston) Haymon. Her father was of Irish and her mother of English descent.

His daughter, Mrs. Mary E. Haddock, of Iowa City, writes of him:—"There my father toiled and raised his large family. All the severe hardships of pioneer life were his, but he worked with a will and perseverance that wins; and was always ready with a sermon as occasion offered. Truth, honesty, and a kindly, tender heart were pre-eminently his virtues. He was a great Abolitionist, and, both in Ohio and in Iowa, his house was a 'Depot' on the 'Underground Railroad.'" When advanced in life he sold his farm and bought a place in Tipton, where he resided until his death, which occurred 9 April, 1877, at the age of 78 years. His widow resided, in 1883, on the homestead, at Tipton, Iowa.

Children (by 1st marriage):

3048. I. SOPHRONIA,⁸ b. 20 Sept., 1823, in Liberty, O.; died in infancy.
 3049. II. LURENDA,⁸ b. 5 Nov., 1825, in Liberty, O.; married, near Tipton, Iowa, 26 Aug., 1845, John Casebeer, b. 2 Oct., 1812, in Washington Co., Pa. His parents removed to Wayne County, Ohio, in 1815, living there till 1839, when, with eleven children of whom John was the oldest, they removed to Cedar Co., Iowa. There he continued to reside after his marriage, until the spring of 1854, when he and his family settled on their present homestead, a fine farm near Tipton, Ia.

Mr. Casebeer was early identified with the Antislavery movement in politics;—voted the Free-soil ticket in 1848, with the weak minority of thirty-seven votes; and his house has sheltered many a fugitive slave. The family are known as staunch Republicans, and practical temperance people and prohibitionists. For thirty years the parents have been members and active supporters of the Congregational church, and liberal givers to its charities. P. O. address (1883) Tipton, Iowa. Children:

3050. i. Sarah Jane,⁹ b. 17 May, 1846, in Cedar County, Iowa; was educated at the Iowa State University at Iowa City, and at the Normal School at Cedar Falls, Iowa. She has been a teacher in the public schools of Iowa for nineteen years; is unmarried (1883).

3061. VII. LUCINDA,⁸ b. 8 Sept. 1834, in Liberty, O. She secured an excellent education, and then turned her attention to literary work with both zeal and success, being, apart from her avocation of teaching, a contributor to a number of papers and magazines. In the war for the Union she responded to a call for nurses, and was sent out from Chicago for this work. After serving some time in a hospital at Memphis, Tenn., she became deeply affected by the ignorance and helplessness of the freedmen, and established and conducted a school among them. Here she made the acquaintance of Captain Hay, an officer in the Army service, to whom she was married in camp, at Memphis, Tenn., 24 Dec., 1863. She still continued her work among the freedmen, and while there wrote a book entitled "The Unwritten History of the War," giving an accurate account of the condition of the freedmen at that time. Arrangements were made for its publication, but before its issue she died at Tipton, Iowa, 27 Dec., 1864, æ. 30 years. Children (born in Tipton, Iowa):

 3074. v. Esther Joy,⁹ b. 27 Sept. 1881.
 3075. XI. MARY EMMA,⁸ b. 9 Jan., 1844, near Tipton, Iowa. Of her childhood she writes:

“My father taught his children that the one great secret of success in life was to help themselves,—rely upon themselves. I do not know how it impressed the others, but to me it was the first and most lasting impression I have of all my dead father’s teachings.” So, having improved the opportunities of home schooling, at the early age of fourteen she started out, not shrinking from hardship and privation, to attain the one aim of her life,—an education. Her father’s will and perseverance were repeated in his child, and at the age of sixteen she was qualified for teaching. By that means she supported herself, and, at the age of twenty, graduated in the State Normal School of Iowa. Shortly afterward, August 2d, 1865, she was married to Judge William J. Haddock, who was of old Scotch Covenanter stock, b. 28 Feb., 1835, in County Antrim, Ireland. He was the oldest child of John and Elinor (McBride) Haddock, and, when fifteen years old, came with his parents to Philadelphia; subsequently, in 1855, settled at Iowa City. He graduated from the Normal Department of the Iowa State University, in June, 1861; studied law with Hon. Rush Clark, and became his partner in 1866. He was appointed Judge of the Circuit Court in 1872; and has been Secretary of the Board of Regents of Iowa University since 1865.

Mrs. Haddock continued to pursue the avocation of teaching for two years after her marriage, and then settled down to domestic life. At the expiration of ten years, at her husband’s suggestion, she took up the study of law, which greatly fascinated her, and graduated, in June, 1875, from the Law Department of Iowa State University and, in 1877, received from the same institution a certificate for special proficiency in the law, after an advanced course of post-graduate study. She is constantly occupied in her husband’s law office, doing much of the office work, and enjoying it, but avoiding publicity. She has never connected herself with any Woman’s Rights Society, but believes that woman’s advancement depends more upon what she does than what she petitions. Res. (1883) in Iowa City, Iowa. No children.

3103. Manna⁷ Humphrey, [1496] (Ichabod,⁶ Samuel,⁵ Lieut. Samuel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born, probably, in October, 1790, at Barkhamsted, Ct.* When he was quite young he went with his parents to reside on the old homestead of his maternal grandfather, Daniel Olmstead, Jr.,† which was located in Simsbury (Bushy Hill), Ct. He was married by James⁶ Humphrey, Justice of the Peace, [Fam. 88, S.²] in Simsbury, Ct., 26 April, 1825,‡ to Tryphena (dau. of Ephraim and Keziah Wheaton) Baldwin, of Simsbury, b. 30 Oct., 1787, in North Branford, Ct. She was a sister of Isaac Baldwin, who married Widow Marie Goodrich, daughter of Theodore and Cynthia (Woodford) Humphrey [Fam. 75, S.²; see Add.]; and also a sister of Emeline Baldwin, who married Dwight⁷ Humphrey, Esq., [Fam. 89 (1578), S.²]

Mr. Humphrey served as a commissary in the army, in the war of 1812, and his widow received a pension. While stationed at New London, Ct., General David Phelps sent him to convey a message to his wife, then living in Granby, Ct. He was noted for his pedestrianism, and on this occasion started on his errand early in the morning and walked to Granby, arriving there at about eight o'clock in the evening. He afterward received a letter from the General commending him for his honest and trustworthy services.

He was a farmer, and resided in Simsbury, on the paternal homestead; was well-known in the community as a man of great integrity. He was also noted for his pleasant jokes and genial disposition. He died in Simsbury, 22 May, 1855, æ. 65 years.†† By his industry, and that of his wife, he had accumulated a comfortable property, and at his death left to her the sole use of half of all his real and personal estate. His widow continued to occupy the farm, her son Charles R. Humphrey residing with her. She died in Simsbury, 7 Feb., 1882, æ. 94 years; and was buried in Bushy Hill Cemetery. Her granddaughter, Mrs. Marion E. Case, writes concerning her: "She was a woman of superior education, considering the early years of the country, and had a remarkable memory; was familiar with ancient history, and frequently told me that she began at the age of ten years to read the Bible, and had read it through twenty times. She was a member of the Congregational church in West Avon, Ct."

* Manna may be derived from Emmanuel, as a member of the Humphrey family, in an earlier generation, bore that name. [See Fam. 6 (165, S.)]

† Daniel Olmstead, Jr., was a descendant of James Olmstead, who came to Hartford, Ct., with the first settlers, in 1636, through his son Nicholas, grandson Thomas, and great-grandson Daniel Olmstead, who was born in 1701.

He was one of the first settlers of Bushy Hill, in the south-western part of Simsbury. He married (1) Anna (dau. of Ashbel) Cadwell, of West Hartford, Ct.; married (2) Rachel Hubbard. Children (by the 1st marriage): (1) Anna, (2) Lydia, (3) Elizabeth, (4) Diadema, (5) Daniel, (6) Ashbel, (7) Francis, (8) Esther, (9) —, who died in infancy. He served as a Corporal, in the Revolutionary war, and two of his sons, Ashbel and Francis, were also in the army. During his absence his daughters took care of the farm, going out into the field to reap the grain, etc. He was a very good and benevolent man. He died in 1809, at Simsbury, Ct., leaving the greater part of his property to his youngest daughter, Mrs. Ichabod Humphrey [Fam. 84, S.], with whom his last years were spent.

‡ Simsbury Records.

 Ephraim Baldwin served through the Revolutionary war, and witnessed the surrender of General Burgoyne.

‡ Lydia Cowles was the heroine of the story entitled "The Puritan Apple-Tree," which was published in the Hartford Courant of September 14th, 1867. It is as follows:

"Nearly a century ago, in West Avon, formerly called Northington, Ct., two children, on a Sabbath, in the absence of their parents, found an apple sprout in the field which they pulled up and set out in the door-yard. The parents on their return, learning how the little ones had broken the Sabbath, were righteously indignant. The plant had not only been pulled up, but set out before sundown! The children were severely reprimanded, and to make the admonition effectual, according to the custom of the good old times, they were also punished, and with the instrument of transgression. The parents—this time, and before sundown—uprooted the fatal apple-tree, and gave the children a lively switching with it, and then threw it over the fence into the ditch. The little folks had now obtained a personal interest in that apple sprout, and as soon as the sun went down they again carefully set it out in the yard. It remained, and grew to be a great and useful tree, which is now two feet through in the trunk, and still yields a fine crop of apples annually."

Mrs. Lydia (Cowles) Chidsey died in Candor, N. Y., about 1870, aged nearly 100 years. Her husband, Timothy Chidsey, was born in Connecticut; and died at Candor, in May, 1840, æ. 70 years.

1868, to Owego, in the same county; was engaged in agricultural pursuits. He was a man of active habits, prominently known in business circles for his intelligence, prudence, and success. He was honorably and intimately identified with the public interests of Tioga County. In his social relations he was eminently practical, open, genial, benevolent and charitable. His upright, consistent conduct was a standing rebuke to the equivocal customs current and common among business men. Concerning these practices, and in regard to all questions relating to religious truth, he maintained a fidelity worthy of imitation. He became a communicant in the Presbyterian church, in 1820, and led an exemplary Christian life. His death occurred at Owego, N. Y., 14 April, 1878, at the age of 78 years.

Mrs. Humphrey survived her husband several years, and died at the residence of her son-in-law, Dr. J. D. Quinlan, in Evanston, Ill., 3 Mch., 1884, æ. 81 years. We add the following sketch of her life, which appeared in The Evanston Index, March 15th, 1884:

“When she was a child, the parents of Mrs. Humphrey removed to Owego, N. Y. Here the young life of this truly noble woman rapidly developed under the tuition of the Christian teachers of that day, and she united with the Presbyterian Church, of which she was always a loving, loyal member. She early indicated a love and zeal for thorough knowledge, and subsequently became a pupil of Mrs. Emma Willard, at her Seminary in Troy. The relations of teacher and pupil soon ripened into the personal friendship of years. The inestimable value of these associations was realized and appreciated to the latest days of her life. Returning from school life, Miss Bell, as familiarly known to hundreds of the youth of the day, became one of the most successful teachers of Western and Central New York. As a Christian teacher, eternity alone will reveal the work, well done, upon the minds and hearts of those intrusted to her keeping.

“In later years, as wife and mother; surrounded by a large family, she exerted an influence in the home made beautiful by her grace and ministry which comes to-day as a blessed inheritance to the loving and afflicted children, who ‘rise up and call her blessed.’

“Hers was that rare character, that none, from the saddest and poorest to the highest and most learned, ever came into her presence without feeling that the atmosphere itself was purer and sweeter for the words of love and comfort, purity and wisdom, which flowed so naturally from her sympathetic, great heart.

“After the decease of her husband, in 1878, Mrs. Humphrey visited the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. D. Quinlan, where, after repeated journeys East and West, she at length became a loved and honored member of the household. Though in many respects it was a great trial to leave old associations and friends of the East, Mrs. Humphrey, with her lovely dignity, ease and cultivation, soon made many warm and attached friends, whose kindly courtesies added greatly to her happy, peaceful life.

“When laid aside by reason of failing strength from the former activity of doing greater things in the service of her Master, she was lovingly content to serve in humbler ways. Many are the deeds of mercy, acts of kindness, and words of strength and encouragement, of which she has been the quiet, unknown instrument, in her life among us.

“She was a firm, stalwart believer in Christianity; loved the house of God, and was often found there after her hearing had become impaired; but as this infirmity increased she preferred to spend the hours of Divine service in prayer and meditation, thus living in intimate communion with her Savior.

“During the last few months, when a fatal malady had made its appearance, from which was anticipated severe and continued suffering, she was enabled through faith to be resigned to suffer God’s will. She ‘set her house in order,’ and attended personally to every detail, however minute, that could be of any benefit or comfort to her loved children. Forgetful only of self—and without a murmur, she calmly and trustfully awaited the coming of the Master. One after another of her devoted children hastened to the bedside of their venerated mother, hastening with burdened hearts, only to find her with firm, unfaltering faith, her countenance already illumined with the 'sufficient grace of God,' and so received the mother's blessing, knowing that naught could befall the dear one thus held in the everlasting arms. 'She hath done what she could.'

"The funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the family residence, Rev. Dr. Noyes speaking from the words, 'Blessed in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints.' Rev. W. O. Lattimore followed with words of comfort and inspiration, and feelingly referred to interviews of personal communion with the deceased. The quartette rendered 'Nearer, my God, to Thee,' and 'Jesus, lover of my soul,' with impressive tenderness. The remains were then carried to Graceland Cemetery, where they will rest until the Resurrection Morn."

3158. ii. Harriet Eliza,⁹ b. 5 Feb. 1846, Oswego, Ill.; died there, 4 January, 1848, æ. 1 year, and 11 months.
3159. II. JULIA CAROLINE,⁸ b. 11 Feb., 1824, Speedsville, N. Y.; married (as 2d wife) in Newark, Tioga Co., N. Y., 18 Aug., 1852, George Washington (son of Samuel Sweezy and Mary Jennings) Seward, b. 26 Aug., 1808, Florida, N. Y. He is a brother of Hon. William H. Seward, and the last survivor of his father's family, also the last of his generation of the Swards, in this branch. He has been a Ruling Elder in the church nearly forty years, and has also been a Trustee of the same. Mrs. Seward has been for many years at the head of the popular and flourishing Seward Institute, at Florida, Orange Co., N. Y., and is known as one of the most successful educators of the young in our country. P. O. address (1884) Florida, N. Y. Children (born in Florida, N. Y.):
3160. i. Charles Humphrey,⁹ b. 21 Sept. 1853. He, in his youth, gave evidence of a mind of more than ordinary ability and activity. At an early age he was attacked by a peculiar form of inflammatory rheumatism, which followed him through life, increasing in severity as time passed. It was his desire to pursue a collegiate course with a view to the legal profession, but again and again the distressing disease foiled his efforts and disappointed his hopes. In the summer of 1873, having tried in vain all that medical skill could do, he decided to test a change of climate, and accordingly started, on the 21st of June, across the continent to California, and thence to China. After spending a couple of months in Shanghai he went to Singapore in the East Indies, intending to pass the winter there, but, attacked again by his dreaded enemy, a severe illness followed. After partially recovering, being warned that a longer stay in that climate would be injurious, he decided to go forward, and crossed the Indian Ocean to Ceylon, from thence to Calcutta. He remained in India three months, making Allahabad his principal stopping-place, and visiting the numerous points of interest in that country. During his stay there he gathered much information regarding the people, their customs and religions. From Allahabad he went to Bombay, crossed the Arabian sea and through the Red sea to Italy, visiting the principal cities of Europe. He sailed from Liverpool, and reached New York early in June, 1874, having made a complete circuit of the globe.

Flattered by a short respite from illness and hoping he had conquered disease, he commenced reading law in Middletown, N. Y., and in 1875 entered the Albany Law School, from which he graduated in May, 1876. It was during these months of study, at times of recreation, he wrote the "Memories of Many Lands," an account of his travels, which were published in the Middletown Press. He also originated and was senior editor of the Albany Law School Journal, a paper devoted to the interests of the Law School. At the close of the year he was elected to the office of Class Historian, which he filled until his death. In the spring of 1877, he entered into partnership with Thorndike Saunders, of New York City.

The bright anticipations of the future were soon darkened by returning illness, and fearing the effects of an Eastern winter, he went to Colorado, where he was again seized by an attack of rheumatism which proved too severe for his remaining strength, and of which he died, at Trinidad, Col., October 22d, 1877. He was unmarried.

"Such is a meager sketch of the life of Charles H. Seward, which may serve to show what achievements his perseverance enabled him to accomplish. In the short period of twenty-four years, he had shown this to be the material of his fiber. He proved himself, during all his struggle, a man of sterling quality; of principles high and noble; of heart a Christian. With a beginning so praiseworthy, while contending with such discouraging circumstances, we may well have predicted for him a future in which he would nobly have supported the reputation of his family's name."

3168. VIII. WILLIAM HENRY,⁸ b. 5 Sept., 1840, Candor, N. Y. He relinquished academic study and, in August, 1861, enlisted in Company H, 64th Reg. N. Y. Vol. Infantry, and exemplified the life and death of an earnest, patriotic, Christian soldier. From "Camp 64th Reg., near Willis Meadows, Va., May 1st, 1864," he wrote to his sister: "Before another week rolls over, the Army of the Potomac will be on the move, and perhaps a heavy battle fought, and, if a battle, it will be one of the bloodiest of the war. What my fate will be time will tell. If I am to give up my life for my country, so be it, if it will restore our divided country; but we must trust in God, for He doeth all things well." On May 14th, again he wrote: "We fought the greatest battle of the war, yesterday, and were victorious, as our Corps, the 2d, made one of the bravest charges on record. We charged on the rebel works, and captured with them 10,000 prisoners and forty pieces of artillery. My regiment was on the front line, and lost a great many officers and men. We have fifty men and seven officers left. I was not hurt, but saved by the hand of Providence." At the time of his death, June 4th, 1864, near the termination of his three years' term of service, he had survived twenty-three severe battles and skirmishes, and, in a letter to his brother, Hon. H. L. Humphrey, written but a few days prior to his death, describing the seven days Wilderness fight, he predicted that he should not be killed in battle; and so it proved, as he was instantly killed by the bullet of a rebel sharpshooter, while changing the picket lines the day after the battle of Cold Harbor, Va. He was First Sergeant of his company; was deeply beloved and lamented by his comrades and many friends. His commission of Lieutenant in his regiment was at his corps (Second Corps) Head-Quarters at the time of his death.

FAMILY 238.

3237. General Ansel⁷ Humphreys, [1574] (Dea. Alvin,⁶ Dea. Theophilus,⁵ Lieut. Samuel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 1 June, 1792, in Canton, Hartford Co., Ct. He married (1) in that town, 29 Nov., 1814, Lois (dau. of Benjamin and Esther Woodruff) Jones, of Southington, Ct., b. 14 May, 1798; died in Canton, Ct., 26 Sept., 1821, æ. 23 years. He married (2) in Granby, Ct., 18 Apr., 1822, Sarah (dau. of Ozias and Susan) Higley, of G. She died in Muscatine, Iowa, 28 July, 1840. He married (3) at Muscatine, Iowa, 16 May, 1841, Lura Matthews, who died in that place, 24 Dec., 1863, aged 81 years.

The following notice appeared in a local paper at the time of his death:—

“Gen. Ansel Humphreys, one of our oldest and most respected citizens, died at his residence in this city (Muscatine, Iowa,) on the evening of the 21st April, 1873, after a brief illness, in the 81st year of his age. He removed to this city (then Bloomington) in the spring of 1840. His life has been one of great activity and energy. Possessed of a vigorous physical constitution, large intellectual faculties, high moral attributes, and indomitable resolution, he pre-eminently became a leader in the communities in which he lived. His ability and singleness of purpose soon won the largest measure of respect, and his warm, generous disposition and open-handed charity, never closed to the wants of the needy when in his power to afford relief, secured for him attachment, love and esteem.

“About the year 1812, Gen. Humphreys was enrolled in the Hartford County Militia; became Brigadier-General of the First Brigade of Connecticut Militia. He was discharged in 1840, with the rank of Major-General commanding, having held every grade of office in the service. When about leaving Connecticut he was offered, but declined, the position of Adjutant-General of the State. For some fifteen years he severally filled the offices of Deputy-Sheriff, Sheriff, Justice of the Peace, and other positions of honor and trust. In 1838, he was elected to and served one term in the State Senate. In 1851, he was appointed United States Commissioner for the State of Iowa, which position he held until the day of his death.

“It was as a Mason that Gen. Humphreys was most widely known, and his admirable qualities shone most conspicuously. He had been a member of the order for fifty-five years, and devoted the larger portion of his life to continued and active labor in its service. He has filled the highest positions known to the lodges of Ancient Craft Masonry. He occupied the chair of master of a lodge alone for thirty years. Before the admission of Iowa as a State, and while the Territory was under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of Missouri, he was District Deputy Grand Master of that Grand Lodge for this Territory. When, in 1844, the Grand Lodge of Iowa was formed, he presided over the convention and drafted the constitution of the present Grand Lodge. He was three times elected Grand Master, besides serving as Grand Secretary and Grand Senior Warden. He loved the order with an ardent and enduring affection, believing, as he often asserted, that it inculcated the best code of morals of any existing human organization. Its purest principles were deeply implanted in his heart; its cardinal virtues—temperance, fortitude, prudence and justice—and its most excellent tenets—brotherly love, charity and morality—truly formed the rule and guide to his faith and action. At a ripe old age, full of years and honors, he has been gathered to his fathers. His death is deeply deplored by a large circle of friends and acquaintances in this city, and will strike a chord of sorrow in the hearts of many throughout the State of Iowa.”

married (1) at her father's residence, in Plymouth, Ct., 21 Dec., 1815, Aurelia (dau. of Emblem) Barnes, born 15 May, 1794, at Plymouth, Ct. In February, 1816, they removed to a wilderness farm in Pike, Bradford Co., Pa., where they remained nine years, clearing up and cultivating the land, Mr. Humphreys teaching school in the winter and taking a job of surveying whenever one offered. In 1825, they went back to Connecticut, and, for three years, he traveled through the Southern States as salesman for Hallock & Case, clock manufacturers. In the autumn of 1828, they returned to their Pennsylvania farm. Becoming, however, a member of that firm, as was also his brother Gen. Ansel Humphreys, he spent three years more in travel on its account; but the firm failed, and his farm was sold to pay its debts. In 1833, he removed to Fosterville, in the township of Aurelius, Cayuga Co., N. Y., where he continued until 1835, when he rented a farm near Geneva, N. Y.; in the spring of 1836, removed to Le Raysville, Bradford Co., Pa., and, for four years, traveled again as salesman for clocks manufactured by his brother-in-law, Philip Barnes. He afterward resided in Chili, Monroe Co., N. Y., where his wife died, 7 Mch., 1849, æ. 55 years. He married (2) in Monroe County, N. Y., Caroline Smith; removed to Gates, in the same county; and, in 1853, to Noble, Branch Co., Mich., where he remained until his death, which occurred 23 Apr., 1857, at the age of 63 years. He was a member of the Presbyterian church, and filled the office of deacon during his residence in Michigan. Having a natural taste for music, he was generally chorister in the church where he attended. In politics he was a Whig and Republican; in private character, stern and decided, honest, kind-hearted, affectionate, and companionable.

very successful. At the time of his marriage he lived in Canton, Ct., and afterward continued to reside there for a few years, on the homestead with his father. He then bought a farm in Burlington, Ct., where he was likewise engaged in teaching. He removed from thence to Collinsville, and worked as a carpenter, and on his farm, until a long and severe illness unfitted him for hard labor.

He was a man of good intellect, modest and retiring. Honest and upright himself, he looked upon all men as being the same, "believing every man honest until he was proved a rogue." Recently, one well acquainted with him remarked, "He was one of the most upright men I ever knew." He was gentle but firm, and his word was law in his family. Though slow to anger, he was capable of being aroused when occasion demanded. He was an earnest Christian, and patient in suffering. He died in Collinsville, Ct., Aug. 5th, 1850, aged 49 years.

Mrs. Humphrey resides (1884) with her daughter, Mrs. Welton, in Northampton, Mass.

Children:

No children.

3264. III. MARY GEORGIANA,⁸ b. 1 Feb., 1836, Collinsville, Ct.; resided there until 1853, when she attended the Normal School in New Britain, Ct.; and commenced teaching in Bethel, Ct., in 1854. At the urgent request of Rev. E. Cook, she taught the High School in Haydenville, Mass., during the winter of 1856; and in Leeds the remainder of the year, and the year following; then in Florence three years, where, according to the testimony of the Superintendent and Committee, she "gained a most enviable reputation." Soon afterward she became a teacher in the Intermediate Department of the High School in Northampton, Mass., where she remained three years.

She married (as second wife) at her mother's residence, in Collinsville, Ct., 18 Aug., 1864, Luke Myron (son of John Eddy and Katharine Sprague Turner) Kidder, b. 24 June, 1832, Wardsborough, Vt., where his parents were born and resided. When he was sixteen years of age, his father apprenticed him to a carriage-maker, in Wardsborough. After serving his apprenticeship, he worked at his trade in Saxton's River, Vt., for one month, when, the business being very distasteful to him and being fond of music and musical instruments, he found employment in an organ, or melodeon, shop in Townshend, Vt. He removed from thence to Brattleborough, Vt., and worked in the organ shop of Estey & Co.; then went to Plymouth, Indiana, where he taught music; and also traveled to some extent through Illinois and Wisconsin. After a two years' sojourn at the West, he returned to Westfield, Mass., and worked in Johnson's organ shop two years; then went to Northampton, Mass., where he has resided twenty-one years; is engaged in tuning, repairing, and selling, as well as manufacturing, musical instruments. 3278. Lester Hayden⁷ Humphrey, [1593] (Dea. Theophilus,⁶ Dea. Theophilus,⁵ Lieut. Samuel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 28 Dec., 1799, in West Simsbury (Canton), Ct. He removed with his father's family to Sheldon, N. Y., in 1818. He married, 5 July, 1826, Hannah Blakely, of Aurora, Erie Co., N. Y., born 3 Oct., 1807. They lived in Sheldon, Wyoming Co., N. Y., till 1866, when they removed to Warsaw, in the same county, where Mr. Humphrey was engaged in the leather trade, and also in agricultural pursuits.

Their five children were present on the occasion of the celebration of their Golden Wedding, in 1876. Of their twenty-eight grandchildren, twenty-three were living in 1884; and of their seventeen great-grandchildren, twelve were living.

Mr. Humphrey died at Warsaw, N. Y., 15 Dec., 1884, æ. 85 years. "The past fifteen years have been spent by him free from business cares but in a continual struggle with ill health,—for the last six years patiently enduring a total loss of sight. When deprived of active church work he still materially aided the cause. Perhaps his strongest characteristic was his power of self-denial that he might assist his children and relatives dependent upon him in the practical struggle of life. His memory retained its power to the end, and his greatest enjoyment arose from his ability to keep pace with the literature and progress of the times, and in retrospect over the wonderful strides of civilization during his lifetime."

Mrs. Humphrey resides (1884) in Warsaw, N. Y.

He was the third son of Bela C. and Mary (Bartlett) Kellogg, of Avon, and the grandson of Rev. Bela Kellogg and Rev. John Bartlett, two eminent Congregational ministers of Connecticut. He acquired his education at the village school, and at home from the lips and life of a godly grandmother and mother. At an early age he was given practical lessons in farming upon his uncle's farm. When he was seventeen years old, he enlisted in Colonel (now General) Joseph Hawley's Regiment, the 7th Ct. Vols., just after the first defeat of the Union army at Bull Run on the 21st of July, 1861. He saw no active service, however, as a few months after his enlistment he was taken very ill and sent to the hospital at Annapolis. After a long struggle with disease he recovered sufficiently to go home, and was honorably discharged. He obtained a position as clerk in the city Post Office in Washington, D. C., where he remained until 1866, when he was discharged at his own request. He has since been employed in farming in Iowa, and in the leather trade in Warsaw, N. 3306. Deacon Marcus Cicero⁷ Humphrey, [1622] (Dea. Theophilus,⁶ Dea. Theophilus,⁵ Lieut. Samuel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 15 Dec., 1808, in Canton, Ct. He married, in Sheldon, N. Y., 28 Dec., 1830, Sina Fitch Chipman, born in that town, 12 Nov., 1812, daughter of Lemuel and Laura (Mead) Chipman, of Sheldon, N. Y., formerly of Pawlet and Manchester, Vt. He died in Lake City, Minn., 24 April, 1884, æ. 75 years.

We add the following from a Lake City newspaper:—

“When the word was passed from lip to lip on last Saturday morning that Deacon Humphrey was dead, the tidings seemed to cast a decided gloom over our little city, in which he was held in universal estimation. The funeral, at his late residence on Garden Street, was very numerously attended by all classes, who united to pay the last sad tribute of respect to the memory of a blameless citizen and consistent Christian, whose virtues will long be held in affectionate remembrance. The services were conducted by Rev. J. W. Horner, assisted by Rev. J. W. Ray, pastor of the Congregational church of this city, of which the deceased had been an officer during most of the time he has resided here. At the close of the exercises the procession, under conduct of Major Van Vliet, wended its way to the silent city of the dead, where all that is mortal of our old neighbor and friend lies wrapped in the quiet of dreamless repose.

“From Connecticut, Mr. Humphrey removed with his parents, in 1818, to Sheldon, Wyoming Co., N. Y.; then a part of Genesee Co., and there he remained, pursuing his avocation as a tanner and currier, with his oldest brother, Mr. Lester H. Humphrey, until he was about thirty-five years of age, when they dissolved partnership, and he ceased working at his trade. He removed to the town of Java, in the same county, where he was engaged in farming until he came to Lake City, in the spring of 1868. After his removal here he was not actively engaged in business, save as a Director of the First National Bank of this city, which position he held from 1876 to a few weeks before his death, when his failing powers compelled him to retire from the Board.

“Deacon Humphrey was deeply interested in the morals of the city and in the religious and secular education of its youth. He was a strong advocate of temperance reform and took his seat as one of the city fathers upon the no-license issue; was for several years a live member of the city Board of Education, and rendered valuable service to his fellow-citizens in that capacity. For thirty-five years before coming to Lake City, he had been a consistent and earnest member of the Congregational church, and for thirty-six years prior to his death, had held the office of deacon in connection therewith. He remained in the enjoyment of robust health until August, 1881, when he was attacked with severe hemorrhage of the lungs. From this he speedily recovered, and seemed to have fully regained his health; but, in November, 1882, other symptoms of disease manifested themselves, and from that time until his death he remained an invalid.”

Mrs. Humphrey resides (1884) in Lake City, Minnesota.

3321. Deacon Homan Monson⁷ Humphrey, [1637]. (Dea. Theophilus,⁶ Dea. Theophilus,⁵ Lieut. Samuel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 24 Sept., 1819, in Sheldon, Wyoming Co., N. Y. He married (1) in that town, 19 Mch., 1839, Lydia Case (dau. of James) Snow, b. 19 Mch., 1817, Mill Creek, Hamilton Co., Ohio, nine miles from Cincinnati. Her father was Sheriff of Hamilton County for three years. In the spring of 1839, Dea. Humphrey and his wife removed to Iowa Territory, where they lived until the spring of 1852, when they emigrated to Oregon, going thither across the plains with an ox-team, taking provisions for themselves and five children, for the journey of 2,200 miles. Forty miles west of Omaha, Nebraska, they were attacked by Indians, who demanded a cow as the condition on which they would allow them to pass. Ten miles farther on this was repeated. The company then called a meeting, at which the captain was deposed on account of cowardice, and Mr. Humphrey elected in his stead. Nothing more of importance occurred on their journey, except that their cattle were all poisoned with alkali, and they were compelled to stop a few days until the animals recruited. They arrived in Clackamas County, August 27th, 1852, and, October 3d, settled on a donation land claim* of three hundred and sixteen and one-half acres, two and a half miles west of Portland, Oregon, where he now resides (1884). He has been for several years a deacon of the Congregational church at Mt. Zion, Oregon. His first wife died at their home near Portland, 23 Jan., 1859, æ. 41 years. He married (2) at Machias, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., 9 Feb., 1865, Lemira Mercer (dau. of Joseph† and Phebe Mercer) Andrews, of Sheldon, N. Y., b. 30 Aug., 1823, Attica, Genesee Co., N. Y.

In his pioneer life Dea. Humphrey has had some thrilling adventures with wild animals. In the winter of 1848, in Jefferson County, Iowa, while riding horseback, he saw a wolf coming towards him, which was being chased by a man and dogs. Perceiving that it might escape he sprang from his horse, seized the wolf by the tail, swung it against a fence, and then held it by the neck until the dogs came up. In 1864, in Washington Territory, ten miles back of Vancouver, he treed a bear. In 1867, while he and his wife were riding in a sleigh, they saw a large panther springing through the snow, whose bounds Mr. Humphrey found by measurement to be from twenty-four to twenty-seven feet in length.

Children (by 1st marriage):

3322. I. WOLCOTT JULIUS,⁸ b. 13 Apr., 1840, in Henry County, Iowa; married, at Pekin, Tazewell Co., Ill., 21 Mch., 1876, Margaret Ellen Broadwell, b. 26 Sept., 1843, Springfield, Ill. Her parents afterward resided in Pekin, Ill. No children.

Mr. Humphrey went with his father to the Pacific coast, in 1852, and, when he was not attending school, assisted him in clearing up a timber farm until he was twenty years of age. He then apprenticed himself to learn the printing business, and began to work at his trade the day Fort Sumter was fired on, April 12th, 1861. For nearly twenty years he has occupied different positions on the leading newspaper of Portland, The Daily Oregonian. In 1884, he accepted an offer to take charge of a newspaper in Oysterville, Washington Territory, where he now resides.

He has an interest in an orchard of forty acres, situated at Yaquina Bay, Benton Co., Oregon, which is considered quite valuable. In it are about eight thousand fruit and nut bearing trees:—prune, plum, apple, pear, cherry, chestnut, etc.

Honest, industrious, sympathetic and generous, Mr. Humphrey has often given a helping hand to others when their interests could be advanced by his timely aid.

3323. II. ORPHA TRIPHENA,⁸ b. 19 Mch., 1842, Lockridge, Jefferson Co., Iowa; married, at her father's residence, near Portland, Oregon, 21 Apr., 1858, Isaac Haley Gove, b. 2 Nov., 1828, Limington, York Co., Me. Mechanic. Res. (1884) on a part of Dea. H. M. Humphrey's donation land claim. P. O. address, Portland, Oregon.

3333. III. ELIZA ADALINE,⁸ b. 18 Mch., 1845, Brighton, Washington Co., Iowa. In 1859, she went to New York, with her father, where she attended school five years; returned in 1864 to Oregon, and taught in the public schools of Salem and Portland. She married, in the latter place, 6 Sept., 1866, Henry Denlinger, born in Pennsylvania. He is a printer; was for a number of years, proprietor of the Jacksonville Sentinel, but for some time past has occupied a prominent position on the Daily Oregonian. He, with his brother-in-law, Mr. Wolcott J Humphrey, has an interest in a prune orchard at Yaquina Bay, Benton Co., Oregon.

In 1880, Mrs. Denlinger went to Philadelphia, to attend the Woman's Medical College, where she stood at the head of a class of seventy-six, graduating in 1883. She died at Portland, Oregon, 23 November of the same year, æ. 38 years. "She was a most remarkable woman. of great ability, and quick thought; was a frequent writer, and a sweet singer."

Mr. Denlinger's P. O. address is (1884) Portland, Oregon. Child.

He was a lawyer and poet of brilliant promise. From about 1874, Mrs. Simpson was for eight years a successful teacher in the public schools of Portland, Oregon. She also acted as clerk in the Land Office two years.

She married (2) at Portland, Oregon, 27 Nov., 1883, Judge John (son of John and Charity) Briscoe, of Oysterville, Washington Territory, b. 21 Aug., 1812, Newtown, Fairfield Co., Ct., where his parents resided. In 1842, he went from Connecticut to Grange County, Indiana; and, in 1848, was elected Sheriff for two years. In the spring of 1852, he left Indiana, and arrived in Oregon City, Oregon, in August of the same year. In 1853, he located in Washington Territory, and was, in 1854, '56, '58, and '60, elected to a seat in its Legislature. He has been Postmaster seven years; and has held the office of Probate Judge eleven years. He belongs to that peace-loving, law-abiding class of people called Friends. P. 3342. Nelson Isaac⁷ Humphrey, [1638] (Dea. Theophilus,⁶ Dea. Theophilus,⁵ Lieut. Samuel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 5 Mch., 1821, at Sheldon, Wyoming Co., N. Y. He married (1) in that town, 17 Feb., 1842, Ellen M. (dau. of Col. James* and Jennette Fox) Case, of Sheldon, N. Y., born there, in March, 1821; died at Java Village, N. Y., in May, 1849, æ. 28 years. He married (2) at Strykersville, Wyoming Co., N. Y., 16 Apr., 1851, Emily Malvina (dau. of Harry S. and Ermina B.) Turner, of Strykersville, born there, 22 July, 1829. Her parents reside (1884) at Viola, Richland Co., Wis.

The boyhood of Nelson I. Humphrey was spent in attending school during the winters, and in working in the harness shop and tannery and on the farm the rest of the year. Losing his mother when he was fifteen years old, and his father retiring from active business, he was early thrown upon his own resources. At the age of seventeen he commenced peddling pictures, or prints, as they were then called, and continued to follow this occupation for about three years. When he was twenty-one he settled in Java Village, Wyoming Co., N. Y., and engaged in the saddle and harness trade, to which, in a short time, he added a general assortment of merchandise. In the spring of 1861, he removed to Leroy, McLean Co., Ill., and settled on a small farm one mile from the town. He there successfully continued his former avocation for a number of years. In 1867, he sold out to his son, Nelson G. Humphrey, and removed to the city, where he opened a grocery store. Two years later, this son became his partner, and the firm of Humphrey & Son was widely and favorably known, until 1881, when the senior member sold his interest to his third son, Julius Wolcott. In 1882, he went to California and Oregon to visit his brother, Dea. Homan M. Humphrey, and other relatives.

He is thoroughly respected in the community in which he lives. Those who know him in business relations testify to his honor and fair dealings. As a citizen he is both in principle and practice on the side of sobriety, order and morality, and public virtue with him is also private virtue. To this he adds as a neighbor and in his home the grace of a kindly and generous heart. P. O. address (1884) Leroy, Ill.

FAMILY 247.

3350. Hon. Loin Harmon⁷ Humphrey, [1640] (Hon. Loin,⁶ Dea. Theophilus,⁵ Lieut. Samuel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 13 July, 1799, in Canton, Ct. He married, 4 Nov., 1819, Sophia (dau. of Timothy* and Lydia Cowles) Chidsey, b. 15 Dec., 1798, in Northington (now Avon), Ct. She was a sister of Lydia Cowles Chidsey, the second wife of Lucius⁷ Humphrey, [Fam. 233, S.²]

Captain Loin H. Humphrey has lived eighty-six years in Canton, Ct., and, since his marriage in 1819, on the farm which he now occupies (1884). During this period of sixty-five years there has been no death in the house. In 1828, he joined the Congregational church in Canton Center, of which he has since been a consistent member. He has been a retiring man, distrustful of his own powers and never seeking office. Yet he has never shrunk from the discharge of such official duties as have been assigned him. In 1830, he was chosen Captain of Company 9, in the 17th Reg. Ct. Infantry, which position he held for three years, and then resigned. In 1835, he was appointed, by the Connecticut Legislature, a Justice of the Peace for his native town, and filled that office several years. He has also served as Selectman, and, in 1856, represented his town in the lower House of the State Legislature. He has thus done his part in sustaining the welfare of the community in which he has lived, and has given freely of his time, influence, and money in support of school, church, and the cause of benevolence in general. And during all these years he has retained the confidence and respect of his fellow-citizens as a Christian gentleman, as a kind and obliging neighbor, and as an upright, worthy man. P. O. address (1884) Canton Center, Ct.

3451. William⁷ Humphrey, [1737] (William,⁶ Ambrose,⁵ Abel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 6 Feb., 1815, in Austinburgh, Ashtabula Co., Ohio. He married (1) in Ashtabula, O., 26 Apr., 1838, Jennette (dau. of Robert and Mary Ferguson) Robertson,* born 7 Jan., 1818, in Genesee County, N. Y. Her parents were natives of Scotland. She died in Ashtabula, O., 27 Dec., 1856, æ. 39 years. He married (2) 6 Jan., 1858, Emily Lilly, of Conneaut, O. There were no children by this marriage. He married (3) in Ashtabula, O., 18 Jan., 1863, Jane Taft Wright, of Austinburgh, O., a native of Kingsville, O.

After his first marriage Mr. Humphrey bought one quarter of North Bass Island, near the head of Lake Erie; but, on account of sickness, soon returned from thence to Ashtabula, O., and settled at the Harbor, where he engaged in the various mercantile trade of the locality and in the lake forwarding business, till 1853, when he removed to Ashtabula Depot, on account of the advantages to be there derived from water and railroad facilities. He died of apoplexy, at Ashtabula, 22 Sept., 1879, æ. 64 years. He was a member of the Congregational church in that place. "He was well known as a man of sound judgment, who was successful in his business transactions, which were somewhat extensive; and was identified with the enterprises and interests of the town. Though eccentric in manner, he was always on the side of right and justice, and his honesty and integrity were never questioned. He had a kind and sympathetic heart, and those in need seldom failed to find in him a generous friend. His departure is a loss to the community."

In early life he was a saddler and harness-maker; but afterward became a lawyer, and was a member of the Ohio bar. He resided for several years in Claridon, O.; removed to Blissfield, Michigan, where he was living in 1884.

* Mr. Samuel G. Pancost resides (1884) in Painesville, O. He traces his ancestry back about two hundred years, to a Lord John Pancost in England.

Geo. Wilmet Humphrey

Col. Humphrey served in the war for the Union, enlisting in the 85th Reg. Ohio Vols.; was engaged in the defence of Frankfort and Lexington, Ky., and in the pursuit of the notorious guerilla, John Morgan, then in the neighborhood of Frankfort. While at the head of a scouting party he, unattended, approached the residence of the well-known rebel, Scott, who had just been entertaining a dozen of Morgan's men, and by personating a confederate and shouting "Friend Scott, the Yanks are upon us," decoyed him from the house. He came forward with his gun, saying, "We are all right; Morgan's men are not two miles away. They have just been here, and I will go with you at once to their camp." Col. Humphrey immediately responded, "You are my prisoner, lay down that gun," at the same time leveling his old Belgian rifle at him. Scott exclaimed "Don't shoot," and at once surrendered. At a signal from Col. Humphrey his men, who were lying on the ground some twenty rods away, came forward at a double-quick and marched Scott into the Union camp. From thence he was forwarded to Camp Chase, Ohio, as a prisoner of war.

3482. George Wilmot⁷ Humphrey, [1806] (Harry,⁶ Capt. Elijah,⁵ Capt. Ezekiel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 13 Apr., 1817, in Queensbury, N. Y. He was married, by Elder Douglass, at Delphi, N. Y., 10 Nov., 1847, to Sylvia Paulina (dau. of William and Obedience Stone*) Pease, Pompey, Onondaga Co., N. Y., who was born 11 Dec., 1825, at Pompey Hollow, N. Y.

George W. Humphrey, Mechanical Engineer, Inventor, etc., showed marked signs of mechanical genius, previous to his eighth year, in making water-wheels and various implements. On one occasion he received from his father a severe chastisement for stealthily obtaining his tools, with which he made boots for a favorite cat. While yet young he became quite an expert at clock and watch work. In the month of March, 1833, at the age of sixteen, in company with J. Monroe Taylor, he left the paternal abode to seek his fortune among strangers. He adopted the profession of school-teaching for a few years; but, in 1841, commenced selling goods for J. Monroe Taylor in Delphi, N. Y., where he continued three years, the last year having charge of the store and doing a large country trade; was a merchant in Phœnix, Oswego Co., N. Y., from the spring of 1849 to 1852. In 1854, '55 and '56, was contractor to enlarge four sections on the Oswego Canal, N. Y. After this he was for many years General Agent and Commercial Traveler for J. Monroe Taylor, for whom he has designed and superintended the building of five factories, at different times, for the manufacture of Gold Medal Saleratus, Bicarbonate of Soda, Cream Yeast Baking Powder, and other chemicals. He is the inventor of special, valuable processes in the manufacture of these goods, which render them so justly popular throughout this country. He has never used ardent spirits or tobacco in any form, and, with the co-operation of his good wife, has never found it necessary to house a camphor bottle during thirty-six years of married life.

Mr. Humphrey is deeply interested in astronomical subjects, also in the laws governing physical phenomena, and entertains some theories which are the result of his own observations and calculations.* Res. (1884) in Delphi, Onondaga Co., N. Y.

Mrs. Bush is a portrait and landscape painter; is giving instruction in her art at Wolcott, N. Y., (1884). They reside in Rose, Wayne Co., N. Y. Child:
3486. i. Humphrey Leverrier,⁹ b. 28 Nov. 1881, Rose Valley, N. Y.

* At the age of eighteen he invented a method of finding the time of night, very nearly, without the aid of an instrument, by taking the position of the Little Dipper, composed of seven stars in the constellation Ursa Minor. The pole-star named Polaris represents the center of the dial, and the farthest star in the Dipper the pointer. This pointer makes the circuit of this dial once in twenty-four hours, and also an additional circuit from east to west once in a year, caused by the earth's annual revolution around the sun. This pointer will be found at four quarterly periods during each year as follows: At the winter solstice, December 21st, vertically beneath the star Polaris about nine o'clock P. M.; at the spring equinox, March 21st, horizontally east of Polaris about nine o'clock P. M.; at the summer solstice, June 22d, vertically above Polaris about nine o'clock P. M.; at the autumnal equinox, September 21st, horizontally west of Polaris at nine o'clock P. M. For example: Suppose the position of the pointer on the night of July 29th was found to be above and 25 degrees west of Polaris, what time of night would it be? If 360 degrees = 24 hours, 25 degrees = 1 hour and 40 minutes † 9 hours = 10 o'clock and 40 minutes, which would be the time of night if the position of the pointer had been taken on the 22d of June instead of the 29th of July. We therefore deduct for the time elapsed since the last quarterly period, June 22d, two hours for each month and four minutes for each day, because of the earth's annual circuit around the sun, or, to be more exact, deduct for each day elapsed since the last quarterly period 3 and 69.73 minutes, thus: From June 22d to July 29th is 37 days x 3 and 69.73 = 146 minutes, or 2 hours and 26 minutes, which being subtracted from 10 o'clock and 40 minutes = 8 o'clock and 14 minutes, as the time of night July 29th. Mr. Humphrey has several times been called up in the night to test the accuracy of his method, and has never varied more than five to fifteen minutes from the true time.

He is a firm believer in an open polar sea, a mild climate in the interior of our earth, and in the theory of concentric spheres, and that all spheres are formed by the law of our great Architect from concentric rings thrown off from the central mass of matter (from which every solar system has been formed while in a molten, plastic and gaseous state, and rapidly revolving upon their axes, thereby exerting a centrifugal force sufficiently strong in opposition to the law of gravity to prevent condensation to the extent of leaving a hollow center, as in the case of Saturn and its rings. He also believes that the location of several magnetic poles from sixty-eight to eighty degrees north prove a vacancy of matter at what we call the pole; that the dipping of the pole-star towards the south from a vertical point overhead, while little more than eighty-three degrees north, indicates an eyelet-shaped opening into the interior of our planet, and that explorers in that region were actually rounding over towards the axis of the earth more rapidly than could have been the case if the earth was only flattened at the pole.

They continued to live in Canton till 1850, where Mr. Humphrey was Captain of a military company in early life. He afterward settled at Rockville, Kankakee Co., Ill.; filled several public offices, and in a high degree enjoyed the confidence and respect of a large acquaintance.

We add the following extract from a notice in a Wilmington paper:

"Isaac P. Humphrey, Esq., an old and respected resident of this city, departed this life on Monday morning, January 20th, 1879, peacefully and with a bright hope of eternal life. Had he lived until the coming March he would have been eighty-two years old. He was a man in whom the people had confidence. For ten years he held the office of Assessor, and for five years that of Supervisor."

Mrs. Humphrey resides (1884) in Wilmington, Ill.

3539. Captain Curtis Correll⁷ Humphrey, [1830] (Isaac,⁶ Capt. Fraerick,⁵ Capt. Ezekiel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 14 Mch., 1810, in West Durham, Greene Co., N. Y. He married there, 28 Nov., 1837, Caroline Adelia (dau. of Dr. William A. and Adeline Fellows) Benedict, b. 27 Sept., 1820, Otego, N. Y. He died in West Durham, N. Y., 12 Jan., 1859, æ. 48 years.

“Capt. Curtis C. Humphrey was a man of fine personal appearance, tall and well-proportioned—a superb specimen of the physical characteristics of the Humphrey family. His mental and moral characteristics were in harmony with his physical. Quick in perception, clear in understanding, sound in judgment, independent in thought, extremely sensitive of right, energetic, fearless and decisive in action, sympathetic and large-hearted, he possessed the strong character which fitted him to be a leader among men. Hence it was expected of him that he would be first and foremost in whatever was calculated to promote the interests of society, and he always was.

“Recognizing the advantages of the Catskill Mountain region for sheep husbandry, he engaged in it on an extensive scale, and had one of the largest and finest flocks of sheep in the State. He at one time owned about seven hundred acres of land; and in the cultivation of the soil made use of improved methods, and introduced labor-saving implements.

“In educational and religious interests he took an active part, and gave with a liberal hand for their support. Of an unassuming and retiring disposition, he never sought public office, but when office was imposed upon him, his sense of duty was too just to allow him to refuse its responsibilities. As Justice of the Peace, as Supervisor of his native town, and as Captain of a Militia company, he discharged his official trusts with such scrupulous fidelity as to meet with unqualified approval.

“When smitten down in the full strength of his manhood and the height of his usefulness, it was felt that a vacancy had been made—a loss sustained—that could not be filled. He is still often spoken of—and his ‘memory shall never perish.’

"His wife, only daughter of William Benedict, M. D., was eminently fitted to be the helpmeet of such a man, and is equally worthy of mention; for, if he was manly, she was womanly. Possessed of all those graces of mind and heart that adorn the female character, she knew her sphere, and how to fill it—knew her power, and how to wield it. She ruled without seeming to rule. The circle in which she moved was a charmed one, and she was the charm. Her home was a most attractive spot, not only to those who called it their own, but also to all that knew it through the hospitable welcome always awaiting the visitor. She survived her husband about twenty-five years, dying November 10th, 1884, leaving a host of friends, and not an enemy."*

3641. Sereno⁷ Humphreys, [1900] (Col. Decius,⁶ Col. George,⁵ Capt. Ezekiel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 15 Jan., 1810, in Canton, Ct. He married (1) in North Canton, Ct., 23 Jan., 1833, Electa (daughter of James and Sophia) Buttles, born 17 Dec., 1812. Mr. Humphreys settled in his native town, where he was engaged in agricultural pursuits, until, in May, 1842, he emigrated to Lodi (afterwards Gowanda), Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., where, 1 Aug., 1844, his wife died, æ. 31 years. He married (2) in Gowanda, N. His principal occupation, during his lifetime, was farming. He was a man of fine integrity, kind and indulgent in his relations with men; a good neighbor. Says one who knew him well: "His disposition was amiability itself. He was kind and good as man can be." He lived and died respected and beloved by all who knew him. His remains were followed to the grave by the largest concourse of citizens that the town in which he had lived had ever witnessed. In person, Mr. Humphreys was tall and slender, with dark hair and deep blue eyes, and fair complexion. Mrs. Mary (Rich) Humphreys died at Muscatine, Iowa, 11 Jan., 1883.

3658. Solon⁷ Humphreys, [1914] (Col. Decius,⁶ Col. George,⁵ Capt. Ezekiel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² *Michael*¹) was born 27 Oct., 1821, in Canton, Ct. He married in St. Louis, Mo., 16 Nov., 1847, Mary Ellen (dau. of Edward* and Mary Tucker) Walsh, of St. Louis, Mo., born 3 Aug., 1824.

Solon Humphreys attended the district and high school in Canton, and was instructed also in part by his brother David, who was a graduate of Union College. Afterwards he attended Wright's Academy, East Hartford, two years, and was in St. John's College, Annapolis, Maryland,

* Edward Walsh, of St. Louis, died 22 March, 1868, aged 68. He came from Tipperary County, Ireland, in 1818, resided in St. Genevieve County, Mo., four or five years, then commenced business in 1825, in St. Louis, with his brother John, under the firm name of J. & E. Walsh, which for upward of forty years was one of the most prominent and respected firms in that city. No man ever lived in St. Louis who was more universally esteemed, or who possessed more influence in the community. He was a man of great firmness of character and whose integrity was never questioned; a man of great kindness of heart, charitable in the largest degree. He was the friend and counsellor of Col. Thomas H. Benton; was a democrat, and of large influence in the political affairs of Missouri. It was said of him: "Mr. Walsh's business capacities are second to none in St. Louis; he has a judgment that never errs in its calculations, and an industry that is untiring in its pursuit of business." Edward's History of the Great West, 1860.

Mary Tucker, born 7 Dec., 1804, wife of Edward Walsh, was the grand-daughter of Joseph and Ellen Simms Tucker, whose parents moved from Maryland to Kentucky in 1785; they were married in Kentucky in 1800; they moved to Perry County, Miss., to a place called Tucker Settlement; had seven children, Charles, Peter, Elizabeth, Mary, Appolinarius, Joseph and Matilda. Both of her grand-fathers were in the War of the Revolution, and in 1812 her grand-father, Joseph Tucker, was Captain of a Cavalry Company. Edward Walsh and Mary Tucker were married in Perryville, in 1822, by Bishop Rosetta, who was then the Roman Catholic Priest of that District, and who was subsequently made Bishop, and afterwards a Cardinal in Rome.

Mrs. Walsh died 10 Sept., 1826, leaving only Mary Ellen surviving. Mr. Walsh was again married in St. Louis, Feb. 11, 1840, to Isabella De Mun, daughter of Julius De Mun. She died in 1879, leaving five surviving children, Julius Sylvester, John Amedie, Marie, Edward and Daniel.

one year, under his uncle, Rev. Dr. Hector Humphreys. In 1838 he was clerk in the house of William G. Harrison, in Baltimore; from 1839 to 1844 he was clerk in the house of the late Gov. E. D. Morgan, of New York; he then removed to St. Louis to enter into the wholesale grocery and commission business with George W. Thatcher, constituting the firm of Humphreys & Thatcher, in which business he achieved a wide reputation as an enterprising and honorable merchant. He continued to reside at St. Louis till December, 1853, then returned to New York and joined the firm of E. D. Morgan & Co., Jan. 1, 1854, which firm has continued up to this date, 1885. This house was founded in 1837, and has been one of the leading firms in New York since that period. It has been, for the most of the time, largely engaged in the sugar, coffee and tea trade, having had relations in its business with all parts of the world where these articles are produced. They have also at times been largely engaged in financial negotiations. He has resided at Bergen Point, New Jersey, his present home, since 1856.

Mr. Humphreys was one of the original promoters of the Ohio and Mississippi R. R. in Illinois, in 1851, and also of the Iron Mountain R. R. in Missouri, in 1852. After his removal to New York, his firm was the agent for the sale of the bonds of the State of Missouri, issued to its roads, and was in other ways interested in the roads of that State. In 1871 he was one of the active parties in the reorganization of the North Missouri Road into the St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern Railway Co. But perhaps the most noteworthy labor of Mr. Solon Humphreys' very busy and active life, has been his connection with the Wabash System of railways. In 1866 he, in conjunction with Azariah Boody and others, organized the Toledo, Wabash and Western Railroad, extending from Lake Erie to the Mississippi river, by the consolidation of six original companies, in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, comprising some 600 miles, and being one of the first consolidations of railroads in different States in this country. Subsequently, after having been disconnected with the company for several years, he was one of the most active members of the parties to the foreclosure and reorganization of this property, in 1877, into the Wabash Railway Company; and two years later its consolidation with the St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern Railway Co., extending west of the Mississippi river to Kansas City and Omaha, into the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific Railway Co., now known as the Wabash System, comprising some 3,500 miles of railway, in seven of the United States, and with which he has been connected since that time, as President in 1880-2, subsequently as Chairman of its Executive Committee, and since May, 1884, as one of its Receivers in the U. S. Court. He was one of the original promoters of the "great bridge" over the Missouri River at St. Louis, which was constructed at a cost of over twelve million dollars, and was Receiver of the Bridge Company in 1877-9. He was President of the reorganized company of 1879-81. He was one of the principle promoters of the "Pittsburgh and Western Railroad" in 1881, and was its Vice-president in 1882-4. He was Vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, in New York, in 1873, and has been its Treasurer from 1878 to the present time.

Mr. Humphreys was largely instrumental in the organization of Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church, Bergen Point, N. J., in 1859, and has been Warden since its organization. Its church edifice at Bergen Point, its grounds and rectory, are amongst the most beautiful in the State of New Jersey. In private life, in all its diversified, religious, social and business relations, Mr. Humphreys occupies a most conspicuous position, and is only spoken of in terms of the most exalted estimation and regard, illustrating, as his father and grand-father and remote ancestors before him, the best traits of the family character.

Mr. Humphreys is a member of the firm of E. D. Morgan & Co., No. 54 Exchange Place, New York City. Res. (1885) Bergen Point, N. J.

3660. George D.⁷ Humphreys, [1916] (Col. Decius,⁶ Col. George,⁵ Capt. Ezekiel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) was born 3 Dec., 1827, in North Canton, Ct. He was married by the Rev. Dr. Anderson, at St. Louis, Mo., 13 Oct., 1857, to Sarah Frances (dau. of William and Letitia Hegaman) Young, b. 23 July, 1839, New York City, where her parents resided before their removal to St. Louis, Mo., where they were living in 1884. Mr. Humphreys was much interested in the genealogy of his family, and made a collection of records. [See Fam. 112 (1913), S.²] He was a commission merchant in St. Louis, Mo., where he succeeded his brother, Solon Humphreys, in the wholesale grocery business. He afterwards became President of the Mississippi Glass Co., in which office he continued until his death, Aug. 20, 1875, æ. 47 years.

Mr. Humphreys was a man of great natural ingenuity, and when a boy, together with his brother, and with no tools but pocket-knives and a hatchet, they constructed a bass viol and a violin, which are still preserved in the family as curiosities. During his lifetime he evinced a great love of music and remarkable power as a musician. He had a very kind and gentle disposition, being always thoughtful of those in his employ, as well as of those in need; and he was justly beloved by all who knew him. In business life his integrity and courtesy were marked features of his character. His widow and children reside (1885) at No. 3412 Lucas Avenue, St. Louis.

3759. Charles⁷ Humphrey, [2102] (Loyal,⁶ Malachi,⁵ Ashbel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael,¹) probably born in Tolland, Mass., 16 Nov., 1813; married (1) 1834, Elizabeth Ann Cooper, of Winchester, Ct., who died 1838; (2) 1840, Tryphena Ruple, of Euclid, O.; (3) 1 Jan., 1847, Jane Clark, of Dover, O.; (4) Fannie Gibbs, of Blandford, Mass.

When first married he was a peddler of brass clocks in the Western States; after that he was a peddler of silverware and jewelry. Then he engaged in the manufacture of Boston rocking-chairs, in Euclid, O., and later was proprietor of a hotel in Rockport, O., also of one in Cleveland, O. From the latter place he went to Tolland, Mass., and was a farmer about two years; then moved to New Boston, Mass., and worked in a saw mill. He afterwards resided in Norfolk, Ct., and thence removed to Winsted, Ct., where he was for two years proprietor of a hotel.

* Mr. Lewis Humphrey seems to have married twice, if not thrice, but we have been unable to obtain the necessary information on this point.

After this he settled in Colebrook River, Ct., and worked in a turning shop. One day a stick flew from the lathe at which he was busied, and struck him with such force that it killed him. This was on 23 Dec., 1882.

Dr. Humphrey's early career was that usual to farmers' sons of the region and time—such schooling during the winter as the country afforded, and "working hard during the summer months on the rough and stony farm, laying stone-wall many times till my fingers have bled." At the age of eighteen he left the farm and began his literary and classical preparations for the study of medicine and surgery, and in June, 1844, graduated with the degree of M. D., at Castleton, Vt.; since which he has continued in the constant and enthusiastic practice of his profession. He early entered the medical service of the Union Army during the Rebellion, first commissioned as Asst. Surgeon 52d Ill. V. I., in April, 1862. In May, 1863, he was commissioned Surgeon 55th U. S. Vols. After active service in the field the first year, he was in charge of general hospitals till the close of the war. He res. (1883) at Moberly, Mo., in general practice, with a preference for surgery, and is Surgeon of the Chicago and Alton and Wabash R. R.; U. S. Pension Surgeon, and Examining Surgeon for several Life and Accident Insurance Companies, and member of City, County and State Medical Societies, and of the American Medical Association. Has been President of the County Medical Society, and served on several State Society committees. He is a contributor to the current periodical medical literature of the day. Dr. Humphrey married (2) 12 Mch., 1884, Mary Barker, of Osceola, Pa., born there 30 June, 1845; is a graduate of the seminary at Kingston, Pa.

William Thomas⁷ Humphrey lived at home and attended district school and worked on the farm until 18 Apr., 1842, when, seventeen years of age, he left home and worked by the month on a farm in Steuben County, N. Y., for seven dollars per month. The following autumn he taught a winter school in the same county, and attended the Franklin Academy at Prattsburg, in said county, two terms, during the following spring and summer. He taught again the next winter, in the same district, when he returned home to Bainbridge, and entered the office of Dr. B. S. Sill, of B., as a medical student. He continued his studies and taught school two winters, when, in April, 1848, he finished his medical course in the Albany Medical College. In May following he married and located in Addison, N. Y., where he practiced his profession until January, 1849, when he removed to Elkland, Pa. (one and one-half miles from Osceola), where he remained until 1857, when he finally settled in the town where he now lives.

In April, 1861, he was mustered in the "Buck Tail" Regt. as Assistant Surgeon; promoted 12 Sept., 1862, to Surgeon of the 149th Regt., Pa. Vols. In the spring of 1863 he was appointed Surgeon-in-Chief of the Brigade, and two months after was assigned to the Third Division of the First Army Corps, as Surgeon-in-Chief of said Division; was mustered out in Jan., 1865, after serving with distinction for nearly four years.

In the fall of 1865 he was elected to the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, and again in 1866; also again in 1874 and 1875. Since then he has continued in the practice of his profession, and in looking after his farming interests. Res. (1884) Osceola, Tioga Co., Pa.

4079. Major Frederick Clinton⁷ Humphreys, [2591] (Col. Gad,⁶ Hon. Reuben,⁵ Esq. Oliver,⁴ Jonathan,³ Lieut. Samuel,² *Michael*¹) was born 6 Oct., 1822, in Pittsfield, Mass. He married in St. Augustine, Fla., 8 June, 1847, Sarah Gates (dau. of John and Lois) Drysdale, of St. Augustine, Fla., born there, 13 Feb., 1830. They have had nine children—six were surviving and residing, in 1867, with their parents in Pensacola, Fla.

Maj. Humphreys was in the U. S. Army at the breaking out of the Rebellion, as Military Store-keeper of Ordnance, having been appointed 30 Jan., 1855; was in command of the U. S. Arsenal, at Charleston, S. C., and surrendered the same to the S. C. troops, 30 Dec., 1860. He did so, however, under protest, having but nine enlisted men for the defence, against some eight hundred armed men. He demanded the right to salute his flag before lowering it, and the privilege of taking it with him, which was allowed; all of which is on record in the Ordnance Office at Washington. He resigned after the fall of Fort Sumter, and accepted the same position under the Confederate Government. He was in command of the Augusta, Ga., Arsenal about six months; was thence ordered to the command of Baton Rouge Arsenal. Was there at the fall of New Orleans; got away with machinery and stores, and established the Arsenal and Ordnance Works at Columbus, Ga., where he remained to the close of the war, then holding the rank of Major of Artillery, C. S. A. Since the war he has been Mayor of Pensacola, by popular vote, and Postmaster and Collector, by appointment. P. O. address (1884) Pensacola, Fla.

4093. Dr. George Hoppin⁷ Humphreys, [2601] (May,⁶ Hon. Reuben,⁵ Esq. Oliver,⁴ Jonathan,³ Lieut. Samuel,² *Michael*¹) was born 18 Dec., 1834. He married 16 Dec., 1868, Emilie Julie (dau. of Major-Gen. James* and ———) Barnes, of Springfield, Mass.

At an early age he went with the family to Europe, at first to England and afterwards to Germany, and various points of interest on the Continent, where he received his preliminary education, returning in his seventeenth year to Philadelphia. He was there for several years, engaged in the study of his profession, as private pupil of the celebrated Dr. Mutter, of the Jefferson Medical College. He spent also much of his time abroad in Paris and Germany, prosecuting his studies; and having a competence, devoted himself to such branches of inquiry as suited his tastes.

When the war for the Union broke out, in 1861, he became the surgeon of the celebrated regiment of Hawkins' Zouaves, and with them early went to the front; and it is recorded of him that in a very few weeks he so signalized his fitness for his position as to have become the best known and most trusted officer of the regiment. His fertility of resources and prompt yet engaging manners and readiness of access, made him the confident of all, and won for him universal praise and admiration.

Dr. Humphreys, however, is best known both in England and in this country as the translator of Niemeyer, and the profession in both hemispheres are loud in their acknowledgments to him for having presented this new standard medical authority in an English dress, and for having enriched it with his extensive annotations and additions. The force, clearness and style with which the author's oftentimes obscure sentences has been rendered, is worthy of note, and has received high praise from professional critics. He is now engaged in private practice in New York City, and is also one of the staff of consulting physicians of the Bellvue Medical Hospital, and holds other positions of professional preferment. FAMILY 387.

4132. Hon. George⁷ Humphreys, [2642] (Dr. Erastus,⁶ Capt. Asher,⁵ Esq. Oliver,⁴ Jonathan,³ Lieut. Samuel,² *Michael*¹) was born 15 Mch., 1814, in Marcellus, Onondaga Co., N. Y. He removed with the family to Auburn, N. Y., in October, 1823, received his education at the Auburn Academy, under the tuition of Noble D. Strong and Rev. John C. Rudd, D. D.; entered Amherst College under the presidency of Rev. Heman Humphrey, D. D., in 1833, '34 and '35. His health failing, he returned home, and subsequently entered the office of Governor and afterwards Senator and Secretary William H. Seward. He remained with Governor Seward through all the labors and somewhat exciting scenes of the Governor's Agency of the Holland Land Company at Mayville and Westfield, Chautauqua Co., and until his admission to the bar 13 July, 1838. He was married by the Rev. Mr. Putnam, in Sheldon, Genesee (now Wyoming) Co., N. Y., 28 May, 1840 [see Fam. 90, S¹.], to Lucia Williams, youngest dau. of Godfrey and Deborah (Lobdel) Grosvenor. She was born at Minot, Cumberland Co., Me., 28 June, 1821; died at Buffalo, N. Y., 7 Mch., 1877, æ. 55 years.

He settled as a lawyer in Cato, Cayuga Co., in 1840. He was elected first Judge of Cayuga County in 1851, and reelected in 1855 and in 1859, making his twelve years of uninterrupted service on the bench. He removed to Auburn in 1852, and was Mayor of the city there three successive terms, in 1861, '62 and '63.

When he settled in his profession as a lawyer, in Cato, Cayuga Co., he was the only lawyer on the north side of the Seneca River in the County, and the people were emerging from the rudeness of their woods and stumps to the more cultivated form and style of advanced and refined rural life. Judge Humphreys entered into all the labors, sports and improvements of their life with a keenness and relish born of ancestral traits. He was the friend of everybody, the genial, kind-hearted, patient advisor and counsellor of all, and when nominated as first Judge of the County, he was elected by a larger majority than any other man, before or since, ever received in the County. On the bench he was patient, reserved, dignified and painstaking to a fault; the friend of the oppressed, and yet severe enough to persistent evil-doers, whether of high or low degree. His decisions were rarely called in question. One very remarkable case came before him, which will bear repetition. A convict in the Auburn State Prison, Francis S. Edemoine, alias John M. Coss, who had been convicted of forgery and allowed many privileges, obtained from Gov. Horatio Seymour, a pardon through fraud. He was a fine penman, and was put to keeping the account of one of the contractors, and when any of the officers of the prison or contractors wished their cards written, they gave him their signatures, and he would write them in fine style. In this way he obtained the signature of the keeper, Mr. Pomeroy, the warden, the doctor, Alanson Briggs, the contractor, the chaplain, and indeed all of the officials connected with the prison. Armed with these, he drew up a petition in well worded terms, stating that he was a most exemplary man, deeply penitent and reformed, and moreover in poor health, suffering from consumption and likely to live but a little time, and that it would be an act of well-merited executive clemency to grant him a pardon. Added to this was a special letter from Dr. Briggs, the physician, and another from the chaplain, setting forth the state of his health as above (all a lie), and his very comforting spiritual condition. These petitions he contrived to smuggle out of the prison, and into the hands of a confederate, by whom they were duly presented to the Governor at Albany. Such overwhelming and unanimous petitions in favor of a poor penitent, dying convict, could not for a day be delayed, and his pardon was promptly issued. The keeper received the pardon in due course of mail, with much surprise, and was still more surprised that the convict affected none at all, and blandly informed him that he expected the pardon, as he had power and influence at work for him outside, and taking it as a matter of course, was duly clothed and discharged with his pardon in his pocket.

Some days after, the keeper, Charles Pomeroy, called on the Governor in Albany, and in the course of conversation casually asked what had induced the Governor to pardon Edemoine. "Why," replied the Governor, "I remember he had one of the most touching, strong and unanimously signed petitions I ever received, and I think your name headed it. You mean the man in the hospital, who is dying of consumption?" "Nonsense," said Pomeroy, "he is no consumptive, but the fattest, burliest knave in the whole prison." "Well," said the Governor, "I will look it up, and I think your name headed the petition." The next day Governor Seymour handed to Pomeroy the petition, and with serene triumph said: "It is as I told you, your name stands at the head of the list." Pomeroy looked over the petition in amazement. "That," he said, "is my signature as well or better than I could have written it, but I'll swear I never wrote it, and I'll be — if the whole thing is not a forgery from beginning to end, and now that I think it over I know the secret of Edemoine's getting the signatures."

It was ascertained that the forger was in Albany having a good time with his pardon in his pocket. Two detectives were put upon his track, who hired a woman, with whom the culprit was living, to persuade him to leave his pardon in her bureau drawer, whence it was conveyed to the officers, who laid in wait, and when he appeared arrested and ironed him. "By what authority do you arrest me," said Edemoine. "We arrest you as an escaped convict," they replied. "I am not a convict," he said, "I was pardoned by the Governor." "Where is your pardon?" "You may know better than I do, but I am no convict," were his words. They put him on the train and took him back to the prison. When there he demanded to see a lawyer, in answer to which they put on his convict clothes and set him again to work. James R. Cox, Esq., of Auburn, hearing of the case, took out a writ of habeas corpus and, associated with Clarence A. Seward, defended the man, and the case was brought before Judge Humphreys for adjudication.*

* In the course of the trial it became known that several of the Governors had been imposed upon and had issued pardons to convicts by mistake or fraud. An instance occurring under Gov. Seward's administration is worth repeating. In one of the counties on the Mohawk, a couple of emigrants, Swedish or Dutch, had moved in—simple, ignorant people—and a gang of burglars in their neighborhood had broken open a store and robbed it, among other things, of a bolt of cloth. This cloth they brought to the house of these people, by whom it was secreted and kept from its owners. In due time they were detected, tried and sent to prison for receiving stolen goods. No great time had elapsed after their incarceration before the prison authorities learned that they might soon expect an addition to their number quite out of the regular way of the Courts. In this dilemma they appealed to the Governor, as they had no facilities for a lying-in asylum. The Governor at once saw the necessity of providing for the woman, and directed the clerk to make out a pardon. The clerk, either failing to comprehend the situation, or through inability to distinguish the sex of the foreign names, filled in the name of the husband instead of that of the wife, and the pardon was duly signed by the Governor and forwarded to the prison. The keeper thought it a little singular, but concluded that the Governor had thought best to let the husband go free first in order to provide a place for his wife, and would soon follow with a pardon for her, and so sent the man off. They waited a few days for the Governor's pardon for the woman, but none came until the crisis grew imminent, when they wrote to the Governor for the meaning of the delay and their urgent demand for relief when the denouement occurred. Of course the Governor at once issued the pardon for the woman, which he had intended to have done at the first. But he did not publish his mistake by seeking again to incarcerate the man whom he had set free in error.

He was, says Cox, one of the most adroit scoundrels ever heard of, futile of expedients, and without moral sense, and so always in trouble. The case is reported in one of the earlier volumes of Howard's Practice Reports, about 1855. Seward kept the run of him for quite a time, and the last report was a letter from Edemoin dated at Moyamensing prison, Philadelphia, Pa.

The case excited much interest, not only in legal circles, but among the people generally. The keeper of the prison, the Governor, and the State Attorney-General felt themselves compromised, and the latter appeared at the trial on behalf of the State. All the facts as heretofore shown were clearly elicited, and the Attorney-General maintained that the previous fraud had vitiated the pardon, and that the culprit had of right been returned to prison as an escaped convict, etc.

The Judge took several days to consider the subject, and decided that the issue of a pardon by the Executive was such a judicial act as did not admit of traverse. That whether well or ill-advised, the issue of a pardon was an act of Executive clemency, and was such an exercise of the supreme power as did not admit of review or traverse, and however underserved in its affect, and however reluctant he might feel in its issue or consequences, he had no power to annul it, and he felt himself obliged to confirm it by discharging the prisoner. The culprit, however, did not get off, but was immediately taken on a writ by a sheriff of another county to answer for a crime therein committed, and after trial and conviction was again sent back to his old quarters at Auburn prison. The Judge's decision was never disturbed, though threatened by the Attorney-General.

In 1870 the interest of a large landed estate in Buffalo left to Mrs. Humphreys and her two brothers by the Grosvenor estate, required his removal to Buffalo, and required his entire attention to the close of his life, and doubtless in its many vexatious delays and embarrassments hastened his decline. In 1885 he moved to Cambridge, Mass., to be near his son Llewellyn, at Harvard, and to be with his daughter, Mrs. Kendall, at which place he died.

Judge Humphreys has been all his life a whig and republican, but at the close of the war for the Union the cause of the administration did not meet his approval. He believed that the north and south should at once strike hands and seek to obliterate the moral and material wounds of the war. That our taxes should at once be reduced, the war debt funded, and that twenty years should be given to our recuperation, north and south, before the people should be called upon by taxation to pay the war debt. That the southern States should be rehabilitated in the Union and our federal expenses reduced to the minimum; and in consonance with these views he was a delegate and attended the noted "love feast" or Union Convention held at Philadelphia after the close of the war. These views did not meet those of the party, and he was induced to offer his name as the candidate of the Democratic party as Congressional Representative of his district. The Judge made no special effort and was defeated, though polling the largest democratic vote ever received by any candidate of that party in his county.

Judge Humphreys was a most estimable man. In all the relations of life he might almost be said to have been a model man. Modest and reserved, high-minded, considerate of the rights, the wants and needs of others, kind-hearted and benevolent to a fault, he had no enemies, but all who knew him were his friends, and he was never so happy as when engaged in some unselfish work for the public, the poor, the distressed, or some friend. There was not a coarse fibre in his nature, nor a coarse act or word in his life. His later days were overshadowed by pecuniary cares and embarrassments brought about by the recklessness of others, and perhaps by his business mistakes, so that his and his wife's last days were by no means their best days; but no one ever called in question his integrity, his virtue or sterling worth of character.

He removed with his father's family to Auburn, N. Y., in 1823. His youth was spent in his father's office, and at the district and in private schools, and at the Auburn Academy, under the tuition of Josiah Underhill, a Quaker teacher, who probably did more to mould his character than any other agency. From the age of fourteen to sixteen he was clerking in a store, and then went south with his brother Julius and uncle Truman, in the clock business, his father having an idea that every boy should early push out and make his way in the world. Returning after a three years' experience, he managed a farm which his father had purchased. He again went south, and after a year returned to find his father-in-law's affairs in confusion, and to save the

Alvah Jefferson [8] (Capt. Enoch, Aaron) was born at Alford, Berkshire Co., Mass. He married 4 Sept., 1816, Maria Polly (dau. of Capt. Isaac Tuttle, of Alford, b. 6 Mch., 1799; died at Ludlowville, N. Y., 17 May, 1876, æ. 83 years. He died 6 Mch., 1884.

After living some six years at Alford, they removed to the town of Brutus, near Auburn, Cayuga Co., N. Y., from whence, after four years' residence, they removed to the homestead on the hill north of Ludlowville, Tompkins Co., N. Y., where they purchased the farm until then owned and occupied by Jonah Tooker, Esq., at which place they lived in family state for a period of fifty years, and where three of their six children were born to them.

Bringing with them, from Massachusetts, a fair start in life, and those sterling, puritanic habits of economy and integrity, and a hearty faith in the covenant of works, they were prospered. Wealth and abundance flowed in upon them, but only to increase their persistent energy and patient industry. Their house became the resting place and temporary home of nearly two generations of Methodist and other Clergymen, who always found a generous welcome, a bounteous table, and a hearty furtherance in every earnest evangelical or religious work. Mother Sperry's life was an exemplification of her faith. From early dawn until long after all other lights in the neighborhood were out, and all households asleep, she was cheerful and busy in her round of household duties. Never unemployed, never triflingly employed, was her practice if not her life-long motto.

In her early days she was a remarkably fine singer, possessing not only a good but well-trained voice, and all through life, up to a late period, an exceptionally good one. Sacred music, usually led by the father, and united in by every member of the family, was the refrain of daily life, as it was the joy of every recreation. At the Church, Prayer and Social Meetings, for more than sixty years Father Sperry was the chorister or leader, and Mother Sperry his always able and efficient assistant.

In the days of anti-slavery, when the slave and his cause had few friends, and when it cost something to be known as such, the "House on the Hill" and the "Home of the Sperrys'" were known far and wide as the abode of staunch friends and firm supporters of that maligned cause, and none were more outspoken in their denunciation of the evil, or more earnest and liberal in efforts for its suppression than Mrs. Sperry.

Every branch of Church work felt the influence of her contributions and zeal. Her hand was ever ready, her purse was ever open, and whoever else might fail or falter, she could always be counted upon as a liberal contributor and an earnest helper.

As a mother and manager of her household she had few equals, and she brought to her aid a well-stored mind and rare practical good sense. Although not given to warm or frequent manifestations of affection, yet her children were her idols, and for them no toil was too long, no sacrifice too great. Her economy and neatness were remarkable. Nothing was wasted—nothing mislaid or lost; and often, long years after an article or garment had been used and forgotten by others, if wanted, it was produced from some secure resting place as fresh and as useful as ever.

Her memory of names, dates and circumstances was wonderful. As from intuition and without effort, the names, dates, births, marriages and deaths of her relations, ancestors, connections, friends, or even casual acquaintances, could be given on the instant and in the course of ordinary conversation—a gift which she had inherited from her mother, and which has descended to some of her daughters and grand-daughters.

She had always and almost stoical contempt for physical pain or suffering, and all through life, and even during the terribly severe agony of her last illness, from one of the most painful diseases known, she was never heard to murmur or complain.

That she was not perfect is but to acknowledge the frailty and imperfection of our common humanity. But that she manifested, through a long and useful life, those qualities of mind and heart which make life a success and religion a service, is the conviction of all who knew her, and the cherished memory of those to whom she was most near and dear.

wreck of his property went with him to Chillicothe, Ohio, where he remained some three years engaged in teaching, and where he entered the ministry of the M. E. Church. His wife dying at Chillicothe, he returned to Auburn in 1841, bringing his infant son with him. His first itinerant year in the ministry was at Worthington, Ohio, his second at Cayuga, N. Y., his third at Cortlandville, N. Y., his fourth at Cayuga, N. Y., and his fifth at New Hartford, N. Y. He was ordained as Deacon at Wilksburg in 1843, and as Elder at Utica, N. Y., in 1845; located as a minister in 1846. He is credited with having been a ready speaker of engaging manner and address, always popular with the people, and the work of the church always prospering in his hands. Yet the trammels of the itinerancy were irksome, the pay was meagre and the outlook forbidding. His entire five years' work in the ministry did not return him, in all, $500 in money, and his living was eked out by his medical practice among the people. Such practice was constantly exciting the comments and evil criticism of his ministerial brethren. His itinerant experience in practice and preaching was often singular, and many interesting details could be given did space permit.

In 1844 he removed to Utica, N. Y., and united with his father, Dr. Erastus Humphreys, in the practice of medicine. At Utica he devoted himself afresh to the study of medicine, under the direction of his father. Since 1840 he had been pushing his investigations in the then new system of Homeopathy; to this end, first learning the French and then the German language. At that period there was almost literally nothing in the English language on the subject. His knowledge of the subject in those languages gave him great advantages, and his practice of nine years at Utica made him literally master of the situation, having at its close the most extensive and lucrative practice in the city. The winters of 1848, '49 and '50 were passed in Philadelphia, at the Pennsylvania Homeopathic Medical College, and in very intimate relations with the renowned Dr. Constantine Hering, from whom he received that personal instruction, encouragement and direction which were in many ways of inestimable value to him. He received his degree of Doctor of Medicine, and as Doctor of Homeopathic Medicine in 1850, from the college above mentioned.

At Utica his labors were characteristic, besides a large practice, he was constantly engaged in literary and medical writing. He issued, in connection with his father, a series of "Tracts for the Times," elucidating the new doctrine of homeopathy. He wrote while there his "Cholera and its Homeopathic Treatment," and a monograph on Dysentery, and other small works. But perhaps his most important labor was the "Proving of the Apis Mellifica, or poison of the Honey Bee." This work occupied his spare time and attention from 1848 to 1852. There was nothing before known of the Therapeutic value of this poison. He procured the living bees through his office-assistant, George Washburn, extracted the poison by putting them in a wide mouth bottle, shaking them until enraged, and then pouring alcohol over them, and so forming the mother tincture of the virus, and with this preparation, both in its original form and in dilutions, instituted a series of experiments upon himself, his wife, students and partners in his office, and upon friends, for two years, and then, at a meeting of the Central New York Homeopathic Medical Society, gave an address upon the subject and the importance and mode of medical provings. He distributed the medicine to the physicians present, and subsequently gathered from them and from all sources, both the symptoms elicited and the cures made, and finally published the monograph in 1852, under the title of "Proving of the Apis Mellifica, or poison of the Honey Bee." Dr. Hering afterwards enlarged the work by adding the recorded results of "Bee Stings," and published the whole as a most important addition to the "Americanische Arzneipruefungen."

Dr. Humphreys' original proving, giving the profession one of its most valuable remedies for dropsics, diphtheria, angina, malignant scarlet fever, and varied forms of kidney diseases, ophthalmias, cerebral and pulmonary congestions, is perhaps the most important contribution made to the Homeopathic Materia Medica in America in the Homeopathic school, and is entirely due to the genius and labor of our subject. He also brought to the attention of the profession his preparation of "nux cum sale," as a valuable remedy in intermittents. He three years later proved, with the aid of his class, at the Homeopathic Medical College at Philadelphia, the Plantago Major, thus adding another proved remedy to the Materia Medica. He assisted in forming and was prominent in the Central New York Homeopathic Medical Society; and in transforming the same into the present New York State Homeopathic Medical Society. Later he was Chairman of the "Bureau for the Augmentation and Improvement of the Materia Medica," of the American Institute of Homeopathy, the highest compliment which could be paid him by his school of medicine.

In 1853, under advice of professional friends, he removed to New York, but had hardly settled there when he received a spontaneous call to the chair of "Homeopathic Institutes and Practice of Medicine" in his old college. This he accepted, making a brilliant record as a lecturer for three years, when he resigned, from complications growing out of his new discovery and practice of homeopathic combinations, termed by him Homeopathic Specifics. This step produced a rupture between him and the college, and his professional friends and associates. The question presented to Dr. Humphreys was, whether, he would smother the light which he believed he had received on this subject, or whether he should buffet the waves and strike out in a course which he thought he could see as full of benefit to the profession and the race. Painful as was the alternative, he chose the latter, and with true family grit gave to the winds his fears and launched out, trusting only that the light he had received would pilot him through, and that however bitter or long the struggle, he was in the pathway of duty. The result was for a long time doubtful, many of his professional friends and school of practice deserted him or could not understand him. He met with intrigue, rascality and fraud in his business associates, and not an over-sympathizing press, trade and public. But twenty-five years of persistent effort have changed all that. His old professional associates now see that he has done more for their cause than he could possibly have done as a simple teacher or practitioner. The business frauds that for so many years embittered his life and embarrassed his work have one by one gone down to the sleep that knows no waking, and our subject at the ripe age of seventy finds himself "at ease in his possessions" and successful in the work of his life, with the consciousness of having "stood in his lot," worked faithfully in the place appointed him, and of having in no small degree contributed to the welfare and happiness of our common humanity.

His writings in connection with his business and profession have been extensive. His little Manual has had a circulation of several million copies in the English, German, French, Spanish and Portuguese languages, and is yet being issued at the rate of a million a year. His Mentor is issued in the above languages and has a large circulation, as also his Veterinary Manual, and charts. The trade also finds in him an active, willing and efficient worker in all that pertains to its extension, welfare and defense, and reports and communications on trade problems and legislation are frequent and well received.

In the Church he has always been active. He organized the M. E. Church in West Utica, buying the edifice, making the first payment and securing the pastor. He was most efficient in building Trinity Church, at Asbury Park, and has rendered efficient service in placing the Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York City, upon its present satisfactory basis, and of which he has been warden for seven years.

He has always been active in literary work, contributing to various periodicals and papers. His "Humphreys' Family" was commenced some sixteen years ago, and though the mass of the details has been done by friends and paid assistants, the care, supervision and expense of the whole has devolved upon him. His poetic temperament, from a child, has found relief in occasional production of verses upon all subjects, from gay to grave. But he is far too modest to seek renown in that field, or even to favor more than semi-occasionally the public with them.

He has been for some years a constant contributor to Our Animal Friends, Mr. Henry Berg's paper, where his contributions in behalf of considerate kindness towards all animal nature are always welcome. His domestic, social and church relations have always been most happy. Res. (1885) 22 W. 39th Street, New York City; office 109 Fulton Street, New York.

Children (by 1st marriage):

4151. I. GEORGE,⁸ b. 14 Oct., 1839, at Chillicothe, Ohio; died at the residence of his father, in New York City, 3 Dec., 1868, æ. 29 years. He received his education at the Auburn Academy, and at Cazenovia Seminary; was in business for his father in New York. When the war broke out, he enlisted in the 19th N. Y. L. Infantry, which was changed to the 3d N. Y. Heavy Artillery. He was with Banks in the Shenandoah Valley, and in the battles of Newburn, N. C., until his discharge. After a service of two years as commissary and as hospital sergeant, without bounty, he returned broken in health, and finally, after a succession of pulmonary hemorrhages, and fighting the disease for five years, he died, 3 Dec., 1868.

 4172. VI. HERBERT PEARL,⁸ b. 25 July, 1879.

4173. Henry Perry⁷ Humphreys, [2693] (Hiram,⁶ Capt. Asher,⁵ Esq. Oliver,⁴ Jonathan,³ Lieut. Samuel,² *Michael*¹) was born 20 Oct., 1837, in Indiana. He married at Mineral, Bureau Co., Ill., 30 Mch., 1858, Elizabeth Ann, dau. of David and Elizabeth (Hankins) Fisher, of Virginia, b. 11 Oct., 1840, in Virginia.

He enlisted at Sheffield, Bureau Co., Ill., as a private in Company C ("Western Sharpshooters"), 66th Regt. Ill. Vol. Infantry, 1 Sept., 1862; took part in the battle of Corinth, Oct. 3d and 4th, 1862, and was slightly wounded; and participated in nearly all the campaigns of the Army of the Tennessee until after the fall of Atlanta. He was detailed at headquarters 16th Army Corps, Major-General Grenville M. Dodge commanding, and remained with General Dodge, as clerk, until he was commissioned, 5 April, 1864, as First Lieutenant, and mustered in as Adjutant of the 5th U. S. Infantry Vols., Colonel Henry Maynadier commanding. Just before receiving his commission, he accompanied Major-General James Pope down the Mississippi as far as the mouth of the White River on an inspection tour of the military posts in the Military Division of the Mississippi, doing duty as his clerk.

After being mustered in as an officer, he proceeded with the regiment to Fort Riley, Kan., where he served as Adjutant and Post Adjutant; thence to Fort Kearney, Neb., and thence to Fort Laramie, Wyoming, where he remained about one year and a half, performing the duties of an Adjutant and Acting-Assistant Adjutant-General, District of the Platte. He was honorably discharged from the service in the fall of 1866, and returned to his home.

While at Fort Laramie, in 1866, he was presented with a sword, sash and belt, and a series of very complimentary resolutions, by the officers of the 11th Ohio Vol. Cavalry.

Lieut. Humphreys had applied, in August, 1866, for a captaincy in one of the new regiments about to be organized under the "Army Bill" passed by Congress, with a view to the enlargement of the regular U. S. Army. This application was favorably endorsed by Maj. James Van Voast, Maj. 18th U. S. A.; Brevet-Col. and A. Q. M. G. B. Danby, U. S. A.; Maj. Elmer Otis, 1st U. S. Cavalry, Brevet-Col. U. S. A. and Special Inspector; and forwarded with a letter from his Col., Henry E. Maynadier, in which he speaks of Adj. Humphreys thus: "As an officer, he is diligent, intelligent and active, thoroughly acquainted with the details of an Adj. or Adj.-Gen. He is also competent to perform these duties with his own hands, and has done most of the office work of his regiment and district. He was well versed in the other duties of an Infantry officer, and has age and experience sufficient for the position of captain. His moral character is above reproach, and he has uniformly conducted himself so as to win the esteem and friendship of his brother officers, and my own warm personal attachment," etc. These documents were approved and recommended by W. T. Sherman, Lieut.-Gen. Commanding.

Mr. Humphreys has been elected police magistrate of the village of Sheffield for three terms of four years each; has also been commissioned notary public for the same number of terms and years; and was, in 1883, serving his third term in both capacities. He is a merchant, and agent of the U. S. Express Company; also a farmer. P. O. address, Sheffield, Ill.

He was prepared for college at the academy in Amherst, Mass., and was graduated with honor at Amherst College in 1828. In 1831-32 he was Principal of the Academy in Plainfield, Ct. During this time he was also pursuing his theological studies, and in 1833 was graduated at Andover Theological Seminary. His inclinations led him to begin his ministry in the southwest, and during the year 1834 he labored in connection with the Presbyterian Church in Jeffersonville, Ind. In 1835 he became the Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Louisville, Ky. For eighteen years he gave himself to the interests of this church, and his influence was felt not only in its rapid and permanent growth, but also, in a marked degree, throughout the city in which he lived, and in the denomination to which he belonged. So early as 1852 he was elected Moderator of the General Assembly of the then Old School Presbyterian Church, and his sermon, called "Our Theology," preached at that time, is still circulated by the Presbyterian Board of Publication. During this year he received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Hanover College, Ind. In 1853 he was appointed by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, Professor in Princeton Theological Seminary. This he declined, but soon after accepted the Professorship of Church History in the Theological Seminary in Danville, Ky. It was during the later years of his residence in Danville, 1861-66, that the exigences occasioned by bitter and disastrous civil strife called into prominence many of his distinguishing characteristics. Among these were his unwavering loyalty to the National Government, together with a magnanimity and conciliation of spirit, which were potent influences in hastening the return of concord and amity, both in society and in the church. In 1866, in response to an urgent appeal, he returned to Louisville and gathered together a remnant of his old church, which he had left in so prosperous a condition, but which had been rent and nearly destroyed by the differences engendered by the war. This new organization was called the College Street Church, and under his ministry became one of the largest and most influential churches in the city. He continued his labors as pastor and preacher until 1880, when he retired from the active duties of the ministry. Since that time he has been engaged in literary and theological pursuits, and still resides (1885) among the people to whom he has devoted so much of his life. In 1871 his Alma Mater, Amherst College, conferred upon him the degree of L.L. D.

It will be noticed that the positions which Dr. Humphrey has occupied during these years have demanded rare qualities and gifts. With these he was peculiarly endowed. His preaching, so distinctive as a simple and earnest presentation of the Gospel, enhanced in attractiveness by convincing argument and impassioned eloquence, has made him distinguished as an ambassador of Christ. None who have enjoyed the privilege of listening to him could doubt that his commission was received from the Master's hand, and that his eloquence was inspired by the Holy Spirit. Thus the effect of his preaching has always been not only to move and convince his hearers, but to arouse them to high enthusiasm for the truth, asserted as with the power of God. As a theological teacher, his knowledge of Sacred History and his unique methods of imparting truth not only stimulated the imagination of his pupils, but gave them the philosophy of the subject and stores of definite information. Dr. Humphrey's public life covered a period in the Presbyterian Church in which great questions of polity and theology were considered; and his power in the discussion of vital subjects, together with the clear and calm judgment he brought to bear upon them, impressed itself with controlling influence upon the great Assemblies of the Church. His gifts as a leader among men could not fail to be recognized, as with commanding presence and persuasive eloquence he thrilled and convinced his hearers. His power over these Assemblies was all the greater because always modestly and courteously exercised in the spirit of love. In advocating measures which seemed to him of great importance, all felt that his fervor was inspired by the strength and courage of his convictions rather than by any personal considerations. He has always been a man greatly beloved by his ministerial brethren, and in all the relations of life. While Dr. Humphrey was loyally devoted to the interests of the Presbyterian organization of his early association, designated as "Old School," so long as it remained a separate organization, he has been no less zealous in laboring for the unity of the whole Presbyterian Church throughout the land, and was foremost in promoting it in special crises of its history. His theology has always been conservative, and with unwavering belief in the truths of God's revealed world, he has, throughout the whole course of his ministry, "earnestly contended for the faith which was, once for all, delivered to the saints."

In considering the laws of heredity, it is interesting to observe with what striking similarity the qualities and traits that distinguished Dr. Heman Humphrey appear in this his eldest son. Res. (1885) Louisville, Ky.

FAMILY 396.

4201. HON. James⁷ Humphrey, [2731] (Rev. Heman, D. D.,⁶ Solomon,⁵ Solomon,⁴ Jonathan,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael¹) was born at Fairfield, Conn., 9 Oct., 1811. He graduated at Amherst College, of which his father was president, in 1831; was Professor of Oratory and Rhetoric in his Alma Mater, in 1833. He studied law at the Yale Law School, at New Haven. Shortly after his admission to the bar, he married at Norfolk, Ct., 9 Oct., 1836, Urania Battell, of Norfolk, Ct., daughter of Hon. Joseph and Sarah (Robbins) Battell, of Norfolk, Conn., belonging to an old and honored Connecticut family. In 1849 she was received into the Church of the Pilgrims, Brooklyn, R. S. Storrs, D. D., pastor. He removed the same year to Louisville, Ky., where he practiced until 1838. In that year he came to Brooklyn, where he established his residence, commencing the practice of his profession in the city of New York, in the office of Seth B. Staples, Esq. Here he soon acquired a large and eminently respectable clientage, being peculiarly successful as a commercial lawyer, and enjoying the confidence of some of the most extensive and best known mercantile houses in New York, and in the country. In Brooklyn, an oration, which he delivered shortly after his arrival there, first directed public attention to him; and he soon developed an active interest in local politics, apparently actuated by no special ambition, but by a genuine love of and interest in public affairs, natural to him, and which he always insisted should be felt by every good citizen. He represented the First Ward (in which he resided) in the Board of Aldermen in the years 1844, '45 and '46, and, in 1850-51, held the position of City Counsellor, proving himself always a vigorous and effective worker. He went over, with the majority of the Free-Soil Whigs, to Republicanism, in 1856, and in 1858 was elected to represent the Second Congressional District in the Thirty-Sixth Congress. He had at this time been obliged, by declining health, to abandon the pursuit of his profession, but having recovered somewhat during the recess, took his seat in Congress and served one term. During the exciting scenes which preceded the outbreak of the Civil Rebellion, Mr. Humphrey was firm, calm, temperate and uncompromising, and his action as a member of the famous Committee of Thirty-three, as well as the few words which he spoke when fit occasion offered, betokened the spirit of true patriotism and devotion to the National Government. In 1860 and 1862 he was again the candidate of his party for Congress (the latter time as representative of the Third District).

* Rev. Edward W. C., b. 28 May, 1844; married 22 Oct., 1867. Jessie Buckley, according to Loomis Gen but was defeated by the late Hon. Moses F. Odell, whose personal popularity was aided by the fact that many Republicans voted for him to help hold the Democratic party to the loyalty which he represented. This defeat was, however, somewhat compensated by a lucrative and responsible position as keeper of the public stores, and by the opportunity which he enjoyed of a European trip, in the interest of his impaired health. In 1863 he returned home, and in 1864 was again elected to Congress, winning an easy victory over his Democratic opponent. During this last term of service, ending with his death, he affiliated with the moderate radicals of his party; was a strongly pronounced upholder of the Government; active and useful as a member of the Committee on Commerce, and as chairman of the important Committee on Naval Affairs. In his routine labors and attention to the varied affairs of his large district, he fought patiently against the progress of a disease which sapped his strength, inflicted great suffering and hampered his energies in every way. The quiet Christian heroism of his character shone conspicuously in this ten years' battle with a disease "that made every exertion doubly hard, that took the joys from almost all the ordinary pleasures of life, and that made him constantly aware of the contrast between what he would do if he had physical power and what he was compelled to do." But the unequal strife was at length ended by his death, in Brooklyn, on the 16th of June, 1866, and Brooklyn mourned a pure, faithful and spirited representative, a high-minded and intelligent citizen, and a man of great and unusual private worth. All classes of his fellow-citizens, without regard to political lines, joined in manifestations of respect to his memory; the Bar of Brooklyn, the Board of Aldermen, the Kings County Union League Club, the United States District Court of Brooklyn, and the House of Representatives of the United States (represented by seven New York delegates and the door-keeper of the House), both by appropriate resolutions of respect and attendance at his funeral, at the Church of the Pilgrims (Rev. Dr. R. S. Storrs), on the 20th of June, gave fit and sincere testimony to the true nobility of James' Humphrey's life and character.

As a lawyer Mr. Humphrey was distinguished, even while a student in the law school, as possessing, in a high degree, the faculty of distinct statement of legal questions. In subsequent life his judgment was esteemed as mature, deliberate and thorough, and his reading as unusual in extent and in its availability. In the presence of judge and jury he was calm, unimpassioned, clear and convincing; his manner urbane and considerate towards others, and his style as a speaker, graceful and attractive. "He drew his principles of law, and of the ethics that were to be applied to causes before the courts, not only from text-books and adjudged cases, but from that Higher Law to which he acknowledged his obligations, and to which he was never ashamed to appeal." He was a model of gentlemanly manner, and of a Christian spirit in the pursuit of his profession, and it was justly said of him by a client that "he never sought to press, beyond what was right and just, the interest of his client, to the injury of his opponent's client."

As a politician he was remarkable for fidelity to principle, devotion to his party, and for the great strength of his personal attachments; and he was a rare instance of a lawyer and politician who never mingled the asperities of professional or official contests with the social interests of private life. This, perhaps, was owing to the fact that, to a naturally sensitive mind, he added refined and scholarly tastes, well-disciplined reasoning and reflective powers, acute perception, a delicate appreciation of the beauty of intellectual truth and the attractions of study, as well as an untiring industry in its pursuits—qualities which the burdens of public life never crushed out, and the friction of politics never wore away.

Says one who knew him intimately: "What one would have noticed in him first, perhaps, was his scholarly taste, the fineness of his mind, his natural and affectionate sympathy with all that was beautiful in literature, with all that was exquisite in art, with all that was noble in eloquence and reason. The literary instinct was natural and strong in him. In college he was called the "Edward Everett" of his class. He dearly loved to collect choice books; to surround himself with representatives of the fine arts. His library was always a blessed place to him. * *

But at the same time that he was thus scholarly and refined, with this beautiful aptitude for whatever is noble in literary attainment and investigation, he was a man of the most steadfast attachment to principle; of great practical skill and energy, when in health, in accomplishing the plans which were necessary to carry his convictions into practice; a constant worker for that which he believed in; an earnest believer in principles that commended themselves to his judgment and conscience as reasonable and right. All the delicacy of his nature, all the fineness of his sensibility to literature and cultivation, never interfered for an instant with the steadfastness of conviction which he inherited from his ancestors, and which had been cultivated and unfolded in him by the religious influences that were thrown around him in his childhood and youth, and which he had cultivated in himself as a necessary element of excellence and power. Everyone must have been struck with the kindness of disposition which was native in him, and was the source of that beautiful courtesy of manner which is so rare in our society—so rare in any society—and which, to him, was native as the song is to the bird, as brilliancy of color is to the wing of the butterfly. He could not be otherwise than courteous, one might almost say, if he tried. * * It enabled him to overcome, to a degree, the reserve that was natural to him, and to mingle with men with far more of heartiness and cheerful response to their greetings than, except for such natural kindness, he would have been likely to have shown." For, despite his public life, he was modest, yet modesty was allied to a sincerity and frankness of thought, speech and action that, in some circumstances, was absolute fearlessness.

The portrait of Chief Justice Marshall, by Rembrandt Peale, painted in Washington in 1834, and purchased by Hon. James Humphrey from the artist in 1847, was presented to the Long Island Historical Society in 1866, by Mrs. Urania B. Humphrey, in accordance with the expressed desire of her husband, who was a member of that society. [P. 383 Dawson's Hist. Magazine for 1866; December; Vol. X.]

4207. Rev. John⁷ Humphrey, [2733] (Rev. Heman, D. D.⁶, Solomon,⁵ Solomon,⁴ Jonathan,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael¹) was born in Fairfield, Ct., 17 Mch., 1816. He married Lucy Vose, dau. of William Henderson, of Thomaston, Me., 2 July, 1845. She died in Pittsfield, Mass.

He graduated at Amherst College in 1835; spent a year as principal of the academy at Prattsburgh, N. Y.; entered the junior class of the Andover Theological Seminary in the fall of 1836; passed the following summer at East Windsor Hill (Conn.) Theological Seminary; was, during the next year, a resident of his father's house and tutor in his Alma Mater; in the autumn of 1839 resumed his professional studies at Andover, and graduated from that institution in the autumn of 1841. Upon leaving the Seminary, he went to South Berwick, Me., to take charge of a Church there, just left vacant by the death of its pastor, Rev. Bradford Homer, an intimate friend and fellow-student. After a year spent there in faithful and acceptable ministrations, he was called to, and, in Nov., 1842, ordained over the Winthrop Church, at Charlestown, Mass., a youthful but prosperous congregation, to which he soon became warmly attached. Increasing ill-health compelled his resignation of this charge in 1847, and after repeated alternations of progression and retrogression, he gradually recovered sufficiently to warrant him, as he thought, in resuming his pastoral labors. In October, 1848, he was installed over the Presbyterian Church at Binghamton, N. Y., where he labored assiduously and effectually until April, 1854, when the alarming condition of his health compelled him to resign his ministerial duties, and to seek relief in a voyage to England. He had, about this time, been appointed Professor of Moral Philosophy in Hamilton College, to which professorship was to be attached the pastoral care of the students, and his active mind dwelt with fond anticipations upon the field thus ready for him when he should return to his native land, refreshed and strengthened by this sea voyage. He returned from England, however, in extreme prostration of both mind and body, and the few months that elapsed before his death, which occurred 2 Dec., 1854, at Pittsfield, Mass., were months of weakness and pain, but still of triumphant faith—triumphing over the power of death and disease.

His character was distinguished by many points of resemblance to that of his father; and "the warmth of his heart, his loveliness of fancy, his playfulness of spirit, the amenity of his manners, and the beauty of his expression," rendered him a most agreeable companion, and justified the appellation by which he was known while in College as "The Apostle John." Child-like in disposition, and manly withal; docile and teachable, yet rarely accomplished, his life was lovely and useful, and his memory is sweet to those who knew him or were brought under his influence.

A volume of selections from his sermons, edited by his father, Rev. Heman⁶ Humphrey, D. D., with an introductory memoir by his friend, Rev. Wm. I. Buddington, published in 1856, preserves an interesting collection of his letters and specimens of his literary style.

4217. Rev. Zephaniah Moore⁷ Humphrey, D. D., [2742] (Rev. Heman, D. D.⁶, Solomon,⁴ Solomon,³ Jonathan,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael¹) was born in Amherst, Mass., 30 Aug., 1824, the year succeeding that in which his father entered upon his important duties as president of the college located in that town. He married 20 Apr., 1853, Harriette L. Sykes, of Westfield, N. Y.

Dr. Humphrey graduated at Amherst College, under the presidency of his father, in 1843, and then spent some two years in teaching, that being the regimen prescribed by the president for all his sons, and recommended for all young men. He then became a tutor in Amherst College, from whence he entered Andover Theological Seminary and graduated there in 1849. Dr. Humphrey wisely chose what was then "the West" as his field of future labor, and in 1850 became pastor of the church in Racine, Wis. In 1856 he was invited and became the pastor of a more important church in Milwaukee, where he labored till 1859, when he was called to a still more important pastorate in the First Presbyterian Church in Chicago, then, as now, one of the leading congregations of that denomination in the Northwest. Here he labored with much acceptance, and with a steadily widening influence, until 1868, when he deemed it wise to seek a change of climate and the stimulus of new associations and labors, by accepting a call to the Calvary Church of Philadelphia, an influential position, which he filled most worthily until he was elected, in May, 1875, by the unanimous and cordial vote of the Board of Trustees, to the Professorship of Ecclesiastical History and Church Polity in Lane Theological Seminary, Cincinnati, Ohio; and in the following September he was transferred from the pastorate of the Calvary Church to this new position. His formal inauguration occurred October 27th, when he delivered an able and suggestive inaugural on "History as a Record of Thought." In 1871 he was Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church.

"To his work he brought, if not that complete furnishing which a life-long devotion to the special study of church history would have supplied, a general knowledge both of history and of related subjects, a practical acquaintance with life and affairs, a large and pure sagacity, a philosophic wisdom, and a high faith in the sovereign and beneficent purpose of God as regulating all human events, which together constituted a very rare preparation for the service to which the remainder of his days were to be given. With great care and conscientiousness he took up his particular duties, prosecuting each inquiry diligently, carefully summing up the results of every fresh investigation, increasing steadily both in the amount of his instruction and in his capacity to stimulate and enrich the minds committed to his training, and so justifying more and more, even to the end, the wisdom of his election to that somewhat difficult post of service."

"His general influence over the students, as exerted in various ways, and especially as realized through his religious ministrations, was in a high degree effective, hallowing, elevated. They saw in him a man whose natural gifts the grace of God had sanctified, and in whom the glow of a holy purpose was always apparent—a man who was true to himself, and true always to Christ, and who, by the necessities of the case, was ever a bright example, deterring from evil, inspiring toward all good."*

"Dr. Humphrey was a man who presented in a striking degree, in his character and life, the uncommon combination of gentleness and force. To a character possessing great natural sweetness was added the higher charm of that wisdom which is from above—'First pure and then peaceable, gentle and easy to be entreated.'

"With few faults himself, he was always patient and charitable towards the faults of others.

"He was a man of extraordinary acquirements, not only in the line of his own profession, but in almost every department of learning, and yet was without anything like pretension or pedantry, seeming, in his intercourse with his fellow men, to be seeking rather to learn than to instruct.

"Faithful and conscientious in the discharge of every duty, whether personal or official, he was always tenderly considerate of the feelings of others, never wounding even those he was compelled to reprove, and manifesting always a kind and ready sympathy with all who were in trouble or distress.

"Clear in his convictions, pure in his life, noble and exalted in his purposes, unswerving in his devotion to truth, his career has been a fine example of all that is admirable in a Christian gentleman and faithful Minister of the Gospel."*

"If I were going to characterize dear Dr. Humphrey in any way, it would be to say that he was marked by great fineness of structure everywhere—in the physical realm, in the affectionate realm, and in the realm of thought and volition. He was beautifully wrought, and of fine mold and temper. I would say the fineness of the fibre rather than the strength of fibre characterized the man. He had strength, but it was willowy rather than oak like. It could bend, but it was not the bending of pliancy—not the bending of the wavering. It showed that it had root and anchorage; that it was great strength with beautiful pliancy, that enabled him to adopt himself to every condition with which he met. He had that rare adjustability of mind that Paul possessed, so that he could be, as Paul was, all things to all men, if he could win anything. He had a rare sweet courtesy. His sweetness was his strength. His lips must always have gone to school to his heart, for they ever coined the most golden speech. It was here that he put a sentinel at the door, and so was always on guard. If I should say anything special about his thought-life, it would be to say that it was characterized by thoroughness. He had an antipathy against slipshod service. He made chips, but he always made them in his workshop. All he did in public was a structure in breadth and organization, complete in itself, and finished—like the man. In his spiritual life the chief thing was consecration. He had laid all on God's altar, and without reservation dedicated himself to his Master's work. He was a fine spirit in a fine body living a fine life. Thus his life was rounded into a beautiful and holy completeness."†

In his home life, and indeed everywhere, he was remarkable for his fine vein of social humor, which bubbled up and shone and sparkled in all his hours, and which made him the central joy of every social or family circle cheered by his presence. The same sweetness of manner, ready repartee and elevated sentiment so well known as family traits were eminent in him, throwing out on every side a genial mellow radiance which endeared him to all. A memorial of him, edited by his brother-in-law, Rev. Dr. David Torrey, is full of these genial reminiscences. Not that Dr. Humphrey was trivial, but he had the rare faculty of seeing the bright and humorous side of common things, and so making them sources of enjoyment and instruction as well.

His death occurred at Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, Ohio, 13 Nov., 1881.

His funeral services were held Nov. 16th, in the old Lane Seminary Chapel. Rev. Dr. E. D. Morris preached a sermon on the occasion. His remains were then taken to Chicago, Ill., where they were interred in Graceland Cemetery, beside those of two of his children. The funeral services held in Chicago, at the home of Mr. Charles M. Henderson, were of a very interesting character.

Samuel*,² *Michael*¹) was born in Liberty, Delaware Co., Ohio, 13 July, 1830, and went with his parents to Cedar Co., Iowa, in 1842. He was married by Rev. H. B. Elliott, at Columbus, O., 29 Sept., 1859, to Elizabeth S., dau. of Thomas and Ruth (Beard) Holt, of Andover, Mass. She was born at Andover Mass., 11 Apr., 1832. Immediately after graduating from Iowa College, at Davenport, Iowa, in 1857, he entered Andover Theological Seminary, and remained a student there for one year. During the ensuing year he taught in Columbus, O. Afterward pursuing his studies for two years in Chicago Theological Seminary, he thence graduated in 1861, and immediately entered upon ministerial work—first at Austin, Minn.—thence going, after two years, to Jones Co., Iowa, where he remained four years. In 1871 he removed to Nebraska, on the very frontier, where he took charge of a church at Camp Creek, Otoe Co., until July, 1872, thence removing to Polk Co., and organizing the first Congregational Church in that county; thence to Boone Co. in 1873. His work has been full of the hardships and privations of missionary life. He entered, as a wild government claim, his present comfortable, prosperous and beautiful homestead, Section 18, Osceola Precinct, on which he settled in 1878. He had two cows and a horse, but not the money to pay the fare of his wife and children thence from Lincoln. To obtain a team for the necessary beginning there, he was compelled to himself labor one day in exchange for the labor of another horse for two days—to work with his horse. He resolved to do this no longer, and so purchasing a yoke and chain and cart, hitched in his cows, and with his horse ahead, made them do the work—“hailed all our wood seven miles; went to church on Sundays, and made some of my pastoral calls with this ‘rig.’ My wagon—the only one to be had—was an old circus-wagon with the sides partly broken off. In this purely western-frontier ‘rig’ some of the aristocracy of Osceola have been out to make calls with myself and wife. We bore also the discouragements of that terrible ‘grasshopper raid’ of 1875, and came off victorious over all.” One hundred of the one hundred and sixty acres comprising his homestead are (1883) under cultivation, on which are set out thirty-six thousand trees, besides a fine young orchard, where formerly there was not a shrub. He is a nurseryman and farmer at Osceola, Neb. P. O. address Tipton, Cedar Co., Iowa.

4491. Hon. Herman Loin⁸ Humphrey, [3165] (Lucius,⁷ Roswell,⁶ William,⁵ Lieut. Samuel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael¹) was born 20 Mch., 1830, at Candor, Tioga Co., N. Y.; married (1) at Dixon, Ill., 18 July, 1855, Jennie Ann (dau. of John* and Sophronia B. Hewitt) Cross, of Binghamton, N. Y., born at Saratoga, N. Y., 25 Jan., 1830; died 31 Jan., 1880, at Chicago, Ill. He married (2) 4 Oct., 1881, Widow Kittie Elvira (Doty) Door, of Oswego, N. Y. Her first husband's name was Maxwell B. Doty.

* John Cross, son of Nathaniel, of Keene, N. H., was born in that town in 1800, and died 26 Sept., 1869, at the residence of his son, Frederick J. Cross, of Chicago, Ill. Sophronia B. Hewitt Cross was born in 1810, at Jay, Essex Co., N. Y., and was daughter of Josiah W. Hewitt, of Jay, who died there in August, 1859, in his 76th year.

Mr. Humphrey's education was obtained in the public schools and at the Cortland Academy. At the early age of sixteen he commenced the business of life as a merchant's clerk, in Ithaca, New York, in which employment he remained several years. Developing with mature years a preference for professional life, he left mercantile pursuits and entered upon the study of law in the office of Walbridge & Finch, at Ithaca, where he remained until he was admitted to the bar, 10 July, 1854, at Delhi, N. Y. Thinking that the new western country offered a better field for a youthful practitioner, he selected Hudson, Wis., for a location, and settled there in January, 1855, where he has ever since remained. He soon entered upon the tide of successful business. Not long after this auspicious beginning, a vacancy occurred in the office of District Attorney of that county, and Mr. Humphrey received an appointment to the position, holding this office during such vacancy. In the fall of 1860 he was appointed, by the Governor, County Judge for St. Croix County, to fill a vacancy, and was elected to the same office at the regular election the ensuing spring for the full term of four years, commencing 1 January, 1862. In the meantime, having been elected State Senator in the fall of 1861, he resigned his office of County Judge in Feb., 1862, having taken his seat in the Senate. This was in the height of the Civil War, and Senator Humphrey was found conspicuously acting with those who, with voice and vote, were endeavoring to maintain the Union soldiers in the field and to uphold the hands of the President.

After the fall of Fort Donelson, a bill was introduced and passed the Assembly to repeal the law of 1861, which gave $3 a month to the wives of soldiers who enlisted in the infantry. The bill, on going to the Senate, immediately passed to a third reading. At this juncture, Senator Humphrey, although a new member, strongly objected to it, holding that such action would be an unjust violation of good faith, and would drive the men of Wisconsin to enlist in States holding out better inducements; and he enforced these views with such pointed language that the question resulted in increasing the amount to $5 per month, and including every arm of the service. To meet the payment of the large sum of money this bill would call for, the use of the school fund was resorted to. Objections to so using these funds were made by democrats, who claimed that the State might, at some future time, repudiate the debt. Senator Humphrey took the floor, and among other things said, "Let her repudiate"; adding that as trustee of the school fund the State would be compelled to make the fund good in any contingency, and that this measure would make the war bonds of the State good; which proved true. He also introduced an amendment to the State Constitution, to add, after the word "State," occurring in section seven, article eight, "and the United States," so that no further discredit could be brought on the bonds on the ground that they had been issued to defend the United States, and not the State, in time of war, the adoption of which would have saved the State much trouble in providing for its bonds in 1865. He likewise made a speech in favor of the proposition to permit soldiers in the field to vote, which received high commendation at the time, both by those who heard it and by the press.

Mr. Humphrey's speech in the U. S. House of Representatives, delivered 10 May, 1882, upon the Geneva Award, has been somewhat commended for the position therein taken, viz.: that the underwriters could not be subrogated to the rights of ship-owners insured, who suffered loss by Confederate cruisers and abandoned to the underwriters, and paid their losses; for the reason that the underwriters insured against the acts of the Confederate States, or their cruisers, and not against the United States, in not using due diligence in preventing Confederate cruisers to leave her shores and destroy our mercantile marine, a position then first taken by him; an ingenious argument—which has but recently been confirmed by a decision of the U. S. Court of Claims, that the Government is not a trustee of the fund, or money, awarded this Government by the Geneva Court of Arbitration.

In 1865 Judge Humphrey was elected and served one year as Mayor of Hudson, and in the spring of 1866 was chosen Judge of the Eighth Judicial Circuit, to which he was re-elected in 1872, and resigned in March, 1877, having served in the office from January, 1867, to March, 1877. Although not strictly a politician, the Judge has always taken a lively and well-informed interest in the political affairs of the country, and has wielded a large and healthful influence in the republican party; consequently, when a successor to Congressman J. M. Rusk was to be chosen, in 1876, the republicans of the Seventh Congressional District, with notable unanimity, called upon Judge Humphrey to accept a nomination for member of Congress. He accepted the nomination, and was elected by a handsome majority. Having served with satisfaction to his constituents for one term, he was readily re-elected to the second, at the close of which he expected to return to private life; but his many friends, otherwise disposed, kept his name in the field, and on the assembling of the Congressional Convention, in 1880, he was nominated on the first ballot, notwithstanding two very strong competitors were candidates for the nomination. His re-election resulted by a majority larger than has ever been given to any member of Congress in his State. Unobtrusive and conservative in his ways of life, the purity of Judge Humphrey's character is justly appreciated by those who know him. The soundness of his political views has made him a reliable and valued member of the republican party, while his irreproachable moral principle and wide statesmanlike range of thought have rendered his career in the councils of the nation of enduring benefit to the country, reflecting honor upon his immediate constituents and enduring credit to his public career.

In religious matters Mr. Humphrey is a consistent member of the Presbyterian Communion. Res. (1885) Hudson, Wis.

4501. Captain Charles Frederick⁸ Humphrey, [3170] (Lucius,⁷ Roswell,⁶ William,⁵ Lieut. Samuel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² Michael¹) was born 2 Sept., 1844, at Cortland, Cortland Co., N. Y.; and married at Washington, D. C., 17 June, 1874, Juanita Da Costa (dau. of Edward Shepard and Julia Da Costa*) Foster, born 8 Aug., 1854, at Aricibo, Island of Puerto Rico, West Indies.

* Edward Shepard Foster was born 28 Mch., 1816, in London, Eng.; died at Aricibo, Island of Puerto Rico, 28 Feb., 1859; he was thoroughly educated, both as a civil engineer and architect, in Edinburgh, Scotland; built many of the public buildings on the Island of St. Croix; built the Sunday school house of St. Paul's Church, of Frederickstadt, St. Croix, Danish West Indies; rebuilt many of the principal buildings of the City of Basseterre, Capitol of Guada Loupe, and in the town of Point a Pitre, on the same Island, after the earthquake of 1842. He was widely known and greatly esteemed in the Danish West Indies. He married Julia Da Costa, born 10 Oct.,

Capt. Humphrey lived on the paternal farm, attending public school, until about the close of 1860, when he was sent to the Academy at Oswego, N. Y., where he remained until 1862. He was then sent to the male department of the Seward Institute, at Florida, Orange Co., N. Y., which school he subsequently left to enter the army, as he then supposed for the war only. But circumstances changed his mind; his superiors thought him adapted to the profession of arms, which opinion has been fully justified by his subsequent career.

He was appointed from Army: Private, Corporal, Sergeant, and 1st Sergeant, Battery E, 5th U. S. Artillery, 17 Mch., 1863, to 28 June, 1866; 2d Lieut. 5th U. S. Artillery, 8 May; accepted 28 June; transferred to 4th U. S. Artillery, 23 Oct.; 1st Lieut. 21 May, 1868; Captain and Assistant-Quartermaster 23 June, 1879; accepted 9 July, 1879.

Was furloughed "for soldierly conduct" during the campaign of 1864, of the Army of the Potomac, on recommendation of Brev. Maj. W. A. Horn, commanding Artillery Brigade; Brev. Maj. Gen. Commanding Geo. W. Getty, approved by Maj. Gen. Parke, headquarters Army of the Potomac; and was about that time recommended, through the regular channels, for commission in the Artillery. Was slightly wounded at the battle of Sailors Creek, Va., 6 Apr., 1865; and was present, with his corps, at Appomattox Court House, at the surrender of General Lee, 9 Apr., 1865. On the disbanding of the Army of the Potomac, was in camp near Washington, D. C., with regular light artillery batteries of that army, to Aug., 1865; then ordered south, serving at Fort Moultrie, Port Royal, Beaufort, Key West and Barranca's Barracks, to May, 1866. Ordered, 1 Mch., 1866, to Annapolis, Md., for examination for commission; complied with order in May, and returned to Barranca's Barracks. Ordered to Fort Monroe, headquarters 5th U. S. Artillery, in July, and subsequently ordered back to Barranca's Barracks.

Having been transferred, by the War Department, to the 4th Regiment of Artillery, joined that regiment at Fort McHenry, Md., in Mch., 1867; ordered to Fort Whipple, Va.; on garrison duty at that place to May. Adjutant of the Sub-district of Alexandria, 1st Military District, to July, 1868; on duty with his regiment at Fort McHenry, Md., to Jan., 1869; at Fort Wayne, Mich., to Mch., 1870; at Fort Johnston, N. C., to July, 1870; at Fort Monroe, Va. (Field Adjutant of the Artillery School), to May, 1871; at Fort Johnston, N. C., to Nov., 1872; at Fort Point, San Jose, Cal., to Apr., 1873; at Artillery School, Fort Monroe, Va., to May, 1874; at Fort Point, San Jose, Cal., to June, 1876; at Sitka, Alaska, to October, 1876; at Fort Wrangel, Alaska, to June, 1877; with Gen. * HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE COLUMBIA, PORTLAND, OREGON, December 21, 1879.

To the ASSISTANT ADJUTANT-GENERAL, MILITARY DIVISION OF THE PACIFIC, San Francisco, Cal.:

Sir.—I wish to make special mention of the following officers who served under my command during the late expedition against hostile Nez Percés.

* * * * *

First Lieut. Charles F. Humphrey, 4th Artillery.—He commanded Co. E, 4th Artillery, at the battle of the Clear Water, on the 11th of July, and Company A on the 12th of July. His battalion commander says of him: "He exposed himself on so many occasions that I will not attempt to enumerate them. A hint to him was sufficient, no matter what the danger. He and his company were the most exposed of any of the battalion. Nothing daunted him. Throughout the campaign he continued to display his soldierly qualities."

* * * * *

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

(Signed) O. O. HOWARD, Brig. Gen., U. S. A., Commanding Dept. of Columbia.

Commanded Battery A, 4th Artillery, during the campaign subsequently, to July 11; en route to Fort Townsend, Washington Territory, from Bears Paw Mountain, Montana, by way of Omaha and San Francisco, to Nov., 1877; at Fort Townsend, Washington Territory, to Dec., 1877; with Light Battery B, 4th Artillery, at the Presidio, San Francisco, to July, 1879, being engaged with the battery in the campaign against the Snake and Bannock Indians, in Nevada and Idaho. Depot Quartermaster, Headquarters Military Division of the Pacific, and Dept. of California, Presidio of San Francisco, from 30 Sept., 1879, to 25 June, 1885. Depot Quartermaster, in charge of Quartermaster's Dept., Cheyenne, Wyoming Territory, since 1 July, 1885. P. O. address (1885) Cheyenne, Wyoming Territory.*

4519. Jeremiah Theophilus⁸ Humphrey, [3228] (Alvin,^{7*} Deacon Alvin,⁶ Deacon Theophilus,⁵ Lieut. Samuel,⁴ Ensign Samuel,³ Lieut. Samuel,² *Michael*¹) was born in Green Co., Wis., 11 Dec., 1820. He married 21 Oct., 1848, Martha Jane d'Corza, dau. of Pierre d'Corza, of French birth, and his wife, Hannah Bellows, an Englishwoman. She was born in Green Co., Wis., 17 Sept., 1826, and died 1 Oct., 1868.

Mr. Humphrey went to California in 1850, with his brothers Dudley and Frederick, and commenced mining. In the winter of 1850-51, he, with seven others, took up a claim in the head of Crain's Gulch, near Georgetown, Eldorado Co. On this claim of 400 feet, which covered the entire flat, they sank three shafts, near a large quartz vein, and in one of these shafts they got a good prospect, but could not reach the bedrock on account of water. Mr. Humphrey urged the necessity of tunnelling at the lower end of the shaft, but could not get his companions to adopt his plans, and the place was abandoned. Some years after, other miners tunneled the old shaft, drifted out over half a million dollars worth of ore, and sold out to one of their number, who ultimately took out three times as much as they had taken. This is "the nearest" which Mr. Humphrey has "ever been to a big strike," though he now has a claim at Forest Hill, of which he has "great expectations." In 1865 and '66 he was prominent in organizing a Miners' Protection League (as an offset to the influx of Chinese labor in California), of which he was elected president; and was chosen as a delegate to the Anti-Cooley League of San Francisco. P. O. address (1884) Forest Hill, Placer Co., Cal.

MICHAEL HUMPHREY, the Emigrant, according to the Genealogy given in the previous pages (243 to 741), has had, in the line of (and including) his youngest son SAMUEL, 2,331 descendants, born by the name of Humphrey. In the second generation, one son (Samuel²); in the third, four sons and four daughters,—total 8. In the fourth, twenty-six sons and seventeen daughters,—total 43. In the fifth, eighty sons and sixty-seven daughters,—total 147. In the sixth, 213 sons and 179 daughters,—total 392. In the seventh, 405 sons and 373 daughters,—total 778. In the eighth, 490 sons and 459 daughters,—total 949. In the ninth (as far as recorded), seven sons and six daughters,—total 13. GRAND TOTAL, 1,226 sons and 1,105 daughters, born Humphreys.

Of these, thirty-three have represented their respective towns in the Legislature of Connecticut, or of the States where they lived; two were Members of U. S. Congress; three State Senators; four were County Court Judges; four were Judges of Probate Courts (one for twelve years); one Clerk of the Supreme Court of his State; twenty-eight were Justices of the Peace (twenty, twenty-four, thirty and forty years being the longest terms of service); eight were selectmen (one for fourteen years); five were Town Clerks; two Mayors of Cities; six Church Elders; seventeen Deacons (one for fifty years); sixteen Clergymen; twelve Lawyers; twenty-six Graduates of College (four of Yale); two College Presidents; six College Professors; three bore the title of D. D.; fourteen Physicians; three Inventors; three Authors; one Presidential Elector; nine Musicians; one Poet; four Sea-Captains.

There were fifty-seven having military titles; among whom were one Major-General; two Generals; two Adjutant-Generals; fifteen Colonels; three Lieut.-Colonels; six Majors; eighteen Captains; nine Lieutenants; one Ensign. Of these, three served in the old Colonial wars; ten in the Revolutionary war; thirteen in the War of 1812; one in the Mexican war, and twenty-one in the war of the Civil Rebellion.

There were also, in the line of Samuel² Humphrey, descendants who were the children of the daughters of the family, and born by other names than that of Humphrey. In the fourth generation there were thirteen sons and twelve daughters,—total 25. In the fifth, eighty-seven sons and eighty-three daughters,—total 170. In the sixth, 240 sons and 229 daughters,—total 469. In the seventh, 401 sons and 416 daughters,—total 817; in the eighth, 688 sons and 686 daughters,—total 1,374. In the ninth, 513 sons and 471 daughters,—total 984. In the tenth (as far as recorded) 109 sons and seventy-six daughters,—total 185. GRAND TOTAL, 2,051 male and 1,973 female descendants born by other names.

Of these descendants in the female line were recorded three State Senators; five State Representatives; one Judge of County Court; four Judges of Probate; one Town Clerk; four Justices of the Peace; one Church Deacon; thirteen Physicians; fourteen Clergymen; thirty Graduates of College (five from Yale); four College Professors; eight Lawyers; two Editors; one Author; four Inventors; one Artist; one Architect; five Musicians.

Of these, also, one served in the Revolutionary war and twenty-eight in the war of the Civil Rebellion; among those were one General; three Colonels; one Major; thirteen Captains, and five Lieutenants.

Adding to the 2,331 descendants of the name of Humphrey, the 4,024 descendants of female Humphreys, we have a total of 6,355 (recorded) descendants from MICHAEL HUMPHREY, THE EMIGRANT, in the line of his youngest son SAMUEL.²

There are other descendants of Samuel² Humphrey (descended from some of those who have intermarried with the descendants of Sergt. John² Humphrey, his brother), who are not included in this enumeration of *Samuel's*² line, but in that of *John's*² for which, see page 242^a.

THE HUMPHREY WOMEN.

In concluding this line of the HUMPHREYS' FAMILY IN AMERICA, the editor feels like making an apology to the female members of the family. While some four or six hundred of the sons have had their names and memories preserved, and their virtues and merits extolled, scarcely nothing has been said of the daughters—fully their equals in all that should commend them to the love, the reverence and the memory of all connected; and this in the face of the fact, that from the time "whereunto the memory of man runneth not to the contrary" (see pp. 18 and Chart I.), the Humphreys' women have been noted as models of feminine wit, beauty and versatility of character, aptitude in belle lettres, refinement and womanly qualities. From earliest youth, and all along through life, I have heard and have had occasion to notice the general prevalence of these most lovable traits of character. And in a remarkable degree they have transmitted these aptitudes to their children, so that the issue of the daughters, as noted in the tables of position in life, fairly if not fully equal that of the sons in natural talent or success in life. The author feels like making this amende honorable, and of putting on record this testimony, as a feeble expression of his observation on this point, and to express his regret that the plan of the work has excluded so much on this behalf, that is truly valuable and so well worthy of record.

(P. 189.) HOYT M.⁸ Hayes [Fam. 41, J.²], married 27 Sept., 1858, Almira (dau. of Benjamin) Giddings, of Hartland, Ct., second cousin of Hon. Joshua R. Giddings, of Ohio.

(P. 199.) MARIANNE⁷ (Humphreys) Pease [Fam. 49 (581), J.²], died at Buffalo, N. Y., 14 Dec., 1883. In Mrs. Pease many rare gifts were united—a fine personal appearance, dignified, refined and graceful manners, a well-cultivated mind, an appreciative taste for literature, poetry, music and the fine arts. While these gifts embellished her life, it was in the atmosphere of her own home that the excellences of her character shone brightest. Her affectionate nature, her amiable disposition, her cordial hospitality, blended with fine conversational powers, made a pleasing and lasting impression upon those who came within their influence.

SHELDON PEASE was born in Derby, New Haven County, Conn., 26 Aug., 1809. In 1817 he left Derby and went to Black Rock, Erie County, N. Y., to reside with his uncle, Sheldon Thompson. While residing in Black Rock, in the year 1818, he witnessed the building of the steamboat Walk-in-the-Water, and was on her deck when she was launched into the Niagara River at Black Rock. The Walk-in-the-Water made an excursion from Black Rock to Point Abino, on the 14 September, 1818, and Sheldon Pease witnessed it as an attachee of the “Horn Breze Brigade.” After navigating Lake Eric until 1821, she encountered a severe gale and was driven ashore in Buffalo Bay, a complete wreck; he assisted in taking care of a portion of the cargo shipped by S. Thompson & Co., as it came ashore. He also witnessed the launching of the steamboat Superior, the immediate successor of the Walk-in-the-Water, into the Buffalo Creek, at the foot of Main street, Buffalo, 16 Apr., 1822.

For a number of years subsequent to 1817, Robert Hunter and associates at Albany, managed a transportation line from Albany to Black Rock, composed of freight wagons drawn by five or six horses, transporting light and valuable goods to the latter point, and returning loaded principally with furs belonging to the American Fur Company, which were collected at Green Bay and Mackinac and vicinity, and brought to Black Rock by water.

Sheldon Thompson contracted to excavate a portion of the channel for the Erie Canal, between Black Rock and Buffalo; this was the first movement of earth in the construction of the canal between those points, and the first day's work thereon was performed by Curtis Thompson and Sheldon Pease.

In 1822 Mr. Pease left Black Rock and went to Oswego to reside, where he entered the employment of Alvin Bronson, who was engaged in the transportation business. While in Mr. Bronson's employ he discharged the canal boat Carnarvon, Captain P. F. Parsons, at Oswego, she being the first canal boat that went from Troy to Oswego with merchandise. While in the same employ he assisted in loading the schooner Winnabago, Captain V. R. Bill, of Oswego, being the first vessel that passed through the Welland Canal with a cargo of merchandise, destined to Cleveland, Ohio. Her cargo each way did not exceed fifty tons. In the year 1832, while a member of the firm of Gidings, Baldwin, Pease & Co., he loaded the canal boat Cleveland, Captain W. T. Mather, at Cleveland, with merchandise for Portsmouth, Ohio, being the first canal boat that reached the Ohio River from the lakes. In the year 1837, while a member of the firm of Griffith, Pease & Co., they loaded the schooner Ohio, owned by Sheldon Pease, with a cargo of flour, provisions, etc., and disposed of the same at the ports of Chicago, Michigan City, St. Joseph and Racine, for the wants of emigrants.

The firm of Gidings, Baldwin, Pease & Co. was dissolved at the end of the year 1836, and was succeeded by the firm of Griffith, Pease & Co., who built the steamboat Cleveland, at Huron, in 1835 or 1836, intended for carrying passengers exclusively between Cleveland and Buffalo, and one of the finest passenger steamers then afloat.

The firm of Griffith, Pease and Co. was dissolved in 1838, and was succeeded by the firm of Pease & Allen in the same year. This firm did a large and successful business for many years, building propellers, sailing vessels and canal boats, and flouring mills at Buffalo and Oswego. The firm built the propeller Emigrant at Cleveland, it being the third built on this continent. The firm also built the Phoenix propeller, which burned at Sheboygan Pier. The next propeller built by them was the Oncida. All of the above were built at Cleveland, in the years 1841-42-43. They also built the brigs Ashland and Fashion, and the schooners Trident and Andover. The above sailing vessels were built between the years 1841 and 1845.

In 1843 Sheldon Pease planned and caused to be built for the propeller Oncida, then building at Cleveland, Ohio, the first horizontal tubular boiler used in America. Had he patented it, he could have realized millions of dollars from it, as it is in general use in America and Europe, and no essential improvement has been made in it up to the present time.

About 1838 Professor Ericsson came to the United States and made the acquaintance of Captain Van Cleve, at Oswego, where he exhibited to him his submerged propeller-wheel to propel steam vessels. Captain Van Cleve called on Mr. Doolittle, a vessel-builder at Oswego, and induced him to build a vessel on his principle, which he did; she was named the Vandalia. The second was built at Buffalo and named the Hercules. The Emigrant was the third, and was built at Cleveland. The fourth was built at Buffalo, and was named the Samson.

In 1853 Mr. Pease was appointed General Western Freight Agent of the Erie Railroad, located at Cleveland, and occupied that position until 1857. During the period of his agency of the railroad he contracted and built the following propellers at Cleveland: Olean, Elmira; and the New York at Buffalo. These propellers operated and ran between Cleveland and Dunkirk. In 1857, in connection with Dean Richmond, the New York Central Railroad and the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad, a line of propellers was established between Buffalo, Cleveland and Chicago, under the management of Mr. Pease, who was part owner of the propellers Galna, Mendota, Winona and Dakota. The propeller Idaho was built at Cleveland in 1861, by Dean Richmond, Sheldon Pease, Henry A. Richmond and J. M. Richmond. In 1860-61 Dean Richmond and Sheldon Pease purchased the following propellers: Fountain City, Evergreen City, Chicago and Cuyahoga. The propeller Fountain City was rebuilt at Buffalo in 1865, and made the finest passenger propeller running between Buffalo and Chicago. About 1842 the schooner Acorn and another schooner collided about two and a half miles from the piers at Cleveland, and sank in eighty-two feet of water; she was believed to be an entire loss. At that time Pease & Allen owned the steamboat United States, and with her and the aid of a vessel on each side of the wreck, the Acorn was raised and taken into harbor; the vessel was saved and the cargo in a damaged condition.

In the month of February, 1870, John Allen, President of the Western Transportation Company, purchased of the Buffalo, Cleveland and Chicago line, the propellers Idaho, Fountain City and Chicago, of Sheldon Pease, then retired from the late transportation business.

Nothing need be added to the above to indicate that Sheldon Pease has been one of the most prominent men in Buffalo, in connection with the lake marine. During his long life his character has been fully established as one reflecting honor upon himself and his associates.

(P. 298.) MARY⁵ HUMPHREY [Fam. 16 (398), S.²]. Since printing the meagre account of Mary⁵ Humphrey, first wife of Rev. Joseph Fairbank, given on page 298, his oldest daughter (by his third marriage), Mary Dian, now Mrs. A. B. Price, of No. 4 Wauchusett St., Worcester, Mass. (who was named conjointly after her father's first wife and her friend Diana Cook, of whom presently), has kindly forwarded to us an interesting old original manuscript auto-biographical sketch of her, relating to her religious life and experience. This was, evidently, toward the end of her life, after her health and vision had failed, dictated to her intimate friend and amanuensis Diana Cook,* of Marlborough, Mass., who, after her death, appended also to the same sketch, in the same hand and over her own signature, and dated at Marlborough, Mass., Aug. 7, 1812, the loving tribute of a graphic narrative of the later events of Mrs. Fairbank's life, and a pen picture of her character and person. This brochure consisted of forty-nine closely written quarto pages—the auto-biography occupying the first twenty-eight. The first three and most of the fourth and fifth pages, apparently relating to her childhood, are unfortunately lost. The remaining continuous account proceeds from the age of fifteen years, and relates her solemn vivid spiritual convictions, and her particular and varied exercises of mind, under Methodist teaching and fellowship. It reveals a tender conscience, great consistency of faith and purpose, and a complete Christian consecration. She died 29 June, 1812, aged 27 years.

Rev. Joseph Fairbank is said to have been born in Union, Ct. The name of his second wife, who is said to have been buried in the State of New York, is not ascertained. He married (3), as her third husband, about 1815, Widow Hannah Russell, whose maiden sur-name was Willber, in North Adams, Mass., and there resided a few years. In 1829 and for several years afterward, he was settled on a farm in Fitchville, Vt. He afterward removed to Springfield, Vt.,

* DIANA COOK was born in Marlborough, Mass., 5 June, 1785, the oldest child of Ananias Cook. He was son of Rev. Nathaniel Cook, of Cumberland, R. I., and brother of Nathaniel Cook, who served under John Paul Jones "on the ship Alfred, of 32 guns," and died in 1846, aged 99 years. Ananias Cook died in Marlborough, Mass., 15 Apr., 1852, aged 91 years. This family claims descent from Francis Cook, of the Mayflower. They have been of notable character, vigor and longevity, and were allied by marriage to the Bellows, of R. I., of whom was the mother of President Garfield. Diana Cook was an early and devoted convert to Methodism, studied at the then famous Leicester Academy, and was subsequently a teacher, till her marriage to Deacon John Lyscom, of Lynn, in 1822, whom she survived many years, and died at the home of her only surviving child, Caroline M., widow of George Ross, deceased, of Springfield, Mass., 21 Oct., 1873, aged 88 years, retaining her faculties and habits of social and intellectual culture and enjoyment to the end.

where his wife died in 1839. He died in Fitchville, Vt., in Feb., 1859, leaving two daughters, Mary Dian, as before mentioned, born in 1817, in North Adams, Mass., and Eunice, who married P. B. Wolcott, and died in May, 1859, leaving a family residing at Fitchville, Vt.

Sacred to the memory

MRS. MARY FAIRBANK:
Consort of the Rev. Joseph Fairbank: who departed this life June 29th, 1812,
Aged 27 years.

My mould'ring clay in silence slumbers here;
But my triumphant soul has soared away
On wings of faith, to blissful paradise:
But when the dreadful
To bid the graves open
My soul and body shall
And to the third heaven
My other self, my friend

Y., 23 Oct., 1836; removed with his parents, in 1837, to Illinois; was a farmer in early life. In 1867 he became a merchant at Washington, until 1871, when ill-health compelled him to seek farm life. Full names of children: Alonzo Franklin,⁹ Mary Eliza,⁹ Olive Elizabeth,⁹ Charles Seymour,⁹ b. 19 Mch., 1870.

(P. 596.) Dudley⁸ Humphrey [Fam. 237 (3224), S.²] was thrice married. FREDERICK⁸ (3229) died in 1867 or '68.

(P. 610.) HORATIO NELSON RUST, husband of FEDELIA⁸ HUMPHREY [Fam. 247 (3365), S.²], was son of Nelson Rust and his wife, Elizabeth Clapp. In 1841 his father removed to Collinsville, Conn., where he died in 1847. Horatio N. Rust reached his majority while living in Collinsville, his last school days being spent in Amherst Academy. After his father's death he was employed in the Collins Company's axe factory for about two years, when he took charge of the "Village Drug Store," which he afterwards purchased and conducted for about eight years, gaining some knowledge of medicine and surgery. In-door confinement not being congenial, he travelled as a salesman for a New York house for many years.

His father was an early Abolitionist, and having been raised in the anti-slavery faith, young Rust was in full sympathy with all Anti-Slavery movements. He was deeply interested in the New England efforts which made Kansas a free State; was in full sympathy with John Brown, the American "Martyr of Freedom," enjoying his confidence, aiding him all in his power, and often entertaining him at his house, in Connecticut, during the Kansas struggles, and he thanks God that he was "permitted to help those noble men who made it a free State."

During the war Mr. Rust endeavored to do his duty in caring for the wounded as surgeon's assistant, principally at Antietam and before Petersburg.

Later he removed to Chicago, where he conducted the Central Warehouse for nine years, living at Glencoe, Ill., twenty miles north of Chicago. While warehousing he was interested in the northward movement of the ex-slaves, known as "The Exodus." At the request of Gov. St. John, of Kansas, he solicited, through the Press and by circulars, contributions of money and supplies for their relief, and was influential in organizing, Feb. 8, 1880, in Chicago, an association, the "Southern Refugee Relief Association," of which he was secretary and member of its executive committee. He received from the Eastern and Northwestern States large quantities of supplies, and re-shipped them in car-loads to Topeka, Kan., where they were distributed by direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Comstock and Mrs. Laura Haviland—two noble women.

Much of his leisure time, from a boy, has been spent studying American antiquities, and the customs of the Indian. When a boy there were few helps in such studies; later, being a member of the American Association for Advancement of Science, and of the Chicago Academy of Sciences, he has enjoyed such helps. He has visited most of the States and Territories, Canada and Mexico, in this interest. While in Mexico City he was elected a member of the Mexican Historical Society. He has made large collections of pre-historic implements, opening the mounds and ancient graves in the Middle and Western States; has gathered both ancient and modern implements from the wild Tribes of Dakota, New Mexico and Arizona, including the cliff and cave dwellings of Arizona; has explored the Pyramids and the ancient grave and antiquities of Old Mexico, securing a large collection of Aztec implements and idols.

In 1882 he removed, with his entire family, to Pasadena, Los Angeles County, Cal., where he is now busy making a new home and planting an orange grove in that most beautiful country.

In 1866 he was practicing his profession in East Durham, N. Y.; has also practiced in Rockland County, N. Y. In 1884 he was a dentist in New York City. Is married and (in 1884) had a son.

(P. 683.) James^o Humphrey [Fam. 396 (4202), S.²] pursued his collegiate studies at Amherst College; early manifested an aptitude for the pen and the press; was for several years editor and proprietor of the Litchfield Inquirer. He died after a lingering illness, somewhat like that of his father.

The following tribute to his memory was taken from the Brooklyn Daily Union, of Nov. 10th, 1868:

“The death of Mr. James Humphrey, son of the late Hon. James Humphrey, member of Congress from this city, has been already announced in our columns. The funeral services were held at the house of his mother, in Columbia street. They were conducted by the Rev. Drs. Storrs and Budington, and were attended by a large number of the friends of the deceased. He now rests at Greenwood, by the side of the father, whom he loved and honored, and from whom he has not long been separated. A sufferer from the same insidious and deadly disease by which his father was stricken down, Mr. Humphrey had borne for years a heavy burden of infirmity and pain. But such was the elasticity of his spirit, that, in the intervals of comparative comfort and precarious health, he seemed as bright and blithe of temper as if suffering and debility had been to him unknown experiences. Compelled, long since, to forego the literary and editorial labors which he greatly enjoyed, and finally to retire from all forms of regular occupation, he retained, to the end, the sprightliness of mind, the wit and mirthfulness, the relish for society, the constant hopefulness and the cheerful amiability, which, from early life, had attracted the interest of all who knew him, and had engaged to him closely the affections of his friends. Richer and nobler elements than these came out, too, in his character, especially in the later months of his sore conflict. Thoughtfulness for others, a new depth and tenderness of affection, submissiveness to God’s will, a heroic patience in the midst of almost unendurable pain, a tranquil trust concerning the future, in the face of death—such as these were the powers of moral life which the ever-increasing severity of disease brought to development, as the heat of fire brings out to the light invisible writings. He greatly enjoyed life on the earth, and would gladly have had it prolonged, if it might be, for others’ sakes as well as for his own. He was ready to die, if that was God’s will, and not with rapture, but with penitent faith, awaiting the great awards of the future. After a summer full of sickness and pain, which yet could not overbear his cheerful and enduring fortitude, he died at Norfolk, Ct., early on the morning of November the 9th, 1868, surrounded by all whom he loved best.

In the Cabinet of the Massachusetts Historical Society, at Boston, Mass., are preserved the epaulets worn by General Washington, at Yorktown, Va., and presented by him to Col. David Humphreys [Fam. 28 (149), J.²], who was then his aide, and who was deputed to convey to the Continental Congress the British flags, captured on that occasion by the American army. The epaulets were subsequently presented to the Massachusetts Historical Society by Hon. Daniel Humphreys.

(P. 527.) Judge GUY HUMPHREYS McMMASTER [2571] spent his early life in Bath, N. Y., whither his parents removed when he was six months old. At the age of eighteen (1847) he was graduated from Hamilton College, in his native State, in class with Gen. Joseph R. Hawley and Charles Dudley Warner. Two years after graduation he wrote "Carmen Bellicosum," which he contributed to the Knickerbocker Magazine the same year. In the following year (1850) he wrote a history of Steuben County, of which Bath is a part. He soon engaged in the study of the law, and after practicing several years, was elected (in 1863) County Judge and Surrogate, which office he has held ever since, except for a period of six years.

Mr. McMaster's poetical work, besides the poem named, consists of "A Dream of Thanksgiving Eve," written in 1863, and contributed to the Hartford Courant; a historical piece delivered at the centennial celebration of the Battle of Newtown (N. Y.) in 1879; a poem read before the alumni of Hamilton College in 1880; "The Professor's Guest-Chamber," a midsummer-night idyl; and several campaign songs. He possesses fine ability as an essayist, as well as a verse-writer; but he rarely sets himself seriously to work in either direction. His versatility, as also the extent and thoroughness of his reading of ancient and current literature, distinguish him among the educated men of his section. A life-long acquaintance speaks of the grasp of his mind as "something appalling."

Although mainly occupied with the duties of his position, he has in the last thirty years, besides writing the poems mentioned, written many able political editorials and some graphic and entertaining letters of travel for the Steuben Courier, published at Bath.

By his neighbors he is said to be more universally respected and esteemed in the community than any other citizen, while the worthiest people of the State pay tribute to his moral excellences.

Ozias Humphrey. We have been unable to secure any definite information as to the parentage of this Ozias. His descendants say that he had no brothers or sisters; that he was a man who said but little about his early life; and that they never knew that Ozias was a peculiarly "family" name. Mrs. Euphrasia Baird (nee. Humphrey), of Holly, Mich., says that she thinks that the name of the father of Ozias Humphrey was also Ozias, for she remembers about a stranger from Connecticut inquiring for Ozias Humphrey's son, meaning her father.

The following is a part of a history which was read at a reunion of the Humphrey family, at Hemlock Lake, in 1881:

"OZIAS HUMPHREY was born in the town of Simsbury, Conn., in the year 1789. His mother's maiden name was Anna Andruss. He married Parnal Douglass, one of a numerous family living in the town of New Hartford. She was born in that town, 3 May, 1793. Her grandfather Douglass was one of four brothers who came from Scotland, and perhaps was a descendant of old Archibald Bell-the-cat. At any rate, from one of these brothers is descended the Hon. Stephen A. Douglass, the great war-democrat of Illinois.

Shortly after their marriage, Ozias and his wife removed to Otsego Co., N. Y.; thence they removed to Madison County. In 1817 they removed to Owasco, Cayuga County, and lived there five years. At this time came a desire to see their native land once more, and they returned to Simsbury.

While living in Simsbury, Ozias Humphrey followed for a short time the vocation of tin-peddler. He traveled to Boston and back on a peddling tour, but either the business was not congenial to him, or else he did not possess the requisite qualities to make it a success, and soon the peddler-wagon knew him no more. In 1826 he served a year as keeper of the State prison, at Wethersfield. He was a member of the Connecticut Militia; was a musician in a regiment in the war of 1812, which regiment was stationed at New London at the time of the attempted descent on the coast by the British fleet. He had learned the trade of a cooper, and had also worked at the carpenter and joiner trade, but, after removing to New York, his principal business was farming and teaming.

About 1829 he is remembered to have said that wood was too scarce in Connecticut, he was going where there was more timber. He moved to Cortland County, N. Y.; from there to the town of Owasco, Cayuga County, and again, to the town of Sennet.

Once more the spirit of emigration took possession of the family, and this time the family ark rested on the sterile and snow-bound hills of Springwater, Livingston Co., N. Y. At that time Springwater was but little settled. On the farm where they lived only about ten acres were cleared, and between that place and Springwater Valley there was hardly enough cleared to make a good-sized farm. The deer had not given up possession of the forest, and could still be occasionally seen.

It is but a few years since that the log house in which the family lived for five years, stood by the road on the Brewer farm. In this house was born, in 1839, Charles, the youngest, but not least, of the family.

After living on this farm five years, he moved to the farm owned by Edward Totten, and lived there five years. In 1847 he moved to the farm now owned by C. M. Humphrey.

Throughout most of the pilgrimage of the family, Anna, the mother of Ozias, had made her home with him. She died in 1842, aged seventy-six years. In 1852, Mary, the youngest daughter in the family, died. In 1856, Ozias Humphrey departed this life, three years before the death of his wife, which occurred at Springwater, N. Y., 30 Apr., 1859. Since then the family have twice been called to mourn the loss of its members—in 1868, Lucy Ann, wife of Willis Clark, of Sparta, and in 1876, Aranda, of Allegany Co.

There are now living thirty-eight lineal descendants (43 in 1883) of Ozias and Parnal Humphrey, and fifty-two (62 in 1883) descendants including those directly related by marriage.

Of those who bear the name of Humphrey in the second generation, and on whom it rests to perpetuate the name of the family, there are nine boys—two sons of Aranda, Heman and Harvey; four sons of Correll, William, Edwin, Herbert and Wilson; three sons of Charles, Ray, Charles, Jr., and Arthur."—Communicated by C. M. Humphrey.

MICHAEL HUMPHREY, THE EMIGRANT.

(P. 100, l. 4.) This statement that no trace exists in the registers of Lyme Regis of the name of Humphrey is not quite correct, as Mrs. Minima (Anwyl) Harmon, who has made subsequent extensive researches in regard to the matter, sends us the following excerpt from the Parish Church Registers of that town: "5 July, 1655, Thomas Wise and SUSANNA HUMPHRY, of Lime, were published three several Lord's days, and were married by Mr. John Davy, J. P., in presence of Thomas Wise, William Courtney and Francis Wells. Reg."

If this Susanna was the wife of Samuel Humphrey, it proves that she was still at Lyme Regis in 1655, and that Samuel must have died between 1648 and the date of her second marriage; and, therefore, that they could not have gone to live at St. Malo, as conjectured by Col. Chester.

"It is, however, somewhat remarkable," remarks Mrs. Harmon, "that the marriage of Susanna Humphrey should be the only entry of the name found from earliest date up to 1700."

Mrs. SARAH M. CHURCHILL, one of the assistant editors of this work, was born August 18, 1836, in East-hampton, Mass. Her father, Dr. Atherton Clark, was a lineal descendant, in the sixth generation, of Thomas Clarke, master's mate of the Mayflower. Her mother, Harriet Smith, was the daughter of Dr. Enos Smith, of Ashfield, Mass., who traced his ancestry to Lieut. Samuel Smith, who, with his wife and four children, came to New England in 1634; was one of the early settlers of Wethersfield, Ct.; and in 1659 removed to Hadley, Mass.

In girlhood Sarah was guileless, truthful, and of a loving, happy nature. She early became a Christian, and at the age of fifteen united with the Congregational Church.

She graduated from the Classical Department of Williston Seminary in 1855, in a class of over forty students, among whom she ranked among the foremost.

In May, 1869, she came to this city, at the invitation of the late Dr. D. P. Holton, to assist in his extensive genealogical researches, and remained several years in his employ. Here she developed that aptitude for, and skill in the prosecution of genealogical studies, which have so markedly contributed to the perfection of the present work.

She was married December 9th, 1874, to Capt. William B. Churchill, then in the service of the American Tract Society, in this city. He died January 4th, 1883, aged fifty-four years. He was a member of the Church of the Strangers, and she joined the same in June, 1875, continuing in its fellowship and communion until her decease on the morning of May 27, 1885.

Her dying confession of faith was in these words: “Jesus is my hope and righteousness.”

On May 29th, with Christian services and burial, she was laid to rest beside her husband and parents, in West Side Cemetery, at Guilford, Ct. It was the blossoming time of the lilies of the valley, and loving friends placed their pure, fragrant flowers in her casket and on her newly-made grave.

The chief feature of Mrs. Churchill's character was conscientiousness. It pervaded her whole life, and her whole life-work. Especially in this genealogy, which occupied several of the later years of her life, was this trait prominently brought to the notice of those who were associated with it. Had she belonged to the Humphreys family, she could not have been more enthusiastic and devoted, more exact and painstaking than she was in unraveling its tangled webs. Especially noticeable was this conscientiousness in the loving care and exactness with which—in the last days of her life, when she saw, but with unfaltering heart, the approach of death—she “placed her (genealogical) house in order,” arranging, docketing and annotating the whole vast amount of accumulated material, so that, at her death, it became not only possible, but easy, for her associates to carry on the work which she had so well commenced.

INDEX TO DESCENDANTS
MICHAEL HUMPHREY, THE EMIGRANT,
IN THE LINES OF HIS SONS JOHN² AND SAMUEL,²
OF THE CONNECTICUT FAMILY,
Born by the Name of HUMPHREY.

EXPLANATION.—An Asterisk (*) affixed to the name signifies that the individual is a descendant of JOHN.²
In case of double numbers prefixed to the name, the first indicates the individual's number, giving his birth in the regular family series; and the second gives his number (also in the series) as the head of a family.
A single number prefixed to the name, indicates his (or her) place in the series.
The small number at right hand of names, indicates the generation to which they belong.

1. Jonas' Humphrey was born at a date not ascertained, in the town of Wendover, in the county of Bucks, England, as is proved by the following affidavit found in the Massachusetts Archives (Liber 129, Fol. 16) and preserved in the State-House, Boston:

"The Deposition of Jonas Humphry aged sixty-eight years or thereabouts, and Robert Randall aged eighty years or thereabouts both Inhabitants of the Town of Waymouth in the County of Suffolke within his Majesties Territory and Dominion of New England in America, sworn say, That they the Deponents and each of them liveing for some time in Wendover in the county of Bucks in the Realm of England, did well know and were acquainted with Enoch Hunt of Titenden in the Parish of Lee about two miles distant from Wendover Blacksmith, and Ephraim Hunt Blacksmith the reputed Eldest son of him saw Enoch Hunt, and the said Enoch Hunt and his son Ephraim Hunt both of them afterwards removed into New England and for some time dwelt in Waymouth aforesaid, and said Enoch Hunt the Father soon returned back again to England But his Son Ephraim Hunt remained and Settled himselfe at Waymouth and there married a wife by whom he had issue Several Sons, and continued his dwelling there unto the time of his decease which was about Sixteen months since, his reputed Eldest Son Thomas Hunt now a dweller and Inhabitant of the Town of Boston within the aforesaid County of Suffolke Blacksmith still Surviving being present with the Deponents at the time of their making this Affidavit, whome they have known from his childhood And farther the Deponents say not

ROBERT X RANDALL."

2^D July 1688.

This Jonas of the above document was the second son of the Emigrant, and afterwards removed to Weymouth. Jonas Humphrey, senior, in his native land, was evidently a citizen of character and repute, holding, according to well authenticated tradition, the office of constable*—

* Copy of an ancient warrant belonging to him, and engrossed on parchment about eight by six inches in size, and still in the possession of his descendant, in the eighth generation, Richard C. Humphreys, of Dorchester (Mr. Humphreys also has original autograph signatures of the Emigrant and some of his sons. He also owns a blue-ware family sugar-bowl, made in 1657, the date (in blue) having been baked in upon the white.):

no mean position at that day. Among his papers and documents was a treatise upon the duties of his office, which has been preserved. He, with his family, removed to New England in 1637,* where they arrived 9 September of the same year, landing at Dorchester, where they lodged the first night in a house belonging to William Hammond, standing upon the spot where the dwelling of the late venerable Deacon James Humphrey was afterwards built. On the following morning he promptly began his service as a new settler by the purchase of the house in which he had lodged, with the land about it, † which has continued in possession of the family for eight generations, and where the various members carried on the same branch of business; the old tan-yard continuing well into the present century. ‡ It was located in that part of Dorchester now known as Harrison Square.

Tradition states that Jonas was a glove-maker by trade, in England, but that, after settling at Dorchester, he turned his attention to tanning, glove-making probably not being very profitable in the early settlement of the country. But little, however, has been ascertained with regard to their early history.

The age of Jonas at the time of his emigration is unknown, but he was well advanced in life, his eldest son, James, being twenty-nine years of age. It is also uncertain whether or not his wife, Frances, was living at that time, as no mention is then or subsequently made of her. He seems to have been a man of standing and respectability, and united with the Church in Dorchester in 1639. "Jonas Humphreys laid hold of the covenant the 6th day 9 mo 1639, as also his wife."—Church Record. He was a grantee of Necklands in 1637; was made a freeman 16 May, 1640; and proprietor in the great lots in 1646.

He married, for his second wife, Jane Clapp, widow of George Weeks, and niece of Richard Clapp, of Dorchester. She was born in Salcombe Regis, England, and died in Dorchester, 2 August, 1668. By her first husband she had four children: William, Amiell, Jane and Joseph.

* Hist. Dorchester, p. 124, gives the date of his coming as 1634, though the deed was not given till 1637.

† This is the family tradition, which is fairly entitled to credit. This place constituted the Humphreys homestead and has continued in possession of the family and name by succession, and is at present owned and occupied by Deacon Henry Humphreys and his maiden sister, Mary Ann, lineal descendants of the first Jonas, of Dorchester. There is a difference between the accounts of the families of Jonas and Frances Humphreys, as given by Mr Clapp in his History of Dorchester, and that handed down and given by the descendants. The traditional account mentions only two sons and two daughters, Elizabeth and Susanna, while Mr Clapp names the same and adds Sarah, who was buried in 1638, and also says there was another daughter, who married a Mr. Foye. He is probably correct, as in the transmitting of family records and traditions it was common to omit the names of such children as died young, and sometimes all who died without issue; and also because there is no evidence that there was in the Colony at the time any person or family of the name, excepting that of Patentee and Deputy-Governor John Humphrey, of Lynn. He had a daughter Sarah, for whom the above could not well be mistaken, as she had not died so early, as see Winthrop, Vol II, p 45. Of this family there is no account of the marriage of more than one daughter—Ann, his eldest, to William Palmer (p. 99). So it is probable that their omission from the recorded and traditional family accounts results from their having died prior to the preservation of such accounts and without issue. O M H

Its former owner, Wm. HAMMOND, removed to Windsor, Ct. His deed of the property to Humphrey is as follows.

"William Hammond of Dorchester, together with the consent of his wife to sell unto the said Jonas Humphrey of Dorchester my House & three acres of land lott adjoining there unto together with the Swamp before the door & also the platt of land that is my right & proper due and to be taken in at the West end of my lott next unto Roxbury: & my meadow ground at the fresh marsh the value of one acre or thereabouts with my great lott & all other rights in Common or that shall hereafter be allotted: for the sum of five and Thirty pounds to be paid unto the said William Hammond; or his assignes by the said Jonas Humphrey or his assignes for the payment thereof it is thus agreed that he shall pay the said Will^m Hammond 28 pounds at the present sealing here of and 8 pounds at the present time when the saide William Hammond shall have cleared the house of all goods and annoyances, and the other seven pounds remaining, the saide William Hammond is to have of the saide Jonas Humphrey. of meale of the value of . Jonas Humphrey died in Dorchester, 19 Mch., 1662.* His will is recorded † and dated 12 Mch., 1662, only seven days before his death. It was proved 17 Apr. following, ‡ and mentions wife, sons Jonas and James, grand-child Elizabeth Foye, and daughter Susanna, wife of Nicholas White. He makes his son Jonas his executor. 7. Elder James² Humphrey, [2] (*Jonas*¹) b. in Wendover, England, about 1608; came with his father to Dorchester, in New England, in 1637. He was also a tanner and followed that calling. He was a leading man in the town, †† and one of the most useful, prominent in every good cause. He was made a freeman in 1645. He died in Dorchester on the 12 May, 1686, in the 78th year of his age.

He was, in 1650, Bailiff of Dorchester, and for many years Ruling Elder in the Church. On 14th Feb. of the year 1686 he "moved the Church that they would look out and provide themselves another Elder, because he had long been lame and did look at himself near his departure out of this world." He also desired that he might be buried in the same tomb with Rev. Richard Mather, his early friend and Pastor; but it being stoned up and so small as to hold only one coffin, his request could not be complied with, and he was buried near him. The tomb-stone to his memory in the North Burial Ground, at Dorchester, is now in good order, having been repaired by his grand-son, Mr. Jonas Humphreys. The inscription thereon is as follows:

† The last Will and Testament of Elder James Humphrey made the sixteenth day of December in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred eighty & five, I being now aged and weak in Body, and therefore cannot expect to continue long in this life but yet of perfect memory and good understanding the good Lord be blessed and praised therefor. Do make this my last Will and Testament in manner and form as followeth. Imprimis, I commit my immortal Soul into the hands of that Eternal God that made it, And my Body after Death I leave to my Dear Relations and Christian friends to be decently buried in hope of a joyfull Resurrection at the last Day.— My Will is that my Body be buried in the same Tomb with Mr. Mather deceased late of Dorchester and formerly the Rev^d teacher to that Church. Provided that the consent of the Rev^d Mr. Increase Mather be first obtained if otherwise that my Body be buried as near unto it as conveniently as it may be; And also that my grave be dressed up with a Stone and my name and age and day of my Death engraved on it. And as for my outward Estate my funeral expenses being discharged and all just debts paid. I do give to my son in law Obadiah Hawes and his children Forty pounds to be divided into six equal parts, one part of it I give to my son Obadiah Hawes, the other five parts to his children, Viz., to his son Obadiah Hawes one part, and to James Hawes one part, to Desire Hawes one part, to Rachel Hawes one part, to Sarah Hawes one part; to be paid unto them when they shall come to be of age of twenty one years. Also I give to Daniel Elders ten shillings. I give to Joseph Weeks ten shillings, all which legacies are to be paid in Corn or Cattle, or goods or otherwise to their content, Also I give to my son Hopestill that Bed which he now makes use of, and also my bigger brass pot & lesser Erass kettle. I give to my son Isaac Ten acres of land in my Twenty acre lott, of that lott which lyeth next unto Robert Stiles his lott, beginning at the East end so runing westerly eighty four rods which land I give & bequeath to my son Isaac forever: Also I give him my Bed on which I lye and my bigger brass kettle and my lesser brass pot, & all the rest of my Estate bouth in Houseing Land of all sorts, Goods Chattels whatever else, I do now possess: all the remainder of my Estate my will is that it shall be equally divided between my two sons Hopestill and Isaac Humphreys and in case my two sons should not agree about the dividing of the Estate they shall choose each of them a man to be helpfull to them, who together with themselves, shall divide the said estate as equally as they can which being done that son of mine that will give most for toe choose he shall have it, that so all differences may be prevented.—Also my Will is that if my son Isaac be removed by Death before he hath any child then that share of the land which falleth to him by division after his Death shall be the inheritance of my grand child James Humphrey the son of Hopestill Humphreys, and in case my grand child should die before my son Isaac then I give my said land unto my son Hopestill his next son if he have any, If otherwise, and if it so be that he have no more sons I give it unto his eldest daughter and my Will is that my son Hopestill shall have no more of my Estate than is expressed in this Will. Notwithstanding any writing that may appear formerly given under my hand not for any disrespect to my eldest son Hopestill or his wife Elisabeth, for they have carried as dutifully to me as any of my children which I hope God will reward them for, but it is for some other reasons best known to myself of weight to me whereby I am moved thus to do: And do make and appoint my two sons Executors of this my last Will and Testament. And I do entreat my loving friends James Blake and Obadiah Hawes to be the Overseers of this my Will to see that it be fulfilled and performed.

11. Deacon Jonas² Humphrey, [3] (Jonas¹) born in Wendover, England, about 1620, as, in 1688, he calls himself 68 years old. Removed with his father to Dorchester, New England, in 1637. He remained in Dorchester a few years, and afterwards removed to Weymouth, a few miles to the eastward, on the shore of the bay, but at what date is uncertain, as he appears to have held a residence in both towns at the same time. He was chosen to a town office in Weymouth in 1648, while his two eldest children were born in Dorchester at later dates. He does not appear to have permanently settled in the former town until perhaps 1653 or 1654. He resided in the northern part of the town, commonly called "Old Spain," and the old homestead, on Neck Street, remained in the family for nearly two centuries. He was a man of great capacity and influence and one of the leaders of the town. He served many years as selectman, a part of the time as chairman of the board, and was a deacon of the church for a long time previous to his decease. He was made a freeman in 1653. He died 11 Feb., 1698-99, aged 79 years. His will, dated 6 Aug., 1692-3, and proved 30 Mch., 1699, is recorded in Suffolk Probate book 14, page 25, of which the following is an abstract:

Gives son SAMUEL orchard and pasture bought of Samuel Butterworth, with an acre of meadow on Western Neck, and the first share on Eastern Neck, also one-half of ten acres on Grape Island, also one acre of salt marsh by Richard Phillips on Salt Creek, and three-quarters of an acre next to James Smith, Sr.

Gives son NATHANIEL eighteen acres of pasture near his dwelling, except four acres next to Samuel Patty's; also one acre of salt marsh on Western Neck, and one and a half acres next to Natahant's Beach; also a share of land on Eastern Neck, with the use of half of the barn belonging to "my dwelling house," and the other half of the ten acres on Grape Island.

Gives son JAMES his homestead, about ten acres, with the fresh meadow on the other side of the way; also two acres on Grape Island, lately bought of Nathaniel Smith, and "my interest" in three acres on Back River, near Andrew Ford's; also one-half share on neck—about three acres; all of the salt marsh on Eastern Neck, and the four acres of land near Samuel Patty's.

Divides equally between his three sons his lots in the first and second divisions, commons and swamp.

Gives grand-son JAMES, when he shall arrive at twenty-one years, four acres of up-land by Natahant's Beach, on Eastern Neck; also eight pounds. [Son of Jonas.]

Gives grand-daughter MARY, when she reaches eighteen years, five pounds.

In case of the death of any of the heirs, the survivors are to have their portion.

The remainder of the estate is to be divided into four parts—one to Samuel, one to Nathaniel, one to James and one to the three grand-children. [Children of Jonas.]

Sons Samuel and Nathaniel executors.

The instrument was witnessed by Joseph Petty, William Chard and Mary Whitman. William Torrey and Ebenezer White appraised the estate, which was valued at £501.13.

Wife Martha and children John and Sarah died probably before the will was made, as they are not mentioned in it. He probably married in Dorchester, and his wife is only known by her Christian name of Martha. The date of her death is not known. One account says she lived until 22 June, 1712.

FAMILY 8.

68. Jonas³ Humphrey, [14] (Jonas,² *Jonas*¹) born 24 Feb., 1655, and was the first child born after the family removed to Weymouth. He resided in that town; served in the Indian campaign, in 1675, against King Philip, as a member of Captain Johnson's company. He married Mary (daughter of Richard and Elizabeth) Phillips, of Weymouth, and died 30 Oct., 1689. He was an industrious and provident man, and left an estate, which was administered upon by his widow, and valued at £1,350, of which Ebenezer White and Thomas Randall were the appraisers. Widow Mary afterwards became the second wife of Peter Newcomb, of Braintree.

Children:

69. I. JONAS,⁴ b. in Weymouth, 3 Sept., 1684; m. (1) Martha —; (2) Mary Neal. FAMILY 13.
70. II. JAMES,⁴ b. in Weymouth, but the date is not upon record. He is married in his grand-father's will, and in a deed in 1710, where he is styled of Boston. Nothing more is known of him.
71. III. MARY,⁴ b. in Weymouth, 18 Apr., 1688.

FAMILY 9.

72. James³ Humphrey, [17] (Jonas,² *Jonas*¹) born in Weymouth, Mass., 10 Sept., 1665, the youngest of the family. He resided in Weymouth, upon the homestead, and was by trade a weaver. He was well esteemed by his townsmen, who elected him to important offices—many years Town Clerk, Treasurer and Selectman. He married (1) Thankful ———, who died 1 Jan., 1699, at the age of 31 years.

(N. E. Gen. Reg. xxiii, 119.)

Mr. Humphrey married (2) Margaret (daughter of Micajah and Susanna) Torrey. She was born in Weymouth, 19 June, 1675, and died 16 Apr., 1752, aged 77 years. His death occurred 17 Aug., 1718, in his 53d year. He made no will, and his widow Margaret was appointed to administer upon his estate in the following December. The valuation put upon it by the appraisers, John Hunt, Enoch Lovell and John Torrey, was £1,232.7. [See ADDITIONS, p. 904.]

Child (by 1st marriage):

73. I. SILENCE,⁴ b. in Weymouth, 18 Dec., 1698; m. 12 May, 1720, David How. Nothing more is known of them than that they sold out their interest in her father's estate for £282, 15 Dec., 1720, and in the will of Elder Edward Bate, 1723-4, mention is made of a cellar built by David How, marking a boundary.

Children (by 2d marriage):

106. Jonas⁴ Humphrey, [69] (Jonas,³ Jonas,² *Jonas*¹) born in Weymouth, Mass., 3 Sept., 1684. He "was an industrious, peaceable and respectable man; was a weaver by occupation, and also quite a tanner for the times, and reputed to have been very systematic in his affairs. Strong drink was then seldom used, excepting for medicine; he had a pint bottle that he used to get filled with spirit at the beginning of the year, which invariably would last to the end of it."

In his farming matters, there was a great regularity, and some improvement also. "He began with the potato crop, which was nearly new at that time in the new settlement, and raised in one year a bushel and a half, which was a wonderment to all about him what he could do with so many potatoes." He resided in Weymouth until his death, in 1761, at the age of 77 years. He married (1) Martha ———, who died 22 June, 1712; married (2) (published 26 Nov., 1716) Mary Neal, of Braintree, Mass., who survived her husband about five years, and d. in 1766.

Child (by 1st marriage):

107. I. JOHN,⁵ b. in Weymouth, 17 Feb., 1710; m. Mary Penny. FAMILY 21.

Children (by 2d marriage):

108. II. MARY,⁵ b. in Weymouth, Mass., 25 Feb., 1716; m. 25 Mch., 1745, John (son of John and Patience) Green. As nothing is known of this family after 1753, upon the records, it is supposed that they removed from town. Children:
109. i. Rachel,⁶ b. in Weymouth, 13 Feb., 1746.
110. ii. Mary,⁶ b. in Weymouth, 2 Nov., 1747; m. 12 Oct., 1769, Thomas Pratt.

120. VI. SAMUEL,⁵ b. in Weymouth, 7 June, 1728. FAMILY 22.
121. VII. JAMES,⁵ b. in Weymouth, 18 Apr., 1732, "and died when about twenty years of age, reputed to have been a very large and muscular young man, remarkable for strength."

FAMILY 14.

122. Major James⁴ Humphrey, [74] (James,³ Jonas,² *Jonas*¹) born in Weymouth, Mass., 22 June, 1711. Sometimes styled upon the records of the time, Esquire, Honorable or Major, and often by the two former combined. He lived upon the old homestead, in Old Spain, which fell to him by heritage. This was located quite centrally, and was one of the finest estates in the town; the house in which he was born and always lived (probably burned about 1822) was on what is now known as Neck Street, which skirts the northerly edge of the meadow lying to the west of Green street, about midway between North and Bridge streets, on the northerly side of the street.

He was by birth, inheritance and prospects, one of the most fortunate young men in the town, and to these, as will be seen by the following sketch, he did no discredit in the long and eventful career through which he afterwards passed. The fair promise of his birth was amply fulfilled by the record of his manhood.

His life was a long and honorable one, filling positions of high trust and importance for more than half a century continuously, for which the Town, the Church and the State made grateful acknowledgment. Upon the records of the town, near the close of his public service, stands recorded a vote of thanks to him, perhaps the only one of a similar character to be found there. He always stood high in the counsels of the town, high in the estimation of the Church, and among the first in his social position, notwithstanding which almost nothing is known of his private history; here and there a scanty tradition or incident is all that remains to furnish a picture of the man in his social life. Written records are almost wholly wanting; those which naturally would have remained in possession of the family were probably burned with the old mansion.

Where and how he received his education, which was excellent for that day, with whom he lived during his minority (for he was but seven years old when his father died), must remain chiefly matters of conjecture; in fact, the record of his life, not official, must be gathered mainly from incidental mention and statements collected from various outside and private sources. The man must be known by his public life and not from the record of social affection.

The fact that his life extended through a long series of years, during one of the most eventful periods of our national history, and that he was personally a prominent actor therein, cannot fail to render any record of his life, however brief and incomplete, of much importance and interest. Born in the midst of the colonial rule, and enjoying a position enough elevated to give him an extended view of its practical workings, he was well able to judge whether or not that system of government was suited to the genius of our people, and was best fitted to sustain their interests. His intimate participation in local and colonial politics for so many years, had thoroughly prepared him for the duties that were intrusted to his care, which were to aid in the preparation of a new system of government, when the old had become unfitted for further usefulness, and to assist in its establishment.

The results of his labor served to confirm the favorable judgment of his constituents, who had chosen him to responsible positions and continued him in them for a much longer period than falls to the lot of the average public servant. In those days it was the custom to select the wisest and most substantial men to fill the offices of trust and responsibility, and young men, before marriage, were not often found among the fathers of the town. If he were a member of the church, by so much was his standing and influence enhanced. In the subject of this sketch was found a rare combination of favorable circumstances, both personal and external, that made him a desirable candidate for public favor.

He came of good stock. There was no better blood in all the town than that which flowed in his veins, from both father and mother, which in those days was a matter of no small consequence. He was a man of property, and a property qualification for an officer was a necessity at that time. He was well educated, another important requisite for a ruler in church or State, for our fathers were not wont to entrust their important interests to the hands of the ignorant. He was also a religious man. Upon the records of the old North Church, in Weymouth, among the earliest of those preserved to us of that venerable institution, it is noted that James Humphrey and his wife became members, and the date is 6 April, 1735, when he was but twenty-four years of age. He was, too, a man of family, for upon the same record, in the handwriting of Parson Smith, then a young man just beginning his ministry, there is the entry of the marriage of James Humphrey and Ann Torrey, under date of 5 September, 1734.

It is no wonder then, that the town, at its annual meeting, held in March, 1734-5, chose him to the then important position of constable, a very responsible office; and that with a sense of its importance, and of the personal duty he owed to the community in connection with it, he did not refuse to serve. It may be necessary, in explanation of this expression, to say that in consequence of the often arduous and disagreeable duties attending the service of this office at times, it had become difficult to find the proper persons who would consent to accept it, and often several were elected before the office could be filled, those chosen preferring to pay the legal fine for refusing rather than to accept the position, and such had been the case in the present instance.

As far as the records show, this was his earliest service as a town officer, and we may judge whether or not it was performed in a satisfactory manner, from the succeeding records. He was now twenty-four years old, and the public service thus voluntarily assumed was continued, by the suffrages of his constituents, almost without interruption until 1791, when we find him for the last time acting as moderator of the annual town meeting, at the age of eighty years, the interval embracing a period of fifty-six years. On the 6th of March, 1737-8, he was chosen selectman and assessor of his native town, and from that time, with the single exception of the year 1749-50, he served the town in the former capacity, and nearly always in the latter also, until 1781, when he was re-elected for the last time; but, probably from the infirmities of age and a desire for rest, he declined to serve. It was at this time that the town passed the vote of thanks, to which reference has already been made, for over forty years of continuous and faithful service; yet this did not finish his town work, for he still continued to hold important offices for the following ten years.

In 1744-5 he was chosen a commissioner to lay out highways, and also surveyor of highways. In 1748-9 he was sent to Boston, to the General Court, "to answer to a presentment." Towns in those days, as it appears, were sometimes delinquent, or charged to be so, and were called to account for the same by the colonial authorities. For this service he was paid the sum of thirty shillings, old tenor. In 1754 he was elected member of a committee to instruct the town representatives to the General Court, relative to the excise act, "which had been offered to the town to know their minds upon it"—a delicate and important duty. At the same time he was placed upon a committee "to examine the stock in the treasury to see if there be a surplus to support schools." From the earliest days of its existence, the town looked carefully after and cherished its public schools.

In the year 1755 he was chosen to represent the town in the General Court, which office he held for sixteen successive years, until 1771, through the exciting times that preceded the war of the revolution. Succession or rotation in office seems not then to have been known, or if known it was not generally approved. It was immediately after this that he was called to serve the State in a higher capacity, being elected Senator, or member of the Council, its equivalent at that time, for his district. He continued a member of the State Council, as the upper branch of the Legislature was then styled, for several years. His services in these stations were of such a character as to bring him into public notice, with honor to his native town, and an eminence to himself, attained until then by none of his townsmen. In his high position he well sustained the reputation for sagacity and sound judgment that he had held for so long a time at home; and here he took no insignificant part in the important events which culminated in the revolution, producing a radical change in the nature of our government, and brought our nation out from a dependency upon the English crown to the condition of a free people.

While the momentous struggle that brought about this important measure was in progress, and it became necessary to provide a new form of government for the administration of the infant State, when the old condition of things had been cast off, a convention was called for the purpose, to meet at Cambridge, and in July, 1779, Major Humphrey, then 68 years of age, was the man selected by the town to be its representative upon that occasion, and to assist in the deliberations of that convention which was to form a new constitution for the State in its changed relations; and in the following year he was appointed upon a committee by the town to consider and report upon the constitution thus provided.

The records of the town of Weymouth during the years immediately preceding the war of the Revolution, offer abundant testimony to the deep interest which the town took in that struggle, and show how promptly and manfully its citizens responded to the calls for aid and counsel that came to them from the State and provincial governments. In the various plans and measures that were proposed to resist the tyranny of the ministers of the Crown, and to provide for any emergency that might suddenly arise, no town was more forward and energetic, nor any that entered more heartily and cordially into any measures that promised the most speedy success. For the committees of safety of the group of towns lying southerly from Boston, towards Plymouth, Weymouth was a local centre, and her citizens were among the leading spirits at their meetings.

To show the kind of men who were accustomed to gather upon such occasions, and whose rendezvous was at Arnold's tavern, at Weymouth Landing, it will be necessary to mention but a few of the names, such as Dr. Cotton Tufts, one of the ablest men in the commonwealth; Gen. Soloman Lovell, Col. Asa White, and Capt. Nathaniel Bayley, as these were but representatives of the spirit of those engaged in the undertaking. Although older than most of his active associates thus working in the common cause, Major Humphrey, whose military title is acknowledged for the first time upon the town records under date of 17 May, 1762, was no less zealous and enthusiastic; and because of his greater experience and reputation, his counsel was sought and followed. When the wisest heads were needed upon important emergencies, he, oftener, perhaps, than any other individual, was selected to express the wishes of the town, particularly when the neighboring towns, or the State, were concerned, as when, 21 September, 1768, he was appointed upon a committee by the town to meet in Boston to counsel with like committees of other towns upon public affairs.

As illustrative of the feeling of the town, and the care taken that the public business should be wisely and judiciously performed, it may be mentioned that it had become a custom of the town, upon important questions, to give positive and detailed instructions to its representatives, and some of these are entered upon the records in full, and are very able papers. One of these, probably from the pen of Hon. Cotton Tufts, a State paper of great ability and excellence, was given to Major James Humphrey under date of 16 October, 1765. Its length precludes its insertion here, but it will well repay perusal by the historian who would obtain a correct view of the spirit and determination of the people of that day, and how closely they looked after the men to whom they entrusted important interests, and to what strict accountability they held them.

Although too far advanced in years to take active service in the field during the War of Independence, the counsel and aid of Major Humphrey, as previously intimated, were never withheld, and his continual presence upon committees to raise men and means to carry on the contest, was a constant and faithful witness to his zeal for the public welfare.

Of his military career almost nothing is recorded. He was familiarly known as Major, and it was this title that his townsmen most delighted to give him. It is fair to presume that a man of his known character and standing would never consent to wear an unmeaning honor.

That he was deeply interested in church and parish matters the public records of the old church and parish of Weymouth abundantly show. For sixty years, from 1737 to 1797, the year before his death, from his twenty-sixth to his eighty-sixth year, he was continually in office, sometimes as precinct committee, assessor, clerk or treasurer, and much of the time holding all of these offices together. Was any important business to be transacted, he must be placed upon the committee having the matter in charge. In fact no committee was complete without him.

In 1751, after the burning of the old meeting-house, he was one of the most active in his endeavors to supply its place, being one of the two largest contributors towards the building fund of the new house about to be erected; the other equal subscriber was Captain Abiah Whitman. Upon the death of Rev. William Smith, in 1783, who had been his pastor for nearly fifty years, he was appointed upon the committee for supplying the pulpit. He was also called to serve upon the various committees upon whom devolved the duty of selecting a new minister, and no light service it was found to be, as the several candidates came and went, before the vacancy was filled by Mr. Jacob Norton, in 1787.

All matters connected with the parsonage property that arose during his long service came under his consideration, and this business was a continued source of annoyance and vexation, one of the most troublesome and embarrassing that the town and the two parishes were ever subjected to. The long quarrel between the rival precincts, which in the end almost brought about a division of the town, was owing almost entirely to differences upon the rights of ownership in these lands.

Major Humphrey was too old when the difficulty reached its height to take a very active part in it, but his sympathies and influence were, as might have been expected, with his native parish, and probably had he and his neighbor, General Solomon Lovell, lived but a few years longer, and retained a reasonable share of their former activity, the result might have been different, but they both died while the matter was under consideration in the Legislature. As the affair then stood, the bill for a division of the town had passed one of the houses, and but a little greater effort at that juncture would have been needed to carry it through the other house, and, with the Governor's signature, make it a law.

We may well believe that Rev. Parson Smith, in his half century of service as pastor of the First Church in Weymouth, found in his work no more hearty and efficient supporter than Major Humphrey, nor one upon whom he could more thoroughly rely. Mr. Humphrey united with the church about the date of Mr. Smith's settlement, and his connection with it continued for some fifteen years after the death of the latter. We may also judge that he was a firm friend and supporter of education and learning, from the frequency with which his name occurs upon the town and parish records in connection with school matters.

Major Humphrey was twice married, the first time 5 December, 1734, to his neighbor, Ann, daughter of John and Mary (Symes), Torrey. She was a native of Old Spain, and born 28 May, 1715, a descendant of Captain William Torrey, the well known "Clerk of the Deputies," and one of the most prominent of Weymouth's early settlers. She died 17 December, 1751, at the age of thirty-six years and seven months, and was buried in the Old North burying-ground. On 22 Mch., 1753, Maj. Humphrey was married a second time. This wife was Silence, daughter of Ezra and Silence (Randall), Whitmarsh. She was also a native of Weymouth, born 22 November, 1732, and consequently twenty-one years the junior of her husband. Her father, Ezra Whitmarsh, Jr., was a graduate of Harvard College in 1723, and a noted man of his day. He was schoolmaster, selectman, and town clerk for many years, besides doing a large part of the law business of his neighbors. Mrs. Humphrey survived her husband for more than twenty-four years, and died 26 November, 1822, at the age of ninety years and four days, according to the town record, although her grave-stone in the old North burying-ground reads eighty-nine and one-half years. She was for years a paralytic, and helpless. While the old mansion was burning, within a year of her death, she sat calmly in her chair, and was among the last to be removed.

As before mentioned, but little is known of the social life of Major Humphrey, excepting what is gathered from a few traditional incidents. He lived at a time when the paternal rule was of the strictest, and the children were held closely to it, and this household was no exception. The family government was that of fear rather than affection, and even when the latter was known it was so mingled with reverence that it seldom approached intimacy in its relations. The children were always kept at a respectful distance, and a wholesome restraint was held to be necessary in order to preserve the proper degree of discipline. In this family the rigor of this custom was in nothing relaxed, and tradition has it that the children were not permitted to speak above a whisper in their father's presence, unless in reply to questions from their elders. To laugh in his presence would have been an unheard-of offence, and deserving of severe punishment. Without any doubt the desired result was produced, and the father, who was one of the rulers of the town, a law-maker of the State, and a high dignitary in the church, might not fail to be the autocrat by his own fireside, and was looked up to with reverence amounting to awe. Perhaps the children were sometimes quite willing that their father should be absent from home for a while in attendance upon his official duties.

From the records that have been cited there is ample testimony as to his standing in the community, and of the estimation in which he was held by his fellow citizens, who were under no obligation to do him honor, except that demanded by his character and services; and they were well qualified to be his judges in these particulars. He was honored and esteemed for his sterling qualities. His counsel was sought because his wisdom had been fully proved. His services were invited because his abilities had been thoroughly tested, and his town and State were in urgent need of men of his worth and integrity; and because he was trustworthy, he was implicitly confided in. He lived at a time when his country required wisdom, courage and prudence, and when these were demanded at his hand, he failed not to answer the requirement. The events of his day called for resolution and decision, for boldness and self-denial, and in all these he did not disappoint. Well was it for the town that he and his compatriots of like position and character were the men to whom it entrusted the honor of laying the foundations of its future prosperity; and well has it been for their successors that those foundations were broadly and deeply laid in virtue, industry and honor.

Major Humphrey was also a wealthy man for his day, probably the most so of any one in his town, the inventory of his estate amounting to nearly thirty-four thousand dollars. This was divided among his children, and it may be a matter of some interest to know what it consisted of and where it was located. His will, executed 20 April, 1786, and proved 8 May, 1798, and recorded in Norfolk Probate files, gives to Silence, his wife, one-third of that part of his real estate under his own improvement; all of his household goods; one hundred pounds in money, besides some of his farm stock.

He gives to each of his daughters, reckoning the children of his daughter Lucy, deceased, as one, the remainder of his personal estate (money and securities), to be equally divided among them all after giving each of those unmarried thirty pounds.

To daughter Margaret Pratt, the improvement of that part of the house then occupied by her, and a garden spot.

To his unmarried daughters, the liberty of living in the house he then occupied, and after the decease of his wife, the household goods were to be divided among them equally.

The sons were given the real estate with the exceptions above mentioned, his live-stock, tools and wearing apparel.

James, the executor named in the will, declining to act, the other sons, Josiah and Nathaniel, were appointed administrators. The witnesses to the will were Cotton Tufts, Cotton Tufts, Jr., and Mary Whitman.

The estate was appraised by James Humphrey 2d, Urban Bates and John Tirrell; the real estate at $18,886, and the personal estate at $14,825.23. The real estate was divided as follows among the three sons.

To James, the eldest, with other property, the farm where he then lived, consisting of fifty-six acres, located on the old Plymouth road, opposite the lane leading to the meeting-house. The place is now occupied by his great grand-son, William E. Humphrey. To Josiah the second, besides other property, the farm he then lived upon, consisting of about fifty-five acres, situated upon Middle Street, at the corner of Barberry Lane (now Essex Street), and is owned at the present time by the heirs of James H. Clapp, whose widow is a great grand-daughter of Major Humphrey; also the farm on Barberry Lane, consisting of about fifty-five acres, then occupied by Laban Pratt, and is now the town farm.

To Nathaniel, the youngest, the homestead—the quantity of land is not stated—located on Neck Street. The dwelling, an old-fashioned two-story house, of the style of two centuries ago, was burned in 1822.

The record of his death alone remains to be noticed. It occurred on the 2 May, 1798, at the age of eighty-seven years, lacking one month and twenty days. Of his last hours nothing has come down to us more than what is contained upon the public records of the town and church and the inscription upon his grave-stone on Burying-Hill, where rest the remains of the family. It reads as follows:

"Erected
 In Memory of the Hon^{ble} JAMES HUMPHREY
 Esq^r who departed this Life May ye 2nd 1798
 in the 87th year of his Age
 The sweet remembrance of the just Shall flourish when he sleeps in dust."

This, however, is known, that he passed away from the scenes of his earthly labors full of honors, bearing the respect of all who knew him. Is not this sufficient?

It may be of interest to record the following, copied from the Columbian Centinal, of Boston, 5 May, 1798:

"Died] at Weymouth on the 2^d inst. the Hon. James Humphrey, Esqr. Æt. 86. Through life he supported many important offices in the state with reputation, and whose sincere attachment to the Christian Religion, was evident in all his conduct. He is now gone to meet the reward of a good and faithful servant, leaving behind him a bright example for the imitation of others."

Colonel White was one of the foremost men of the town in his day, enjoying the confidence of his fellow-citizens to a high degree. He occupied, for a long series of years, the best positions in their gift, and never failed to fill them with ability and honor. He was also an active patriot through the whole struggle that terminated in our national independence. When the committees of safety of Weymouth and a number of the neighboring towns first met for consultation at Arnold's tavern, at Weymouth Landing (the building is yet standing and occupied as a dwelling by Frank W. Lewis, Esq.), he was chosen as clerk, while Dr. Cotton Tufts occupied the position of chairman. He was a man of large property, and resided on the Captain Adam Cushing estate, on the corner of the Old Plymouth road and Barberry Lane (now Commercial and Essex Streets), which he purchased after the death of Captain Cushing. His wife Lucy died 1 June, 1781, in her 40th year. He m. (2) 26 May, 1810, Lydia Hawes, of whom nothing more is known, excepting her death, which occurred 13 Nov., 1820, aged 80 years. Col. White died 27 Aug., 1818, in his 83d year. Children (by 1st marriage):

136. iii. Jared,⁶ b. in Weymouth, 10 Mch., 1769; m. 4 Oct., 1796, Rebecca, daughter of Josiah and Mary (Bicknell), Humphrey, his cousin, b. in Weymouth, 1 June, 1776.
137. V. ANN,⁵ b. in Weymouth, 6 July, 1746; m. (published 31 Aug., 1777,) David, son of John and Elizabeth (Gross), Blanchard, b. in Weymouth, 1 Jan., 1731. He was a man of standing and respectability, residing in Old Spain, where he died 4 Mch., 1788, aged 57 years. His widow survived him until 15 Feb., 1825, when she died at the age of 79 years. (Mr. Blanchard had previously married 28 Dec., 1758, Mary Walker, who died 19 Sept., 1773, in her 39th year, by whom he had one son, David, b. in Weymouth, 10 Dec., 1759). Children:
138. i. Silas,⁶ b. in Weymouth, 14 Jan., 1780; d. 8 Sept., 1801, in his 21st year, by suicide.
139. ii. Nathaniel,⁶ b. in Weymouth, 8 December, 1781; was a man highly esteemed and of superior ability and attainments; was town clerk for many years, and a beautiful penman, as his records abundantly testify; m. 1 Jan., 1805, Susanna, daughter of Deacon Elnathan and Ruth (Hunt), Bates, b. in Weymouth, 8 Sept., 1782.
140. iii. Elisha,⁶ b. in Weymouth, 19 Feb., 1783; m. (published 21 Jan., 1809) Jane, daughter of Isaac and Jenny (Byram), Lazell, b. in Bridgewater, Mass.
141. iv. James,⁶ b. in Weymouth, 13 July, 1784; m. Susan Waterman, daughter of Thomas and Susanna (Waterman), Gould, b. in Weymouth, in 1788.
142. v. Nancy,⁶ b. in Weymouth, 27 Feb., 1787; d. unmarried 10 Sept., 1857.
143. VI. JOSIAH,⁵ b. in Weymouth, 19 June, 1748; m. Mary Bicknell. FAMILY 21.
(By 2d marriage):

15^a. Asahel Jewell⁷ Humphrey [7^a] (Col. William,⁶ Capt. William,⁵ John,⁴ Hopestill,³ Elder James,² *Jonas*¹) was born at Winchester, N. H., 14 Nov., 1800. He married 1 Jan., 1838, Mary Elizabeth (dau. of Abraham and Elizabeth) Hinds. She was born at Hinsdale, N. H., 3 Jan., 1821, and died 2 Apr., 1877. Mr. Humphrey lived for awhile, after attaining his majority, in Boston, and went from there to Havana, to establish a branch of the Boston house, but the climate proving unfavorable to his health, he returned, at about the age of thirty-six, to Winchester, N. H., where he lived until his death. He was a grazier; Justice of the Peace and Quorum for many years; either first selectman, or representative to the General Court for many years consecutively. He was a man of great natural dignity of character, combined with much gentleness and unselfishness, and most universally esteemed by all who knew him. He died 9 July, 1861.

21^a. Asahel Willard⁸ Humphreys [16^a] (Asahel Jewell,⁷ Col. William,⁶ Capt. William,⁵ John,⁴ Hopestill,³ Elder James,² Jonas¹) was born in Winchester, N. H., 30 Oct., 1838. He was educated, primarily, at the public schools of Winchester, N. H., and subsequently at Lawrence Academy, Groton, Mass., and at Kimball Union, Meriden, N. H. After leaving school, he entered the counting room of Little, Brown & Co., the well known publishers, of Boston, where he remained until 1861, when he was made assistant cashier of the Ocean Bank, of New York. The latter position he resigned to connect himself with the iron interests, entering the service of the Sterling Iron and Railway Company, of which he soon became the treasurer, and subsequently the president. In 1864 this company acquired the ownership of the twenty-five thousand acres of land, with all the mines and furnaces upon it, which constituted the Sterling estate, in Orange and Rockland counties, New York, and on which were erected almost the earliest iron works in this State; where the second Peter Townsend made the first cast-steel in this country, the great chain put across the Hudson river to prevent the ascent of the British during the Revolution, all of the anchors for the first navy of the new American Government, and for a long term of years the charcoal iron which was required in the construction of the steam engines of the United States Government. The Sterling Iron and Railway Company, with Mr. Humphreys as its principal business official, largely extended the operations carried on at Sterling, by developing new mines, building railways, and making other important improvements; and so well known did he become in connection with the iron interests that he was urgently requested by the late Hon. Horace Greeley, then an active member of the American Institute, to prepare for it an address on iron and its manufacture, which he delivered in October, 1870, and which was published in full in the daily Tribune, covering a page of that paper, and reprinted in all the journals and periodicals devoted to metallurgy and engineering in this country and Europe. He was for several years one of the Board of Managers of the American Iron and Steel Association, and was the third member in the United States of the Iron and Steel Institute of Great Britain. The degree of Master of Arts was conferred upon him by the faculty of Williams' College in 1872, and he is a director of several corporations and railways. Always a thorough-going Republican, he has never had any liking for politics, and has not been active as a politician. He is a member of the Union League Club, of New York; the American Association for the Advancement of Science; the British Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Institute of Mining Engineers, and the N. Y. Chamber of Commerce.

He went to Brooklyn to live in 1867, and later became interested in its social and benevolent institutions and enterprises. He was chosen chairman of the member's committee of the Long Island Historical Society, and subsequently became the treasurer and a director of that institution. He was also chosen a member of the Board of Managers of the Brooklyn Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, and a director of the Union for Christian work. In 1879 he was appointed one of the trustees of the New York and Brooklyn Bridge.

He married 3 June, 1863, Miss Mary L. Cunningham, dau. of John Robinson Cunningham, of Westmoreland County, Pa., and Caroline Willey, of Boston, Mass.

FAMILY 17.

180. Rev. James⁵ Humphrey, [92] (Jonas,⁴ Hopestill,³ Elder James,² Jonas¹) was born in Dorchester, 20 Mch., 1722. He "graduated at Harvard College in 1744, and taught school in Dorchester in 1748, and was ordained first minister of Pequoiaig (now Athol), 7 Nov., 1750. On 9 Nov., 1751, he married Esther Wiswall, of Dorchester, a lady of high respectability and much energy of character, who lived to an advanced age, respected and beloved by the people of Athol. Mr. Humphrey commenced his labors at that place, under very trying circumstances. Being a frontier town, it was greatly exposed to the incursions of the Indians. It was necessary to station sentinels at the entrance of the church on the Sabbath, to avoid surprise from these devouring enemies, while others were worshiping God within. For three successive years did the first minister of Pequoiaig carry his weapons of defence into his pulpit and preach with his gun by his side. After having served the church and people of Athol faithfully upwards of thirty-one years, at his own request he was dismissed 13 Feb., 1782. He remained, however, in the town till the time of his decease, which took place 8 May, 1796, in the 75th year of his age." Mrs. Esther (Wiswall) Humphrey died 8 Mch., 1882, æ. 94 years.—*Hist. 288. Samuel⁵ Humphrey, [120] (Jonas,⁴ Jonas,³ Jonas,² *Jonas*¹) was born in Weymouth, Mass., 7 June, 1728; was a housewright, and resided upon the "homestead," in Old Spain, upon what is now North street, nearly opposite the entrance to Neck street. Just previous to the Revolution he purchased of the heirs the old estate of the Dyers, which had been in that family for 140 years, on the old Plymouth road, at its junction with the road leading to Old Spain. This property remained in the Humphrey family for three generations, and has passed out of its possession only in the present generation. Mr. Humphrey was a man of fair ability, and possessed considerable mechanical integrity, which was exhibited in the pursuit of his calling by the manufacture of very nice desks, tables, chairs and baskets. They were fine specimens of workmanship for the time. He married (1) 7 Nov., 1751, Sarah, dau. of Samuel and Mary (Phillips), Badlam, born in Weymouth, 31 Aug., 1727. She was reputed to have been an usually talented and well educated young woman. She died of a cancer, after much suffering, in 1772, aged about forty-five years. Samuel Humphrey married (2) 7 Apr., 1774, Sarah, widow of Ebenezer Bicknell, Jr., and dau. of John and Deborah (Whitmarsh), Tirrell, born in Weymouth, 24 Aug., 1730—"a pleasant and respectable woman." She died 17 Sept., 1811, at the age of 81 years. He died 10 Nov., 1800, aged 72 years, and left an estate appraised at about $5,000.

Left Winchester in May, 1784, when only fifteen years old, with an axe on his shoulder, barefoot, and in his shirt sleeves, and went on foot to Rutland, Vt., about eighty miles. He married in 1795, Hannah (dau. of Simeon) Parmelee, of Pittsford, formerly of Stockbridge, Mass. She was born 23 Oct., 1776, and died 7 Apr., 1863, æ. 86 years.

Mr. Humphrey located on sixty acres of land, bought in 1793, for $60 lawful money, in Otter Creek valley, near the north line of the town of Rutland, Vt. Here they endured all the privations and hardships of the early settlers. At one time, during the contest for titles to land between the New York Government and the New Hampshire Grants, he made the journey to Vergennes, about fifty miles, in mid-winter, on snow-shoes, to secure his title to the land bought. He died 30 Nov., 1852, æ. 83 years. Mr. and Mrs. Humphreys were both for many years members of the Congregational Church, in West Rutland, Vt.

* On 11 Mch. 1816, Josiah Humphrey declined further service as treasurer, and the town passed a vote of thanks for thirty years of faithful service in that capacity.

FAMILY 27.

358. Deacon Jonas⁶ Humphrey, [178] (Capt. William,⁵ John,⁴ Hopestill,³ Elder James,² Jonas¹) was born 11 Apr., 1777, in Winchester, N. H. Thrown upon his own resources when quite young, he left his native place and went to Underhill, Vt., where he married (1) in Dec., 1803, Caroline Dixon, of Underhill, Vt., born there in 1786; died there 14 Aug., 1804. He married (2) in 1806, Mehitable Rodgers, of Roxbury, Ct. He resided in Colchester, Vt., a few years; returned to Underhill, where he bought a farm. He was deacon of the Congregational Church of Underhill, Vt., for many years; and served his town in various ways, as Justice of the Peace, Grand Juror and Sheriff. He was very ingenious, energetic and self-reliant, observing, hospitable and appreciative. He died in Underhill, Vt., 18 Dec., 1855. After his death the much loved mother lived with her children. She died in Winters, Ill., at the advanced age of 90 years.

By their industry and economy they brought up this large family, mostly from off their farm. The mother and daughters, with very little help, spun, wove and made most of their own clothes, with simply the aid of needle and thimble. Their spinning wheel, which took the place of a piano, was very often accompanied with vocal music, making work lighter. Many are the recollections of those happy by-gone days.

476. James⁶ Humphrey, [290] (Samuel,⁵ Jonas,⁴ Jonas,³ Jonas,² *Jonas*¹) was born in Weymouth, Mass., 5 Dec., 1754. He was a man of much literary taste in his early years, which induced his parents to propose for him a collegiate education. He studied Latin, Greek and the other preparatory branches, necessary for admission to Harvard University. While pursuing these studies, his mother was attacked with a cancer, from which she suffered until it resulted in her death, about the time he was prepared to enter college, and about eighteen years of age. On account of his mother's sickness and the expenses consequent upon her death, the resources of his father were so heavily drawn upon that he could hardly see his way clear to send his son to college. He then commenced work upon his father's farm, improving such opportunity as he could obtain in continuing his studies; and soon, by request of his associates, began to teach.

On 6 Nov., 1777, he married Deborah, daughter of Abel and Deborah (Loud), Tirrell, born in Weymouth, 15 July, 1753, and soon after this he commenced teaching a public school for six months in the year. This he continued for twenty-four years in succession, and for two years at intervals afterwards. He was approved as a competent teacher in English, Latin and Greek languages, and was particularly successful in mathematical branches. He frequently taught private schools, and had large classes, from the neighboring and towns farther away, in navigation. He had also private scholars in other studies, Rev. Dr. Judson, the celebrated missionary to India, being for a considerable time his pupil, mainly in Algebra.

During most of the time from 1781 to 1805, he served as Selectman, Assessor and Overseer of the Poor, of the town of Weymouth. A large portion of the last thirty years of his life was devoted to public business—about twenty of them he was acting Justice of the Peace, and for several Notary Public, and it was truly spoken by Rev. Mr. Norton, at his funeral, that he was a man who had been useful in his day and generation. He died 12 Mch., 1819, in his 65th year. His widow survived him more than twenty-four years, and died 30 Dec., 1842, in the 89th year of her age.

568. Benjamin⁶ Humphrey, [335] (Josiah,⁵ James,⁴ James,³ Jonas,² *Jonas*¹) was born in Weymouth, Mass., 18 Feb., 1781; left home at the age of fourteen, and walked to Boston, with his bundle under his arm, to seek his fortune. By dint of unflagging industry, great natural shrewdness and strict integrity of character, he became one of the most eminent merchants of that city. He died there, 28 Jan., 1857, at the age of 76 years, leaving an estate valued at from one to two millions of dollars. He married Oriens, dau. of Col. William* and Eunice (Clapp), Turner, born in Scituate, 28 Aug., 1786, and died in Methuen, Mass., 8 Oct., 1867, aged 81 years. She received her somewhat peculiar name from the fact that she was born at sunrise, and by a strange coincidence her death occurred at the same time in the morning. She lived to enjoy her eighty-first natal day, free from all infirmities of age, reading without glasses, and nearly as active as a girl in

590. Willard⁷ Humphrey, [352] (Joseph⁶ Capt. William⁵ John⁴ Hopestill³ Elder James² Jonas¹) was born 2 July, 1803. He married in Oct., 1833, Melinda Harwood, of Pittsford.

Mr. Humphrey and his younger brother, Moses, were the pioneers of the marble business of Rutland, that has since grown into such an immense industry. Their works were at Sutherland Falls, Vt., a village in the north part of Rutland. They opened the first marble quarry, and built the first mill, and started the first saw for cutting marble in that town. The first marble block that was put under the saw there, was taken by these two men from the land purchased by their father in 1793, this same marble deposit being now extensively worked and manufactured by the Columbian Marble Co.

The financial pressure of 1838 drove him out of the business. He was a music teacher of considerable reputation for some years after this, when he removed to Schroon, N. Y. for a short time; from there to Pittsford, Vt., where he died in 1871.

Children:

FAMILY 45.

616. Dr. Jonas⁷ Humphrey, [375] (Dea. Jonas,⁶ Capt. William,⁵ John,⁴ Hopestill,³ Elder James,² *Jonas*¹) was born 25 Mch., 1820. He married Jane A. Abbey.

"Born and reared among the green mountains of Vermont, the cradle of so many of our eminent men, he inherited that energy of character and determination of purpose that characterizes the sons of New England.

"After graduating at Castleton Medical College of Vermont, in 1845, he at once turned his face towards the Keystone State, there to find a home, and to build up a reputation. How well he has succeeded is a matter of history.

"In the then quiet village of Union Mills, Pa., in 1848, Dr. Humphrey hung out his sign and established a practice that had a steady growth for a quarter of a century, until its dimensions became so great that in trying to fill the calls upon his medical skill he exhausted his strength, broke down his once iron constitution, and fell a victim to a disease superinduced by the fatigue, exposure and hardship of his extensive practice.

"Few, if any, of our citizens were more widely or favorably known than Dr. Humphrey. His name had become a household word, and was endeared to many by his kind deeds as a neighbor, social virtues as a friend, and sterling qualities as a man. Dr. Humphrey left a comfortable property, and, what is of more value to his children, the legacy of having been an honest man."—Communicated.

He died at Union Mills, Pa., 20 July, 1869. æ. 49 years.

629. Deacon Henry⁷ Humphreys, [447] (Dea. James,⁶ Henry,⁵ Jonas,⁴ Hopestill,³ Elder James,² Jonas¹) the twelfth child of his parents, was born in Dorchester, Mass., 8 Apr., 1801. He married (1) 2 Dec., 1830, Sarah Blake (eldest child of Richard and Mary Blake) Clapp, of Dorchester, now South Boston, a direct descendant from the Clapps who came in the ship, "Mary and John," the Roger Clapp family. She was born 29 July, 1808. He married (2) 14 July, 1851, Catherine (sister of his first wife) Clapp, born 26 Nov., 1815.

In 1884 he was in good health, and living in the house in which he was born, never having slept out of it a dozen nights in nearly eighty-two years. Four generations have lived in this house, on the corner of Stoughton and Humphreys streets, Dorchester. There was formerly an extensive tannery on the premises, which has been relinquished within a few years, and given place to other improvements.* He is Deacon of the Unitarian Church, at Dorchester, as was his father before him. He and his wife are both of the seventh generation (Humphreys and Clapp), from the first settlers in Dorchester of their respective families, and these families have never intermarried with any but natives of the town, except in two cases,† one to the daughter of Rev. William Thompson, first minister to Braintree (now Quincy); and the other, to a daughter of Rev. Samuel Dexter, of Dedham.

Three of his sons have built houses, and have families on the spot where the ancestor Jonas settled in 1634.

* "They were glovers by occupation, but coming to this country, their trade was of little consequence. They turned their attention to tanning, and set down a yard in front of the house, which has been occupied by seven generations." (See p. ; also note † on same page. † Blake Genealogy, 1857.

He married 19 Jan., 1814, Elizabeth, daughter of Elisha and Elizabeth (Bates), Jones, born in Weymouth, 25 Sept., 1791; d. 4 Jan., 1860.

Esquire Lemuel Humphrey was a man of unusual ability, and of a good academic education—for many years one of the most influential men of the town. He was long a teacher there, and as such enjoyed a high reputation—the older members of the present generation well remember him as one who believed in the disciplinacy rod, and did not spare its use. He held the position also of village lawyer, doing most of the local business, such as drawing up legal documents, and surveying. Probably no one was more familiar with the real estate in the "North Parish" than he who made most of the transfers that took place in the first half of the nineteenth century. He was also highly esteemed by his townsmen for his judgment, sagacity and honesty, as evidenced by the fact that they retained him in their most responsible offices during the greater part of his life, such as Selectman, Assessor, Town Treasurer, and Representative in the State Legislature.

The following entry, showing the esteem in which he was held, occurs with the record of his death upon the Church records (of which he was not a member): "A prominent and useful citizen—a pillar in the society—a constant attendant upon public worship."

Although not a member of the Church, he belonged to the Parish, in which he always took a deep and active interest.

ADDITIONS AND CORRECTIONS.

RECEIVED TOO LATE FOR INSERTION IN THEIR PROPER PLACE.

(P. 850.) W. B. Trask, in "Notes on Princes Subscribers" (N. E. Reg. viii, 250), says: "This was probably the JAMES HUMPHREY who was one of the Selectmen of Weymouth from 1700 to 1703-4, and again in 1711; who was chosen Town Clerk in 1712, 1705-16 and 1716-17. He is presumed to be the person, also, to whom the following record refers: 'James Humphrey (and others), who had agreed to begin a fishing trade to Cape Sable, request of the town of Weymouth a piece of land, at the mouth of the river, in the north part of the town, called Hunt's Hill, and low land and beach adjoining, which the town voted to give' (with three dissenting votes), Mch. 7, 1714-15. James Humphrey (probably this one) was Selectman in Weymouth 1737-8 and 1738-9."

(P. 873.) HANNAH⁷ HUMPHREY [453] married 1 Feb., 1802, Samuel A., son of John and Elizabeth [or Mary] (Andrews), Nash, b. in Gray, Me., 21 Feb., 1779, where he continued to reside. Children:

- iii. Barzillai,⁸ b. 16 Mch., 1807; m. 4 Apr., 1833, Lavina Hicks.
- iv. Lewis.⁸
- v. Sarah.⁸
- vi. Mary J.⁸

(P. 873.) Rev. Aaron⁷ Humphrey [451] was a Clergyman and Home Missionary; m. Ashure, dau. of Asa and Abigail (Colbroth), Libby, of Gray, Me.

He commenced his labors in the Methodist connection, and was the first employed at Union, Me., in 1797-8. July 16, 1798, the town voted to hear him another year, if the committee could agree with him "for half the time, as heretofore." He subsequently took orders in the Episcopal Church, and ministered for a time (1812) to the congregation in Gardiner, Me. He next became the first minister of the Church at Quaker's Farm (a small village in the western part of Oxford, originally in the north-western part of Derby), to which he went from Gardiner, Me., in the fall of 1814, the house of worship having been previously finished. In the spring of 1816, he accepted the charge of St. Peter's, of Oxford, in connection with Christ Church, at Quaker's Farm, which was then denominated a chapel, when he made his residence at Oxford, and in this relation he continued until 1819, when he accepted the appointment by the Diocesan Convention, of Itinerant Missionary, in New Haven County. The Church of Quaker's Farm was consecrated by Bishop Hobart, Sept. 3, 1817.

He was afterwards rector of St. Luke's, Lanesboro', in 1820-30, when he removed to the diocese of New York, and for some years served the parishes of Waddington and Ogdensburgh. He then organized a parish at Beloit, Wis., and labored there until age compelled him to rest, after more than fifty years of ministerial work. He was much respected, and died at Beloit, Wis., 10 Oct., 1858, æ. 88 years.—Crosly's Ann. Obil. Notices, 1858; Hist. Union, Me.; Hist. Derby, Conn.; app. 785.

(P. 880.) Henry Benjamin⁷ Humphrey [569] was born in Boston, Mass., 16 Oct., 1809. He was educated at the "Mayhew Grammar School," under the charge of masters Mulliken and Holt, and on the organization of the "English Classical," afterwards changed to the "English High School," under the charge of Master George B. Emerson, he was a member of the first class who entered that school. On leaving this school, he commenced his mercantile apprenticeship with Messrs. Tappan & Mansfield, importers and dry goods merchants, in Boston, and continued with them until the dissolution of their co-partnership, and then continued with Mr. Isaac Mansfield, a cousin of his mother, until the time of his coming of age. After a short vacation, with the assistance of his father, he formed a mercantile co-partnership with the late John H. Pearson & Co., on Commercial Street, Boston, and after a very prosperous business career, was enabled to retire from active business, and gratify his long and ardently cherished desire of making an extended tour of Europe. He remained abroad four years, in travelling, visiting all places and objects of interest, crossing the Desert from Alexandria and Cairo to Palestine, and through the Holy Land and Europe. After this he travelled in this country, spending much time in Washington, and finally settled down at Thomaston, Me., where he married Pastora Elizabeth Mason, of that town.

Mr. Humphrey was nominated by President Polk, of the United States, and confirmed by the Senate, as Consul for Alexandria, Egypt, but declined to accept the appointment, as the promise made to him, of the office being raised to the rank of "Consul General," was not fulfilled. It has since been done.

With the ample fortune inherited from his father, and with a most decided taste for intellectual pursuits, Mr. Humphrey spent his time in collecting a private library at Thomaston, where he resided, which, for rare editions, elegant type and bindings, also variety of subjects, has never been surpassed, if equalled, in this country; it contained some 10,000 volumes. His letters to his brother, Mr. Francis Josiah Humphrey, from Jerusalem and Beyrout, giving a full and very interesting account of his sojourn in Egypt and Palestine, were published in the columns of the "Boston Post" at the time of their reception, and attracted much attention; in fact, so great was the demand for them, that the publishers were obliged to issue an extra edition of the paper.

He very early took great interest in politics, often sitting up late at night, writing ballots, before printed ones were authorized. He was for many years an active and faithful member of the Volunteer Fire Department, as well as of the Military Volunteer Associations.

Mr. Humphrey was appointed a Commissioner to the late "Paris Exposition," for the State of Maine, and as a further mark of confidence and respect on the part of Governor

Chamberlain at that time, was appointed on his Military Staff, with the rank of Colonel. It is noteworthy that he should have died at the same age as his maternal grandfather, Colonel William Turner, whom he seems to have resembled in all respects, both as to bodily activity, and mental and moral characteristics. He was initiated as a Mason at Paris, France; and was a member of Claremont Commandery of Knights Templar, in Rockland, Me. Mr. Humphrey died in Newport, R. I., 29 Feb., 1872. He left no children.

(P. 880.) Francis Josiah⁷ Humphrey [570] was born in Boston, 17 May, 1812. He was a graduate of Harvard College, in the class of 1832. He studied law, and practiced for a short time in Boston, after which he entered in business as a partner of the firm of S. H. Pearce & Co., in the importation of silk goods. He received two Franklin medals, one at the "Mayhew Grammar School," and one at the "Boston Latin School." He also received three diplomas from Harvard College, conferring on him the honors of Bachelor of Arts, Master of Arts, and Doctor of Laws.

Mr. Humphrey was married in Boston, in the fall of 1850, to Susan Charter. They resided in Boston for a few years after marriage, and then removed to Harrison Square, where he died, 9 Aug., 1883, having survived his wife eight years. Mrs. Humphrey died 3 July, 1875, at Harrison Square. Her mother's maiden name was ——— Donalson, of Boston. Mrs. Humphrey was born in 1821. In a sermon, in memoriam, preached in the Church which Mr. Humphrey had attended for seventeen years, at Harrison Square, 2 Sept., 1883, his pastor, the Rev. C. D. Bradlee, speaks of him as one "loving in heart, strong in mind, and with a body wonderful for activity, and grace and beauty.

He then returned to Boston, where he died, 21 Apr., 1855, aged 39 years, beloved and respected by all who knew him.* Mrs. Caroline A.

* Mr. Riley was a son of Michael Riley, a native of Ireland, who came to America, with two brothers, when a young man, and brought a letter of introduction to Governor Clinton, of New York at that time, who was born in the same county, in Ireland. Michael Riley, Sr., settled in Boston, and died in the year 1848, aged 74 years. He married Mary Burbank, of Middletown, Connecticut, of American parentage, and a Protestant at the time of her marriage, but a short time after, she changed her faith to Catholicism, the religion of her husband. Mrs. Mary Riley died 17 Oct., 1875, aged 92 years, having survived a family of five sons and two daughters, also four grand-children. Michael Riley, Jr., had no children.

OXFORD (EAST DOUGLASS), MASS.

Thought to be a Son of Arthur Humphrey, of Woodstock, Ct.

1. Ebenezer^r Humphrey is said to have been one of thirty who came from England and settled in Oxford, Mass., in 1713. He is supposed to be the son of Arthur Humphrey, of Woodstock, Conn.* In the copy of a deed conveying the lands in that place to the "Second Company of Settlers," † at that date, his name occurs as one of those to whom the grant was made. In the "draft of y^e first Division of Land voted to be drawn on January y^e 18th, 171¹/₁₅. To each man of the 30 to his house lot—his choice according to the lot he draws—each man's lot to be 60 acres," Ebenezer Humphrey was number 7.—Oxford Records. His lot of land was the same that had been previously assigned to one Boudinot or Bouderie, a French Huguenot, who had afterward settled in Boston. The French church and burying-ground were on the same lot, and near the dwelling-house of Ebenezer^r Humphrey. The remains of the church, a log

* Arthur Humphrey resided in Woodstock, Conn. He married Rachel ———; and the dates of birth of their eight children are recorded in Woodstock. Arthur is entered as "son of Arthur," and the others as children "of Arthur and Rachel." Woodstock was at first called "New Roxbury," and the name "Arthur Humphrey" is found in the list of those who settled there in 1686. "These colonists were all men of good position and character, connected with the best families of Roxbury" (Mass.). In distribution of house-lots on the westward hill, Arthur Humphrey has twelve acres, "west of Peacock's, and bounded west by highway."

Mr. Humphrey removed to Ashford, Conn., about 1719-20. It is recorded that he "and other sons of Woodstock helped to lay the foundations of Ashford." (See History of Windham County, Conn., by Miss E. D. Larned, vol. i, pp. 22, 26, 45, 233, 549. Records furnished by Royal Paine, 51 Fort Green Place, Brooklyn, L. I. Also statement of Capt. Ebenezer Humphrey, concerning his ancestors.)

Children:

- I. ARTHUR, b. 14 Mch., 1689-90.
- II. EBENEZER, b. 22 Aug., 1692. (See Family 1.)
- III. RACHEL, b. 4 June, 1695; m. 5 Aug., 1714, William Ward, of Ashford, Ct. She was "of Woodstock" at the time of her marriage.—Woodstock Records.
- IV. ANNE, b. 3 July, 1698.
- V. MEHITABLE, b. 22 Aug., 1700.
- VI. JOHN, b. 15 Apr., 1702. He was living in Ashford, Ct., in 1753, and signed a petition to the General Assembly, dated 22 September of that year.
- VII. TABITHA, b. 10 June, 1704.
- VIII. SAMUEL, b. 17 Oct., 1711.

† The first settlement of thirty French Huguenot families, of date 1686, had been dispersed by the Indians about 1696.—See Dr. Holmes' Memoirs of the Settlement of the French Huguenots in the ancient town of Oxford.

building, which had been burned by the Indians, were still visible when the English arrived in 1713. The burying-ground contained about twenty graves lying east and west, with one very large grave near the middle of the yard, extending north and south.

Mr. Humphrey was born about 1691, and died 19 May, 1763, aged 72 years. He married 21 April, 1732, Sarah Reed, of Oxford, Mass. She was born about 1701, and died 12 Mch., 1784, aged 83. The dates of birth, marriage and death of many of their descendants are found recorded in Oxford, Mass.

Children:

2. I. RACHEL,² b. 21 Nov., 1732; m. 4 Oct., 1753, Jonathan Phillips, of what is now called Webster, Mass. She is styled "of Oxford," at the time of her marriage.

* An ARTHUR HUMPHREYS, of Vershire, Orange County, Vt., born about 1770, removed to Erie County, New York, in 1806, and there raised a large family. He was probably the Arthur, the eighth child of the above family. He resided in Holland, Erie County, N. Y., and died in 1854, aged 84 years.

Children (as far as known):

- I. ARTHUR R., "one of the older sons," resided (1872) in Maquoketa, Jackson Co., Iowa.
- II. JAMES M. (Hon.), b. in Holland, Erie Co., N. Y., 21 Sept., 1819. Has been District Attorney of Erie County; served also one term in Congress, as representative from the Erie, N. Y., district; and as an ad interim Judge of the City Court, by appointment of George Hoffman. He has a family, including several daughters, who were born in Erie Co., N. Y. Res. (1882) Buffalo, N. Y.

FAMILY 3.

22. Captain Ebenezer² Humphrey, [6] (*Ebenezer*¹) was born in Oxford, Mass., 22 June, 1741. He married Ruth ———, and settled in his native town, and there resided until his death, in 1839. He lived, excellently preserved, to the age of 98, and having been born in 1741, his recollections reached back to an early period of the English settlement at Oxford, many of which are preserved.*

“At the commencement of the revolution, Captain Humphrey was in the vigor of manhood, and early participated in the privations and perils of the war. He was out as first Lieutenant at New York, in 1776, at the capture of Burgoyne, in 1777, and afterwards commanded a company stationed near Rhode Island to guard the coast. But during the war his services were little less valuable than in the field. It is a singular fact, but it must be an acknowledged one, that the war of the Revolution originated in the spirit of our towns, and was prosecuted by these means. It has recently been said by a distinguished citizen that ‘the Revolution would never have been achieved without them.’ Capt. Humphrey shared largely in the administration of these municipal affairs, and notwithstanding his means were limited, he contributed what would be equivalent to one-third part of the support of one soldier during the war. Under the pension law of 1832, he received a partial return for the great sacrifices he had made in the service of his country. He always spoke with much feeling of the distresses of the people, after the Revolution, growing out of a depreciated currency, coupled with enormous taxation. It finally led to the Shay’s Rebellion. But, although Oxford was a Shay’s town, Captain Humphrey stood firmly on the side of the government and the laws, and when he found great numbers of his friends embroiled and about to rush into a civil war, he coolly advised them that ‘they had better go home.’ He was a patriot in the true and best sense of the term. His patriotism was based upon a sense of civil and religious duty, and not upon a miserable selfishness that seeks nothing but popular favor. He was long one of the deacons of the Congregational Church in Oxford, and to those of the present generation he was best known as ‘Deacon Humphrey.’ His character was not less remarkable for his piety than his patriotism; and he will long be remembered as a sample of those men of another age who had not only the valor to achieve, but the virtue to perpetuate our national independence.”—Worcester Spy, 1839.

Children:

23. I. PETER,³ b. 3 Jan., 1762; d. 6 June, 1763, aged one year and five months.
24. II. MARY,³ b. 26 May, 1763; d. in June, 1769, aged six years.
25. III. RUTH,³ b. 14 Mch., 1765; m. 22 Mch., 1789, John Crane; “both of Oxford.”
26. IV. STEPHEN,³ b. 13 May, 1767.†

* In the appendix to the Memoir of the French Protestants Settled at Oxford in 1686, we find the following: “My first visit to Fort Hill, in Oxford, was 20 April, 1819. It is about a mile southerly of the inn, kept many years by the Campbell family, at the union of the two great roads from Boston and Worcester, about fifty miles from Boston. * * * In May, 1825, I visited Capt. Ebenezer Humphrey, and obtained from him satisfactory information concerning the place of this second fort (to which allusion has previously been made in the article from which this is taken), and the meeting-house, and the burying-ground. Captain Humphrey was in his eighty-fourth year. He told me that his grand-father was from England, and that his father was from Woodstock, and came to Oxford to keep garrison. He himself now lives where his father lived, about half a mile west from Oxford village. His house is near a mill standing upon a small stream that runs on the left, near the great road leading to Norwich.”

Capt. Ebenezer Humphrey was 20 years of age when his father, Ebenezer, aged 70, told him about the fort, &c.—Mass. Historical Collections, Vol. II, 3d Series, pp. 80, 81.

† STEPHEN HUMPHREY, styled “great grand-son of Deacon Humphrey,” is said to have had the following children. As Stephen, son of Deacon Ebenezer, is the only one of that name mentioned on these records, and from the dates they might be his children, we place them here, awaiting further information:

DESCENDANTS OF
EBENEZER HUMPHREY, OF MASS.,
AFTERWARD OF WINDHAM COUNTY, CONN.

MAY BELONG TO THE CAPT. EBENEZER HUMPHREY FAMILY, OF OXFORD, MASSACHUSETTS.

1. Ebenezer¹ Humphrey, according to some accounts, was born in Windham, or Tolland County, Conn., about 1725; and according to others, was born in Massachusetts and removed to Windham, Conn. He married (1) Betsy ———. He married (2) about 1780, Lucy (daughter of Joseph) Robbins, born in 1750. She died at Chatauqua, N. Y., in 1835, aged 85 years, having been deaf from her youth. She married (2) ——— Cheney.

There is a tradition that Ebenezer Humphrey had brothers in Massachusetts. Mrs. Avis Newton, of Geneseo, Henry Co., Ill., thinks she remembers a tradition that her father (Joseph²) had five half-brothers; but her brother, Captain Jasper, the contributor of this line chiefly, thinks it a mistake, and that the tradition refers to Ebenezer.¹

Children (by 1st marriage):

2. I. EBENEZER²; m. ———. FAMILY 2.
3. II. BETSEY²; m. ——— Kingsbury, of Connecticut.

FAMILY 5.

51. Captain Jasper³ Humphrey, [26] (Joseph,² *Ebenezer*¹) was born in Danville, Steuben Co., N. Y., 15 Mch., 1812. He married 13 Feb., 1835, Sarah (dau. of Thomas) Bull, of Pomfret, Chautauqua Co., N. Y., born 3 Aug., 1811.

Mr. Humphrey was of a roving disposition; followed a sea-faring life for forty years, and was a successful navigator. He commanded a number of ships at different times, both at sea and on the lakes; was commander of three different steamers, at different times, in the passenger trade between Milwaukee and Grand Haven. He has not sailed since 1869. He now lives in Milwaukee, and is in his seventy-fifth year. He has held many civil offices since taking up his abode on the land; has held the office of County Supervisor, Alderman three years, and member of the State Legislature; was Vice-President of a Marine and Fire Insurance Company; was, for about three years, Inspector of the Marine Board of Underwriters, for the inspection of vessels, captains, and mates. The last office held was that of Harbor Master, at Milwaukee, for five years. He has also been Master of a Masonic lodge. To his interest we are especially indebted for much of the history of this branch of the family. Res. at 292 Hanover St., Milwaukee, Wis.

SOME ACCOUNT OF A BRANCH OF A FAMILY OF HUMPHREYS, OF DUDLEY, MASSACHUSETTS.

Contributed to the writer (Dr. O. M. Humphrey) by Mr. Harry M. Humphrey, in 1871, at Minneapolis, Minn.*

There were, some time prior to the Revolutionary War, three brothers (whether others, members of the same family, not known), born in Dudley, Mass. The order of births is not certainly known, but presumed to be as follows:

1. Elijah¹ Humphrey. FAMILY 1.

2. Stephen¹ Humphrey, was a Commissioner to establish the suits of lands in Rensselaer Co., N. Y., and died in Stephentown, N. Y., leaving three children (perhaps others), two sons and one daughter.†

Children (as far as known):

- I. VAN RENSSELAER²; married, settled, and raised a family in Oberlin, O.; was there in 1884.
- II. JOHN²; married; resided in La Grange, O., and died there about 1849, leaving a family.
- III. DAUGHTER ———².

3. Noah¹ Humphrey; married, and settled in Hartford, Ct., and had at least two sons—one of them thought to be named Mark. [See p. 918.]

FAMILY 1.

1. Elijan¹ Humphrey, of Dudley, Mass., married 13 Sept., 1778,‡ Esther Brown; settled in Dudley, and raised a family there. He was noted for his great physical strength and activity. He served three years in the Revolutionary War, and bore the reputation of a brave soldier, and of a good citizen.

Children (dates of birth from Dudley, Mass., Records):

2. I. SARAH,² b. in Killingsly, Ct., Jan. 15, 1779; m. ———; settled in Hartford, Ct.
3. II. EBENEZER,² b. 29 Oct., 1780; removed to Little Falls, N. Y., and was residing there in 1810.

* MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Apr. 30, 1883.

This contributor, since dead, was a well-preserved old man, and has descendants of excellent character in this State. O. M. H.

† Dudley (Mass.) Records give the births of the following daughters of STEPHEN and ROXALENA (probably this Stephen), viz.:

- I. FIDELIA TAFT, b. 9 Nov., 1812.
- II. ADALINE DE'LENARRY ERNESTINE, b. 1 July, 1814. [See note †, p. 911.]
- III. JULIA AMBLER, b. 8 Dec., 1818.

The same records also give date of marriage of Stephen F. Humphrey and Roxlancy Brown as May 27, 1812.

‡ In Dudley Town records of his marriage, is noted as "of Killingly, Ct."

4. III. ROSANNAH,² b. 17 Nov., 1781; m. Samuel Bartholomew, second brother of Hannah Bartholomew, of Woodstock, Ct., and settled in the city of Hartford. There he died, leaving his wife and two daughters.
5. IV. ELIJAH,² b. 20 (or 28) Aug., 1784; m. Hannah Bartholomew. FAMILY 2.
6. V. JACOB,² b. 11 Feb., 1786; died, single, in Hartford, Ct.
7. VI. NOAH,² b. 12 Feb., 1790; lost at sea, by being blown from a yard-arm in a storm, on a voyage to the West Indies; was unmarried.
8. VII. JOHN,² b. 18 Apr., 1791; married in Hartford, Ct., and it is thought died there, or in New Britain, Ct., having two sons and one daughter—possibly other children.
9. VIII. SAMUEL,² b. 24 Sept., 1792; m. in Hartford, Ct.; resided there till 1824, and in 1825 was residing in Albany, N. Y.
10. IX. ESTHER,² b. 22 May, 1793.

FAMILY 2.

11. Elijah² Humphrey, [5] (Elijah¹) was born 20 Aug., about 1784, while his father was in the Revolutionary Army. He married Hannah Bartholomew, of Woodstock, Ct., in June, 1803, and settled in Wethersfield, Ct.; afterward, about 1807, settled in Tyringham, Mass.; afterward removed to Wellington, Lorain Co., Ohio, where he died in 1846. His wife survived him about thirteen years, and died in August, 1859, in Dutch Creek, Iowa.

Children (from New Marlboro, Mass., Town Records.):

12. I. HARRY M.³, b. 10 May, 1804; m. Electa Wadsworth. FAMILY 3.
13. II. SANDFORD,³ b. in Windsor, Ct., 11 Jan., 1806; m. (1) Betsy Wadsworth, of Tyringham, Mass., by whom he had one child; m. (2) Lura Stickland (widow of Marcy), of Berkshire, Mass., by whom he had a son and two daughters. He died in Iowa.
14. III. NORMAN A.³, b. in Windsor, Ct., 5 Apr., 1807; d. in Huntington, Ohio; childless.
15. IV. ESTHER,³ b. in Tyringham, Mass., 20 Aug., 1808; d. in Brighton, O., in 1824; single.
16. V. MARIA,³ b. in Tyringham, Mass., 11 Sept., 1810; m. Daniel Smith; d. in Wellington, Ohio, leaving a son and two daughters.
17. VI. ELI BARTHOLOMEW,³ b. 11 Jan., 1812; m. Lucia (dau. of F.) Snow. Reside at Dutch Creek, Ohio; has two daughters and a son.
18. VII. BETSEY,³ b. 23 Jan., 1814; d. single.
19. VIII. ALFRED³; m. (1) Olive Snow; moved to Fairfield, Iowa; m. there, (2) ———, and moved to Oregon; has three children.
20. IX. PARMELIA³; m. Alvin Messenger; settled in Ohio; removed to Ill.; has three daus.
21. X. HORATIO N.³ Resides at Dutch Creek, Ohio; single.
22. XI. HARRIET J.³; m. (1) Luzerne (son of Hugh) Humphrey, of Great Barrington, Mass.; m. (2) James Sherman; has three sons and one dau. by first, and a son by second husband. Reside at Creswell, Iowa.
23. XII. ESTHER.³

FAMILY 3.

24. Harry M.³ Humphrey, [12] (Elijah,² Elijah¹) was born in Wethersfield, Ct., 10 May, 1804. He married 28 May, 1826, Electa Wadsworth, of Nelson, Ohio. They resided chiefly in Huntington, Ohio, till 1855, when they removed to Minnesota. Mr. Humphrey has been a farmer. He still retains extraordinary powers of mind and character, and has always borne the reputation of a strong man and a good citizen.

Children (all born in Ohio):

25. I. PHEDYNIA ARISTONY,⁴ b. 4 Apr., 1827; died single.
26. II. ALMARITTA ANN,⁴ b. 20 Oct., 18—; m. Chauncey Greene, of Milan, Ohio. She died, leaving three daughters.

32. VIII. HORATIO HERBERT⁴; m. Rosa L. Bodwell, of Minneapolis. Resides in Minneapolis.
33. IX. JOHN WADSWORTH.⁴ Resides at Granite Falls, Minn.; unmarried.

From the Town Records of Dudley, Mass., Hartford County (Ct.) Probate Records, letters of Lieut. CHARLES H. HUMPHREY, of New York City, and Mrs. J. M. Barnard, of Oxford, Mass., we have constructed the following genealogy of a family which we believe to be connected with the above. In fact, we think it probable that the ISAAC and MARY mentioned below were the parents of the ELIJAH, STEPHEN and NOAH Humphrey before mentioned:

Isaac Humphrey; m. Mary ———.

Children (from Dudley, Mass., Records):

- I. MARY, b. 19 Sept., 1761.
- II. ESTHER, b. 30 June, 1764.
- III. NOAH, b. 12 Aug., 1767.

Then, we find also the record of an ISAAC HUMPHREY, "Jr." (probably the son of the above Isaac), who married 22 Dec., 1768, Susannah Lebert. Child:

- I. LEMUEL, b. 17 May, 1769.

According to our theory, the family of ISAAC and MARY should stand thus:

- I. ISAAC, Jr. (See above.)
- II. ELIJAH. (See p. 916.)
- III. MARY, b. in 1761.
- IV. ESTHER, b. in 1764.
- V. NOAH, b. in 1767. FAMILY 1.
- VI. STEPHEN. (?)

FAMILY 1.

I. Noah¹ Humphrey, was born in Dudley, Mass., 12 Aug., 1767. He settled in Hartford, Conn., where he died (according to his tombstone in the Old South Burying-ground, in that city), 15 Apr., 1824, aged 57 years. The inventory of his estate (Hartford Co. Probate) is dated January, 1826. He may have been the Noah who married Ann Bidwell,* of East Hartford, Ct., and had a son—possibly mentioned in a record of deaths in Hartford, in possession of the Conn. Hist. Society, as follows: "Noah Humphrey's child, died Sept. 8, 1813."

* Her father is said to have been a sergeant at the Battle of Bunker Hill.

Children (born in Hartford):

2. I. LEMUEL,² b. about 1794; m. Mary Martin. FAMILY 2.
3. II. SAMUEL,² b. and d. in Hartford; in early life a stone-mason; m. and had a family.
4. III. HORACE²; a merchant in Hartford, Conn.; afterwards removed to Cape Cod, Mass. He had a family; one of the sons, Capt. Horace B. Humphrey, a ship-captain for many years, served under Admiral Dahlgren, as pilot, in the War of the Civil Rebellion, rendering invaluable service by his intimate knowledge of the coast and his skill; a man of great physical power. Another son, Lemuel, also a sea-captain and of powerful frame, resides at Dennisport, Barnstable Co., Cape Cod, Mass. A third son, William, is also a sea-captain; m. Sarah Hawes, of Dennisport, Mass.

FAMILY 2.

5. Lemuel² Humphrey, [2] (*Noah*¹) was born in Hartford, Ct., about 1794. He married Mary Martin. Was a merchant at Hartford, where he died about 1881.

Children:

6. I. HENRY SAUTER,³ b. in 1816; m. Marcy Gregory. FAMILY 3.
7. II. FREDERIC M.³; served in U. S. Navy several years; d. at Hartford, in 1854; no family.
8. III. CYPRIAN N.³; m. Mrs. Louisa B. Davis. FAMILY 4.
9. IV. MARCY³; d. at Hartford, Ct., very young.
10. V. FRANCES³; m. Charles B. Smith, of Hartford, Ct.; d. without issue.

FAMILY 3.

11. Henry Sauter³ Humphrey, [6] (Lemuel,² *Noah*¹) was born in Hartford, Conn., in 1816(?); m. in 1840(?), Mary (dau. of Capt. Stephen and Mary Palmer) Gregory, of Guilford, Vt. He was a merchant; removed to Ogdensburg, St. Lawrence Co., N. Y., in 1841; had a large business and property; was Captain in Artillery; a prominent Mason and noted pedestrian.

Children:

12. I. CHARLES HENRY,⁴ b. 19 June, 1841; m. Rosamond Winant. FAMILY 5.
13. II. FRANK GREGORY,⁴ b. at Ogdensburg, N. Y., in 1846. Was a mechanical engineer; was in China and Japan; served on board the U. S. Ship Lackawanna; also in the mercantile service. Was six feet four inches high, and of gigantic frame. He died in Nov., 1883; had no family.
14. III. FREDERICK,⁴ b. at Ogdensburg, N. Y., in 1848; was a fine scholar; secretary of People's Fire Insurance Co., at Trenton, N. J.; died, unmarried, at Philadelphia, in 1870.
15. IV. JAMES LEMUEL,⁴ b. at Ogdensburg, N. Y., in 1851; unmarried. Traveling salesman for Messrs. Kelly, Mars & Co., of Chicago, Ill.

FAMILY 4.

16. Cyprian N.³ Humphrey, [8] (Lemuel,² *Noah*¹) married Mrs. Louisa B. Davis. Went to California in 1849; returned to Ogdensburg, N. Y., where he died in 1859 (or 1860).

Children:

17. I. HARRY C.⁴; unmarried.
18. II. FANNY⁴; m. 23 June, 1883, H. C. Parsons, Jr., of New York City.

FAMILY 5.

19. Charles Henry⁴ Humphrey, [12] (Henry Sauter,³ Lemuel,² *Noah*¹) was born at Guilford, Ct., 19 June, 1841. He married 25 Feb., 1872, Rosamond Winant, of Little Ferry, N. J. He entered the U. S. Navy 22 Sept., 1858; commissioned Lieutenant in 1863; served as midshipman and aide to Commander Foote; and with Farragut and Porter during the War of the Civil Rebellion; resigned in 1863. Has since been occupied in the Mutual Life Insurance Co., New York City.

Captain Humphrey is noted as a most brilliant talker. His fond of anecdote is inexhaustible, and renders him the life and charm of every circle vivified by his presence. It is always suited to the occasion, never twice alike, and never tiresome; but, like a spring of pure clear water, ever bubbles up in sparkling effervescence and brightness. He is a born orator and linguist, and whoever has not heard him tell a story or sing a song, has lost one of the thoroughly enjoyable scenes of life. Not that he should be thought trivial, for in all the relations of life he is a model man, while in this, his special vein of humor, he is unequalled. He exemplifies over again the best family traits of fine humor so remarkable in many of the name. Res. at Short Hills, N. J.

Children:

20. I. ROSAMOND MARCY,⁵ b. 16 Apr., 1874.
21. II. LEMUEL RICHARDSON,⁵ b. 11 July, 1879.

“OXFORD, Aug. 19th, 1884.— * * * The old Humphrey homestead that was given to the family as settlers, is still in the family, and is occupied by the fifth generation. It is situated in the South part of the town of Oxford. * * My mother is a descendant of the family, and is the only one who remembers much about the old ‘deacon’ who first had records of the family—she having known him since she was born, seventy years ago. He had several sons; one of them, STEPHEN, went to Dudley, and raised a family of four boys—DAVID, DANIEL, STEPHEN and JOHN—all born in Dudley, and all lived and died there except STEPHEN. He married Roxana Brown (my grand-mother on my mother’s side), and left her with three girls, the oldest not five years, and the youngest an infant. This was about 1817. He went to Waterbury, Conn., promising to come back, but he never did, and was seen only once by any one who knew him, but he denied his name, and since that time was never heard from. But, as his father left his family and went to New York State, and raised another family, we have thought it not improbable that he did the same. Stephen’s occupation was mason, but in winter he did shoe-making, and was a first-class mechanic. He was quite a military man, and my mother distinctly remembers him of a training day ‘on a high-stepping horse.’ * * * * MRS. J. M. BARNARD.”

Copy of a letter sent to Mr. C. H. Humphrey.

Rev. J. C. Humphrey, son of William and Susan (Woodward) Humphrey, was born in Darien, N. Y., 3 July, 1829. He received the usual academical training, and entered Genesee College, at Lima, N. Y. Owing to feeble health, he left before graduation, and thinking a more genial climate would restore his health, he went to Georgia, and engaged in teaching private classes of young men preparing for college. Whilst thus employed in Griffin, Ga., he commenced his studies for the ministry, and entered the Theological Seminary at Columbia, S. C., where he graduated in 1857. He was licensed by Flint River Presbytery, 10 Oct., 1856. He preached in several places during the last year of his seminary course—two months in Charleston, and also in Columbia, during the temporary absence of Dr. Thornwell. On leaving the seminary he was called to the First Presbyterian Church, Augusta, Ga., but owing to the unsettled state of his health, he preferred being a stated supply. This arrangement lasted for eight months, when he accepted the appointment as Evangelist for Hopewell Presbytery. It was thought that the active open-air exercise in travelling would enable him to overcome the disease which was gaining upon him. He entered upon his labors with zeal. On leaving Augusta, the congregation presented him with a handsome horse and carriage and every convenience for travelling. He was ordained by Hopewell Presbytery, May 2, 1858, and during the spring and summer his labors were arduous and unremitting. He was a good extempore preacher, with a clear voice, and loved his work so much that his enthusiasm prompted him to labor beyond his strength, when sudden debility forced him to refrain from preaching. Finding that his health was suddenly failing, he returned to the scenes of his early life, where, after a few more months of resistance to disease, he died at Marilla, N. Y., Sept. 14, 1859, of hemorrhage of the lungs, being the final development of consumption.

He was, though a continual sufferer, a bright and cheerful Christian. With a deep and fervent piety he combined a sound judgment and a firm purpose. All loved him, and his brief career awakened the confidence and respect of his brethren. He was a brother of Mrs. Danforth, a missionary at Ningpo, China. He married Sept. 30, 1857, Miss Louise (dau. of Hon. Judge) Jackman, of Marilla, N. Y., who survives him.—Wilson’s Presby. Hist. Almanac, Vol. III. (1861).

THE
FAMILIES OF
HUMPHREY.

SUPPOSED TO BE DESCENDANTS

OF

HINGHAM, MASSACHUSETTS, AND NORTH YARMOUTH, MAINE.

Though not absolutely and clearly proven, it yet seems to be quite probable that the numerous families of HUMPHREY formerly residing in and around Hingham, Mass., and even now located in and around North Yarmouth, Me., are descended from Lieut.-Gov. JOHN HUMFREY, the "Assistant," of Swampscott (Lynn), Mass. (whose history we have given in pages 66-91 of this work), through his son THOMAS, of Dover (1660), and later of Pemaquid, Me.

As no mention of this Thomas is made by Lincoln in History of Hingham, we may infer that he was a resident of some other town. Savage, in his N. E. Gen. Dictionary, thus mentions him, as already quoted by us on page 90:

"THOMAS HUMPHREY, Dover,* 1660; mar. Dec., 1665, at Hingham, a dau. of George Lane; b. lived at Pemaquid † 1674, when he swore fidel. to Mass. as 8 Sept., 1665; took as good an oath to the royal commissioners."

Hannah Lane, ‡ whom he married (according to Hobart's Diary) 23 Dec., 1665, was the daughter of George Lane, of Hingham, Mass., and (on the same authority) was baptized in Feb., 1639. George Lane's will (Suffolk Records) mentions his grand-children George, William, Ebenezer and Joseph, who were children of his daughter, Hannah, wife of Thomas Humphrey.

Mr. Charles N. Marsh, the excellent Town Clerk of Hingham, writes us, under date of 2 Apr., 1883: "I find nothing relating to the name of Humphrey on the records at an earlier date than 1687-8, at which time it says, 'THOMAS, son of Thomas and Elizabeth, was born Feb. 2, 1687-8.'"

Capt. JAMES J. HUMPHREY, of Yarmouthville, Me., in his Genealogy of the Humphrey Family of North Yarmouth (8vo, pp. 23, published at Yarmouth, Me., 1882) credits this THOMAS, b. 1687-8, as the eldest son of GEORGE Humphrey. It is possible (as far as dates and ages go) that this George Humphrey, the grand-son of the above-mentioned George Lane, by his daughter Hannah, was married by 1687; though we have, in Hingham Records, no record of the fact, or of any children credited to him. If so, the connection of the North Yarmouth Family of Humphrey with the Lieut.-Gov. John Humfrey Family would be pretty fairly proven. But, in the absence of any such proof that George had a family, and in view of the fact that the Thomas, born 2 Feb., 1687-8, is, upon the Hingham Records, unmistakably credited to "THOMAS and Elizabeth," we prefer to consider THOMAS as the head of our FAMILY I.

* As to the "Dover," it may mean that he came from Dover, Eng., but we incline to the belief that Dover, N. H., was intended.

† Pemaquid was then in Massachusetts; is now a part of the town of Bristol, in the State of Maine.

‡ Some have credited him (on what authority we know not) with having married Sarah Lane, an elder sister of Hannah, and who was baptised (according to Hobart's Diary) in 1638.

 Hingham (Mass.) Records also give record of a JOSEPH and MARY Humphrey, who had the following Children:

I. MARY, b. 20 Mch., 1697-8.

II. JOSEPH, b. 14 Apr., 1705, d. 24 Jan., 1723-4.

III. ABIGAIL, b. 10 —, 1711; died 20th of same month.

In reproducing, therefore, in these pages, the North Yarmouth Genealogy above referred to (with such additions to it as have been kindly made by its author since its publication, and with such as are furnished us from Hingham (Mass.) records, and from correspondence—due credit being given, in its appropriate place, to each source of authority), we present it thus:

ROXBURY, Mass.—There are only six children by the name of Humphreys (or Umphreys) recorded in the Roxbury records of births, all of which were the children of EDWARD and REBECCA. The first, EMELINE, was born in 1801. Then followed, at regular intervals, CHARLES THOMPSON, in 1803; MARY P., in 1805; GEORGE, in 1807; HARRIET, in 1809, and EDWARD, in 1811.

Communicated by N. A. Apollonio, City Registrar.

* Moses Humphrey, of Hingham, thinks that JONATHAN (see p. 946) was one of JESSE's brothers, and that he lived in Scituate; and that another brother lived at Thomaston, Maine; and that their father was MICAH. Marcellus Humphrey says MICAH and NOAH were brothers, and that their father was THOMAS.

† Probably Sarah GARNET, according to Hingham Records, which give date of marriage as 22 Mch., 1769.

PROBABLY DESCENDED

FROM THE

WEYMOUTH OR HINGHAM (MASS.) BRANCHES.

DESCENDANTS OF MAJOR WILLIAM HUMPHREY, OF TIVERTON, R. I.*

Of Major William Humphrey, of Tiverton, R. I., we have been able to get only meagre records. It is stated that he was born in 1746†; and it is not known where he was born nor who were his parents.

The following extract from a letter written by Mrs. Lucy Monroe, of Seekonk, Mass., grand-daughter of Major William, contains all the information we have as to his parentage:

“As to our grand-father’s birth or parentage, nothing is known, with the exception of this, that he was an orphan, and that our great grand-father Monroe had the care of him, and that he bound him out to a man in Swanzey, Mass., but that he was treated so badly that the neighbors wrote to great grand-father Monroe, and he went over to Swanzey and took him home, and brought him up as one of his own, etc.”

He was married at Seekonk, Mass., 4 Dec., 1783, to Lydia, dau. of Nathan and Hannah (Allen), Monroe, born at Seekonk, Mass., 5 June, 1760. He moved to Tiverton, R. I., about 1787, and remained there the rest of his life. He died 3 (or 1) July, 1832. His wife died 26 Sept., 1843.

He was a soldier in the Revolutionary war—a member of the 1st R. I. Regiment. It is evident that he started out holding some subordinate office, but was soon made Captain, and later a Major. Zachary Taylor Humphrey, of Walhonding, Ohio, son of William and grand-son of Major William, has the commission issued to him as Major, and signed by George Washington. He also has a medal given him at that time, and perhaps a sash. George, of Tiverton, son of George and grand-son of Major William, has his sword and hat, as we understand.

Major William went with Arnold on the Quebec expedition; was captured, and was a prisoner nine months at Quebec. During that time he kept a journal, in which he made daily entries. That journal is in the possession of Elizabeth Kohr, daughter of Squire and grand-daughter of Major William Humphrey. The journal begins in this way:

“Sept. 9, 1775. Left Prospect Hill fort in order to join the party going on a secret expedition, under the command of Col. Benedict Arnold, consisting of two batallions, one commanded “by Lieut.-Col. Enoe, the other by Lieut.-Col. Green. The first batallion consisted of 1 Col., “1 Maj., 1 Adj., 1 Quartermaster, 1 Surgeon, 7 Capt’s, viz.: Smith, Hendricks, Ward, Lopham, “McCobb, Hubbard and Thayer; the same number of officers in the other batallion, with six “Capt’s, Morgan, Williams, Harnarb, Goodrich, Dearborn and Scott.”

* The Humphreys of this line are greatly indebted for this information concerning their ancestry to J. Otis Humphrey, Esq., of the firm of Greene, Burnett & Humphrey, attorneys and counsellors at law, of Springfield, Ill.

† If 1746 is the correct date, it gives use to a suspicion that he may have been the William [252] page 863. George Humphrey, of Providence, R. I. (grand-son of Maj. William), writes May 18, 1885: “I find, by an old deed, that Jonas Humphrey deeded half of his farm in Rehoboth, to my grand-father William.” Could this Jonas be the Jonas [265] page 863, brother of William [252]. If so, these clues might prove Maj. William to have been of the Weymouth (Mass.) stock.

This journal states that his regiment (1st R. I.) was commanded by Col. Israel Angell.

Mrs. Kohr also has several pay-rolls of Capt. William Humphrey's company, the first being for the month of Aug., 1776. Mrs. Kohr says he was commissioned Captain in Oct., 1775. It is also said that he was a member of the "Society of the Cincinnati"; for several years a Senator, and a Deacon in the Baptist Church.

FAMILY 2.

21. William² Humphrey, [2] (Capt. William¹) was born in Rhode Island, 26 Nov., 1784; followed the sea for many years, in command of a West India coasting vessel; then, about 1811, removed to Coshocton County, Ohio, where he was a farmer until his death, in 1867. His was the third family that settled in the township, which he named Tiverton, after his old Rhode Island birthplace. It was not until after the close of the war of 1812 that the Indians ceased to be their neighbors. The life they led there was that of the pioneer settler. His farm consisted of 300 acres on Mohican Creek. He married (1) at Little Compton, R. I., 24 Apr., 1806, Eliphah (dau. of Ex-Gov. Isaac) Wilbur, of Rhode Island. He married (2) Margaret McMahan, who died about 1834. He married (3) Elizabeth McMahan, sister of his second wife. She resided (1885) in Coshocton County, Ohio.

 36. X. HELEN,³ b. 28 Mch., 1832; d. 9 Feb., 1849.

37. Squire² Humphrey, [11] (Capt. William¹) was born at Tiverton, R. I., 20 Sept., 1788. In the fall of 1812 he left his home to seek his fortune in what was then the far west—Ohio—arriving at Zanesville, Ohio, in Feb., 1813. He settled in Coshocton Co., near the present town of Walhonding, and on 18 Sept., 1814, he was married to Sallie (dau. of Joshua) Sweet, who was born in Cherry Valley, N. Y., 12 Aug., 1796. In this place he resided until 1838, conducting the business of a farmer and stock-raiser. Annually, for many years, he shipped large numbers of cattle and hogs by flat-boat down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers to New Orleans. These were perilous undertakings, as the return trip must needs be made by land, either on foot or on horseback, and subject to the depredations of adventurers and hostile tribes of Indians. On more than one occasion he was attacked by disease, and weeks and months elapsed before he could proceed. During such absences, affairs at the farm were carried on by the wife and children, who waited, hoping for his safe return, yet fearing that he might not come.

In 1838 he removed to Tuscarawas Co., Ohio, and settled near the town of Gnadenhutten, where the too brief remainder of his life was spent.

He died 4 Apr., 1843, in the 55th year of his age, in the prime and strength of his manhood. His death resulted from exposure to a cold rain storm, while engaged as commissioner in viewing a public highway. This was on Thursday. It settled into pneumonia, and death ensued on the following Tuesday morning.

He was a man of strong and rugged nature, with the will-power and courage which carry conviction; of great integrity of character, and severe, almost puritanical, in his religious views. He was a good type of the western pioneer, whose courage was a sufficient guarantee that he would stay, and that civilization would follow him. His wife died 18 Mch., 1847.

FAMILY 12.

210. Col. Thomas William³ Humphrey, [98] (Thomas Jefferson,² *Capt. William*¹) was born in Danville, Knox Co., Ohio, 4 Apr., 1835, and removed, with his parents, to Illinois in 1840. He was educated at Beloit College, Wis. He married at Belvidere, Boone Co., Ill., 11 Dec., 1856, Phila J., dau. of Joseph and Esther Ann (Richardson), Smith, who was born near Detroit, Mich., 26 May, 1837. He purchased and settled on the paternal homestead.

In the summer of 1862, on call of the President for six hundred thousand new levies, he engaged in enlisting volunteers, and on its organization, was chosen Lieut.-Col. of the Ninety-fifth Regiment, Ill. Vol. Infantry, and was so commissioned 22 Aug., 1862. The regiment rendezvoused at Camp Fuller, Rockford, Ill., where Lieut.-Col. Humphrey, on account of the poor health of the commander, Col. Church, bore most of the care and labor of command, and zealously and industriously devoted himself to their drill and discipline, and to his own complete knowledge of official military duty and tactics. They were mustered into the U. S. Service, 4 Sept., 1862, and by November had been ordered to the field at Grand Junction, Tenn. Such was their then proficiency, that in their first Division Drill, General McArthur, then Division Commander, remarked that "they needn't be called a new regiment any longer," and were "old enough for the service," and he afterward practically confirmed it by invariably using and trusting them as veterans. Before reaching the front, Col. Church resigned, and the full command devolved on Col. Humphrey. He was not commissioned as Colonel till 21 May, 1863, to rank from 24 Jan., 1863. After a good deal of marching and skirmishing in northern Mississippi, Col. Humphrey landed his regiment at Milliken's Bend, above Vicksburg, 26 Jan., 1863, and having performed a prominent part in the digging and maneuvering of that army to approach that stronghold, found himself camped, on night of 18 May, 1863, only three-fourths of a mile from the rebel fortifications in the rear of Vicksburg, after forced marches from Grand Gulf. In the bloody but futile assault of the next day, he occupied the advance, and led with such gallantry, and held, all day, his position within one hundred yards of the rebel guns, under a tornado of artillery and musketry fire, as to call from his General, on the field, a dispatch containing the approving words, "You have done well, nobly." Of this action, Gen. Ransom, in his official report, said: "On the 19th, the Ninety-fifth Ill., Col. Humphrey commanding, reached a ridge within one hundred yards of the enemy's works, and though exposed to an enfilading fire of artillery, maintained their position until night, when I withdrew them to a safer position. Early in the action, Col. Humphrey was severely wounded in the foot, but would not leave the field. His loss is much heavier than that of any other regiment of my command.

"At 10 o'clock A. M., on the 22d, the charge began again furiously. The Ninety-fifth on this occasion also gained an advanced position, on the crest of a ridge near the enemy's works, encountering one of the most sweeping and destructive fires to which troops were ever exposed. Col. Humphrey, in advance of and leading his regiment, enthusiastic with the desire to storm the fortifications in his immediate front, determined to accomplish it if among human possibilities, and with that natural daring which characterized the man, pressed onward over the ridge, then being swept by rebel musketry and plowed up by rebel shot and shell. The regiment attempted to follow their leader, and bravely rallied to the charge, but to advance was to meet certain death, and it was plain that a further prosecution of the undertaking would annihilate the regiment. It had gone into the charge with three hundred and sixty-seven officers, and enlisted men in line of battle, and upwards of one hundred of the same had already been rendered hors du combat.

"The heroic Colonel had gone on in advance, and was given up as killed. Orders came during the afternoon for the murderous and unequal conflict to cease on our part, and the regiment was gradually withdrawn to a neighboring ravine for better protection. Toward night, with thinned ranks and having left many a gallant soldier killed and wounded on the field, the little band of the Ninety-fifth, exhausted by the efforts of the day, wended its course among the ravines back a short distance to the brigade encampment. The Colonel, as has been stated, was supposed to have been killed during the charge, as nothing had been seen or heard of him since he crossed the ridge.

"Gen. Ransom had ordered a coffin for the reception of the corpse, so certain was he of Col. Humphrey's death. The latter, however, turned out to be safe, and during the same evening appeared, to the great delight and astonishment of all, at Gen. Ransom's headquarters, where the coffin was there in readiness! After passing the ridge, Col. Humphrey lay down closely upon the ground, as it was impossible for a human being then to be visible above it and live. In this condition, with the mad cannon balls screaming over him and plowing around his body, covering him with dirt and benumbing his limbs, he remained until evening, when he noiselessly crept from his precarious position and appeared so suddenly and unexpectedly in camp, as before related."*

Thus failed utterly two desperate and heroic attempts at assault of the rebel works; regular siege followed, with the historic result of capture. Col. Humphrey, at the head of his men, was one of the first to enter the city. Thence sent against Natchez; thence, in October following, returned to Vicksburg. He passed the winter in garrison and picket duty, in fortifying, and in receiving recruits from the north for his depleted ranks. Sent on the Red River Expedition the next spring, he was conspicuous in the destruction of Fort De Rossay, and in the retreat on steamer, by fortifying his decks with hard bread and bales of hay, and fighting, with his sharp shooters, both the infantry and artillery of the enemy; and on the retreat by land from Grand Eceens, as rear guard, by constantly fighting and always whipping the flushed and victorious enemy.

This disastrous expedition abandoned, Col. Humphrey again, from steamer, landed his troops at Vicksburg, 23 Apr., 1865. Thence ordered to Memphis, where they arrived in May, just in time to be assigned to an expedition, under Gen. S. D. Sturgis, against the rebel General Forest, in northern Mississippi. Forest was encountered near Guntown. Sturgis' cavalry were several miles in advance of his infantry, and brought on the engagement before they could be supported. The day was intensely hot, and orders were to hasten up the infantry. "The regiment hastened on to the scene of conflict, now raging furiously at the front. Numbers of men, overcome by the heat and fatigue, fell out by the road-side, while the majority of them, though well nigh exhausted and unfit to perform what under better circumstances they would have accomplished, even in the unequal contest before them, still held their position in the ranks and came up bravely to form their first line of battle."†

In the early part of the action (10 June, 1864) Col. Humphrey, while leading on his men, fell mortally wounded. Successively, within a short time, two captains succeeding to the command fell. Meantime the ammunition was giving out, and no supplies had been provided. The General commanding or his Staff were nowhere to be found. Col. Humphrey's regiment, flanked on both wings, to escape capture were compelled to fall back, yet formed again, till soon a general retreat was ordered by Sturgis, resulting in a complete and shameful rout, with him and his cavalry far in the advance, all the way back to Memphis.

Col. Humphrey's body was recovered, under fire, and brought by the Surgeon in a buggy to Memphis, and forwarded to his family in Illinois for interment.

Col. Humphrey was an officer of exceeding promise of high eminence to arms. Falling at the age of 29, his military career, though brief, seems, like his character, to have been an ideal one. His promotion had been applied for, and after his death the Adjutant-General of the army wrote that some of the strongest recommendations for his promotion were in his office that had ever come into it. Promotion by brevet was confirmed after his death "for gallant and distinguished conduct."

* From "A History of the Ninety-fifth Regiment, Illinois Infantry Volunteers, by Wales W. Wood, Esq., of Belvidere, Ill., former Adjutant of the Regiment. Chicago Tribune print, 1865." † Same history.

For a fuller and graceful estimate of Col. Humphrey's services and character, the reader is referred to the book named and quoted in this sketch, and to a Memorial Address by the same author, delivered before the G. A. R., at Belvidere, Ill., 30 May, 1883, in which he anew adds his testimony to the excellence and nobility of the man. Of this letter we can extract only a single sentence: "It was my fortune to have afterward met and become acquainted with the officers and comrades of many other regiments than our own in the service, and to have been in position where I could hear and learn what others thought of Col. Humphrey outside of his own command, and I believe it is only expressing the universal opinion of all his army acquaintances that throughout the regiment, brigade, division, corps and army, he was universally loved and respected, always stood ready and fully prepared at his post of duty, and at the time of his unfortunate taking off, was recognized as one of the 'bravest of the brave,' and one of the most capable and promising officers of the army."

This address having come to the notice of Gen. J. McArthur, he took occasion to write: "I have been pleased and interested in reading it, and especially your appropriate and very just tribute to the lamented Humphrey; his kind consideration for the comfort and well-being of those under him endeared him to his command; his firm soldierly qualities commanded the respect of his superiors."

Col. Humphrey's remains rest beneath the green turf, in shade of the beautiful trees of his own beloved homestead, tenderly cherished by his family, as is his memory in their hearts.

He graduated in the scientific course at Beloit College, Wis., and at the age of nineteen, after the breaking out of the war of the Rebellion, he went forty miles distant to enlist, and among entire strangers joined, as a private, Co. A, 8th Regiment, Ill. Cavalry. At the end of one year he was captain of the company. He subsequently served two years as adjutant of the regiment, and remained with it, participating in all its gallant service to the end of the war. This command, popularly known as "Farnsworth's big Abolition Regiment," was one of the most effective and famous in the army. He was with it at the front in McClellan's campaign before Richmond, and in the retreat; at Fair Oaks, Stone Pines, Malburn

Hill, and many other hard fought and bloody fields of the Potomac Army. He had three horses killed and disabled under him in action, but himself came through unharmed with a most gallant and brilliant record.

He married in Charles City, Iowa, 1 Dec., 1868, Sarah Ellen (dau. of Ira and Clarinda) Brackett, who was born at North Hampton, Mass., 15 Oct., 1848. Res. (1883) with his family at Faulkton, Dak., engaged in journalism.

FAMILY 3.

19. Amos² Humphrey [3] (Nathaniel¹) was one of the pioneers of Western New York. In 1808, with his young wife, he removed from Vermont to Genesee Co., N. Y., then called the Holland Purchase, where, in 1807, land had been booked to him. He came with his few household goods upon an ox sled, in the winter, and built a rude log house. Severe cold came on before its completion, subjecting them to much discomfort and suffering. Its roof was made of bark; its floors and doors were split or boards cut of logs, as no lumber was to be had, nor glass for windows, and the only clearing about it was that made by felling the trees for its construction.

HISTORY OF JAMES HUMPHREY AND HIS DESCENDANTS,

WHO CAME FROM IRELAND ABOUT 1745, AND SETTLED IN LONDONDERRY, N. H.

1. James¹ Humphrey was a descendant of the Scotch ancestry who removed from Scotland about the year 1612 and settled in Ireland, Province of Ulster, and who came to America in the year 1745, and landed at Philadelphia. Of his parents and more remote ancestors nothing is now known. They probably died in Ireland. He had one uncle in this country, who was among the early settlers of Londonderry. His name was William Humphrey, and he settled, lived and died on a farm situated on what is still called Humphrey's Hill, in the south part of the town of Londonderry, N. H. James Humphrey, soon after his arrival in America, left Pennsylvania and came to Londonderry, and about the year 1751 married Hannah Thompson. Of her ancestors nothing is known, but it is supposed that her parents came from Ireland and lived and died in Londonderry. After this marriage, they rented land in Londonderry, in which town all their children were born.

About the year 1756 they removed to Derryfield, now the city of Manchester, where he purchased a farm on what is called Humphrey's Brook. It was situated one mile west of McGregor's Bridge, and three-fourths of a mile east of the City Hall. He lived on that farm six or seven years and then sold it to his wife's brother, Hugh Thompson, and moved to Londonderry. The sum received for the farm was probably not more than $200. He next went to the State of New York, to a town called Cherry Valley. Being much pleased with the country, he returned with the intention of removing his family to Cherry Valley, but as his wife was unwilling to remove to such a distance from Londonderry, he gave up the plan and purchased a lot of unimproved land, containing 100 acres, of Deacon Taggart, situated in the south part of Londonderry, in what is called Colray. The price paid for the land was probably not more than $150. He there built a small frame house, 25x20 feet, divided into three apartments—one kitchen and two bedrooms. He there lived, and by close application to labor and the assistance of his sons, they cleared a portion of his farm and obtained a comfortable living and enjoyed as much happiness as falls to the lot of families in general. While he lived in Derryfield, he enlisted in the army, in a company commanded by Capt. John Stark, and served in two campaigns in the French war.

James Humphrey died in 1794, aged 81 years. Hannah, his wife, survived her husband seven years, and died in 1801, aged 88 years. She died from drowning in a well, into which she had fallen while laboring under abaration of mind. They were both buried in the cemetery in Derry, but there is no monument over their graves.

Children:

2. I. JAMES,² b. in Nov., 1752; m. Jean Fisher. FAMILY 2.
3. II. JOHN,² b. in Nov., 1754; m. Nancy Lancaster. FAMILY 3.

4. III. HANNAH,² b. in 1756; m. Mathew Caldwell, of Merrimack, N. H., about the year 1780. They soon removed to Corinth, Vt. They had seven or eight children. Charles and Matthew, the two oldest sons, were in Londonderry in 1806. Matthew Caldwell and wife lived and died in Vermont, but at what period is not known to the writer. Their descendants also reside there, but their number and their particular place of residence is unknown.

* Dr. WILLIAM HUMPHREY, son of JOHN (possibly this JOHN), was born at Albany, N. Y., 2 Feb., 1796 (parents both of New Hampshire, but at Albany at early date—father died at advanced age, of cholera, 25 Aug., 1832; mother died several years later, full of years; both survived to see their child die of pulmonary disease, although neither of them were predisposed to it). He graduated at Union College in 1813; studied medicine with Dr. Eights; graduated at College of Physicians and Surgeons, N. Y., in 1819; commenced practice at Albany, and practiced as long as his health permitted. He was one of the City Physicians in Jan., 1825. Did not possess much physical energy, and died of consumption, which was the theme of his graduation thesis. He had a fine mind, of reflective order; manners exceedingly mild and amiable; conversation was conspicuous for simplicity and earnestness; was uniformly cheerful, but with no exuberant elasticity; had gravity of thought as well as conversation, and avoided all appearance of pedantry in private or professional life. His sole ambition seemed to be to do right, and be useful to his fellow men. His native modesty was rather a hindrance to his rapid rise in his profession. He made several contributions to the medical literature of the day (journals, etc.), and his style was chaste, simple and forcible. He died 12 Mch., 1826, in his 31st year. He was Secretary of the Albany Co. Med. Society from 1822 until his death. Was a sincere Christian, and met death with calm assurance of a Christian hope.—From Annals and Biography of Albany Co. Med. Society.

A MAGDALEN (wife of William) Humphrey died in Albany, 27 Aug., 1832, æ. 35, of cholera. Possibly the wife of this William.

† Sarah Humphrey (cousin of William) married Aaron Aldrich, of Boston, Mass. Royal Humphrey, her brother, resided in Boston.

‡ Lived on Zion's Hill, in Londonderry, N. H. In later life he lived in that part of Londonderry now known as Manchester, N. H. He was a Lieutenant of the Derry Company at Bunker Hill battle.

DESCENDANTS OF JOHN HUMPHREY, OF LITTLE BRITAIN, N. Y.

1. John¹ Humphrey was in Orange Co., N. Y., as early as 1724. In the office of the Secretary of State, Albany, is a survey and record of a deed of three hundred acres of land in the town of New Windsor (now Little Britain), from Patrick Home to James Gembell and John Humphrey, dated 23 May, 1724, and surveyed by Carl Colden.

He probably emigrated from England, as appears from the following letter:

"LITTLE BRITAIN, Dec. 8, 1878.

To Charles Humphrey, Esq., Ithaca:

I received your letter directed to my son, Moses D. Burnct, of Syracuse, respecting the settlement of your ancestors in Little Britain.

First.—Your great grand-father, John Humphrey, must have been a settler on his lot north and adjoining that of Peter Mulliner, who was the first settler on the Patent of Ludun Johnson; my grand-father, Robert Burnet, being the third settler, whose deed (now in my possession) is dated October, 1729, which is bounded on that of said Mulliner. His name and that of John Humphrey are mentioned in said deed, and the residue of this patent was then not sold, but must soon after been located by Charles Clinton, John Welling, Alex. Denniston, John Reed, Patrick McClaugry and a family named Carskaden, whose lots embraced the whole residue of the patent.

As to the country from whence he emigrated I have no record, but suppose as Mulliner came to this country in Governor Burnet's family and was his gardner, he must have emigrated from England; and as John Humphrey located his farm adjoining his, and about the same time, he must have emigrated from the same place.

None of the family are living here at present except a son of Robert Humphrey, who was a son of the branch of the family who removed to some part of Connecticut before my remembrance.

Yours &c.,

ROBT. BURNET."

3. Hugh² Humphrey [2] (John¹) married Nancy Peacock, and resided, a farmer, in Little Britain, Orange Co., N. Y. He was noted for his kind and benevolent disposition; brought up three charity children, beside his own. The time and place of his birth are not known. He died at Little Britain, 20 June, 1794.*

FAMILY 3.

9. Evans³ Humphrey [4] (Hugh,² John¹) was married in Albany, N. Y., where he settled. A letter from Mr. William R. Humphrey, of Ithaca, N. Y., gives the following: "Many of the descendants of Evans are in Albany. I was personally acquainted with but two of his sons, Hugh and William; both are dead. Hugh died a batchelor. William died at Kasoag, Oswego County, N. Y. Not certain that any of his sons are living; one, George, was captain, at one time, of the Burgesses Corps, Albany. You will find in the New York Civil List, published by Weed, Parsons & Co., Albany, the names of many of our family that have figured in public from the organization of the State down; also, in Colonial History of New York, published by the State, you will find many Humphreys in lists of inhabitants and soldiers, of Orange, Dutchess and Ulster Counties. The ancestors of the De Witt Clinton family came from the North of Ireland with a large party of emigrants, and settled at Little Britain. I am inclined to think that some of our name came over with the Clintons.

Children:

10. I. HUGH^{4*}; died a batchelor.
11. II. WILLIAM,⁴ b. in 1786; m. ———; d. at Kasoag, Oswego Co., N. Y., 26 Mch., 1866, æ. 80 yrs. During his residence at Albany, N. Y., he was a partner of Erastus Corning and John Spencer, in the hardware business; retired from partnership with Corning in 1818. He left two sons, George and James Humphrey, who continued the business. George was captain of the well known Burgesses Corps, of Albany. Gilbert C. Davidson, late of Albany, was a son-in-law of William Humphrey.

FAMILY 4.

12. Captain James³ Humphrey [5] (Hugh,² John¹) was born in Little Britain, Orange Co., N. Y., in 1755, where he remained till the breaking out of the Revolutionary war. He was a captain in our army, and was captured and held a prisoner by the British some ten months. After the war he spent several years traveling in the Southern States. After his return he was, in 1790, married to Phebe Howell, of South Hampton, Long Island, who died in 1817. After the death of his father he removed to Newburgh, N. Y., and engaged in the mercantile business, in company with Edward Howell, in which he was successful. He finally removed to Phelps, Ontario County, N. Y., where he resided till his death, 15 Sept., 1834, aged 79 years.

Children:

13. I. ELIZA,⁴ b. at Little Britain, N. Y.; d. at Monticello, N. Y., æ. 22; unmarried.
14. II. CHARLES⁴ (Hon.), b. 14 Feb., 1792; m. Ann Eliza Belknap. FAMILY 7.
15. III. ISAAC,⁴ b. at Little Britain, N. Y., and there died, in infancy.
16. IV. EVANS⁴ (Lieut.), b. at Newburgh, N. Y., in 1798; was educated at West Point, and entered the army as a Lieutenant; was stationed at Fort Columbus, New York Harbor, and at Fort Moultrie, Sullivan's Island, in Charleston Harbor. About 1820 he left the army, and was engaged in the transportation business at New York,

* HUGH HUMPHREY (probably the same) died at Albany, N. Y., 20 July, 1859, aged 75. During his long and useful life he maintained the character of an enterprising man of business, and enjoyed the confidence and affection of all who knew him. He was born in Schaghticoke, Rensselaer Co., N. Y., and went to Albany about 1801; soon became very prominent among the active business men of that city; erected several of the public buildings of that period; superintended the construction of the corporation docks; was superintendent of the Water Works Co. for over twenty-six years, resigning April 25, 1844; and for the last fifteen years of his life was a director of the Mechanics' and Farmers' Bank. He was for nearly fifty years a member of the Third Presbyterian Church, of which he held the office of trustee from 1817 till his death; was a liberal contributor to every good object; and by his unostentatious devotion to the fundamental principles of Christianity, he secured the love and confidence of all who could appreciate and admire the beauty of a symmetrical Christian life.

Albany and Ithaca. In 1834 he was appointed Surrogate of Tompkins County, N. Y.; was afterward clerk in the Supreme Court of Albany, and subsequently in the office of the Clerk of the Court of Appeals. He died at Albany, N. Y., 2 Nov., 1853, æ. 55 yrs.

17. V. NANCY,⁴ b. at Newburgh, N. Y.; was for several years an eminent teacher at Phelps, N. Y.; m. in 1827, James Westfall, of Phelps; removed to Plymouth, Wayne Co., Mich., in 1850, where they still reside. Children:
18. i. Catherine Louise,⁵ b. 8 Jan., 1830; m. Dr. C. C. Kingsbury.
19. ii. Cornelia Eliza,⁵ b. 1 Feb., 1833; m. F. W. Fairman.
20. iii. James P.⁵, b. 25 May, 1839; m. Louise Bassett.
21. iv. Lizzie M.⁵, b. 22 Jan., 1842; m. Chauncey Baker.
22. v. Euphrasia S.⁵, b. 12 Feb., 1845; m. T. S. Vandevort.

FAMILY 5.

23. Oliver³ Humphrey [7] (Hugh,² *John*¹) married Polly Young, an adopted daughter of his father, and settled at Phelps, N. Y. In the possession of this family is preserved an old flax spinning wheel, said to have been brought to America by Hugh Humphrey. Oliver Humphrey early became an extensive landed proprietor of Phelps, N. Y., and through industry, enterprise and intelligence, rendered himself a most valuable citizen, and was greatly respected; and his descendants maintain the exalted position of his memory and the name in that community.

Children:

24. I. JOHN⁴; m. ———; died, leaving a family. His widow res. (1869) Phelps, N. Y.
25. II. HUGH⁴; m. ———; died, leaving a family. He was the first male white child born at Phelps, N. Y. His widow res. (1869) Phelps, N. Y.

FAMILY 6.

26. Charles³ Humphrey [8] (Hugh,² *John*¹) married Betsey Burnet, and settled in Phelps, N. Y., where he took up a large tract of land. He was known as an eminently industrious, enterprising and intelligent gentleman and citizen, and his descendants are among the most wealthy; cultivated and influential citizens of the town.

Children (all of whom died before 1869):

27. I. NANCY.⁴
28. II. SOPHIA.⁴
29. III. JACK.⁴
30. IV. PHÆBE.⁴

FAMILY 7.

31. Hon. Charles⁴ Humphrey, Esq., [14] (Capt. James,³ Hugh,² *John*¹) was born at Little Britain, N. Y., 14 Feb., 1792. He removed to Newburgh, N. Y., at an early age, and was educated at the academy of that place. He entered the law office of William Ross, Esq. He was interrupted in his studies by the war of 1812; entered the army, and on 15 Aug., 1813, was commissioned a captain in the Forty-first Reg. Infatry, Col. Robert Bogardus commanding. He was stationed at Fort Greene, Long Island, and at Sandy Hook. After the war he resumed his legal studies with Mr. Ross, at Newburgh, and was admitted to the bar 11 Jan., 1816. He married at Newburgh, 24 Sept., 1816, Ann Eliza (dau. of Joseph) Belknap, who was born 26 Aug., 1797. In 1819 he removed his family to Ithaca, N. Y., a journey accomplished, with great difficulty and many privations, in six days. He went to Ithaca as the attorney and general manager of the Newburgh Branch Bank, established that year at Ithaca. Soon after his settlement there he was appointed a Master in Chancery. In 1825-27 he represented his district in the Nineteenth Congress. After his return from Congress he devoted himself entirely to his profession. In 1831 he was Surrogate of the county of Tompkins, and, in 1834-35-36, was member of the State Legislative Assembly from the same county, sitting as Speaker of the House in the last two years. In 1842 he was again member of the Assembly. In 1843 was appointed Clerk of the old Supreme Court, at Albany, holding the office until its extinction under the constitution of 1846, when he returned with his family, and resumed the active duties of his profession at Ithaca. He was a man of fine social qualities, great intellectual ability, and legal acumen; he ranked among the best lawyers of the State. His powers of endurance of physical pain and suffering were extraordinary. Although nearly deprived of the use of his lower limbs during the last thirty years of his life, and almost daily attacked by the most intense pain (neuralgic), he continued, during that time, to perform all the active duties of life, and of his profession. Indeed, his very life seemed to be prolonged, at times, solely by the exercise of his indomitable will. He died at Albany, while in attendance at Court, 17 Apr., 1850, aged 58 years. His wife died at Ithaca, N. Y., 4 Sept., 1864, aged 67 years.

THE HUMPHREYS OF PHELPS, ONTARIO COUNTY, N. Y.

Contributed by Rev. Anson Titus, of S. Weymouth, Mass., who has had in Preparation, for many years, a History of the Town of Phelps.

“The following I extract from my notes of the history of my native town. The Humphreys were quite a prominent family there from its settlement, after the Revolution. That which I send you is from the grave-stones of the town. If you can give light upon them, would be much pleased. There are some representatives of the race still there. It may be that you have corresponded with them and have their records in full. They are farmers, well off, and eminently respectable.

"The Humphrey burial place in the eastern part of Phelps is one which is beautiful for situation. It is located on the ancient Humphrey estate, and within its soil is all which remains of the early pioneers and their descendants. It is on the east brow of a hill, and near a brook. It is now (1883) surrounded by a board fence. A large and noble chestnut tree stands as a sentinel amidst the dead:

THE HUMPHREYS FAMILY OF CHESTER COUNTY, PA.

FROM THE PAPERS OF THE LATE GEN. ANDREW A. HUMPHREY, U. S. A., WASHINGTON, D. C.

1. Samuel¹ Humphreys, of Portheven Parish, of Llanegrin, or Llanglyning, Merionethshire, Wales, married Elizabeth —.

Children:

2. I. DANIEL²; m. Hannah Wynn. FAMILY 2.
3. II. BENJAMIN²; m. Mary Llewellyn. FAMILY 3.

FAMILY 2.

4. Daniel² Humphreys [2] (Samuel¹) came to America in 1682, and settled about seven miles west of Philadelphia, in Haverford Township, Chester County* (now Delaware Co., Pa.). He was a Quaker. The next year he returned to Wales† and brought with him to Pennsylvania his mother Elizabeth, with her three daughters, Lydia, Amy and Gobetha, and her son Benjamin.‡ About the same time his two uncles, Richard and John Humphreys, came to America, buying also in the Welsh Tract, but at first in Radnor and Marion townships, which adjoin Haverford.

* See History of Chester County, Pa.; also Smith's History of Delaware, Pa.

† We do not know on what this statement, made by one of the descendants of Daniel, is based. If only upon the certificate given below, it would seem to lack foundation. It is at least possible, if not probable, that Daniel was in America when that was written.

‡ "In August, 1660, Samuel Humphreys, Joane Humphreys, Owen Humphreys, Lewis Ap. Humphrey, William Reese, and others, were imprisoned for fifteen or sixteen weeks at Baala, Merionethshire, Wales, for their adherence to the principles of the Quakers. See Besse's History of the Sufferings of the Quakers. Their cattle also were taken, and were never returned. In 1661, Samuel Humphrey and Owen Humphrey were again committed to prison for fifteen weeks, in a loathsome place, for refusing to take the oath of allegiance to the King. Afterwards, Samuel Humphrey was committed to prison for thirty-five weeks. In 1662, Owen Humphreys and Samuel Humphreys were persecuted in the Sheriff's Court for refusing to take the oath of allegiance. In 1687-90, tithes were taken in corn, hay, lambs, &c., from Owen Humphreys. In 1683, Owen Humphreys was fined £20 for preaching, and was committed to prison.

"It was not singular, therefore, that in 1683 Elizabeth Humphreys (nee Reese, Samuel's widow, her husband having died in England), with her children, Benjamin, Lydia, Anne and Gobitha, should have emigrated to America, to the neighborhood of Philadelphia, in the State of Pennsylvania, where William Penn, the great leader and friend of the Quakers, had founded a city and a colony; and where the persecuted people of all nations could find refuge and a home."—John Neill and his Descendants.

Dr. Neill thought that the Humphreys of Merioneth and the HUMFFREYS of Montgomery might belong to the same family, as the two counties are adjoining.—See p. 6 for Humffreys of Llwyn, copied from Burke's Landed Gentry.

Both are said to have died unmarried. Gen. Andrew Atkinson Humphrey is under the impression, though not certain, that others belonging to this family, not so closely related, came at nearly the same date and located at different points in said tract, where their descendants were still living when he (Andrew A.) was a young man. (Perhaps descendants of Benjamin,² p. 989, 991.)

We add a copy of the very interesting letter written when Elizabeth Humphreys and her family were about to leave Wales for America :

“1683, the 27th of Fifth month.

“To all or any whom it may concern— Whereas Elizabeth Humphreys of Shanegain in the County of Merioneth with together all her children viz. Benjamin Humphreys, Lydia Humphreys, Amy Humphreys, and Gobetha Humphreys, have declared before us their intention in order to their removal to Pennsylvania in America. We thought it convenient to certify in their behalf as followeth vyt: as to herself, the said Elizabeth is a woman worthy of recommendation for an honest, faithful woman that hath been serviceable in her place, and praiseworthy in her conversation amongst us; her children also, educated as children of honest parents, of and concerning whom, we have known that they are as tender plants growing in that work the —— the truth and grace of God.

“She has her eldest son, Daniel Humphreys, already gone into Pennsylvania about twelvemonth since. Our testimony concerning him is also that he hath walked orderly amongst us, and parted with us in much love mutually, with consent of Mother and relations, and left such a testimony behind him that was, and is, of good savor.

CHARLES HUMPHREYS.)

“8th Mo., 11th, 1695, Daniel Humphreys Bachelor, of Haverford, in the Welsh Tract,” was married “to Hannah Wynn, of Merion, at the publick meeting-house in Merion.”* This was probably the first marriage in that meeting-house, which was the first erected in Pennsylvania. Hannah Wynn was the dau. of Dr. Wynn, who arrived in the “Welcome” with William Penn. The second meeting-house erected was that of Haverford, which was built chiefly, if not entirely, by the Humphreys, and on their land, near their mills, of which they had two or three fulling and grist mills, in addition to their farms. This meeting-house was still standing in 1869, and in the grave-yard adjoining it the greater portion of the family of Samuel⁴ Humphreys are buried, something being bequeathed in the will of each one, in succession, to keep the grounds in order. One of the farms is in the possession of this family. It has always been called “Pont Reading,” and is believed to be named after an old family place in Wales.

Children (besides some daughters and perhaps other sons) born in Haverford, Chester Co., Pa. :

5. I. JOSHUA³; m. Sarah Williams. FAMILY 4.
6. II. CHARLES³ b. in Haverford, Pa, in 1712; lived at the old place called the “Mansion House”; was never married. He was in the Provincial Assembly from 1764 to 1774, and a delegate to the Continental Congress from 1774 to 1776 †; voted against the “Declaration of Independence.” He was a man of high character and great influence. He died in 1786, at an advanced age, and his remains lie in the old grave-yard.
7. III. EDWARD³ (Dr.); eminent as a surgeon, as well as for benevolence and humanity.
8. IV. SAMUEL³

FAMILY 3.

9. Benjamin² Humphreys [3] (Samuel¹) came to this country, with his mother and sisters, in 1683, and settled in the neighborhood of Radnor, Pa. He, with the rest of his family, belonged to the "Society of Friends." He married in October, 1694, Mary Llewellyn, of Haverford. He died in 1738, aged 75 years.

Child:

10. I. OWEN³; m. Sarah Hughs. FAMILY 5.

FAMILY 4.

11. Joshua³ Humphrey [5] (Daniel,² Samuel¹) was born 1751, in Chester Co., Pa. He married at Merion, Pa., 9th Mo., 11th, 1742, Sarah (dau. of Edward and Eleanor) Williams, of Blockley. He died in Darbey, in 1793, aged about 83 years, and was buried in the Arch Street burying-ground, Philadelphia—probably the burial place of his wife's family.

members of the American Philosophical Society. He was also a Commissioner to issue colonial paper currency, a specimen of which, with his autograph, is on exhibition at Independence Hall, in Philadelphia.

About the same time, he was one of those charged with the erection of the Walnut Street Prison, in which he was afterward confined, when taken prisoner, with others, by a party of British light horse.

In 1794, a charter for the school corporation of the Lower Dublin Academy was procured from the Supreme Court. Edward⁴ Duffield was one of the original trustees, and the first president; and was instructed to propose the plans of a new building.

The only literary production known to have emanated from his pen is "Some Observations on the Application of Plaster of Paris," which was published by Judge Peters, in 1797.

He is noticed four times in Watson's Annals of Philadelphia and Pennsylvania in the Olden Time, from which we add the following extract:

"When in Byberry I visited the house of Edward Duffield, the executor of Franklin's will. I there saw a portrait of Franklin's bust, a present to him from Franklin. There was also a miniature profile, executed by Wedgewood, in white china, now in possession of Alfred Ingraham, of New Orleans, finely delineated. Also one as a medal, done in France," &c.

Mr. Duffield made the first medals ever executed in the Province; such as the destruction of the Indians at Kittataning in 1756. He also made watches and clocks, and was constantly devising philosophical apparatus for his brother-in-law, Professor Ebenezer Kinnersley, and for Dr. Franklin. He made a clock with two faces, which was a great novelty at that time, to hang over his door, at the northwest corner of Second and Arch Streets. This is said to have been at Dr. Franklin's suggestion, who was a frequent visitor, and disliked the many interruptions of callers to learn the time of day. This clock he afterwards presented to the Lower Dublin Academy, where it hung for many years, and is still preserved by the trustees. He was but twenty-seven years of age when his father died, and he removed to Benfield.* He was succeeded in the charge of the State-house clock by David Rittenhouse. After his retirement to the country, he continued to devise machines and apparatus. Almost every member of his family possessed a watch or clock which he had made for them. But few of these are still in existence. He also invented a horse-rake and an odometer, containing some improvements on a French instrument which Dr. Franklin left him by will.

It will be seen by the records of Christ Church that he was an active member of the vestry, and was zealous in the movement for the erection of the new St. Peter's Church at Third and Pine Streets. He died, and was buried at All Saints' Church, near Holmesburgh, Pa., of which he was one of the founders. His will was dated 28 July, 1801. His will, the children and grand-children in these several families, and other records, also the Duffield coat of arms, may be found in Dr. Henry Neill's work, John Neill and his Descendants.

19. Joshua⁴ Humphreys [14] (Joshua,³ Daniel,² *Samuel*¹) was born in Haverford, Pa., 17 June, 1751. He married Mary Davids, of Philadelphia, who was born 28 Dec., 1757. He died at Ponte Reading, Pa., 12 Jan., 1838, in the 87th year of his age, with all his mental faculties unimpaired to the last. His wife died at Haverford, Pa., 12 Aug., 1805, aged 47 years.

Joshua Humphreys was in some sense the father of the American Navy—at least in that which relates to its construction and armament. He was a distinguished ship-builder of Philadelphia when the fleet of six frigates was ordered by Congress to be built, in 1794, and the models for their construction which were furnished by him were finally adopted. On the 28th of June, 1794, he was appointed the constructor and master-builder of the forty-four-gun ship to be built in Philadelphia (the "United States"), with a salary of $2,000 per annum, commencing May 1st, 1794, "in consideration of his incessant application to the public interests, in adjusting the principles of the ships, drawing drafts, and making models, etc." He continued in office, as naval constructor, until Oct. 26, 1801.

It is a singular coincidence that at the time he was writing the following letter, his grandson and namesake was a passed-midshipman on board the frigate "United States" (then in the Mediterranean), which he had constructed: *

"HAVRE TOWNSHIP, Delaware Co., Pa.

"Dear Sir.—On my son Samuel's return from Boston, he presented me with a very handsome walking cane, made out of a part of the Frigate 'Constitution' ('Old Ironsides'), which was taken out of her while under your repairs. This cane is of double value to me on account of its having been taken from one of the Frigates I constructed in the year 1794, forty-two years ago, under the administration of the ever memorable Washington and Gen. Knox, his then Secretary of War. The five Frigates, the 'United States,' the 'President,' and 'Constitution,' forty-fours, the 'Constellation,' and 'Congress,' thirty-sixes, were all built by the drafts and moulds sent on by me to the different Ports where they were to be built. The moulds and drafts for the 'Chesapeake' were also sent on by me to Mr. Pennock, Navy Agent at Norfolk, for a 44, the same size of the large Frigates and the keel laid. But as there was no person there who understood the drafts and moulds, a Josiah Foxan, an Englishman, who was in the mould loft with me, who copied some of the drafts that were sent on from here to the different builders; but, instead of conforming to the drafts and instructions from me, he curtailed the dimensions of that ship from a 44 to a 36; but by whose authority the alterations was made I [was] never able to find out; this ship always spoke for herself as well as the others did. Old fellows like myself like to tell what they did in their younger days, and I will say to you that I built the first frigate ['Randolph'], and fitted out the first fleet, under Com. Hopkins, that sailed under the United States, in the year 1774. The great mark of attention you have shown me in sending me so beautiful a present, has made me proud, although in my 86 year of age, a time of life when I ought to be more humble.

"The cane I shall leave as a Talisman to my grandson & namesake, son of my son Samuel, that, should he ever come into action, he will recollect the bravery of the officers of the 'Old Ironsides.'

"Should you ever come this way, I should be most glad to see you and spend some time with us. I live in H rford Township, Delaware County, Pa., seven miles west of the Schuylkill Bridge.

Address, "JOSIAH BARKER,

The following article appeared in the New York Tribune of Dec. 26, 1881:

"AN OLD SEA DOG."

"The frigate Constitution, which arrived at the Brooklyn Navy Yard recently, has now been put out of commission, having been pronounced unseaworthy and incapable of repairs. Nearly fifty years ago an order was issued from the Navy Department directing that she should be broken up. Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes took a poet's view of the matter and wrote his well-known lyric, beginning 'Ay, tear her tattered ensign down.' His verses had an excellent effect, and the order was recalled. All such ships have a history, and the history of this one is exceptionally interesting. If it were a matter of writing her obituary, there would be no default of detail. She was one of the six frigates ordered in 1794 by Congress to be completed, launched and put into commission. It is a curious fact that when Cooper wrote his Naval History, three of these ships, viz., the United States, the Constellation and the Constitution, were still afloat and in the service, neither having been long out of commission. The Constitution carried forty-four guns. She with the other ships had been got afloat the year previous. She was a large vessel, with batteries of thirty twenty-four-pounders on her gun deck—such a ship as the English were then in the habit of rating as a thirty-eight. She went into the West India Squadron under the command of Captain Samuel Nicholson, and under the flag of Commodore Barry, then senior officer of the service, with a general rendezvous at Prince Rupert's Bay. Her consorts made several important captures from the French, but there is no special mention of her own. Her crew were engaged in the cutting out of a French letter of marque at Port au Platte, under the command of Mr. Hull, an officer afterward to be distinguished. The Constitution did not emerge into her private and personal glory until some time after. Congress, in 1801, saved her from the ignominy of being disposed of. In 1804 she was in the squadron operating against Tripoli under Preble, and distinguished herself by her fierce attack upon the town, batteries and castle. It was remarked at the time that though she was long within the reach of the enemy's grape, many of which hit her, she had not a man hurt. In fact, she was always a lucky ship. In this action she had several of her shrouds, back-stays, trusses, spring stays, chains, lifts and a great deal of her running rigging shot away, and yet her hull was hardly touched.

"The Constitution won no more especial laurels until the war with Great Britain in 1812; but then the days of her great glory were at hand. She had just before been sent to Europe, under the command of Captain Hull, having on board specie for the payment of the interest on the debt due in Holland. After a short stop, having fulfilled her commission, at Portsmouth, England, she sailed, and outsailed several English men-of-war sent in pursuit of her, as there had been some difficulty while she was in port about deserters. The opening of the war found her at home. On the 12th of July, 1812, still under command of Captain Hull, she sailed from Annapolis and stood to the northward. On Friday, July 17, she discovered a sail to the northward and eastward, which subsequently proved to be the Guerriere. But the Constitution was soon encountered by a British fleet, and then began that chase, unexampled in naval annals, which redounded so much to the glory of the officers and men of the Constitution. She sailed proudly into Boston with a record of seamanship which has never been surpassed, and never will be, and which places Captain Hull among the first of naval commanders of any age. But the Constitution was not kept idle at Boston. Sailing from that port on the 19th of August, Captain Hull sighted and soon encountered his old enemy the Guerriere. The particulars of the action have been a hundred times related and need not here be told again. No victory ever made a deeper moral impression. There was no talk of absolute British supremacy at sea afterward. The old ship, which had been badly knocked about, went back to Boston to refit, after a battle which was decided in her favor in about half an hour. The first serious conflict of the war was immortality for the Constitution. Hull honorably gave up the command of the ship, under the influence of a feeling that others should be allowed to distinguish themselves.

"The Constitution then went into the hands of Captain Bainbridge, and sailed with the Hornet on the 26th of October, 1812. On the 26th of December she captured the British frigate Java. When Bainbridge gave up the command of the Constitution in 1813, she was found to be in a very decayed condition; and then began those repairs to which she has been so often subjected. When she sailed again she was under the command of Captain Charles Stewart. Before he came back, after a cruise in the West Indies, he captured a few prizes and the man-of-war schooner Pictou, 14. Captain Stewart sailed again from Boston in December, 1814. The luck of the ship did not desert her. Captain Stewart, February 20, 1815, captured H. B. M. ship Cyane, 34, and the sloop-of-war Levant, 21. These were famous naval actions in their day, and are not yet forgotten. They are the last exploits of the Constitution, of whom Americans began already to speak affectionately as 'Old Ironsides.' When there was a talk of running Commodore Stewart for the Presidency, they gave the name to him. Her service during the war may be summed up as follows: In the course of two years and nine months she had been in three actions, had been twice dangerously pursued, and had taken five vessels of war. Sailors boasted of her, as they told how she had never been ashore and never dismasted. She had been fighting all her life, with constant success and with a minimum of loss. Naval historians explain her good fortune by the fact that she had always been well commanded. Most of her crews, during her last two cruises, were hardy New England men almost as well qualified to fight the ship as her officers.

"The Constitution* was designed by Joshua Humphreys, of Philadelphia, and was constructed at Boston, under the supervision of Colonel George Clagborne, of New Bedford, Mass. The point at which she was built is now called Constitution Wharf. She had very distinguished men to look after her construction—Captains Barry, Dale, Nicholson and Truxton. Old Paul Revere furnished the copper bolts and spikes. Originally she was built of live oak and red cedar, the keel, keelson beams and planking of best white oak; the decks of the best Carolina pitch pine, but, under the guns, of oak. There is hardly an inch of her original wood in her now. Singularly, she had bad luck in launching. Two attempts were made to get her into the water; only the third was successful. Before she sailed for Tripoli she was recoppered with copper made in the United States. The Constitution was at Charlestown, Mass., in 1834, when Commodore Elliott was in command of the station. He was a warm admirer of General Jackson and had placed a figure of that personage on the bow of the ship, greatly to the disgust of the Whig majority of Boston. This figurehead an enthusiastic young man named Samuel P. Dewey sawed off and carried away in the night. He had the impudence to carry the head to Washington with the intention of presenting it to General Jackson, but after he arrived there he was dissuaded from doing so. This figurehead is still preserved at Annapolis. During the War of the Rebellion, the Constitution was laid up for a time; but afterward, during the same trouble, she was employed as a practice ship at Annapolis. She was in the training squadron for about three years.

"Such are the main facts in the history of this famous ship. She has been sedulously cared for, until now, it appears, she is worth caring for no longer. No poet will now come to her rescue, and ask, as a better fate for her, that she be given 'to the God of storms, the lightning and the gale.' Naval warfare has entirely changed since she won her great battles against wonderful odds; but she will always be honorably mentioned in the naval history of the country, as a noble exemplar of the tactics which gained great victories, man to man and gun to gun."

President Adams then sent him to France, with special despatches to the U. S. Commissioners, then in hot controversy with the French Directory, and he probably carried, privately, information more important than his despatches. FAMILY 7.

38. Samuel⁵ Humphreys [21] (Joshua,⁴ Joshua,³ Daniel,² Samuel¹) was born in Pennsylvania, 23 Nov., 1778. When he was eighteen years of age, he was sent to Georgia to make and carry out contracts for supplying the stores of live oak which the Government had determined to collect in great quantities, cut to shape for a large future navy, and store at the various Navy Yards. He there became intimately acquainted with the family of Gen. Nathaniel Greene, living at Dungeuss, Cumberland Island. In after years, he there met Letitia Atkinson, to whom he was married in Mch., 1808. She was born near Augusta, Ga., about 1785, and was a daughter of Andrew Atkinson, of Cavan Garden (the family estate), County Donegal, Ireland. [Her mother's name was Jane Murray, dau. of Sir Archibald Murray, of Blackbarony, Scotland, the Murray family being one of its oldest families, and well known in its history. Mr. Atkinson was eighteen years old at the time of his marriage to Miss Murray, who was only sixteen, and theirs was a runaway match. He had the younger son's portion—a few thousand pounds and a commission in the army. His friends and contemporaries were Sir Ralph Abercrombie, Sir Eyre Cooke, and others distinguished in the wars in India and Egypt. A few years after his marriage he resigned his position in the army, came to Georgia, and finally settled on the St. Johns River, Florida.]

Mr. Humphreys was appointed naval constructor 17 Apr., 1813, and chief naval constructor 25 Nov., 1826, and designed several of the finest ships of war in the old sailing navy. He was a gentleman held in the highest esteem by the community. He died in service at Georgetown, D. C., 16 Aug., 1846, having removed to that place in 1829.

A writer in the Philadelphia Record, in reminiscences of his acquaintance, about 1824, with some of the prominent citizens of Philadelphia of that day, relates an incident relating to Mr. Samuel Humphreys, of which he was an eye-witness, while a student in the law office of Robert Peters, Esq., then an eminent practitioner in that city. Speaking of the social system of Philadelphia, he says: "It was distinctly marked by subdivisions since obliterated by the process of democratic advancement. Men of revolutionary fame stood, by general consent, ahead of all others and constituted a real aristocracy, the supremacy of which was built upon services rendered the country in war or merit developed in peace. This body of men prided themselves upon their liberality, kindness, courage and courtesy; were habitually attentive to strangers of rank and learning, and had organized little social re-unions for social intercourse and conversation, which were called 'Wistar Parties' and were open to men of merit by special invitation only. * * One morning after one of these, Mr. Izakoff the Russian Ambassador dropped in at the office, and in course of conversation he quietly drifted off to other topics, among which stood conspicuous Naval Architecture, on which he dwelt at large, his remarks applying to England, France, Russia and the United States and at the close of some remarks he asked how it was that the ships of this country only could rival those of England in swiftness and durability. The answer came promptly, 'better builders and better designers. Most of the ships which have been built and launched at this port were designed, drafted and constructed by a client of mine.' I shall never forget the anxious expression of Izakoff's face. He was silent for a minute; then, with held breath he asked 'could he see that man.' 'Certainly, sir, certainly.' A note was written and thrown on the table with a request that I would deliver it. Izakoff, thus re-assured, went on to tell Mr. Peters that the Emperor Alexander had determined to build a Navy, he was impressed with the superiority of the American ships, and ordered instructions to be forwarded to Izakoff to engage the best talent in America. He was authorized to offer $50,000 per annum salary, a town house and country residence to be maintained by the Czar, etc., etc. Thus stood the matter when it occurred to Peters that no time had been named for the interview. The note was handed to me and was addressed to 'Sam. Humphreys, Esq.' I went in search of 'Sam. Humphreys.' Everybody, man, woman and child knew him. I found him a stout man with a face in which every lineament denoted intelligence, kindness, firmness and patience, over all which predominated inflexible resolution. I left the note at his residence on Front street, a few squares above the Navy Yard. The next day found me at my seat in the office, from which, to do myself justice, I must say I was never absent during business hours.

"At the hour of ten o'clock Mr. Humphreys entered, and after the morning salutation, blandly and courteously rendered, opened the ball by saying, 'I am here at your request, Mr. Peters.' 'Sit down,' said Peters, 'I sent for you to meet Mr. Izakoff, the Russian Ambassador; he has something to say to you.' To 'Sam,' as Mr. Peters with friendly familiarity called him, Mr. Izakoff was a stranger, but no surprise or curiosity was manifested, and he quietly subsided into a chair. At the same time Mr. Izakoff entered, and after a courtly and graceful bow to Mr. Peters, as graceful as ever Chesterfield practiced, he turned to Mr. Peters an enquiring look. Peters responded by introducing Humphreys, with the remark: 'This is the gentleman you desire to meet; he is the Constructor at this port, and to his skill are due the swiftness, staunchness and durability of most of the naval and mercantile ships built at this port.' Izakoff then informed Humphreys that he had solicited the interview with the view of engaging him in the service of his master, the Emperor of Russia, to organize and found a Navy for Russian defense. He said his instructions were to procure the best talent, regardless of cost. He had thought on the matter and was prepared to offer a compensation proportionate to the services expected. There was no bickering. He proposed to give a salary of $50,000 per annum with such perquisites as the dignity of the station demanded. As perquisites he named a city residence with coach and servants, a country place with similar appendages; all to be paid for and maintained out of the Imperial Treasury, etc., and frankly added that if the terms were not satisfactory he had carte blanche to extend them indefinitely. During the delivery of the proposal Humphreys sat perfectly silent, I may say abstracted. His mind appeared to be far away. When the offer was fully made he for the first time spoke, saying he had received no intimation of the business in hand, Mr. Peters' note having been silent upon the subject. It is all new to him; he would think it over and give Mr. Izakoff an answer at the same hour and place to-morrow. He then thanked Mr. Peters for the compliment he had paid him in naming him to Mr. Izakoff as suited for a position of such importance, thanked Mr. Izakoff for his politeness, and saying he would see them at ten to-morrow, left the office. The impression left on Izakoff's mind was favorable to the success of his scheme, and he said so; Peters simply replying, 'I hope it may be so.' Promptly at ten the next morning,

Mr. Izakoff being present and waiting, Humphreys appeared. After the usual preliminary conversation on indifferent subjects, Peters asked for Humphreys' view by the inquiry, 'Well, Humphreys, what do you think of Mr. Isakoff's proposition?' Slowly, and with emphasis which left nothing to doubt, he replied: 'The salary is greater than I earn; more than I need; more than I want; more than I could use. As to the town house and country house, I need but one, and that should be near my place of business. As to the coaches and servants, I always walk, and wait upon myself and should find myself unable to govern a multitude of servants. I do not know that I have the talents my friend Mr. Peters ascribes to me; but I do know and feel that whether my merit be great or small, I owe it all to the flag of my country, and that is a debt I must pay.' A dead silence ensued on the announcement of this conclusion. By the time Peters and Izakoff had recovered from their surprise, Humphreys had risen from his chair, taken his hat and stood in the attitude of taking his departure. The answer was so complete and conclusive that no effort was made by Mr. Izakoff to renew or modify his proposition. He only asked Humphreys to name some one qualified for the place. Humphreys courteously replied that he knew of no one, unless it was Mr. Van-something of New York; but the name has escaped my memory.

"When I commenced this narrative I had but one object in view, to rescue from oblivion one of the most signal instances of love of country within my knowledge. Although the history of the late war for the Union is resplendent with deeds of courage and daring; of patience and endurance on both sides, I recollect no instance which excels Humphreys' devout love of country as manifested in his refusal of an offer which might have dazzled any man.

"Some days after the interview between Izakoff, Peters and Humphreys, Joseph Hopkinson, afterward Judge of the United States District Court, entered the office and enquired what was meant by a story of an interview between Izakoff and Humphreys. Peters was an excellent raconteur, and while the story was being told, Hopkinson stood with his hands clasped before him, the very embodiment of silence and attention. When the climax had been reached, he waved his right hand around his head and said in a voice thick with suppressed emotion: 'Had he done otherwise he would not have been his father's child.' (His father was Joshua Humphreys, appointed to office by General Washington, designer, draftsman and architect of the famous ship Constitution.) 'Dick, tell Mr. Adams this.' Mr. Adams (John Q.) was at that time President of the United States. The day after I mailed a letter to the President; of its contents I was uninformed. Some weeks after this letter was forwarded Mr. Adams, unheralded and unattended, entered the office. Shortly after this visit the Secretary of the Navy—Samuel L. Southard—suggested a change in the government of the Navy. The Navy had been governed by five gentlemen, called 'Commissioners of the Navy.' It was proposed to abolish the Board and establish a 'Bureau of Construction and Repair.' This was the subject of a message to Congress from the President. A bill was introduced and passed to that effect; and, if my memory fail not, the duties of that Bureau were confided to Samuel Humphreys and so continued—for I do not know how many years—as I became engaged in other pursuits, which debarred me from a knowledge of such subjects—but it may be added here that Mr. Humphreys remained Chief Naval Constructor of the United States until his death, in 1846."

In the October (1886) number of the Magazine of American History is published a sketch of Gen. Humphreys' military services, by Gen. J. Watts DePeyster, which is of such value and interest that we venture to re-produce it, in a condensed form, in the pages of this Family Memorial:

 "Limited space precludes the possibility of more than a mere allusion to Humphreys' earlier services. Born in 1809, he was graduated at West Point in 1831, served in the Second Artillery at the South, in the war with the Seminole Indians, was engaged in two notable actions against these savages, and resigned in 1836. During nearly half of this period of five years and three months he was detached from his command in the performance of topographical duty, on surveys, and in similar employments. It was in these labors that he laid the basis of his subsequent celebrity as an engineer. For nearly two years he was attached to the Coast Survey, and in 1838 the Government became so thoroughly convinced of his special value, that he was re-appointed in the army as first lieutenant of the corps of Topographical Engineers.

"Thus he did much better for himself by resigning than if he had remained continuously in the discharge of regular professional routine. During the ensuing twenty-two years, his Statement of Services is a continuous record of scientific triumphs. 'Man's history,' says Alexander Winchell, in his Sketches of Creation, 'is not written on rocks and river shores.' This man's (Humphreys) is written both 'on rocks and river shores.' In the former case 'on rocks,' through his explorations and surveys for railroads from the Mississippi to the Pacific Ocean and geographical explorations west of the Mississippi from 1854 to 1861; and on 'river shores,' through his topographical and hydrographic survey of the delta of the Mississippi River and voluminous report of world-wide celebrity, translated and retranslated abroad in 1848-51, and his examination of the Mississippi levees, 1865 and 1866.

"He was opposed to the Eades system of jetties to insure the unobstructed navigation of the mouth of the Mississippi, which experience has shown to be only a temporary and most expensive remedy, or rather a palliative, inevitably involving, according to scientific experts, cumulative disbursements and labors, which are augmented and aggravated by the natural difficulties encountered, as at the mouth of the Mississippi. * * * Humphreys was in favor of a ship-canal, as a permanent work worthy of a great nation. * * * * *

"When the war broke out in 1861, Humphreys had long been on intimate terms with Jefferson Davis, the acquaintance dating back to associations at the Military Academy. In the bitter and suspicious state of feeling at the time this intimacy was injurious to the advancement of Humphreys, although he had never sympathized in the least with the political views of Davis. While men of far inferior ability were promoted or appointed to the highest positions, Humphreys continued to be simply, as late as the 5th of March, 1862, a major of Topographical Engineers on the staff of the General-in-chief; and until the end of April, 1862, simply as colonel and additional aide-de-camp. As chief of the Topographical Engineers of the Army of the Potomac, he accompanied that magnificent force to the Peninsula. He was opposed to the plans of his superior, and preferred what is known as the 'Urbanna Route,' which was certainly better if a roundabout movement was to be adopted. A vigorous, direct campaign was more in accordance with his character. He was indefatigable in the discharge of every duty connected with his position in the advance upon Richmond, but it was not until our army made a stand at Malvern Hill that his acknowledged ability had an opportunity to manifest itself. On that occasion, he discharged the duty of an officer who was known when modern war became developed into a scientific system as Velt-Maréchal [Campi Magister vel Marechallus], whose business it was to receive the plans of engagement from the generalissimo and select the ground—or of 'Sergeant-Major de Battaglia,' who had command over all the colonels (officers then, as a rule, holding higher relative positions than did the majority of our generals of division, and certainly than most brigadiers), and helped to dispose and arrange the troops in day of battle. Humphreys made all the Union dispositions at Malvern Hill and posted all the corps except the Fifth and one division of the Fourth. It would have been better for the Union cause if there had been no exception, for that cost us some unnecessary fighting. After the unfortunate issue of the campaign of the Army of Virginia, * * Humphreys, to his great contentment, was transferred from the staff and engineer's duty to the command of a division of new troops, with which he hastened to reinforce the army at Antietam.

"His alacrity and energy were equally commendable. He prided himself greatly on this march, and refers to it even eight months later, in his report after Chancellorsville, dated May 10, 1863, as follows: 'In making this my last report of the operations of my division as at present constituted, I trust I may be excused for recurring to the service it has performed. Hastily organized in September last, near Washington, the regiments newly raised, it made a long and painful march of more than twenty-three miles in a dark night to take part in the expected battle of the next day at Antietam.' A few weeks subsequent to this march, Humphreys made a reconnaissance—October 16-19, 1862—into Virginia, which was an operation perfect in its kind. This report bears the following indorsement of his superior: 'General Humphreys accomplished in a most satisfactory manner the object of the expedition, and carried out most judiciously the instructions of the commanding general.' It was on this occasion Humphreys first acted in conjunction with Hancock, and it laid the foundation of that mutual esteem and confidence in each other's trustworthiness under every circumstance of peril, which grew stronger and stronger throughout the war.

"Although Fortune had hitherto frowned upon his advancement, she afforded him opportunity, about three months afterward, at the first battle of Fredericksburg, December 13, 1862. There Humphreys displayed himself in the full magnificence of his unexceeded and unsurpassable intrepidity and commandership. * * * * * In this battle excellent troops were coldly and cruelly ordered to dash themselves to pieces to no purpose. They were ordered into a shambles to be slaughtered, and they were so. The Confederates' charge, on the third day at Gettysburg, courageous as it was, will nevertheless, upon examination, scarcely enter into a close comparison with the Union assaults upon Marye's Heights. The Confederates in July, 1863, had clear ground before them, and there were no works to carry in their front; whereas the Union troops had not only to cross a bridgeless canal, but to assail a wall which was equal to a fortification, under every species of deadly and concentrated fire of sheltered musketry, including Barksdale's unerring riflemen, with heavy reserves in the rear, and of tiers of batteries. * * When Burnside ordered Sumner to storm Marye's Heights, the sturdy veteran, while clearly estimating the perils in his front, simply remarked, 'An order is an order and must be obeyed.' * * * He afterward described 'those fortifications' in these pregnant words: 'They were tier upon tier for two or three tiers. If we had carried the first tier we could not have held it, because their next tier was a much more formidable row of fortifications, only a mile distant, and in a higher position still; and no doubt large masses of infantry were between the two crests; and having got on the top of one crest, we would have been compelled to contend with large masses of fresh troops, over whom their own batteries could fire [upon us]. I was ordered by the general commanding to select the corps to make the attack. I selected the corps [divisions] of General French and General Hancock, two of the most gallant officers in our army, and two corps [divisions] that had neither of them never turned their backs to the enemy.' * * * * *

"The experienced French General of Brigade, V. de Chanal, in reporting to the Emperor Napoleon III., remarks as follows of Humphreys at Fredericksburg: 'At the battle [of Fredericksburg], a major in the United States Topographical Engineers, whom the war had elevated into a general in the volunteer army, Humphreys, desired to lead back his command, composed of Pennsylvanians—whose three months' term of service was to expire the next day—to the attack of an important position. These poor fellows, disheartened by several checks, and thinking perhaps as well of their liberation so near at hand, had lain down and continued deaf to the threats as well as to the entreaties of their commander. Then Humphreys dismounted, and accompanied by his son, a youth of sixteen, who never left his father's side, advanced slowly toward the enemy. The Pennsylvanians, shamed by this example, started to their feet, and rushed to the attack.'

"The first surge up the slippery slope was made by French, Third Division, Second corps, with a boldness and backbone that carried his front line to within thirty or forty paces of the never-to-be-forgotten 'Ha! Ha! stone wall.' The undertow of repulse swept it back, leaving behind 1,200 dead and wounded out of about twice that number. The second surge forward was made by Hancock's First Division, Second corps. It broke within twenty-five paces of the stone wall, when the reflux occurred. In an 'evil quarter of an hour,' of 5,600 hale men 2,013 lifeless or mutilated forms lay mingled with the mass of victims to the preceding attempt. Burnside was not yet satisfied! Humphreys was next sent in over the palpitating or stiffening wrecks with his Third Division of the Fifth corps. 'Humphreys,' says General de Trobriand, 'was probably the best officer in the Army of the Potomac that day. He had a quick eye and a clear head. That the fighting, which his division did—some of the very best fighting that was done at Fredericksburg—was so good, was due to him. He had only two brigades, and among these were several regiments which had never before been in battle.' As ordered, his men divested themselves of their knapsacks, haversacks and overcoats—in fact, everything not indispensable to service or which could encumber their movements. No smooth, meadowy field rose gently, as at Gettysburg, after the canal was crossed, to the position to be carried. On the contrary, the interval was broken, crossed by fences and sprinkled with buildings, which afforded admirable covers [to the defenders], and just at the foot of the ascent proper to Marye's Heights, a sunken road between deep

'Ha! Ha! stone walls,' afforded as perfect a defensive work as any engineer could have planned, or any engineer troops could have constructed. Moreover, the Confederates had strengthened these already strong defenses so that their infantry rose, as it were, out of the ground to deliver a concentric fire. The head of Humphreys' column seemed to propel itself into a perfect yawning gulf of flame.

"This fiery abyss must have appeared tenfold more terrible, because in the glooming of the deepening twilight, and amid the thick mist arising from the bottom land, every discharge was as intensely brilliant as the trail of a meteor traversing the night [sky]. In the day-time men may hear, but they cannot see the death-stroke. On this occasion, the very earth seemed to belch forth lurid destruction, consuming like ground-lightning, or the sudden vomiting forth of a glowing lava-flood from the crater of a volcano. As the chief actor declared: 'A sheet of flame ran along that stone wall, accompanied by a long roll of thunder. It was the most magnificent sight I saw in the war. It seemed to enfold the head of the column in an embrace of fire.'

"Notwithstanding, Humphreys persevered, and if the energy and valor of a single man could have crossed as conqueror that wall of molten death, he would have carried his column over or through it, on and up to the Heights beyond. Whether he could have maintained himself there successfully, was a question dependent not upon himself, but upon his being properly reinforced and supported. As it was, despite his utmost endeavors, in which two horses were shot under him and another badly wounded, he could not get his men across that stone wall; indeed, not nearer than fifteen or twenty paces to it. * * * * * That Humphreys escaped is one of those marvels which can only be explained by the doctrine either of 'preordained decree' or Special Providence. His charge will yet be blazoned forth in history as one of the noblest efforts of Northern resolution, or, as he remarked of one of Kearny's exhibitions of valor, 'magnificent.' After Humphreys had lost two horses, killed or disabled under him, only one officer of his staff, his son, was in the saddle, and he mounted upon an animal wounded in three places. Toward the close, Humphreys mounted a third horse, belonging to a sorely wounded subordinate, and continued to ride about amid the rain of missiles, bearing a charmed life. His clothing was pierced and rent, but his person did not receive a scratch. His division, like the third breaker upon a beach, left its traces of blood and wrecks a few paces farther on and nearer to the enemy than the preceding two, lingered longer, strove harder to maintain itself so far, and to accomplish the impossible. Finally, it withdrew, singing in chorus, to show that although shattered physically, morally its spirit was unshaken. * * * It is stated that out of 4,000 effectives, 1,700 had been killed, wounded, or were missing. The general's corrected report returns 1,030—one man out of less than every four. This charge put a period to the catastrophe. It was the last of the fighting. The protest of the hard-hitting and fast-holding veteran Sumner prevented another sacrifice of life which Burnside had commanded.

"As Humphreys played a subordinate part in the Chancellorsville campaign (so styled), only a few words must suffice to bridge over the period between the exhibition of his aggressive heroism at Fredericksburg and his tenacious heroism at Gettysburg. At Chancellorsville, Humphreys was posted on the extreme left of the army, on the 2d and 3d of May, to protect the pontoon bridge just below the United States Mine or Bark Mill Ford. His defenses were on the Mine Run, just above its junction with Mineral Spring Run and where the Mineral Spring Road joins the Old Mine or Mountain Road. During these days of misfortune, scarcely inferior in their sad results, although under a different form, to those of Fredericksburg, he performed his duty, as he ever did, thoroughly.

"The march from Chancellorsville to Gettysburg was one of the most tremendous performed by the Army of the Potomac, and circumstances threw it with more peculiar weight upon the Third than upon any other corps. * * * General Humphreys' services at Gettysburg rose not only to the superlative on the battle-field, but comparatively so, as well, in the strangeness of the circumstances attending his march to the field. The following, an extract from a letter of July 11, 1869, from General Humphreys, in regard to this march and battle, is both graphic and interesting:

"When about four o'clock, July 2d, 1863, I was moving forward to the Emmettsburg road, my first in line of battle, the second line in battalion in mass, an aid-de-camp of General Meade * * * (tall, gentlemanly, a good officer) rode to me from the direction of Peach Orchard, and gave me an order from General Meade (who, he said, was on the ground in the direction he came from) to move at once toward the Round Top and occupy the ground there, which was vacant. * * * I immediately gave the order, by my aids, for the division to move by the left flank—a movement that was made at once, and with the simultaneousness of a single regiment. The order given, I turned to General Meade's aide, and requested him to ride at full speed to General Meade and inform him that the execution of his order, which I was complying with, would leave vacant the position my division was ordered to occupy, pointing out, at the same time, the ground that would then be left vacant, and where the left of the Second Army Corps was, etc. I then turned my attention to guiding my division by the shortest line toward the Round Top, which being done, to expedite matters I rode full speed toward where I supposed General Meade to be, but met Colonel — returning from him, who informed me General Meade recalled his order, and that I should occupy the position General Sickles had directed me to take. In a second the division went about face, retraced the ground by the right flank that they had the moment before gone over by the left flank, and then moved forward to their positions along the Emmettsburg road. The whole thing was done with the precision of a careful exercise, the enemy's artillery giving effect to its picturesqueness. The division, brigade and regimental flags were flying.

"After the battle of Gettysburg, Meade, looking about for a chief-of-staff, and perfectly well aware of the merits of Humphreys, tendered the appointment to him. Humphreys was loath to accept it; he yearned to remain in the command of troops, but he clearly discerned that to do so would be utterly incompatible with the suggestions of common sense and self-respect. A short reflection determined his course, and he joined Meade as chief-of-staff of the Army of the Potomac, a position of which the importance is so utterly miscomprehended among a people so entirely unmilitary, while so grandly warlike, as those of the United States. The affectionate language with which Humphreys took leave of his associates of the Third corps is worthy of record and attention: * * * 'In parting from this celebrated division [the White Division, originally under Hooker], after having commanded it for the brief period of fifty days, I trust that I may be excused for expressing my admiration for its high soldierly qualities. It is impossible to pass it in review even without perceiving that its ranks are filled with men that are soldiers in the best meaning of this term; and that it possesses, in the grade of commissioned officers, men whose skill, courage and accomplishments would grace any service.'

"Was greater praise ever addressed by a competent judge to the men and officers of the old Third corps? It would be difficult to produce its equivalent. In looking through a correspondence of the most intimate and interesting character, which extended over a period commencing about the close of the war, and ending absolutely and with the very decease of General Humphreys—a correspondence which would fill a large trunk—there are letters of Humphreys which contain the most lively incidents and striking occurrences in connection with the Rebellion which have never appeared in print. These, however must await a more opportune time for publication.

"Swinton, in his History of the Army of the Potomac, styles the operations of the fall and early winter of 1863 a 'Campaign of Manœuvres.' * * * Unquestionably during the campaign, Destiny placed three times the Army of Northern Virginia in a situation to become the prey of the Army of the Potomac if its commander had listened solely to the counsels of his chief-of-staff, Humphreys. * * * But, instead of according full attention to Humphreys, who perfectly comprehended the situation, sufficient heed was not paid to his orders and Meade listened to the counsels of others, and thus leaned upon a Pharaoh's reed which broke and wounded him instead of affording him support. * * * Lee escaped the intended stroke of a steam-ram directed against the vulnerable amid-ships—a blow which might have crushed in his army long strung out as a nut is cracked by an artistic instrument. A similar neglect occurred later in the following winter, when Humphreys formed a plan which would have settled the fate of the Army of Northern Virginia then and there. How he felt the loss of the occasion is best expressed in his own words. In a letter from him, dated July 26, 1869, he writes as follows: 'I have glanced at Decker but find no mention of 'demonstration'—nor do I recall any discussion of it—but I do recall some powerful demonstrations made by the Army of the Potomac, when I was chief-of-staff, and their complete success, when even the commanders of the highest rank carrying them on did not know their object—nor what the other part of the army was doing—or expected to do; thinking theirs was the true operation. And there was one of those operations of which I shall tell the story some day, for I alone can tell it—General Meade was absent, sick in Philadelphia, at the time. I had formed a plan for surprising Lee, in mid-winter [1863], which I breathed to no one, and was watching the coming of suitable weather, which I knew would come before the winter was over, when it was all spoilt. How is the story; and the spoiling proved that the surprise would have been complete and we should have had a brilliant success and my reputation would have been made.'

"The third occasion was intermediate, when the elements of triumph were prepared by Humphreys—the Mine Run campaign. How he felt, in consequence of the failure through the criminal negligence of subordinates, can never be known, because he has seen fit to be silent in his little work, Gettysburg to the Rapidan, published by Charles Scribner's Sons, in which the truth might have been triumphantly manifested. If his plan had been carried out in spirit and to the letter, a far different and victorious result might have been chronicled and credited to the Army of the Potomac. His plans were masterly; the result was an exemplification of the fable, the mountain in labor eventuated in the issue of a mouse. Yes, indeed, the Mine Run fiasco would have resulted in a triumph, if the advice and plan of Humphreys had been executed with anything like exactness and an energy akin to his own, whereas a bloody catastrophe nearly rewarded a sagacious inspiration. No wonder that a military genius was perfectly willing to relinquish a thankless task of endeavoring to bring the conclusions of science to bear upon the conceptions of expediency, and take the command of troops where the personal force of the individual could electrify the mass and convert inertia and incompetency into alacrity and precision. How often have these opinions been repeated, now with indignant emphasis, again with positive sadness.

"However important results had shown to be the services rendered by Humphreys as chief-of-staff of the Army of the Potomac, his office was one which, while useful in the extreme to the army and to the nation, could in no event be brilliant for himself. Had he been the very sum and sun of military ability, his rays could scarcely penetrate the dense atmosphere of circumstances and of official fog, to make themselves perceptible to the world. Between him and ordinary comprehension of his influence were almost impassible barriers, impermeable screens or blinds. To whatever extent Meade, within himself, might have acknowledged the immense value of the duties well done by Humphreys, he does not, in orders, concede how much he did owe to such a subordinate. Examine his official documents and decide if he ever does justice to the unqualified devotion and marvelous capacity of his chief-of-staff. Meade himself, it is true, only played a secondary part after Grant came to the East; he was a lower Alp, always in the shadow of Grant, sometimes so completely obscured as to be temporarily invisible.

“On the 26th of November, 1864, General Humphreys was relieved from the thankless task of chief-of-staff of the Army of the Potomac, and placed at the head of the Second (properly speaking, the combined Second-Third corps, which comprised a whole division of the latter, in which there were very many of the officers and men of whom he had taken leave so affectionately on the victorious fields of Pennsylvania, in his elegant and complimentary order of the 16th of August, 1863). On placing himself once more at their head, with mingled modesty as to himself and pride in regard to them, he issued another order equally characteristic and pregnant with feeling, as succinct as expressive:

“‘It is natural that I should feel some diffidence in succeeding to the command of so distinguished a soldier as Major-General Hancock. I can only promise you that I shall try to do my duty and preserve your reputation unscathed, relying upon you to sustain me by that skill and courage which you have so conspicuously displayed on so many fields.’

“The story of the combined Second-Third corps after Humphreys assumed command of it is a chronicle of successes, the more remarkable since, under his leading, it was simply a series of undoubted triumphs which knew no check nor arrest. * * * From the date that Humphreys became a corps commander, November 26, 1864, until Lee surrendered at Appomattox Court House, April 9, 1865, there is not the blur of the breath of a check upon the polish of the escutcheon of the general or the badges of the corps that he led to victory. The winter of 1864-65 was one of unusual severity, and the Confederates suffered greatly, particularly from want of proper food. As it was reported that supplies were wagoned from Hicksford, on the Weldon Railroad, forty miles south of Petersburg, to break up this route of supply, Humphreys was ordered to co-operate with Warren, Fifth corps, which, in turn, was to support Gregg's cavalry of the Army of the Potomac. On the 6th of February quite a severe action occurred, which ended in the extension of the Union intrenchments to the left as far as Hatcher's Run at the Vaughan Road Crossing. This was the first time that the army had solidly established itself so far to the left, and Humphreys now held that extremity of our lines. The Fifth corps was massed in his rear in support. This mention is interesting, because it was from this base that the final operations of the investing army started to complete their work. Although there were continual encounters at points, where the confronting works were particularly close to each other, no general conflict took place, although the lists of casualties in the aggregate were considerable. On the 25th of March, the Confederates made their desperate sortie upon Fort Stedman or Hell, a bold stroke, well planned and gallantly executed, * * * and aimed at the Union base of supplies and magazines at City Point. Had these been captured and utilized, or even destroyed, a serious paralysis must have ensued. * * * The writer of this article, on being asked some few days before it occurred, by the military editor of the Army and Navy Journal, as to what stroke of daring on the part of Lee held forth the greatest chances of success, this very course, and its consequences, were distinctly indicated in detail. * * * It is very curious that, in very many cases in the history of war, a daring sortie in force constitutes the last chance of a successful defense. * * * Lee's failure at Fort Stedman may justly be considered the ‘beginning of the end.’ Fort Stedman was the Alpha to the Omega of Appomattox Court House, the period of the existence of the war. On this same 25th of March, when Lee made his great break at Fort Stedman, Humphreys took advantage of the opportunity, went in on his front, as Wright—on the right of the combined Second and Third corps—on his front, and by clearing away the principal obstacles accomplished a result which so greatly co-operated in rendering Wright's triumph a sure thing on Sunday, April 2d following. Six days afterward—March 31st—Warren, in advancing upon the White Oak Road to cut Lee's communication with his extreme right, in air, at Five Forks, got a tremendous counter about 11 A. M., which in succession sent his divisions reeling back, in turn, ‘clubbed,’ in confusion. It was then that Humphreys flashed out with one of those inspirations of genius which demonstrate the combination of self-possession and quick perception, which take full advantage of the moment—the chance which, if suffered to escape, is gone forever. He launched his First Division, under Miles, against the victorious Rebel front and flank, inflicted severe loss upon them, drove them back into their intrenchments, and thus Humphreys' troops were the first to set their feet on the White Oak Road at this point, whither so many efforts had tended only to end more or less in aggravated failures. * * * * *

“On the 1st of April occurred the battle of Five Forks, so disastrous in its general consequences to Lee—a veritable Coup de Jarnac to his holding Petersburg, and equally so in personal result to Warren. The glory of the victory is generally scored for the cavalry, but generosity and individual conviction must accord the credit mark to the infantry. * * * During the 1st and 2d of April, the Second corps carried the Confederate works in its front, and Humphreys' gallant lieutenant (Miles) won another laurel at Sutherland Station. Humphreys was of the opinion that if the whole of his corps had been thrown upon Heath's division, then and there, it would have been captured in toto, which would have materially shortened the work of the next five weeks. As it was, he was shuttlecocked to and fro, and finally shot back uselessly toward Petersburg, instead of being shot forward against Lee's line of escape. At 8 p. m., April 2, Lee commenced his final retreat. Very early in the morning of the 3d, Petersburg was taken possession of by General Wilcox, and at 8.15 a. m., Richmond was formally surrendered to General Weitzel.

* * * Early on the 3d the pursuit of Lee was commenced in earnest. * * * If the concrete force of language is estimated, the advance of the infantry was rather delayed than assisted by the cavalry, and the efforts of the cavalry, except to harass or annoy, would have tended to no decisive result, without the positive body-blows of the infantry. If any one would take the trouble to examine a correct plan and trace the route followed by the cavalry, and the roads marched over by Lee, it is impossible not to reach the conclusion that the horsemen did not come in contact with the still organized forces—the three arms combined—of the Confederates until late in the afternoon of the 6th, after Humphreys, with his combined Second-Third corps, unsupported, had caught up with them at Flat Creek, about 8.30 a. m., had partly forded the stream, armpit deep, partly crossed it on an improvised bridge one hundred feet long, built by them, and split off Ewell's Division about 4.30 p. m.—having been engaged in seven stand-up fights, and carried several hastily and partially entrenched positions defended by artillery, winding up the day with a 'heavy battle' at night-fall, with Gordon's Division, which alone escaped, through the sudden shutting in of darkness. Ewell's Division, hardly hammered for about eight hours, and split off by Humphreys, slid into the hands of the cavalry and Sixth corps, and surrendered without the shot of a cannon on their part.

"The failure of Lee to find the supplies he expected at Amelia Court House no doubt had a terrible effect upon the fighting power of his army. With that, however, this article has nothing to do, except to present clearly the potential energy and fight of Humphreys on the 6th and 7th; for he had to do, pretty much all the time, with everything that remained compact and cohesive of the Army of Northern Virginia. This narrative left him still fighting on the 6th, when darkness fell upon the field. He was up with the first light of day (7th), and it was the combined Second-Third corps, and not the cavalry, that saved High Bridge and continued to drive and fight Lee all day long. If the cavalry in the same way had saved the bridges at Farmville, it would have greatly simplified matters, and ended up Lee the same day. At Cumberland Church, on the afternoon of the 7th, occurred the last stand up fight, or pitched battle, between the Army of Northern Virginia under Lee and the Army of the Potomac represented by the combined Second-Third corps under Humphreys. All the Union troops that made any attempt to help him was a division of cavalry, which came to grief so suddenly that it at once voted itself out of the fight, and recrossed the Appomattox at Farmville, fording 'belly deep.' While Humphreys was holding and pressing Lee's troops, horse and foot, were piling up at Farmville, within three miles of the scene of collision. Humphreys struck Lee at 1.20 p. m. and asked for reinforcements. The Sixth corps was at Farmville at 2.20 p. m. The Twenty-fourth corps was moving forward. Grant was there at 4.40 p. m. Remember, the cavalry crossed and recrossed 'belly-deep,' which is about or less than three feet. This is exactly the measurement given by Mr. W. W. Jackson, of the depth of the ford at his (Jackson's) Mill, about one and a half miles above Farmville. Mr. Hooper, of Farmville, shortly after the war, gave a maximum depth at any point at that place at four to five feet ordinary water, bottom sandy, and he added that, owing to the dams, the water does not deepen in the spring. The Appomattox may be about the width of a New York avenue from house to house. Had the Sixth corps and Twenty-fourth corps crossed to the assistance of Humphreys, the war in Virginia might have ended elegantly, with a battle and a capture by force of arms forty miles by road and forty-six hours by time, short of the quiet surrender at Appomattox Court House; yes, ended in a blaze of glory for the Army of the Potomac, which deserved such a termination to their labors and sufferings.

"Why did not this occur? The problem is insoluble. Troops have forded and bridged broader, more boisterous and deeper rivers successfully, under similar and more difficult circumstances, and under fire, crossing victoriously in the teeth of opposition through water armpit, even cravat deep, on very many occasions. There was no lack of material of every kind—buildings and large trees—in abundance near at hand. A cantilever bridge could have been thrown between the piers of the burned railroad bridge in an hour, and any kind of bridge sufficient for artillery and trains in two hours at the farthest; in fact, any sufficient kind of a bridge constructed in about two hours. Meanwhile, if the cavalry and infantry got through, artillery could have been hauled across by hand if the teams could not perform their duty. Every detail that enters into the question has been examined with care. An expert, a military engineer, has given his opinion, corroborating that some sort of a trustworthy viaduct could have been accomplished in two hours at farthest. There were mechanics in superabundance, likewise material; but nothing was done until too late, and Meade telegraphed toward night-fall to Humphreys: 'You must look out for yourself.' He had done so, and he continued to do so. Lee fully appreciated his pertinacity, and said so. When the enemy were headed off at Appomattox Court House, and on this occasion the Second-Third were supported by the Sixth corps, a judge of the highest merit and experience recorded his belief that Humphreys would have annihilated the enemy immediately before him if he had not been stopped by orders.

"To augment the dissatisfaction felt by Humphreys, one if not more of his most important dispatches (night, April 6, 1865) was suppressed, which was an early and perfect revelation of the truth of what he and his corps had done, whereas everything that the cavalry performed was scattered broadcast throughout the land. Humphreys often alluded to these and other injustices with great feeling, particularly in the following letter:

“SEPTEMBER 29, 1872. — * * * * * You would not think I had lost interest in the subject of your labors had you heard me talk to some Philadelphians about the PURSUIT OF LEE. I learned only this summer of the effect of Stanton's telegram of the 6th or 7th of April, giving the whole credit of overtaking and attacking Lee on the 6th April to Sheridan. ‘There,’ they said in Philadelphia (I am told), ‘the generals of the Army of the Potomac are laggards; it required Sheridan and Grant to overtake and beat Lee.’ What an outrage on Wright and myself that telegram was! We laggards! The impression thus made on the public in this movement of success has never been effaced; it remains to this day. To you I am indebted, my dear General, for the first presentation of the subject to the public that will tend to efface this impression.”

“Humphreys alone and unsupported fought the last pitched battle with his corps, representing the Army of the Potomac, against its four-years' antagonist, the Army of Northern Virginia. What is very curious, the position assumed by Lee at Cumberland Church closely resembled the disposition of the Union Army at Gettysburg on the third day—however in petto. Lee's position, near Farmville, had the same defect as that of Meade at Gettysburg, because most vulnerable if ‘punched,’ and altogether open and unprotected in the rear, exactly where the Sixth corps, or, and the Twenty-fourth corps, or, and Fifth corps, or all three should have been crossed over and put in. If Grant had adequately—as he could easily have done—reinforced and supported and assisted Humphreys at Cumberland Church, the glory of crushing Lee would have undoubtedly have inured to Humphreys and not to Sheridan.”

In regard to this, Hampton L. Carson, Esq., in his Memorial Address, says:

“Had Humphreys failed to secure High Bridge, had no infantry crossed the Appomattox on the 7th, Lee would, in all probability, have effected his escape. He could have reached New Store that night, Appomattox station on the afternoon of the 8th, obtained the rations there, and moved that evening towards Lynchburg. A march next day would have brought him to Lynchburg, where he would have been safe. The value of Humphreys' services in crossing the Appomattox and detaining Lee all day at the Heights of Farmville or Cumberland Church will be appreciated, when it is remembered that Ord's two infantry corps did not reach Appomattox Court House until 10 o'clock in the morning of the 9th of April, and that it was the sight of Ord's infantry supporting Sheridan, that convinced Gordon that further fighting was useless and escape impossible.

“About half-past eight o'clock on the evening of the 7th, when still in close contact with Lee, as has been described, Adjutant-General Seth Williams brought to General Humphreys Grant's first letter to Lee asking the surrender of Lee's army. This letter Humphreys was requested to have delivered to General Lee. He sent it at once through his picket line, at the same time authorizing a truce for an hour, to enable the enemy to gather up their wounded. At this time the opposing troops were but a few hundred yards apart. Lee's answer was brought back within an hour, and General Williams started at once to return to General Grant at Farmville by the circuitous route of High Bridge. The next morning Humphreys resumed the pursuit. While on the march, Grant's second letter to Lee was brought to Humphreys, who sent it to Lee through Fitz-Lee's cavalry rear guard, which was then close in Humphreys' front. Lee's answer was received by Humphreys about dusk, as he halted for a three hours' rest, two miles beyond New Store, after a march of twenty miles. He again pushed forward, but after a march of twenty-six miles, was compelled to halt his column at midnight, on finding his men dropping out of the ranks from want of food and fatigue. On the morning of the 9th Humphreys received Grant's third letter to Lee, which was delivered to him in person by Colonel Whittier, of Humphreys' staff. Lee's answer was delivered by the hands of Colonel Whittier to General Meade, who forwarded it to General Grant, who had then left the route followed by the Second and Sixth Corps, and taken a cross-road which led to Appomattox Court House, and along or near the routes of Sheridan and Ord. Had Grant remained on the route of the Second and Sixth Corps, the surrender would have taken place before midday. As it was, Grant having ridden forward, the meeting between himself and Lee did not take place until 1 o'clock p. m., and the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia was not announced to the Army of the Potomac until 4 o'clock. The remainder of this celebrated correspondence passed through the lines of General Sheridan.

“In the meantime General Humphreys, closely followed by the Sixth Corps, pressed forward, and began to overtake Longstreet, when he received two earnest verbal requests from General Lee, by a staff officer, with a flag of truce, not to press forward upon him, but to halt, as negotiations were going on for a surrender. As Humphreys had been notified that the correspondence was in no way to interfere with his operations, he twice sent word to Lee's staff officer that the request could not be complied with, and that he must withdraw from the ground at once. At this time, he was in full sight on the road, not a hundred yards distant from the head of the Second Corps. Humphreys at once formed his corps for attack, the Sixth Corps formed on the right, which, at the moment it was about to begin, was suspended by the arrival of General Meade, who granted a truce for an hour. Hostilities were never resumed. The Great Civil War was at an end.

“These facts are sufficient to illustrate the relentless character of Humphreys' pursuit, and attest his ability as a corps commander in handling men worn out by hunger, fatigue, long marches and severe fighting. They fitly close his active military services in the field.

“In the grand review of the Army of the Potomac, at Washington, the Second Corps participated, and one of the noticeable features of the occasion was the appearance of General Humphreys' staff mounted upon white horses, a delicate compliment to the noble gray who had carried him so gallantly through the fatigues of the march and the perils of battle. The old war-horse still lives, with but slight abatement of her wonted spirit.

“General Humphreys was in command of the District of Pennsylvania, in the Middle Department, from July 28th to December 9th, 1865.

“From December, 1865, to August of the following year, he was in charge of the examination of the Mississippi levees, a work rendered necessary by the neglect and damage of the war.

“On August 8, 1866, he was appointed to the command of the Corps of Engineers, with the rank of Brigadier-General and Chief of Engineers, serving in this capacity until his retirement from active service, at his own request, on June 30, 1879. He thoroughly organized this branch of the service. The work of the general office was divided into four divisions, and an officer of special fitness placed in charge of each, while officers of rank and experience were assigned to important districts and duties.

“He served as a Member of the Lighthouse Board, from 1870 to 1874; of the Commission to examine into canal routes across the isthmus connecting North and South America, from 1872 to 1877; of the Board of Washington and Georgetown Harbor improvements, from 1872 to 1873; of the Revising Board of Bulkhead and Pier Line of Brooklyn, from May, 1872, to June, 1879, of Staten Island from August, 1878, to June, 1879, and of Hudson river (Troy to Hudson), June, 1877, to June, 1879; of Board for Survey of Baltimore Harbor and adjacent waters from May, 1876, to June, 1879; of the Washington Monument Commission from January, 1877, to June, 1879; of the Advisory Board to Massachusetts Harbor Commissioners from January, 1877, to June, 1879, and of the Examining Board of Moline Water Power Company contracts during 1877.

“In the civil duties appertaining to his profession he was as eminent as in his military duties in the field. In 1857 he was chosen a member of the American Philosophical Society held at Philadelphia, Pa., of which both his grand-father and father had been members, and of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, of Boston, Mass., in 1863; a corporator of the National Academy of Science in 1863; an Honorary Member of the Imperial Royal Geological Institute of Vienna in 1862; of the Royal Institute of Science and Art of Lombardy, Milan, Italy, in 1864, and corresponding member of the Geographical Society of Paris, and of the Austrian Society of Engineer Architects, and an Honorary Member of the Italian Geological Society in 1880. The Degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him by Harvard College, July 15, 1868.

“After retirement from the Bureau, the last intellectual labor performed by General Humphreys was in the composition of two books, which together constitute a military classic and a mine of important matter relating to the history of the war—‘The Virginia Campaign of '64-'65,’ and ‘From Gettysburg to the Rapidan’—the latter being, properly, an introduction to the first.

“The amount of work bestowed upon them was immense, and the results exhibit extraordinary power of intellectual compression.”

After the matter on pages 999–1004 had been set up, our attention was called to an exceedingly able and satisfactory account of General Humphreys' life and works, contained in an address before the American Philosophical Society, December 5, 1884, by Hampton L. Carson, Esq., of Philadelphia. From this we have quoted the matter beginning on page 1005, as well as the following passages, which more fully illustrate the earlier life of the departed scholar and hero. (EDITOR.)

Of his earlier life, Mr. Carson says: “As a boy he was fearless, upright and honorable, with a determined spirit of resistance to anything like tyranny or personal affront; first in all manly sports and a leader in daring exploits. His early education was received at ‘Tommy Watson’s,’ the Germantown Academy, and the school of an Englishman named Warren, who unfortunately used the rod. To the indignity of personal chastisement young Humphreys was too spirited to submit, and no command, entreaty or persuasion could induce him to return to the school, though the teacher himself called upon his parents, regretting the loss of a pupil of talents and ability and promising an entire change of treatment. He then went to West Point, July 1, 1827, where he was graduated thirteenth in a class of thirty-three, July 1, 1831, and assigned to the Second Artillery, with rank of Brevet Second Lieutenant.

“He served in garrison at Fort Moultrie, S. C., in 1831; was assigned to temporary duty at the United States Military Academy in 1832; to the Cherokee Nation in 1832 and 1833; and to Augusta Arsenal, Ga., and Fort Marion, Fla., 1833 and 1834. He was on Topographical duty, making surveys in West Florida and at Cape Cod, Mass., in 1834 and 1835, and participated in the Florida war against the Seminole Indians in 1836, being engaged in the action of Oloklikaha, March 31, 1836, and the action near Micanopy, June 9, 1836.

“On September 30, 1836, he resigned his commission as an officer of the United States Army, and during the years 1836–’38, as Civil Engineer, assisted the late General Hartman Bache on the plans of Brandywine Shoal Lighthouse and Crow Shoal Breakwater, Delaware bay.

“Upon the re-organization of the Corps of Topographical Engineers in 1838, General Humphreys was re-appointed in the Army, with the rank of First Lieutenant in that Corps.

“He served in charge of works for the improvement of Chicago harbor, Ill.; as Assistant Topographical Engineer of survey of Oswego harbor defences, N. Y., and in charge of survey of Whitehall harbor, N. Y., in 1839; as Assistant in the Topographical Bureau at Washington, D. C., 1840–’41; in the Florida war, 1842; on construction of bridge at Washington, D. C., 1842; as Assistant in Topographical Bureau at Washington, D. C., 1842–’43–’44; as Assistant in charge of the Coast Survey Office at Washington, D. C., 1844–’49, and on surveys in the field, 1849–’50.

“He was engaged in making a Topographical and Hydrographic survey of the Delta of the Mississippi river, with a view to its protection from inundation, and deepening the channels at its mouth, 1850–’51, continuing in general charge of the work and preparing his able and voluminous report thereon, till 1861. In 1853 he was sent on special duty to Europe to examine means for the protection of delta rivers from inundation. He was in general charge, under the War Department, of the office duties at Washington, D. C., connected with the explorations and surveys for railroads from the Mississippi river to the Pacific ocean, and geographical explorations west of the Mississippi river, from 1854 to 1861, and was a member of the Lighthouse Board, from 1856 to 1862; of the Board ‘to revise programme of instruction at the United States Military Academy,’ and of the Commission created by act of Congress ‘to examine into the organization, system of discipline, and course of instruction at the United States Military Academy, 1860.’

“It would be difficult to overestimate the value and extent of the labors of General Humphreys in the field of science. I can dwell only upon his greatest work: The Report upon the Physics and Hydraulics of the Mississippi River; upon the Protection of the Alluvial Region against Overflow; and upon the Deepening of the Mouths; Based upon Surveys and Investigations, made under the Acts of Congress directing the Topographical and Hydrographical Survey of the Delta of the Mississippi River, with such Investigations as might lead to determine the most Practicable Plan for Securing it from Inundation, and the best mode of Deepening the Channels at the Mouths of the River.

"The title but feebly suggests the vast scope of the work, or the incalculable results which have inured to the interests of internal navigation in the United States, from the policy which it inaugurated.

"An able reviewer says: 'It is not too much to say, after a careful study of this report, that, as a work of science, it will not suffer by comparison with any in our language, while it is, in its special department, without a peer, and almost without a rival. It finds the whole subject of river hydraulics a confused congeries of discordant theories and untenable hypotheses, the offspring of insufficient generalizations. It leaves it a determined science, the result of wide observation of facts, acute and laborious combination and rigid and logical scientific analysis. Its authors may well be proud of their work, for it places them in the front rank of scientific men, and shows them to be the discoverers of a science, the first fruits merely of which appear in their deductions of the laws which regulate the flowage of the Mississippi.'

"The work has been translated twice into German, twice into French, once if not twice into Italian, and once into Hungarian.

"In 1865-'66, Humphreys published a voluminous report, entitled Examination of the Mississippi Levees. In 1875, General Humphreys, then the Chief of Engineers, published Memo-randa relating to the Improvement of the Entrance to the Mississippi River by Jetties, in which he enforced his views in favor of a ship canal. Elaborate diagrams were annexed.

"One of the most gratifying personal tributes to General Humphreys was the presentation of a memorial sword, inscribed with the names and dates of all the battles in which he had been engaged, by the citizens of Philadelphia, on the evening of the 4th of July, 1866, at the building of the Union League. From his boyhood, he had been almost a stranger to his native city, and was personally unknown to many of her leading citizens, but his distinguished scientific and military services had become a part of the imperishable history of the nation, and entitled him to this tribute of respect, affection and gratitude. The lofty conception which he entertained of his noble profession, inspired the words with which he received the gift: 'The sword is regarded as the emblem of manly virtue, of a just mind, a courageous heart, and a gentle spirit. No token of your regard for me as a soldier and as a man could be more acceptable, and, perhaps, I most fittingly acknowledge your gift in saying that I shall try so to wear this beautiful embodiment of all the qualities a sword should possess, that its spotless blade may never be stained, nor its brilliant lustre dimmed.'

"This was his ideal of the model soldier. It is not too much to say that in thought, word and deed he fulfilled and illustrated it.

"At the Meade memorial meeting of the citizens of Philadelphia, held on the 18th November, 1872, Gen. Humphreys delivered an address upon the military services of General Meade. It is an able and luminous review of complicated operations, and without the aid of turgid adjectives or pretentious nouns, embodies the highest tribute ever paid by a military critic to a great commander.

"Gen. Hancock has declared 'That if he were an absolute monarch, and could dispose of a large army, he knew of no one whom he would place at its head with such perfect confidence as Humphreys.'

"'General Humphreys,' wrote a gallant soldier, afterwards occupying an important civil position, 'holds a place in my estimation as a soldier whose skill, bravery and modesty are second to none, and whose real service was infinitely more valuable than that of many officers more talked about in the newspapers.'

"A military critic as far back as in 1869, wrote: 'As a fighting division commander, as a proficient in the handling of a corps; as a consummate chief of staff of the Army of the Potomac; as an intrepid gentleman; as a faithful soldier, and as a remarkable engineer, Gen. Humphreys had no superior. His survey and reports upon the Mississippi will be as proud a memorial of his engineering capacity as his military record, beginning with the Florida war, in 1836, is a record which is without a stain, as rich in historic deeds and services as the sacred shield of Lancelot.'

"An ardent admirer and devoted friend pays the following tribute: 'A great and at the same time a good man, who attained the ripest age with undiminished faculties; a magnificent soldier, who combined the calmest intrepidity with executive ability in battle, a mind capable of working with the nicest precision amid the wildest churme of conflict under exceptional circumstances of peril; a scientist of views most comprehensive and practical; of knowledge vast and developed.'

"These are the amaranths with which his companions in arms have crowned his name.

"In private life, General Humphreys was courteous, kind, gentle and affectionate. His love and enjoyment of home were sincere and unaffected. He married, June 19, 1839, Rebecca, daughter of Henry and Sarah, Hollingsworth, one of the most respected citizens of Philadelphia, and had two sons and two daughters, of whom the former and one daughter survive. To him, wife, daughters, sisters, were not merely the objects of affection, but the embodiment of that perfect womanliness at whose shrine he knelt in reverence. His mind idealized all that it dwelt upon and both absorbed and imparted radiance. He had a refined and cultivated taste for art and literature and in some respects was fastidious to an extreme degree.

"His attachments to the home of his ancestors were strong and peculiar. No rage for modern improvement or convenience could ever induce him to change the structure or arrangement of the old and strange house he had inherited, jumbled together with the additions of several generations. Its lowly roof and straggling sheds embowered in vines were sacred. The ivy that clambered about the windows, the venerable chestnut trees, the hirsute shrubbery, the old pump, surrounded by a hedge of lilacs, were the objects of his interested care. In the quiet burying-ground on the hill, I have seen the great soldier, whose fame had penetrated Europe, bend in respectful silence over the stone that marked the grave of some forgotten relative, or have listened, as he trod the well-loved fields of his childhood, to his recollections of those joyous days.

"Such was the man. As simple in his greatness as he was great in his simplicity; of noble strength in body, heart and brain, a union of opposites, a man who had devoted his whole life to the public good, and yet one of whom the public knew but little, partly because of his modesty, partly because his favorite studies were abstruse and recondite, but chiefly because he had none of the instincts of the politician, and scorned the artifices by which so many rise to popularity and fame.

"The life of Andrew Atkinson Humphreys was one of reflection and action, of incident and character. A man of science, a brilliant soldier, an accomplished scholar, a polished gentleman, the lineal descendant of distinguished men, and the inheritor of their talents and virtues, he displayed in every walk of life the highest qualities, and combined the most opposite characteristics. Born to command, he easily obtained the front rank in every species of labor which he undertook, yet his modesty was as great as it was rare. His intercourse with men was graced by a charm of manner, a simplicity of diction, a purity of sentiment, a gentle resistlessness of will that armed him with a power which few could oppose with success, or if, misled by these, they had dared to stir the half-hidden fire of his nature, they would have found him as terrible as Saul. Whether we view him as an engineer, investigating the destructive dynamics of our floods, and demonstrating the laws by which they are governed; or as a division commander leading his troops to the fierce assault, and animating them by his personal example; or as the chief of staff of the commander of a great army, sagacious, practical and fertile in resources; or as a corps commander, skillful and intrepid; or as the chief of engineers, broad-minded and profound; or as a military writer, luminous yet terse, we find his career marked with capacity, energy, and success. As Sallust said of Jugurtha, he was, indeed, both brave in action and wise in council; qualities very seldom united in the same person, precaution being generally accompanied with timidity, and courage with rashness. The most conspicuous of his virtues were truth, integrity and honor. A devoted husband, a tender father, an affectionate brother, a generous and unflinching friend, with a chivalrous regard for woman worthy of the best days of heraldry, he was in public and in private, a man to be feared, to be trusted, to be admired, to be loved; a man with whom no one could trifle, and whom no one would care to offend.

“He died on the 27th of December, A. D. 1883, in the seventy-fourth year of his age, while seated in his chair, without pain, and without a struggle.”

General Order, No. 104, issued from the Headquarters of the Army, Lieut.-Gen. Sheridan commanding, Dec. 28, 1883, after recapitulating the details of Gen. H.'s services, thus concludes:

“In the discharge of his military duties General Humphreys displayed great zeal, intelligence, and conspicuous gallantry. Those who served under him had the highest confidence in his capacity to command and the greatest admiration of his soldierly qualities.

“The officers of the Engineer Corps of the Army will wear the usual badge of mourning for the period of thirty days.”

The maternal grand-father of Gen. Humphreys, and for whom he was named, was Andrew Atkinson, of Prehend Caven-Garden, Ireland, and his maternal grand-mother was Jane Murray, the daughter of Sir Archibald Murray, the descendant of that Murray of Black Barony, Scotland, who espoused the cause of the Pretender. The story runs that Andrew Atkinson, then a gallant ensign in the British army, of nineteen years of age, first saw Jane Murray, a beautiful girl of sixteen, on the battlements of Edinburgh Castle, and, captivated by her charms, gracefully lowered his colors as he passed. He sought and obtained an introduction, which resulted in their elopement and marriage. He subsequently purchased a plantation in Florida, upon St. John's river, and after the cession of Florida by Spain, came to Philadelphia, where he died. His daughter, Letitia Atkinson, met Samuel Humphreys at Dunganess, the house of the widow of Gen. Nathaniel Greene, upon Cumberland Island, Georgia, where he had been sent, as a youth of eighteen, to import live-oak timber for the great battle ships, and the meeting led to their marriage.—Carson's Address.

James Humphreys, Junior, was the son of a conveyancer, and was educated at the college in Philadelphia. He commenced the study of medicine, but disliking the profession, learned the art of printing, and, in January, 1775, commenced the publication of a newspaper called the Pennsylvania Ledger, which, it was said, was under the influence of the friends of the British government. He was, in consequence, in the hands of the people several times; but he had good friends among the Whigs, of whom the celebrated Rittenhouse was one. Discontinuing his paper, he retired from Philadelphia to the country, where he remained until the British army approached the city, when he returned to it, and continued under royal protection there, and at New York, throughout the war.* After the peace he went to England, thence to Shelburne, Nova Scotia; but returned to Philadelphia in 1797, opened a printing-house, and was engaged in book-printing until his death in February, 1810.—Sabine's American Loyalists, pub. 1847.

John Humphreys resided near Cærnarvon Castle, Wales. By the tradition of the family he was descended from a younger branch of the family of Llewellyn, Prince of Wales. He had three sons and a daughter. He and two sons followed the sea. One of these sons died at Demarara, South America; the other was lost off Memmel Bar. The youngest son was named HUMPHREY HUMPHREYS, and was born in Manchester, England, his parents having removed their residence. His father died when he was quite young, and his brothers before he left England. In 1817, he, with his wife, came to America. They had two sons who died in infancy, and a dau., Kezia Alice, who m. — Schultz, after the death of her father. Res. (1883) Cornwall, N. Y. Have a son, Humphrey Schultz.

In an account of the Methodist Society of Humphreysville, Ct. (Hist. Derby, Ct., p. 465), it is stated that, in 1834, "HUMPHREY HUMPHREYS and John Crawford were the preachers on this circuit.

CHESTER COUNTY, PA., AND VIRGINIA.

1. John¹ Humphreys was born in Chester County, Pa., and resided in Bucks County, Pa., according to one account. He afterwards settled in Virginia. He is said to have married Ann (dau. of Roger*) North, of Pennsylvania.

Tradition says that John Humphreys had four brothers, viz.: David, who settled in Kentucky; Joshua, who settled in South Carolina; Parry (Perry?), who settled in Kentucky, and Samuel, who went South. The same tradition, and doubtless in this respect right, is that they were of Welch origin. They are all said, also, to have been active and ardent in the cause of the Revolution. [See foot note †, p. 1034, Humphreys Family of Mississippi.]

After John Humphreys' death, his widow, with her children, removed to Martinsburgh, Va. She was accounted a woman of excellent judgment and strength of character.

Children (besides three daughters):

2. I. DAVID²; m. ———. FAMILY 2.
3. II. GEORGE WASHINGTON²; was appointed 2d Lieutenant, U. S. A.; commission issued by President John Quincy Adams, in 1799; served in the War of 1812; a fine looking man; died unmarried.
4. III. JOHN² (said to have been the eldest son); m. — Alibone, of Philadelphia; d. young; no issue.
5. IV. ROGER²; m. ———. FAMILY 3.

FAMILY 2.

6. David² Humphreys [2] (John¹) was born in Chester County, Pa. He married ———, and settled in Virginia. He was in the War of 1812, and at the battle of White House lost an arm. Removed to Charlestown, Jefferson County, Va., where he was a successful merchant. Was High Sheriff of Jefferson County at the time of death.

Children:

7. I. JOHN³; m. ——— McConchie. FAMILY 4.
8. II. GEORGE³; settled in Missouri.
9. III. DAVID³; died in Jefferson Co., Va.
10. IV. THOMAS³; settled in Missouri.

 15. IV. EMILY.³
 16. V. MARIA LOUISA³; unmarried. Res. (1883) Charlestown, West Virginia. Furnished above information.
 17. VI. ANN CATHERINE.³

18. John³ Humphreys [7] (David,² *John*¹) married — McConchie.

The above Mr. Humphreys writes: "About the year 1858 I was in Washington City, procuring, or trying to do so, my father's pay for services in the war of 1812, and standing in the rotunda of the Capitol, under a painting of Cornwallis' surrender at York, Va., I was called on by Gen. Cass, Mason and other Senators to stand a few minutes; they remarked that 'General David Humphreys, on Gen. Washington's left, a member of his general Staff, was on the canvass just above, and a full likeness of the man below.' Not then knowing my name was John Humphreys, many persons declared we were of the same family." (Letter May, 1869, from Charlestown, W. Va.) He further says: "All of the name (connection rather) claim to have descended from the patriots of the American Revolution, and within my knowledge and information, have been of high standing as far back as '76."

John Humphreys had ten children—see following letter from his second son, J. A. Y. Humphreys:

"J. A. Y. Humphreys, 2d son of John Humphreys (son of — Humphreys, a native of Wales, so said), was born in 1802. He married Miss May first, daughter of Stephen May; 2d wife, Rebecca Carpenter (and settled in Nelson County, Ky.), whose mother was a Slaughter. The May family was from Petersburg, Va., and last wife's relations were from Madison and Culpeper County, Virginia. My father, John Humphreys, married — McConchie, 3d daughter of Alex'r McConchie, I suppose of Scotch descendants. My father had one brother younger than himself, named Thomas Humphreys, who married a Miss Richards, daughter of Major James Richards, of Culpeper County, Va., and by whom he had, I am informed, twenty-one children, of which they raised seventeen—some of them living in Madison County, Va., some in Culpeper, some in Fauquier County, and elsewhere. My father had ten children, of which he raised nine—six daughters and three sons—of whom I am the only one living. My father's mother was of the name of Yarbrough; of what descent I do not know—probably English. My father was a farmer and mechanic. My uncle, Thos. Humphreys, was a farmer in Culpeper County. He has a son, Thos. J. Humphreys, living at Madison Ct. House, in Va., of some distinction as a lawyer, from whom more information respecting our ancestry may be had than I can give, having lived a distance so long, and separated from the family associations. Our friend may, perhaps, accomplish more by consulting him. I am now in my 67th year, and have not confined my remarks in shape or form of a table which is furnished. We have several families in this county of our name. They spell this name without the s, however, and if any way related, I don't know it. They, I think, are from Maryland originally. My grand father McConchie was from Maryland I think, and died a wealthy farmer of Fauquier County, Virginia. My father lived and raised his family in Spottsylvania, Va., about 20 miles from Fredericksburg.

"Yrs. affect'ly,

"J. A. Y. HUMPHREYS.

"P. S.—I saw Simon Humphrey to-day. He is Sheriff of this county—as regards his ancestry, he says he is a son of Saml. Humphrey, who is a son of Wm. Humphrey, who came from Va. to Ky. in 1787. He, Saml. Humphrey, had three brothers, Simon, John and Thomas. His grand-father, Wm. Humphrey, had a brother by the name of Rolly Humphrey; all died in this county (Nelson). And further this deponent sayeth not.

"Yrs.,

"J. A. Y. HUMPHREYS."

“LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 27, 1869.

“This form was enclosed to my father, living in Bardstown, Ky., who wrote the above. He has four sons, John, Samuel and Thomas and myself. My father came to this State about 40 years ago, and settled in Bardstown, Nelson Co., where he still lives. He is a farmer, and before the war was in independent circumstances, though considerably reduced by the plundering of both armies.

“Resp'ty & Very Truly,

“WM. TAYLOR HUMPHREYS, M. D.”

HUMPHRIES FAMILY OF VIRGINIA.

1. Charles¹ Humphries is said to have been the grand-son of one of three gentlemen by the name of Humphries, who came from Wales, in England, and settled in Virginia, in the troublous times of the Stewarts, more than two hundred years since. This is the account of his Humphries ancestry given by Capt. Thomas Humphries, at various times, during a period of fifty years. It is claimed that their ancestor was Ralph Humphreys, a cavalier of Wales, who was driven thence to Ireland, and his descendants to America.

Charles Humphries was born in Virginia, about 1710-15. He married about 1735, —, a daughter of Mr. Bennet, a Virginia farmer. They had ten children. The sons were all born in Virginia, except Richard. A short time before the Revolutionary war, he settled, with all his family, near Raleigh, Wake Co., North Carolina; and, at a later date, in Chester District, South Carolina, where he and three of his sons died and were buried. Many of their descendants are still living in the northern part of South Carolina.

Children (besides three daughters):

2. I. JOHN²; served, as a volunteer, in the Revolutionary war; d. at Chester District, S. C.
3. II. CHARLES²; volunteered, and joined the American army at the commencement of the Revolutionary war, as did four of his brothers; d. at Chester District, S. C.
4. III. THOMAS²; b. 18 Dec., 1756; m. Mary Wall. FAMILY 2.
5. IV. ABSALOM². At the beginning of the Revolutionary war, joined the American army as a volunteer, and continued in the service until the close of the war. He removed from Chester District, S. C., to Christian (now Trigg) County, Kentucky.
6. V. JAMES²; died of small-pox, while a prisoner of war in South Carolina, he having joined the American army, as a volunteer, at the commencement of the Revolutionary struggle. The last message he sent from his prison was to his brothers Thomas and Abraham, telling them to avenge his death upon the tories.
7. VI. BENNET²; d. in Chester District, S. C.
8. VII. RICHARD².

FAMILY 2.

9. Captain Thomas² Humphries [4] (Charles¹) was born in Virginia, 18 Dec., 1756. At the commencement of the Revolutionary war, he and his brothers John, Charles, Absalom and James, all volunteered, and joined the American army in North Carolina. Thomas held a captain's commission, continuing in the service until the close of the war. He campaigned in the Carolinas, Georgia and Virginia; was in the battles of Guilford Court House (N. C.) and Eutaw Springs (S. C.), besides many other engagements and skirmishes; was associated in army with Gen. John Adair, of Kentucky, then a Major in South Carolina. Many stories went the rounds of the newspapers, when General Adair was a candidate for Governor of Kentucky, about the military feats and hair-breadth escapes of Maj. Adair and Capt. Humphries with the tories of South Carolina.

The last-named was about five feet, eight or nine inches in height, erect, straight and active, square-shouldered, and weighed about 125 pounds; he had dark, penetrating eyes, a well-set mouth, with prominent nose. He was a fine horseman, good swordsman and splendid shot; mounted and sat a horse like a young man, at the age of seventy. He was well-informed, being the possessor of a ready understanding and solid judgment; was genial, kind, highly social and companionable. He was devotional in his temperament, and became an influential member and local preacher in the Methodist Episcopal Church, having obtained a license to preach in South Carolina about the year 1800.

Not many years after the recognition of American independence he returned to Wake County, North Carolina, and married, 3 Nov., 1786, Mary (dau. of Jesse) Wall, who was born near Raleigh, N. C., 15 Dec., 1765. Soon after marriage they removed to Chester District, S. C., Mr. Wall accompanying them. Charles Humphries and his numerous family had already settled in that region. Capt. Humphries lived about ten miles from Chester Court House, and about the same distance from the Fish Dam Ford, on Broad River. There all his children were born. In the year 1811, he removed, with his family, to Kentucky, and resided in Christian (now Trigg) County, where Jesse Wall and Absalom Humphries were already living, having preceded him by a few years. There, surrounded with wife, children and friends, including a few old Revolutionary soldiers and comrades in arms, he lived plainly, in comfort and ease, dispensing a generous hospitality to all, in that new and beautiful country known as the "Barrens of Kentucky."

He died at his home on Little River, four miles above Cadiz, Ky., 25 July, 1827, at the age of seventy years. His wife survived him nine years, and died 2 Sept., 1836, at the same age, within three miles of the old homestead, at the house of her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Young.

Children:

10. I. ELIZABETH,³ b. 15 Feb., 1791; m. in 1806, William Young; d. 18 Nov., 1855, æ. 64.
11. II. SUSAN,³ b. 24 Aug., 1795; m. in 1812, Ambrose Mills; d. in 1846, æ. 51 yrs.
12. III. THOMAS J.³, b. 4 May, 1804; 1r. (1) Widow Mary Ann McCaughan; m. (2) Louisa Fowler. FAMILY 3.
13. IV. MARY W.³, b. 18 June, 1806; d. 17 May, 1818, æ. 12 yrs.
14. V. JESSE CHARLES,³ b. 18 Apr., 1809. He was named for his paternal and maternal grandfathers, and was a brave soldier. He died 19 Mch., 1836, æ. 27 yrs., being massacred at Goliad, Texas, with Col. Fannin's command, through the treachery of Santa Anna, the Mexican chief.

FAMILY 3.

15. Thomas J.³ Humphries [12] (Capt. Thomas,² Charles¹) was born in Chester District, South Carolina, 4 May, 1804, and removed with his parents to Christian (now Trigg) County, Kentucky, when only about seven years of age, and there received his education. He married (1) 17 Feb., 1832, Widow Mary Ann McCaughan, a resident of the same county. In 1836, they removed from the State of Kentucky to Madison County, Mississippi, and, in 1845, settled in the southern part of that State, on the Gulf of Mexico, where his wife died, 8 Oct., 1845, aged 36 years. He married (2) 18 June, 1849, Louisa Fowler. They resided (1875) in Handsborough, Harrison County, Miss. He died 2 Oct., 1877; was a lawyer, sheriff, etc.

Children (by 1st marriage):

16. I. HANNAH JANE,⁴ b. in Kentucky, 22 Feb., 1833; d. in Marshall County, Mississippi, 2 Oct., 1861, æ. 28 yrs.

Sidney Johnson, at Bowling Green, Ky., and Shiloh, Tenn., and with the Army of the Tennessee through all its victories and defeats, until the final surrender. He m. 2 Aug., 1866, Julia Hines, of Sumter County, Alabama. He died 24 Apr., 1870, æ. 27 yrs.; no children. Widow res. (1883) Polkville, Ala.
20. IV. CHARLES,⁴ b. on the Gulf of Mexico, two miles east of Mississippi City, 27 Aug., 1845. In his 17th year he volunteered in the Confederate Army, and, a few days after his enrollment, was in the memorable battle of Chickamauga, Sept. 19th and 20th, 1863; was with the army through all its vicissitudes, marches and counter-marches, until the final surrender. He married 6 Sept., 1871, Hattie Sims, of Crystal Springs, Copiah County, Miss. She belongs to one of the old Territorial families of that State, of which she is a native. Res. (1883) Crystal Springs, Miss., where he is engaged in business.

Horatio Gates Humphries (said to have been a descendant of John Humphries, of Virginia) was an educated man, and left some manuscripts, which were in the family in 1875; from his own signature, in fine round hand, it appears that he spelled his surname "Humphries." His grand-son, H. J. Humphries, M. D., writes: "We are, I think, of Welch extraction." His progenitor, who first came to this country, was named John Humphries,* who settled at an early day in Virginia. "From him," writes Dr. Humphries, "came my family, from that State to Middle Tennessee, where they were a family of some local prominence. There is a county in Tennessee named for my great grand-father 'Humphreys.'"

Children:

- I. Son —; m. ——. His son writes concerning him: "My father was not educated, and when I learned to spell and read, my father and family of brothers and sisters spelled the name Humphreys." We have only the following relating to children:

THE AMERICAN DESCENDANTS

OF THE

HUMPHREYS FAMILY OF COUNTY ARMAGH, IRELAND.

BY PROF. WILLIAM FINLEY HUMPHREYS, OF FULTON, MO.

The Humphreys family of County Armagh, Ireland, have ever distinctly, persistently and proudly claimed to have been descended from Philip Humphreys, who (see p.), for denying the supremacy of the Pope and rejecting the mass, suffered martyrdom, about November, 1558, at Berry St. Edmunds, County Suffolk, England. His family, soon after, removed to the North of Ireland, probably for greater security, where, for many years, his descendants honored and revered his name, prouder of their martyr origin than of descent from princes, although they as distinctly claim a descent from the Norman Knight who fought with William the Conqueror, at the battle of Hastings.

* See foot-note † to Humphreys of Mississippi (p. 100).

FAMILY 1.

1. John¹ Humphreys (about the sixth or seventh generation from Philip) was born in County Armagh, Ireland. He married Margaret Carlisle, a distant relative, and also related to the Finleys, of the same county. All were Presbyterians of the Scottish type.

Children:

2. I. DAVID CARLISLE,² b. in 1741; m. Margaret Finley. FAMILY 2.
3. II. JOHN² (called Jack); surgeon of an East Indiaman; died at sea; said to have been rich.
4. III. WILLIAM²; m. — McClung. FAMILY 3.
5. IV. ALEXANDER² (Dr.); m. Mary Brown. FAMILY 4.
6. V. NATHANIEL²; remained in Ireland; m. — Mosman.*
7. VI. MARY²; m. Alexander McCall.†
8. VII. BETSY²; m. in Ireland, — Niblock.
9. VIII. HANNAH²; m. — Kane; came to America; had three sons. Her youngest son, Andrew Kane, studied medicine with his uncle, Alexander Humphreys; settled in Goochland County, Va., and became eminent. Through the influence of Thomas Jefferson he was offered a professorship in the University of Virginia, but declined. Senator Thomas H. Benton, in his last illness, sent for him, but he arrived too late to be of any service.
10. IX. JOHN² (2d); remained in Ireland.
11. X. ROBERT²; remained in Ireland.‡
12. XI. MARGARET²; remained in Ireland.

FAMILY 2.

13. David Carlisle² Humphreys [2] (*John*¹) was born in Ireland, in 1741; came—when about 22 or 23 years of age—to America, and settled near his distant relative, William Finley, of Chester (afterwards Adams) County, Pa. He at first engaged in business as a merchant, but after his marriage, removed to Augusta County, Va., where he purchased a farm, near Greenville, on which he resided until his death, in 1826, aged 85 years. He married about 1770, Margaret Finley. He was a soldier in the Revolution, in the company of a Captain Cunningham.

David Carlisle Humphreys was a man of sterling integrity and devoted piety—a Presbyterian of the Scotch-Irish type. He lived several miles from church (Bethel, Augusta County, Va.). On Sabbath mornings, after arriving at church, and before entering, he would gather his family around him and have them repeat the answer to the question of the shorter Catechism, “What is effectual calling?” It is not surprising that his family became earnest Christians and his sons elders in the church.

He read a great deal for a farmer, generally employing his leisure in that way. When old he was (to the young men especially) an object of dread to his acquaintances, on account of the many puzzling questions he would ask, to find out, as he would say, whether they were “geese” or not. Most of the anecdotes of him that have been handed down relate to a period when his mind was somewhat impaired by age. He retained the English custom of calling attention to a public speaker in whom he was interested by occasionally crying out “hear, hear.” At one time, while listening to Henry Ruffner—who had then just entered the University, but who afterwards became a D. D., and was for many years President of Washington College—after repeatedly calling attention by crying out “hear,” he confused the young minister not a little by rising in his place and saying, so all could hear, “I pronounce you an inside workman.” This anecdote is told to illustrate the discriminating judgment of the old man.

* Nathaniel Humphreys had three sons—David, John and James. Elizabeth, a grand-daughter of James, married Dr. Butterworth. They came to America, and settled in Little Rock, Ark.

† Mary (Humphrey) McCall's children were: (1) JOHN; d. in Ireland. His sons, Joseph and Alexander, came to America (Tenn.). One son of Alexander is in California; another in Arkansas. (2) THOMAS; d. in Ireland. (3) ALEXANDER. (4) DAVID; d. single, in Smith County, Tenn. (5) ROBERT; d. in Pennsylvania. (6) JANE; m. — Jeffrey, of Manchester, England. Mrs. Kerfoot, her dau., res. (1870) at the old homestead. (7) HANNAH. (8) BETSY. (9) ANGELINE.

‡ A former ROBERT had died young.

His memory was good, his judgment sound, and his character irreproachable. He was very industrious, always busy at something. Was not a speedy workman, but steady and sure.

Margaret Finley, his wife, was the daughter, by his third wife (he having had four), of William Finley, a brother of the celebrated Samuel Finley, D. D., for many years President of Princeton (N. J.) College (and grand-father of Prof. Morse, inventor of the telegraph), and of Rev. James Finley, of Western Pennsylvania, an eminent minister, and progenitor of a numerous race (see Dr. Joseph Smith’s Old Redstone), and of Michael Finley, one of whose grand-sons was lately Governor of Pennsylvania. She was in many respects a remarkable person. She was born in Chester County, Pa., in 1751; removed, when very young, to Adams Co.; lost her mother at the age of twelve, and at seventeen became a member of the Presbyterian Church; married at the age of nineteen, and was a member of the Bethel Church from the time of its organization. She lived twenty-two years a widow; at the age of ninety-five was able to walk a distance of half a mile; resided in the same place, near Greenville, Augusta County, Va., for seventy-seven years. She lived to the age of ninety-six, letting her light shine to the last with a distinct, though mild and charming brilliancy, that made her society agreeable to all classes and ages, and eagerly sought by many.

When young she must have been very pretty, sprightly and attractive. As a housekeeper, it could not be said that she was a Martha, but a Mary who chose the “better part.” In fact, it is doubtful whether one so intelligent, and with such a taste for literature, could avoid looking upon the routine duties of housekeeping in any other light than secondary.

In many respects her mind was much above mediocrity, and had it been highly cultivated she might have been eminent. While her children were young and the cares of her family great, she always kept a book at hand to read whenever she had a leisure moment. In this way she read and re-read many books, and having a wonderfully retentive memory, her intelligence, especially on religious subjects, was surprising to all who knew her. To her the bible was the book of books. It was her constant companion, and as a consequence her familiarity with it was great. She could at once tell where to find any passage that might be quoted—often the chapter and verse—and could repeat whole chapters from memory. She was remarkably fond of poetry, and could repeat it by the hour. Among her favorite authors were Watts, Young, Steele, Newton, Milton, Hannah, Moore, and Allen Ramsey.

She had committed much fugitive poetry of her younger days, both “grave and gay, lively and severe,” and often entertained her young friends by repeating it. She enjoyed herself much, even to the last, in the company of young ladies, with whom she was very popular. Though she often amused and always interested, she never failed to instruct and edify. She recollected a great many amusing, interesting and instructive anecdotes, for her memory was a perfect storehouse. She remembered texts and subjects from which she heard sermons when she was eight years old, the first sermon which impressed her being at that time.

For years her memory was impaired by age, excepting on religious subjects, which had long been, in her estimation, “the one thing needful.” Religion not only never seemed to be absent from her mind, but for years was always uppermost. She looked forward to the future life often with extasy, for example, when the hymn commencing, “I would not live always,” first made its appearance, she committed it to memory, and afterwards, when a friend, by her request, was singing and came to the words, “Where the Saints of all ages,” &c., she raised herself up, her countenance brightened with enthusiasm, and said, “Can it be possible that I shall so soon be with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, with David, the Prophets, the Apostles and Martyrs, and the Saints of all ages? Yes, yes, I shall see them all." She longed to depart, and to be with Christ, and prayed much that the Saviour would take her, and finally threw herself back in bed from a semi-recumbent position, and raising her eyes and hands towards heaven, said, "Take me, take me," and died. She died in Sept., 1848.

44. i. William Finley,⁴ M. D., b. in 1816; m. in 1840, Jerusha Adaline Wilson. His early life was spent in Rockbridge County, Va., on his father's farm. At the age of twenty he began the study of medicine, under the instruction of his uncle, Dr. Wm. B. Willson, a distinguished physician of West Union, Ohio. A few years after the completion of this course, his uncle having died, Dr. Willson succeeded to his practice. In 1850 he removed to Ironton, Ohio, where, for a third of a century, he has been a successful practitioner and an honored citizen. During most of this period he has been an elder in the Presbyterian Church, and has several times represented his Presbytery in the General Assembly. He has no children.
45. ii. Thomas Newton,⁴ b. 23 Aug., 1823; m. 30 Jan., 1850, Mary Caroline Evarts, dau. of Frederick Evarts, descendant of John Evarts, who came from England to Concord, Mass., in 1638, and thence to Guilford, Conn., in 1649. She died at Albany, N. Y., 28 Dec., 1884.

Mr. Willson was born at the old homestead, four miles N. E. of Fairfield, Rockbridge County, Va., and spent the first sixteen years of his life on the farm. At sixteen he entered upon what proved a life work of teaching, at the same time studying without a teacher, in preparation for college. In 1845, he entered Washington College, now Washington and Lee University, and was graduated in 1848. During his last collegiate year he was mathematical tutor. He graduated with the highest honor of the college, his appointment being the "Cincinnati Oration"—the equivalent of the valedictory in other institutions, and to which the latter honor was second at Washington and Lee. Immediately after graduation he was associated with Rev. Joseph Brown, in charge of a Presbyterian parochial school in Memphis, Tenn. The following year he became principal of Mountain Academy, near Covington, Tipton County, Tenn., but before the close of that year was appointed to the professorship of mathematics in Oakland College, near Natchez, Miss., then under the presidency of Rev. Jeremiah Chamberlin, D. D. This was in 1850, in January of which year he was married, and in September entered upon his work as professor. At the end of three years, considerations of health making a change to a more bracing climate desirable, he resigned his chair and spent the following five years in Virginia and at the North, in search of health. In 1858, he accepted an appointment as Professor of English in the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., and also as Rector of the Institute Training School (now Troy Academy). The following year he resigned the professorship, that he might devote himself to increasing the efficiency of the training school, and in this work he has continued up to the present time with marked success.

In early life he was a fine horseman and marksman, fond of the hunt and all out-door sports. He early made a profession of religion, and through life the consistency of his Christian profession has been conspicuous. In 1859 he was made an elder in the Second Presbyterian Church, Troy, N. Y. His father and brother were at the same time elders in the churches with which they were respectively connected. In 1867 he was a delegate from the Troy Presbytery to the Ohio State General Assembly, which met at Cincinnati. For three years he was Commissioner from the Troy Presbytery to Auburn Theological Seminary.

He was an occasional contributor to the New York Observer, Central Presbyterian, Troy Times and other papers, writing both prose and verse, but was more fond of rhyming in letters to friends than in public print. Child: (1) Frederick Newton,⁵ b. in Brooklyn, N. Y., 23 Dec., 1855. In 1858 his parents removed to Troy, N. Y., where he lived until his graduation from the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, with degree of Civil Engineer, in 1879. During the college year of 1879-80, he filled the Chair of Mathematics in Lake Forest (Ill.) University, under the presidency of the Rev. Dr. D. S. Gregory. From August to December, 1880, he was assistant foreign correspondent in the banking house of Drexel, Morgan & Co., New York, which place he resigned to become connected with the John C. Green School of Science, of Princeton College, to build up a new department, that of Graphics. The work being successful, a new chair was created in June, 1883, he receiving the appointment to the Professorship of Descriptive Geometry, Stereotomy and Technical Drawing. During the same year he became a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. He married 22 May, 1884, Mary Hewes Bruere, of Princeton, N. J., dau. of Joseph H. Bruere, President of the Trenton Banking Co.

He graduated at Washington and Lee University in 1859, immediately after which he entered upon the practice of his profession—teaching—at Fincastle, Botetourt County, Va. After the Battle of Bull Run, he joined the Rockbridge Artillery, in Stonewall Jackson's Division of the Confederate Army, and served until the surrender at Appomattox. He then returned to his profession, at Fincastle; then at Shelbyville, Ky.; afterward at Anchorage, near Louisville. In Mch., 1875, he accepted the Chair of Greek, in Central University, Richmond, Ky., which position he holds at present writing. He is a member of the Presbyterian Church and is highly respected, not only as a Christian, but for his distinguished ability and scholarship. Children:

FAMILY 5.

93. Captain John³ Humphreys [14] (David Carlisle,² *John*¹) was born 5 Apr., 1783. He married 20 May, 1819, Elizabeth W. (dau. of Micajah) Woods, of Albemarle Co., Va. Lived in Greenville, Augusta County, Va., until September, 1834, when he removed to Rockville, Park County, Iowa, where he died 2 May, 1864. He was an elder in the Presbyterian Church at Rockville from 1837 until his death; was one of the first to inaugurate a temperance movement in Augusta County, before leaving Virginia, and was instrumental in organizing the first temperance society in Park County.

He was an officer in the war of 1812, and commanded a company at Norfolk, Va. He was a man of strong mind, of good judgment and much decision of character; possessed some inventive talent, and managed and assisted the elder McCormack, the father of Cyrus, in the development of the McCormack Harvester, the first experiments being made on his farm, prior to 1834.

Children (said to have been also three sons and three daus. who died in childhood):

94. I. LUCY ANN,⁴ b. in 1820; m. 4 Jan., 1842, Robert Christian, a carpenter. She was an active member of the Presbyterian Church, and a Sunday-school teacher. She died 11 Dec., 1881; no issue.

 106. VIII. CORNELIA,⁴ b. 20 Jan., 1839; unmarried; res. at old homestead; has been a teacher in the public schools.

FAMILY 6.

107. Samuel³ Humphreys [15] (David Carlisle,² *John*¹) was born in 1785. He was a farmer on the old homestead; and for many years an elder in the Presbyterian Church at Bethel, Va. He married near Lexington, Va., Margaret (dau. of John) Moore. She was of Scotch-Irish descent.

No children ever had wiser, more prudent and faithful parents than the children of Samuel and Margaret Humphreys, and there were few more peaceful and happy households. The parents lived during the "Golden Age" of the Republic, and died just before the breaking out of the war between the States.

Children:

108. I. JAMES M.⁴ (Rev.), b. in 1816; m. in 1850, E. M. Faris. After having obtained a high degree of scholarship, he studied theology, and was ordained to the Gospel ministry. Though a wise and a good man, and of decided brain-power, he has never with the masses been a popular preacher; for he, like Moses, was rather slow of speech, consequently he has devoted his time especially to teaching among the counties of South-Western Virginia, where he has accomplished an incalculable amount of good, probably more than he could have done had he been gifted as an orator. Res. (1883) Peterstown, Giles County, W. Va.; has five children.
 109. II. DAVID C.⁴ (Rev.), b. in 1817; unmarried; d. 20 Sept., 1848. He entered the ministry about the same time as his brother James; was remarkable for his superiority in every respect, for upon the whole he was one of the most gifted of men. Not that in any one respect he far surpassed everyone else, but that in nothing did he fall behind. When at school he won the nick-name of "hard to catch," and as a boy and youth he excelled in all kind of gymnastic and athletic exercises; without being trained he was a skilled boxer and wrestler, and in early manhood he was as celebrated for the latter as he afterward was for intellectual attainments.

In person he was rather above the average height, being nearly six feet; was slender, not weighing over 135 pounds. He was faultlessly neat in his apparel and remarkably handsome; his taste was exquisite in music, painting and the other fine arts; he sang sweetly, performed well on the violin and wrote poetry with ease, and had he devoted himself to either, might have risen to eminence.

Recently a class-mate of his at the seminary, in speaking of him, said that he was the most gifted man at the seminary, although some of those with whom he was compared have risen to the highest eminence.

The following extract from a letter of classmate, written shortly after his death to the pastor of the church to which his family belonged, gives us this summary of his character:

"APPO'X Co., Va., Oct. 3d, 1848.

"Rev. FRANCIS MCFARLAND, D. D.:

"My Dear Friend.—I have known Bro. Humphreys intimately for twelve years, in various relations and in various circumstances. I have known him in the social circle, behind the counter, as school-teacher, in college, in the seminary and in the ministry, and in all these relations, and in each and every community, there was no man who so universally commanded the esteem and admiration of all who knew him. The ground of this (so far as my knowledge extends) unparalleled popularity is doubtless to be found in what I would call the remarkable symmetry of his character—the high and beautiful qualities of his mind and heart. His intellect was of a high order; he possessed a sound judgment, strong and penetrating mind, a quick and accurate discrimination; combined with these, and even in a still higher degree, was a high sense of honor, strict conscientiousness, a nice sense of propriety and a tender heart; these qualities, rarely found so strongly and proportionably combined in the same character, gave him a quickness of mind and an ease and suavity of manner that at once found access to the heart of every one who made his acquaintance. While he thus commanded such universal esteem, and seldom gave offence even to the most irritable and unreasonable, yet he possessed remarkable independence of mind and conduct. He thought for himself, and examined thoroughly every subject upon which he was called to make up an opinion, and when he had formed a conclusion it was next to impossible to drive him from it, no matter who or how many differed from him. I frequently had occasion to mark this fact in our discussions upon theological and scientific subjects. Yet with all this independence, there was nothing arbitrary. I never saw him attempt to defend a position for which he could not give strong reasons, and when he was convinced by force of argument that he was in error, he was as prompt to yield when he saw he was wrong, as he was independent to contend when he saw he was right.

“While his intellectual capacities were decidedly above mediocrity in every department (for he always stood among the first in his classes, both in college and in the seminary), he perhaps excelled in composition more than any other. He was a beautiful, forcible writer, and composed with great ease and rapidity. His essays, speeches and sermons have always been admired for their clearness, ease, and beauty of style, and a long list of correspondents, if consulted, would testify to his remarkable talent for letter-writing; few men of his age have written more letters, and still fewer have excelled him in the gift. He was sometimes witty and sometimes amusing, but always edifying and instructive; adapting himself to every case, he never failed to comfort the desponding and warn the careless. With all these superior traits of mind and heart, the chief excellencies of his character were fully known only by those who could claim him as a warm, unwavering, confidential friend, with a heart capable of the warmest attachment and ready to sympathize, even to tears. With a mind capable of giving the most judicial counsel; with a benevolence that prompted him to sacrifice his own interest and comfort, and even to take pleasure in self-denial for the benefit of others, he was a friend indeed to all who enjoyed his friendship. He certainly had an uncommon faculty of entering into the feelings and difficulties of others, and in affording suitable comfort and encouragement; but the great principle that gave tone and energy and beauty to all these natural gifts, was the power of religion. Bro. Humphreys early commenced to walk with God, and ‘his path as the shining light, shined more and more until the perfect day.’ From my first acquaintance with him, he gave evidence of more than ordinary piety for one of his age, and grew in grace by keeping his heart with all diligence. He allowed no ordinary circumstances to deprive him of his daily religious reading and devotion. When I last saw his bible, he had written on a blank leaf a precept of his grand-mother, in these words, ‘David, take care of your soul.’ Religion with him was the principle thing, and he not only gave it his daily attention, but carried it with him in his daily business, and so apparent was this to all who took knowledge of him, that I have often heard such remarks as these concerning him: ‘He is one of the best men in the world.’ ‘If he is not a Christian, I don’t know who is.’

“After he felt himself called to preach the Gospel, he devoted himself most assiduously to the cultivation of his mind and heart and, I fear, as I often told him, too much to the neglect of his body. He had a deep and solemn conviction of the greatness and responsibility of the ministerial work; he often spoke of it, and it was not until after much anxious thought and prayerful deliberation that he was convinced that it was his duty to prepare for it. As he advanced in his preparations he became more and more interested in the great work; he often spoke of the great honor and happiness of preaching Christ to perishing men. But at the same time his bodily health became more and more precarious, and before he had finished his preparatory course, the impression was deeply fixed upon his mind that his race was to be a short one. This, however, rather animated than cooled his zeal; he let no occasion slip to do good as he had opportunity, and when he was inducted into the sacred office, he at once set about with all zeal and fidelity to do the work of an evangelist and make full proof of his ministry. This he continued beyond his strength, till before the close of one year, God in his providence told him that his work was done. To this he submitted with singular resignation, and was even enabled to read in it all the wisdom and goodness of God.

"In the three last hours of his life, which, as you know, I had the gratification of spending with him, we had a very satisfactory and soul-cheering conversation, in which, among other questions, I asked him if his mind was resigned and calm in view of the solemn change. He answered promptly, "Perfectly, perfectly." Thus he died as he had lived, and left but few his equal behind him.

"As far as my acquaintance goes, his character stands unrivaled, and I may say unequaled. I have never known any man who combined so many qualities, especially in his moral character, to be admired, and so few to be disapproved. No human mind can compute his loss to his friends, to society, and especially to the church.

"His father, as he turned away, after witnessing the last enemy conquered, remarked, 'No man ever raised a more pleasant son.' His society was courted by all classes—the old and the young, the refined and the rude, and while he had the remarkable talent of making himself agreeable to all, he possessed the rare gift of doing so without compromising his Christian character.

"A. L. HOGSHEAD."

110. III. JOHN MOORE,⁴ b. in 1820; m. in 1850, Sallie J. Garland, who died. He is the tallest of the brothers, being six feet one inch in height; of erect figure and fine appearance. Excepting the four years of the war, life was spent as a farmer. However, had he received a military education, as he desired, arms would have been his profession, to which, in many respects, he was adapted in an unusual degree.

A man of high spirit, firmness of purpose, and self-reliant determination, of good common sense and discriminating judgment that, during the war, gained for him the soubriquet of "Judge." Of undaunted courage, and a natural talent for governing men, he needed nothing but an opportunity to have taken a high position in a military career.

He volunteered early in the war, from a sense of duty and not from impulse, but fully appreciating the desperate struggle commencing. Being too modest and unselfish to push himself forward, he entered the 52d Virginia Reg't, as a private in Co. I. As 1st Lieut., in command of the company at the battle of McDowell, he was severely wounded in the face, having his teeth knocked out and his face terribly lacerated, yet he went to the Colonel and asked that his company might be relieved, as they were in a position that men could not live. The Colonel's reply was, "Captain, you go to the rear; everybody knows you are brave; I will protect your company." He was again wounded at the battle of Spotsylvania Court House, while commanding the company, as Captain. At the battle of Cold Harbor, being in command of the regiment, his position in line of battle threw him in an old field, and when they arrived at the fence, they found that they were in advance of the rest of the line, the charge of which had been arrested, and were exposed to a concentrated fire of the enemy, while the only protection they had was the doubtful one of the fence. To remain was impossible, and to retreat through the open field was almost certain annihilation. Many noble men fell, among whom was Lieut. Robert Patterson McFarland, a cousin of Gen. Robert Patterson, of Philadelphia, and son of Rev. Francis McFarland, D. D. There was a narrow open space between their position and the nearest woods, across which the men ran in squads and singly. This attracted the attention of the enemy, and caused them to concentrate their fire on those attempting to run the gauntlet, so that it sometimes happened that individuals were completely concealed by the cloud of dust raised by the balls striking around them. Over this space the commander of the regiment, though wounded in the great toe, made his way, as best he could, and going to the commander of the nearest brigade, asked him to advance his troops so as to allow his regiment an opportunity to get out of their perilous position.

At the battle of Winchester, the 52d Virginia Reg., under his command, was detached from the brigade to hold a position on the Turnpike, where they had a very hard fight, contending with greatly superior forces, and where the regiment lost nearly half its men in killed and wounded. While the killed and wounded were being removed to the rear, the regiment was ordered to rejoin the brigade. On the march they met other troops retreating in confusion, which scattered the small force which he had with him, so that when they arrived at their position, he, the adjutant and one man alone represented the 52d regiment. Very soon the adjutant's thigh was broken and the private had to carry him to the rear. Any other commander, under the circumstances, would have retired, but instead of that, sheathing his sword and picking up a musket (which he knew so well how to handle), he made it echo the indomitable resolution of the 52d Regiment. Soon the ensign with the colors found him, and the men again flocked to the standard, and his regiment was the only one of the division that retired from the field in good order. Not a great while after this he was captured and held a prisoner until after the surrender.

Mr. Humphreys was (1883) farming near Steele's Tavern, Augusta County, Va., and no one witnessing his unobtrusive demeanor would think of him as having been a military hero. Of him John B. Baldwin, while Colonel of his regiment, said that he was the best subordinate officer in the army. The scabbard of his sword bears many marks of Minie balls, and of a shell that turned up its lower extremity like a sled-runner.

111. i. John G.⁵ (Maj.); d. in Confederate Army.

112. IV. SAMUEL,⁴ b. in 1821; merchant; d. in Arkansas, in Sept., 1868. He was the smallest of the family of sons. Mentally he was above mediocrity, while his moral character was almost faultless. He acted well his part in all situations and relations, and was well liked. Before the war he was for years engaged in merchandising. He joined the army early in 1862, as a private in an independent cavalry battalion commanded by Edward Sanders, of Nicaragua notoriety, in which he served until the surrender, faithfully discharging all his duties as a soldier, and passing through numerous battles without receiving a scratch or having a furlough for a single day. Shortly before the surrender he was sent, in command of a detachment of men, to one of the counties of South Carolina, to overawe the negroes, who, it was believed, were preparing for an insurrection, and was not recalled until after Johnson surrendered. He then returned to Wittsburgh, Ark., where he had lived before the breaking out of the war, and engaged in business as a commission merchant, and there died; unmarried.

113. V. WILLIAM F.⁴ (M. D.), b. in 1823. He was educated at Washington College, and studied medicine in Kentucky, attending one course of lectures at the Louisville University, under S. D. Gross, Henry Miller, Austin Flint, Benjamin Silliman, &c., and graduated, in 1853, from Transylvania University, at Lexington, Ky. He first practiced medicine in Virginia, where he married, in 1854, Betsey McFarland, dau. of Rev. Francis McFarland, D. D.

In the spring of 1860 Dr. Humphrey removed, with his family, to the neighborhood of Columbia, Tenn., where, in Aug., 1861, his wife died, and in Sept. his son Philip died, shortly after which he entered the army as surgeon, where he remained until the fall of 1863, when, on account of compound fracture of the leg, he resigned his commission in the army and removed, with his children, to Virginia.

When sufficiently recovered from his lameness, he resumed the private practice of his profession. In 1872 he emigrated to Missouri, where, in 1873, he married his second wife, Emma Hodge, who lived but a little over a year, and in 1877 he married his third wife, Sarah Moss (dau. of Dr. William) Provines. Res. at Fulton Mo. Children:

114. i. David C.⁵; graduated as civil engineer at Washington & Lee University; taught one year at McDona Institute, near Baltimore, and held a position as U. S. Engineer on the improvement of the Western rivers for many years; was a surgeon in the Confederate Army.
115. ii. Theodora McFarland⁵; educated at Elizabeth Ault Seminary, Lexington, Mo. Res. (1884) with her father, at Fulton, Mo.
116. iii. Philip A.⁵; d. of diphtheria, æ. two yrs. and six mos.
117. VI. HOWARD A.⁴, b. in 1826; m. in 1856, Mary M. Campbell, sister of Professor Campbell, of Washington & Lee University. He received an academic, but not a collegiate, education. In early manhood he was engaged for a number of years in merchandising. Having removed to Arkansas prior to the breaking out of the war, he went into the army from there with his brother Samuel, and joined the same company. They were together until the summer of 1863, when, in a skirmish in Tennessee, Howard was shot through the abdomen, from which, however, he made a good recovery, but as he was never quite stout afterwards, he was detailed for light duty, and was not again in active service. Since the war he has been teaching a greater part of the time at Rose Hill, Lee County, Va., where he is assistant principal of a Masonic academy. He has been for many years an elder in the Presbyterian Church, and his whole life has been one of irreproachable uprightness. Have no children.
118. VII. CAROLINE M. M.⁴, b. in 1813; m. in 1832, Robert Tate Wallace. Child:
119. i. Cornelia,⁵ b. 10 Feb., 1839; m. 13 Oct., 1857, James B. Smith, a farmer. Children: (1) Ella Moore,⁶ b. 3 Aug., 1858; m. — Mish, a farmer, near Middlebrook, Augusta County, Va; three children. FAMILY 4.

32. Prof. Milton Wylie⁴ Humphreys, L. L. D., [26] (*Dr. Andrew C.*³, Robert,² *Samuel*¹) was born in Greenbrier County, (W.) Va., 15 Sept., 1844. He studied at Charleston, W. Va., from 1857 to 1860; was at Washington College, Lexington, Va., when the war broke out, and served through the war, as gunner, in Confederate Artillery (Bryan's Battery); was in the Valley Campaign of 1864, against Sheridan. After the war he again studied at Lexington, under the presidency of Gen. R. E. Lee. From 1867 to 1870 he was Assistant-Professor of Ancient Languages. Received first honor as Master of Arts in class of 1869 (having been made Assistant-Assessor before full graduation). From 1871 to 1875 was Adjunct Professor of Ancient Languages, at Washington & Lee University (which had grown out of Washington College). Spent 1872-74 in Europe. Degree of Ph. D. received at Leipsic in 1874, after three Semesters in German universities (one at Berlin and two at Leipsic). Professor of Greek in Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., from 1875 to 1883. Now Professor of Ancient Languages at the University of Texas, at Austin. President of the American Philological Association 1882-83. Is "Redacteur general" of the "Revue des Revues" (annexed to the "Revue de Philologie, Paris), for the United States; also American correspondent of the "Philologische Noehenschift," Berlin. He was made L. L. D. by Vanderbilt University, in May, 1883—the only university degree ever conferred by that university. He married 3 May, 1877, Miss Louise Garland, dau. of Dr. L. C. Garland, Chancellor of Vanderbilt University.

HUMPHREYS FAMILY OF MISSISSIPPI, BELONGING TO THE VIRGINIA BRANCH.

Gov. Benjamin G. Humphreys thus writes concerning the Mississippi branch of Humphreys: "They never agree, either in religion or politics, down here—some whigs, some democrats, some secessionists, some Union men; some Churchmen, some Presbyterians, some Baptists, some Methodists, some Campbellites. All friendly, but every man after his own opinions. All in Mississippi became wealthy, and though they differed as to the policy or necessity of secession, yet they all joined in the war, and lost all. They are a race of live men, self-reliant, energetic and daring in the pursuit of business or pleasure. My father's immediate family have all been agriculturists, and decidedly successful." * * * "They differ in opinions, but unite in friendship. Each is devoted to his own home, and always ready to protect his home interests."

FAMILY 1.

1. Colonel Ralph[†] Humphreys, (son of Ralph* and — (Walker) Humphreys, of Virginia) a native of Virginia, married, in 1768, Agnes (dau. of, probably, George) Wilson,† of Virginia, and niece of James Wilson, a member of the Convention of 1787, which adopted the Constitution of the United States, and one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. They settled in Hampshire County, West Virginia, on the Potomac, near Romney.‡

Mr. Humphreys was a colonel in the Revolutionary War, and commanded in that capacity in the United States service at, probably, Detroit, Michigan, until 1788. While there commanding, his family removed to Mississippi, threading the Monongahela, Ohio and Mississippi in a "broad horn" flat-boat, and landed at Natchez (then Spanish territory) 10 Sept., 1787. They settled at Grindstone Ford, of the Bayou Pierre, now in Claiborne County. In the fall of 1788, Colonel Humphreys rejoined his family. Having resigned his position in the army, he was granted, by Congress, for his military service, land script which his son, George Wilson Humphreys, sold for three magnificent eight day clocks—one for each of his sons. He died in 1789, and was buried on the banks of Bayou Pierre.

* Ralph Humphreys, or his father, was a native of North Carolina or Virginia, according to Gov. Benjamin G. Humphreys.

† "Agnes Wilson had two brothers—George and Joseph—and three sisters—Elisabeth, and two others, whose names are not known. George settled in Kentucky, and raised a large family of boys and girls; res. Wilson's Bottom, on the Ohio River. Joseph died in Virginia, leaving a large family. Elizabeth married Joseph Darlington, moved to Ohio, and raised a large family. One of the other daughters married — Hawkins, of Pennsylvania; the other — McDowell, I think Governor of Virginia."

‡ In an obituary notice of David George Humphreys, grand-son of Col. Ralph, it is stated that "from the Virginia branch descended David Humphreys, of Kentucky; Perry W., of Tennessee; James, of South Carolina; Absalom, of Georgia; John, of Virginia; and Ralph, of Mississippi." The ancestor of this family is said to have been Ralph Humphries, a cavalier, of Wales, who, during the days of Oliver Cromwell, having allied himself to the party of Charles I, was driven to Ireland, and his descendants to America, by the injustice of the British Ministry. One branch of the family settled in Connecticut, one in Pennsylvania, and another in Virginia." [See note, p.

D. Humphreys, of Decatur, Alabama, writes that his grand-father came to Pennsylvania from Wales, nearly one hundred years ago; that his father removed to Ohio, and he was born in Delaware, Ohio. The Humphreys ancestor of Judge D. C. Humphreys, of Huntsville, Alabama, is also said to have come from Wales. See account of the descendants of Charles Humphries, of Virginia (p. 1003); also the account of the Wales family of Humphreys, copied from Burke's Landed Gentry.

John Humphreys, included in the following warrant (Calendar of State Papers, 1574-1660), may be the ancestor of the Virginia Humphreys:

"Warrant to the Sheriff of London and Middlesex, and the keeper of Newgate, for delivering of Maurice Cavanaugh, Richard Green, Jane Wood, Anthony Bromleigh, Mary Fortesque, John Humphreys, Margaret Callicomb, Jane Howell, Jane Pryn, Elizabeth Branscomb, Mary Burbeck, Ellinor Sutton, Elizabeth Williams, and Thomas Merry, to Capt. Thos. Hill or Capt. Richard Carleton, to be transported by them to Virginia, with a clause for executing any of said persons who return.

"July 8th, 1635."

Religious and political reasons were so frequently the occasion for transportation at that date, that those included in this list need not be regarded as necessarily criminals.

Children:

2. I. GEORGE WILSON,² b. in 1773; m. Sarah Smith. FAMILY 2.
3. II. RALPH,² b. in 1789; was killed by a fall from a wild Choctaw pony.

FAMILY 2.

4. George Wilson² Humphreys [2] (Col. Ralph¹) was born in 1773. He married in 1790, Sarah Smith, daughter of Major David Smith, of South Carolina, a descendant of the Huguenots, who distinguished himself in the Creek war. In 1791 Mr. Humphreys settled on the Hermitage Plantation, situated on the bank of the Bayou Pierre, Claiborne County, Mississippi, where he resided until his death. He raised three sons and three daughters (out of sixteen children), who married and had descendants, but were all deceased in 1874, except Gov. Benjamin Grubb Humphreys, of Vicksburg, Miss. The last-named writes: "My father left Virginia when a lad about seventeen years old, and never saw any of his kin afterwards. My grand-mother died while I was away from home at school, consequently I learned but little about any except my father's immediate family. He often spoke of William Humphreys, John Humphreys, Absalom Humphreys, David Humphreys, Perry W. Humphreys and Abram Humphreys; some living in Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, Kentucky and Tennessee. How near they were related I do not recollect, but David Humphreys and Perry W. Humphreys he always spoke of as cousins. During our civil war I met with John C. Humphreys, living near Harper's Ferry, in Virginia. His tradition was very similar to that of William Finley Humphreys, and agreed with that of my father, except in this—one of the 'three brothers' settled in Virginia or North Carolina, one in Pennsylvania, and one in Connecticut, according to my father, as I recollect it. I know he claimed relationship to Col. David Humphreys, aide-de-camp to Washington, as descended from the Connecticut preacher Humphreys. John C. Humphreys, of Harper's Ferry, told me the name 'Ralph' was a family name."

Children (besides ten who died young):

5. I. DAVID GEORGE,³ b. 17 May, 1794; m. Mary Coburn. FAMILY 3.
6. II. ELIZABETH.³
7. III. SARAH.³
8. IV. MARGARET.³
9. V. BENJAMIN GRUBB,³ b. 24 Aug., 1808; m. (1) Mary McLaughlin; m. (2) Mildred Maury. FAMILY 4.
10. VI. DAVID SMITH.³

FAMILY 3.

11. David George³ Humphreys [5] (George W.², Col. Ralph¹) "was born on the Hermitage Plantation, situated on the bank of the Bayou Pierre, Claiborne County, Mississippi, 17 May, 1794, and died at the same place, 11 Jan., 1871, having lived seventy-six years, seven months and twenty-five days." At the time of his birth "the county was a wilderness; the settlements few and far between. Majestic trees and thickets of cane covered the land, and savages roamed the forests. Their only highway was the Bayou Pierre to the great Father of Waters; their vessels of navigation—rafts, canoes, skiffs and flat-boats. This was long before steam was known as a propelling power. Their articles of trade were oak staves. Amid these scenes of rural wildness, George passed his boyhood, and became inured to danger and hardship. Schools there were none; books and papers scarce. Not much of letters could be learned under these circumstances, but, as his father and kindred were educated, he was not without instruction. He acquired, therefore, that discipline of mind and that knowledge which fitted him for a successful and happy life.

"In his early manhood (twenty-two years of age) he married Mary, daughter of Samuel and Margaret (Burnet), Coburn, with whom he lived, and whose heart beat in unison with his own, for fifty-five years. Industrious, enterprising and frugal, property accumulated; he saw that he could be rich, and his heart began to be set on riches. 'Then,' said he to me, 'was the time of my danger. Worldly feelings grew stronger; avarice began to awaken as property increased, and sordid temptations beset me. But that feeling is gone; I do not think I am avaricious now; with my substance I wish to honor God.'

"He united with the church, at the quarterly meeting, held by Dr. B. M. Drake, in Port Gibson. The exact time and place of his change of heart he could not tell. He knew that old things had passed away; that he loved God, the word of God and the house of God, and that he had peace within and the hope of Heaven. He became a diligent reader of the Bible, a constant worshipper at the home altar, a regular attendant at the house of God and a liberal supporter of the church and of benevolent institutions. I think he gave more for religious and educational purposes than any other person in the vicinity of his home.

"Twenty-seven years he was president of the board of trustees of the academy, and I do not know that he ever failed to attend a meeting.

"As a man of business, he was diligent and careful, and maintained a boundless credit during his life. His hospitality was free, large and unostentatious; his friendship, warm, earnest and unchanging; his conversation, chaste, good-humored, instructive. I never found him in low spirits, and never heard him complain. In sickness and in health, in prosperity and adversity, he maintained tranquility of mind. In politics he took no active part; never aspired to office, though his kindred aspired to offices of trust and honor. He sought no public place, while many others of the Humphreys family adorned the bar and the pulpit.

Mr. Humphreys was a Southern planter of the highest type, without pride or pretention; a gentleman by nature and by practice; a Christian by the grace of God and the mercy of Christ, 'diligent in business, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord.' The prime of his manhood was elegant; his latter years, serene; his end, peace. He honored God and God honored him."—Extracts from an obituary notice printed at the time of his death.

FAMILY 4.

31. Gen. and Gov. Benjamin Grubb³ Humphreys [9] (George W.², Col. Ralph¹) was born in Claiborne County, Mississippi,* 24 Aug., 1808. He married (1) in 1832, Mary McLaughlin. He married (2) at Claiborne, Miss., 2 Dec., 1839, Mildred Hickman, dau. of James Hervey and Lucinda (Smith), Maury, who was born in Franklin, Williamson County, Tenn., 22 Feb., 1823.

The character of Ex-Governor Humphreys is well portrayed in the funeral eulogy pronounced at Port Gibson, December 27th, 1882, by the Rev. D. A. Planck,† from which we make the following extracts:

“The occasion that calls us together to-day is not only a sad one, in which it is proper to weep with those who weep, but it is also one of opportunity, in which it is befitting to speak forth the praises of a great and good man.

* * * * *

“Benjamin G. Humphreys, a native of your own soil, your friend and neighbor, a man of unblemished character, an actor in many scenes, the hero of many battles, is no more.

“As if conscious that his end was near, and weary of the struggles of life that were relentless even amidst the infirmities of age, he wrapped his mantle about him, ready to be gathered unto his fathers, and his spirit passed calmly and peacefully into the audience chamber of the blest.

“He was born in Claiborne County, Mississippi, in 1808, of a house and lineage, to the honor of which no word need be spoken before this assembly.

“As a youth he evidently manifested a precocity that encouraged his father to give him special educational advantages, which at that early day were purchased at great expense and inconvenience. He passed through a preparatory course in a classical school at Morristown, New Jersey, a State long ago famous for its educational facilities, and afterward received an appointment of cadetship in the national school at West Point. And while there he was associated as classmate and confederate with such men as Jefferson Davis, Joseph E. Johnston, Albert Sidney Johnston, and Robert E. Lee, men of whom Southern history and Southern chivalry shall ever be justly proud.

“It might have been expected that by such associations and influences he would have been tempted at once into public life; but public life as a matter of profession seemed to have no attractions for him, and returning to his native home he devoted himself to the unostentatious calling of a planter's life.

“And in this pursuit, which engaged but a small share of his diversified gifts, he found happiness and success, and won such confidence among the business men of the day, that, in the language of one of his old friends, his name was good for any amount he saw fit to write it.

“But while yet a young man, in 1837, he was called by his fellow-citizens to represent them in the State Legislature, and upon his return, as an evidence of his fidelity and worth, he was returned to the State Capitol as a member of the Senate, and again, later in life, he was honored with the highest gift in the keeping of his fellow-citizens and became their Governor.

“Considering his modest and retiring disposition, some distinguishing excellence of character, some uncommon and acknowledged gifts must have lifted this man above his fellows, and commended him to their confidence and affection.

“And as we pause a few moments to-day on our way to the final resting place of our honored dead, let us calculate some of those virtues that made him what he was. Some men are the creatures of circumstances, but this is the exception and not the rule. Men of sterling worth are men of sterling principle, and we may expect to find in the character of our lamented chieftain, that which signalized him as one worthy of pre-eminence among his countrymen.

* He styles Dr. W. D. Humphries, of Columbus, Mississippi, his “kinsman.”

† Southern Historical Society Papers (June, 1883), Vol. xi, No. 6; pp. 241-7.

“Without being dogmatic, he was a man of deep and sincere conviction. He thought for himself, and by sober reflection he matured those convictions upon which he was willing to construct his history. When the idea of secession began to develop into a fact, he took his stand in opposition to it. Having canvassed the whole subject, he pronounced it impracticable if not unwarrantable, and to the end of his life this conviction was unchanged, but he saw no remedy but to fight, and his brilliant career as a soldier bears witness of his fidelity to an adopted duty.

“When led on by a sense of duty he feared no enemy, spared no friendship, realized no difficulties, and dreaded no consequences. He was no disciple of utilitarianism, and scorned with an unutterable contempt every form of subterfuge and chicanery by which the mere interests of partisanship are secured.

“Not only was he a man who acted upon honest and well-matured conviction, but there was born in his heart the truth that ‘no man liveth unto himself.’ He acknowledged that mutual dependence that exists among men, out of which grow the laws of a common brotherhood. This made him benevolent, this made him conservative, and this made him public-spirited.

“There was a time when his purse was full, and it was always at the command of a heart that was likewise full. No man was ever turned from his door hungry, and his ear was the first to catch the cry of distress. His was a benevolence that thought of no display—a concealed liberality, which, while it aided the unfortunate, kept the misfortune a secret.

“And I reveal only another phase of his benevolent spirit when I say he was ‘conservative.’ Fanaticism was not born in him, and he fixed himself upon that form of justice, which, while it injured none, blessed all.

“He was a man fitted to stand between opposing parties, and check the rage of party spirit set on fire by the excitement of doubtful contest. In the most heated political canvass ever prosecuted in his county, and in which he was elected by a majority of only two votes, he exacted an agreement from his opponent to credit no slanderous or discreditable report until testified to in his own presence. Perhaps there was no other virtue that so distinguished him as a leader, or to which he was more indebted for his well-merited success. It is remembered by some of you, how, that in your own streets he stood between the mob and its victim, until he conciliated the passions of men, and secured the triumph of law and order.

“While he was unrelenting in his conscientiousness, and invincible in the discharge of his duty, yet he was as forgiving as a mother, and pursued the path of conciliation down to that point at which it became a wrong to go further.

“But, in order to complete an estimate of him as a citizen, I must not fail to mention his public-spiritedness—not a spirit, indeed, that was the new-born offspring of sudden occasion, but that grew out of the fact that he considered himself a member in the body politic, a joint of the great machinery that grinds out the people’s progress and happiness; a spirit pure in its exercise, and one that sprang from a combination of disinterestedness, integrity and true benevolence, and is the product of the formative influence of many domestic charities.

“Some of you can recollect how promptly he came to the rescue, along with Judge Stamps, Hon. J. H. Maury and others, when the great fire had destroyed almost the entire business part of your town, and provided the means necessary to bridge over that almost fatal calamity.

“And before I pass from this line of remark, I would not fail to pay a tribute to that innate modesty that so adorned his character, and I had almost said achieved his greatness. He shrank from the gaze of men. He invariably took the lowest seat until invited to go up higher; and his whole life has been a beautiful commentary on that word of Holy Scripture which says: ‘He that humbleth himself shall be exalted.’ His worth more appreciated by his fellow-citizens than by himself, he was by them brought forward and honored with the highest positions of confidence and trust that they could confer upon him.

“During a transfer of a portion of the army with which he was connected in Virginia, they came to a stream greatly swollen by continued rains, and upon his arrival he was invited to join in council with his superior officers, concerning the situation, as there was no time for delay and no means of bridging the stream. Declining to counsel his superiors, he simply requested that he be allowed to act at his discretion with his immediate command. The permission was granted, he plunged into the threatening stream with orders for his men to follow, and in a few moments his brigade was safely over. And immediately there went up a shout from the troops on the other side, applauding the daring but successful deed, and as soon as General Humphreys discovered that he was the subject of such applause, he put spurs to his horse and was soon out of sight in the woodland, his modest spirit carrying him away.

“And likewise when he united with the church, he sought an occasion that would be free from all notoriety. It seemed that he had heard his Master say to him, as He so often said to those who sought His grace when on earth, ‘See that thou tell no man.’ Abundant in good deeds—the very synonym of charity, kindness and brotherly love—yet he would have scorned as unworthy and distasteful the publication of such acts, or the assumption of any merit on account of them.

“But nowhere, perhaps, did he manifest so clearly his power and wisdom as when called to the Governorship of his State. It was a perilous time; the sound of arms had scarcely ceased its echo; all the disorganizing and demoralizing influences of war had to be met; a revolution had been effected. Pre-existing institutions having been swept away, every fortune gone, and every home in mourning, a new beginning must be made. From every quarter there came the inquiry, Who shall assume the leadership as we attempt to gather together the shattered pieces and rebuild? Where is there a man who can awaken hopefulness in the heart of the despairing, and at the same time check the heedless impetuosity of those maddened by defeat and restore their wrecked government to active and efficient service?

“The problem was solved by one of your own boys when he suggested the name of General Benjamin G. Humphreys. At once all parties acknowledged his peculiar fitness, and as by acclamation he was made the custodian of the highest interests of the Commonwealth.

“And the success of his administration attests the wisdom of their choice.

“His wise counsels, and his conservative measures, had brought again the reign of peace and prosperity—until he was called to meet a form of reconstruction, superinduced by the United States Government, which was at once unconstitutional in form, and destructive in tendency, and by which he was required to abandon his office, and give up the government. This he refused to do, regarding as sacred the trusts confided to his care, until at length, at the point of the bayonet, he was compelled to relinquish those trusts into the hands of strangers.

“Leaving now civil life, in so many phases of which we find him conspicuous, I must speak of him as a soldier. So varied was the form of his genius that he was at home in any field that demanded his service. It cannot be expected that I should now give a detailed account of his military career. This part of his life I must leave chiefly to the pen of the historian. When he saw there was no alternative but to fight, he gave himself, with all the energy and sincerity of his nature, to the cause of the Confederacy. He raised a company, and became its captain; he joined a regiment and became its colonel; was assigned to a brigade, and became its commander.

“By nature he was singularly fitted as an official soldier. He had courage without impetuosity, fidelity without ambition, and firmness without oppression. Each soldier was his brother, and not one should suffer when it was in his power to furnish relief. He participated in nearly all the hard-fought battles of his command, coming out of one after having had two horses shot from under him, and with nine bullet-holes through his cloak within a radius of eleven inches from his collar-button, and finally returned from the conflict bearing in his body four severe wounds, that undermined his health and doubtless hastened his death.

“Other swords may be sheathed in scabbards of greater renown, but none in higher forms of valor and patriotism than his.

"But I must speak of him yet again as a man of God. He felt that his duty was but half done when he had served his fellow-men; he must serve his Lord and Master too, and he responded to the claims of religion as he responded to all other duties, in no half-hearted service, but in a sincere and manly way. The Bible was the book for him, and there he found the spirit that made him one of God's noblest creatures.

"He loved the house of God; he loved the fellowship of good people; he loved his Saviour; and he loved to think and talk about that glory which through faith he was allowed to inherit.

"As a citizen, he lives in the hearts of his friends—honored in life, and lamented in death.

"As a legislator and ruler, his people's praise is his monument. As a patriot and soldier, his fame will stand immortal on the page of history. As a Christian he 'rests from his labors and his works do follow him.'"

"IN MEMORIAM GENERAL B. G. HUMPHREYS.

"PORT GIBSON, December 28th, 1882.

"At a called meeting of the Claiborne county branch of the Southern Historical Society, held at the Court-house in Port Gibson, on this date, the following memorial was unanimously adopted:

"MEMORIAL.

"I. When a noble citizen dies, it becomes the community in which he lived to stop for awhile the hum of business and pursuit of pleasure, to consider the lesson taught by his life-work, and to hear testimony to his virtues. The late Benjamin G. Humphreys was such a citizen. As a son, he was obedient and affectionate; as a brother, social and kind; as a husband and father, loving and considerate; as a friend, steadfast and true; as legislator and ruler, wise in counsel, prudent in action; as a soldier, brave and zealous; in all the relations of life pure and without reproach; in all things setting an example worthy of universal imitation.

"II. As brothers-in-arms with him, in a cause dearer to his loyal soul than life itself, we mourn him as in a special sense 'our dead,' and tender his bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy in the great sorrow which, by the will of God, has come upon them and us.

"III. We know that he has left us for a higher sphere, yet the aroma of his life work remains and the memory of his many virtues will, in the future as in the past, incite our ardent emulation and keep alive in us the hope of meeting him in that land—

Stand ever in the light;
All rapture through and through,
In God's most holy sight.

"Resolved, That this memorial be spread upon the minutes of the Society, and copies of it be sent to his family, and to the Southern Reveille and the Port Gibson News; and that it be published in the records of the Southern Historical Society.

"DR. F. HUMPHREYS:

"Dear Sir.—You have requested me to furnish you any information I have relating to the history of my lamented friend, General Benjamin G. Humphreys.

* Southern Historical Society Papers (April-May, 1883), p. 240.

“At the commencement of the war he was understood to have been inclined to be a Union man, but went with his State, going into the struggle as captain of the Sunflower Guards, 21st Miss. Regt. Elected colonel of that regiment, he continued in that position until after the battle of Gettysburg, when, having lost one general (Wm. Barksdale), General Humphreys was promptly promoted to his place. I recollect now of his being wounded but once—at the battle of Berryville, Clarke County, Va. (1864). Our brigade was made up of the 13th, 17th, 18th and 21st Mississippi Regiments, our first brigade commander being Gen. Richard Griffith. Hence the command is known in this State as the Griffith-Barksdale-Humphreys Brigade. During the greater portion of the war we were in the 1st Corps, A. N. L., under Gen. James Longstreet. General Humphreys has left a history of the conduct of the Mississippi troops in Virginia, which his son Barnes has promised me for publication. General Humphreys wrote it with great care, and we look forward to its appearance in print with great interest.

“Immediately after the war he was elected Governor (Oct. 16, 1865). Re-elected in 1867, he was ejected at the point of the bayonet by the Military Governor-General Adelbert Ames. After his expulsion, he continued in the insurance business until a few years preceding his death, which event took place on his plantation in Itta Bena, Leflon County, Dec. 20, 1882. His remains passed down our river Dec. 25, when our citizens paid their respects by forming in procession and visiting the steamer to view the corpse of the gallant old hero. He was buried at the old homestead in Claiborne County. On the 28th December the branch of the Southern Historical Society met at Port Gibson and adopted the eloquent and feeling memorial to be found in the April-May number, Southern Historical Society Papers.

“I was with the command four years, and for nearly two years a member of his military family. I knew him well and loved him well. I had an exalted opinion of his integrity and his high soldierly qualities. Not only that; his wisdom, justice and firmness in public life; his purity in both public and domestic life, and his prowess on the battle-field, made him, in my estimation, the Washington of our State. * * * * *

“Major P. M. DOHERTY:

“Dear Sir.—Having been called on by you to state what I knew of the Humphreys family in Claiborne county. My acquaintance with that distinguished family dates far back into the earliest recollections of my childhood. My mother, whose maiden name was Elizabeth Singleton, at quite an early age, after the death of her father (my grand-father), Col. Richard Singleton, of Revolutionary fame, became a member of the family of Capt. George Humphreys, the father of the late ex-Governor Benjamin G. Humphreys, and remained in the family until she was married to my father. I have often, when a little boy, heard my mother speak in the most affectionate terms of the kindness she received from the Humphreys family in her girlhood days. My mother occasionally visited the family of him. She used to call father old Capt. George Humphreys. I generally accompanied her on those visits. I was born in Port Gibson, Claiborne county, in the year 1810. The last time I saw Governor Humphreys was in the winter of 1881, on his plantation, in Roe Buck Lake—a business trip from Greenwood on horse-back took me immediately by his house; I was in sight of his house before I knew that I was in fifty miles of him. I was delighted at the prospect of once more meeting my old friend and friend of my mother. I rode up to his gate, alighted, hitched my horse and went in, rapped at the door a few times—’twas early in the morning—after a few moments of delay the door was thrown open and there stood before me, face to face, the silver-haired old veteran. In a twinkling he recognized me, and flew to me and embraced me with such a warmth of feeling that I shall never forget. My stay with him was short, but long enough to partake of a sumptuous breakfast, prepared by his noble wife. I was with him perhaps two hours. During that time his generous soul seemed poured out in his anxiety for me to remain with him for a few days. During my short stay with him, he spoke much of his past life; spoke of his strong Union sympathies before the war cloud burst upon the South, 'but,' said the old hero (right here he came near breaking down), 'when the cloud did burst, I felt that my native Sunny South was more dear to me than all the world beside'—how well he defended his country's cause, is known to all. In this brief conversation I had with Governor Humphreys, if I am not mistaken, he told me that he was born in four miles of Port Gibson. He said he was some four years my senior; therefore, he must have been born in the year 1806. He was very feeble, and when I shook hands with him, for the last time, his noble, generous heart overflowed with emotion, and the magnetism that binds friend to friend caused the sympathetic tear to moisten our eyes.

"In conclusion, I can say, without the fear of successful contradiction, that the whole Humphreys family, from old Capt. George down to the youngest, were distinguished for their social qualities and their noble and generous hospitalities. Governor Humphreys' first wife was a Miss McLaughlin, of Marion county, Miss. His second wife was a daughter of the Hon. James H. Maury, of Port Gibson. Now, dear Major, what I have written, and that hastily, is gathered from memories of the past, running far back into my earliest childhood recollections, hastily thrown together.

"Yours very truly,
"W. H. MANGUM."

General Humphreys died at his home in Itta Bena, 20 Dec., 1882, aged 74 years, and his remains were taken to Port Gibson for interment. His widow res. (1883) Roe Buck Landing, Yazoo county, Miss.

WEST H. HUMPHREYS, OF TENNESSEE.

The subject of this notice was born in the county of Montgomery, Tenn., on the 20th of August, 1806. His paternal grand-father was a silversmith, of Welsh descent, who removed from the city of Richmond, Va., to Lexington, Ky., at an early period in the history of that latter State. One of his sons, Parry Wayne Humphreys, was educated carefully for that period, for the bar, and having studied law in the office of James Hughes, his brother-in-law, he came to Nashville in 1801, where he obtained a license to practice law. In 1804 he was married to Mary West, the daughter of a farmer in Montgomery county—a lady of exemplary piety and domestic worth. The subject of this notice was their eldest child. Parry W. Humphreys having filled the various stations of member of the Legislature, member of Congress, Commissioner for the settlement of disputed boundaries between Kentucky and Tennessee, Judge of the Superior Court and of the Circuit Court, died in 1839, leaving a character unsurpassed for modesty and benevolence in private life, and for dignity and impartiality on the bench. At an early period he paid especial attention to the education of his eldest son. He gave him all the advantages that the best schools of the day could furnish, and, at a more advanced period, sent him to Transylvania University, then under the presidency of Dr. Holly. That institution was, at that time, thronged with students collected from all parts of the Western country, under the spirited administration of that celebrated teacher. Ambition was there excited in the bosoms of the youthful votaries of science and literature to the highest pitch; and under studies severely pursued, the health of young Humphreys gave way, and he was forced to leave the University. Under the apprehension of a permanent affection of the liver, he was sent to the South for the recovery of his health. The trip proving beneficial, but not affecting a radical restoration, his attendance at classical schools was broken and occasional only. He finished his education in the schools of Montgomery county, having pursued the usual course of studies, and acquired a respectable knowledge of the Greek, Latin and French languages. Having access at all times to an extensive and well selected library in his father's office, he acquired, in early life, an inveterate habit of reading, and a taste for history, poetry and general literature.

In his nineteenth year, Mr. Humphreys commenced the study of the law in his father's office. He there pored over the pages of the same copy of Blackstone which had passed through the hands of Cave Johnson, W. Fitzgerald, N. H. Allen, D. Fentress and others, who have since occupied positions of distinction at the bar, and in the State and National governments. His habits of study, like those whilst at college, were severe and injurious to his health, but rather irregular and discursive, seeking such branches of the law as suited his taste, rather than evincing a systematic pursuit of it as a science.

After having spent a year in study at his father's office, where his health was sustained by the occasional pursuit of game, gun in hand, in the wilds of Yellow Creek, he repaired to the office of Foster & Fogg, then, as now, distinguished members of the bar at Nashville. He there continued his studies some four or five months, but not with so much advantage as in the solitudes of the country. He left Nashville and attended a course of law lectures delivered by Charles Humphreys in Lexington, Kentucky, and returned to Tennessee, where he obtained a license to practice law in 1828.

Having resided successively in the towns of Charlotte and Clarksville, and having succeeded in obtaining a fair share of professional emolument and character, without delay or difficulty, but finding the practice of the law before his father, then a judge, unpleasant to both, he removed to Fayette county. He arrived at Somerville, the county seat, in August, 1832, a small village of the Western division of the State. This division of the State had been purchased of the Indians in 1819, and, in 1832, many of them were still in the counties of the State of Mississippi adjoining Fayette. The Court House was about fifteen feet square, and was constructed of oak poles. The bench, which consisted of some loose planks fastened up about four feet above the floor, was occupied by the late W. B. Turley, subsequently so much distinguished as a Judge of the Supreme Court. The lawyers and jury were seated on similar erections, and the spectators were looking through the cracks of this temple of justice. Such was the state of things in 1832, in one of the counties of the State, now amongst its most wealthy and enlightened, and under such circumstances was justice ably and impartially administered. Mr. Humphreys formed a partnership with D. Fentress, Esq., a lawyer of distinction. Being an efficient advocate, and having acquired a habit of thoroughly investigating the law, and especially the facts of his cases, he soon obtained a lucrative practice. His style of pleading being earnest and vehement, argumentative and unaffected, he impressed courts and juries strongly with the vigor of his thoughts and the correctness of his conclusions. His liberality in regard to pleading (a merit at that time), his courtesy in debate and his rigid abstinence from all attacks on the motives of opposing lawyers, secured him the esteem of the great body of his professional brethren. He treated the Court with respect, no matter what might be his opinion of the course of the Judge. In a few years he acquired a commanding popularity, not merely in the county of his residence, but in other counties wherein he practiced law.

In 1834, Mr. Humphreys was brought forward for the office of delegate to the convention which had been previously called to revise and amend the constitution of the State. The leading features in the then existing constitution which created dissatisfaction were the taxation of land by the acre instead of by value, which operated oppressively and unequally on poorer lands and poorer counties; and the mode of electing the officers and their term of office. Mr. Humphreys had, in early life, been an admirer of the political course of Thomas Jefferson, and had read and studied his works with the most careful attention. He had adopted the views of that statesman with regard to the best mode of electing judicial officers and their tenure of service. On taking the field he declared himself in favor of specific and limited terms of service for all officers, leaving them subject to re-election, and in favor of the election of judges, attorneys-general, magistrates, and county officers generally, by popular vote. These views met with the most violent and determined opposition.

He was opposed by two highly respectable and influential candidates. He was, however, elected, and appeared in May, 1834, in the convention at Nashville, the youngest member in the body. "You have sent us here," said a most distinguished member of that body to a citizen of Fayette County, "a young gentleman of excellent habits and fine attainments; but I differ with him toto calo as to the election of judges by the people."

It was not necessary to review the course of Mr. Humphreys in the convention. It was modest and unobtrusive. He advocated with consistency and ability the principles on which he had been elected, and during an arduous session of many months, he advanced, day by day, in the good opinion of the members of the body, and established friendships of the most permanent character, which were of great value to him in after life, and which have not been extinguished in the collisions of party conflicts.

Mr. Humphreys is the author of many provisions in the Constitution of Tennessee, which have proved of lasting and permanent benefit; such as the prohibition of lotteries, the prohibition of divorce by legislative action, and a reference for such questions for settlement to the judicial tribunals of the State, the establishment of a uniform rate of interest, and provisions for the purpose of curtailing, generally, local and private legislation. His reports as chairman of the committee on private and local legislation, will be found on pages 155 and 190 of the journal of the convention, and exhibit much soundness of judgment and maturity of thought.

On his return to his constituents, Mr. Humphreys found them satisfied with his course. The charges of demagogism and insincerity, which had been freely lavished on him during the canvass, had been silenced by the ability with which he had maintained his views, and the general character which he had maintained for rectitude of motive and business habits which he had established. Though he stood in a feeble minority on the question of submitting to popular vote the election of the judges, he has lived to witness the passage of resolutions by the legislature, recommending that mode of election with extraordinary unanimity.

The organization of the State government under the reformed constitution next occupied the attention of the public mind, and excited the deepest interest; and the great body of the men who have since occupied the most conspicuous positions in the State government and in the national government from Tennessee, were called into the succeeding legislature by the popular voice. Mr. Humphreys was elected from the county of Fayette without opposition. It was in this body that he was first required by his position to take an active participation in national politics. He had been educated a strict constructionist of the Constitution of the United States, and was a sincere adherent to the leading measures of democratic policy. He had advocated the selection of a presidential candidate by a national convention; and the friends of Judge White placing him in opposition to that course, and advocating his nomination by the legislature on grounds hostile, as he believed, to the permanence of democratic policy, he opposed that nomination in a feeble minority of nine out of seventy-five members of the lower house, in a speech of great ability, which has been often since referred to as evidence of the sagacity which foreshadowed the disruption of the democratic party of Tennessee.

But, whilst Mr. Humphreys sustained the general course of the party to which he belonged, he showed his independence by his refusal to indorse, indiscriminately, all the measures of General Jackson's administration. Whilst he advocated the great doctrine of free trade, and opposed the creation of a national bank, and internal improvements by the general government, he sustained the construction of such improvements by individual enterprise, aided by the credit and resources of the State government.

The inability of individuals, unaided and alone, to construct great lines of communication, led Mr. Humphreys, at an early period, to see the necessity of giving aid by the State to such works, with a view to develop the resources of an interior State, and made him the fast advocate of a restricted and moderate system of State aid, and an elaborate speech of his, published in the journals of that day, exhibit the views which he has constantly upheld as necessary to the advancement and prosperity of his native State, until the important connections shall be fully established, and private capital be sufficient to establish what remains. A fixed belief in the inherent right tendencies of man, and in his capacity for indefinite progression, and in the organization of physical nature for unmixed good, is the foundation of his code of morals and industrial policy, and has placed him at all times unobtrusively in the advance guard of reform and progress.

The situation of Mr. Humphreys in the legislature of 1837-'38, in a feeble minority, was not favorable for placing him prominently before the public as the organ of committees or the author of reports. He, however, sought no prominence, and was content to speak only when occasion required, and when something in which he had an abiding interest was brought forward; and then the sincerity of his convictions was impressed on others in the most unmistakable manner.

Mr. Humphreys left the legislature, as he had done the constitutional convention, with a character for always acting in fidelity to the convictions of his understanding, and for usefulness, increased and extended. Amidst the heated collisions of party, he retained the esteem of opposing partisans.

Before the next general election came on, the banks of the United States suspended specie payments, and amidst the pecuniary disasters of that period the tide of public opinion in Tennessee turned violently against those who had acted in hostility to the United States Bank. Mr. Humphreys, in common with the great body of leading men holding the same views, was defeated as a candidate for re-election. He returned to his profession and entered upon its duties.

In January, 1839, Mr. Humphreys was married, at Nashville, to Miss Amanda M. (sister of Gen. Gideon J.) Pillow. This put an end to all connection with politics.

At the organization of the State government under the revised constitution, the legislature enacted a law establishing the office of attorney-general for the State, and reporter of decisions of the Supreme Court. The attorney-general for the State was required to prosecute and defend for the State in all cases coming to the Supreme Court by appeal, in which the State is interested, either civil or criminal. He was required by law to give written opinions to the governor, controller, secretary of State, and certain other officers, when called on.

He was subsequently constituted a member of the board of internal improvements, and required by statute to protect and guard the interests of the State in those chartered companies in which the State owned stock. This statute also required the clerks of the Supreme Court to furnish the reporter with copies of the written opinions of the court, and the records; and from them the reporter is required to prepare his reports of cases and furnish the State printer with the manuscripts.

In 1839, Mr. Humphreys was elected by the legislature to this station. James K. Polk was then governor of the State; and it was during the administration of the State government by him that Mr. Humphreys first contracted an intimate personal acquaintance with him, and also with General Jackson. In the last litigations in which these distinguished citizens were engaged, Mr. Humphreys was their attorney.

At the expiration of six years, in 1844, Mr. Humphreys was re-elected, and his second term expired on the 10th of December, 1851, when he notified the court of the fact, and moved that his successor take the oath of office, which was done, and Mr. Humphreys retired from office in accordance with an intention long previously expressed, and rendered necessary by impaired health.

With regard to the manner in which he discharged the duties of the office of attorney-general, it is sufficient to remark that he passed through the ordeal of twelve years' service without a suspicion having attached to his integrity and conscientious discharge of duty. He did not blindly insist on convictions in all cases, but exercised a discriminating judgment which showed that justice and the interests of the State, rather than the ambition of success, governed his conduct.

A distinguished member of the Tennessee Bar (late Thomas H. Fletcher) said of Mr. Humphreys, that "his courteous deportment and his uniform respect for the rights of defendants deserved to be emulated." In the prosecution of cases of deep interest, when his judgment satisfied him of the guilt of the defendant, his researches were commensurate with the magnitude of the case, and his efforts vigorous and effective.

The eleven volumes of reports which Mr. Humphreys has prepared for the press are before the country, and will speak for themselves. Taken as a whole, they have satisfied the profession of the State where they were issued, and may be regarded as well prepared and valuable additions to the law reports of the United States.

For the last two years Mr. Humphreys has been engaged, in the interval of official engagements, in support of railroad legislation and railroad enterprises, and in the attempt to re-organize the judiciary of this State and introduce a reformed system of pleading and practice. He is a member of no church, and whilst he is tolerant in his feelings to all shades of religious opinions, his tendencies and sympathies, like those of his father and paternal uncle, are towards Unitarianism.

From Livingston's "Portraits and Memoirs of Eminent Americans," Vol. II. (1853).

A letter from Mr. John W. Morton, dated Nov. 15, 1886, continues the foregoing biography of Judge West Hughes Humphreys:

"Judge Humphreys was appointed U. S. District Judge of Tennessee for life, by President Franklin Pierce, which position he held until the commencement of the war. He was appointed to the same position by President Jefferson Davis, which position he held until the Confederacy collapsed. He returned home, finding his property confiscated and himself disfranchised. He was never relieved of his political disabilities, persistently refusing to apply for pardon. He pursued the practice of law in the higher courts, and occupied his leisure moments in literary work; wrote several treatises on government of corporations, &c.; conspicuous was his article, published in pamphlet form, on temperance.

"Judge Humphreys had two sisters, ELIZABETH, who m. Rev. William Bayless, of Louisiana, and had two children—Bettie and Robert—and GEORGIANA, who died young. He had, also, three brothers, CHARLES, who moved to Arkansas, and married a Miss Coleman, had six children; was a lawyer; JOSHUA, who moved to Texas, died young, without issue, was a lawyer; ROBERT W., the youngest, who graduated with distinction at Harvard, enlisted, when quite young, in the Mexican war, after which he settled at Clarksville, Tenn., where he married Miss Molly Merriwether; was a lawyer of distinction, and greatly respected, died in 1880, leaving three boys, Edward, West and John, and three girls, Nannie, who married R. W. Armstead, a merchant at Nashville; Bettie, who married Cary Weisker, a merchant at Memphis; and Carrie, single.

"Judge WEST H. HUMPHREYS had five children, three boys and two girls. A son and daughter lived to be grown; J. PILLOW, who is now a merchant at Nashville, married Clara Morton, and has one boy and two girls, and ANNIE PAYNE, who married John W. Morton, the undersigned. J. Pillow Humphreys enlisted in the Confederate army when quite young, serving throughout that memorable contest. The undersigned also enlisted in the Confederate service when eighteen years of age, as private in 1st Penn. (Maney's) Regiment; was soon transferred to the Burns Battery, afterwards known as Porter's Battery, and then, through the last three years of the war, as Morton's Battery, Forest Cavalry, and the last year of the war was Chief of Artillery, Forest Cavalry Corps.

"John W. and Annie H. Morton have four children, three boys—West H., John W. and Robert Lee—and a girl—Queenie.

"Yours very truly,

"Jno. W. MORTON.

"N. B.—Judge Humphreys was a man of studious habits and great learning; was greatly respected and beloved by all who knew him. He died at Nashville, in Oct., 1882, 77 years old.

"Copy of letter written by Judge Humphreys to his daughters, Queenie and Annie (sixteen and fourteen years of age), on leaving for the South, their mother having died several years before, and their only brother, J. Pillow, having 'gone to the wars.' Miss Queenie Humphreys, a beautiful and charming young lady, died at the age of eighteen:

" 'MELROSE, 22 Feb., 1862.

" 'MY DEAR DAUGHTERS:

" 'I am about to leave you, and know not whether I shall ever see you again. I feel it my duty to say something to you by way of advice.

" 'I say to you first, stay together and love one another. Be always together and never separated one hour if you can help it. In these dangerous times stay in the house, or about it. Take all the exercise you can, by walking in the passages, jumping the rope or otherwise. Sleep as much as you can and be prudent in eating—adhere to your habit of not eating supper. These few habits will keep you healthy. In regard to your conduct and conversation, keep out of company as much as you can, talk as little as you can and listen to others respectfully. Say all that you can, with truth, in praise of others, and nothing in censure or ridicule. Quarrel with nobody, under any circumstances; have no secrets or secret-keepers, and say nothing that you are not willing that all persons should hear.

" 'In regard to expenses, buy nothing that you can do without, and buy for comfort, not show; recollect that all are respected most in the end for good qualities of head and heart, than for their appearance; but neatness and cleanliness are indispensable to obtain your own respect or that of others. Seek entertainment more in books and in employment that is useful, than in running after miscellaneous company. Pray to God to keep your hearts pure and conduct right.

" 'Farewell, my dear daughters, and may God take you in his holy keeping.

" 'WEST H. HUMPHREYS."

THE TENNESSEE AND KENTUCKY FAMILY.

Since printing the foregoing biography of Judge West H. Humphreys, we have, by the aid of Mr. CHARLES E. KINCAID, of the Courier-Journal Bureau, of Washington, D. C., been enabled to construct what, unfortunately, is little more than an outline record of the Tennessee and Kentucky families of Humphreys, of which it has been well said that "the history of Tennessee could not be written without frequent mention of members of this family."

FAMILY 1.

1. ———¹ Humphreys, from Wales, came to Pennsylvania (tradition says when very young.*

* We find an impression existing, among the present members of this line, that they are descended from JOSHUA (of the Chester County, Pa., line, p. 993), the builder of the U. S. frigate Constitution. This, however, is by no means proven. We are compelled to the belief, however, that they (the Tennessee and Kentucky families of Humphrey) are collateral with the family of Joshua referred to; that they are from Benjamin, the younger son, as he was from David, the older son, of Samuel, of Portheven, Wales, the progenitor of the Chester County family.

This Benjamin (as will be seen on p. 10) had a son Owen, who married Sarah Hughes. Miss PATSY HUGHES, now (1886) over sixty years of age, holds the tradition that her first ancestor came over to America as a child of only six years of age. These and certain other slight items point to the conclusion at which we have arrived in the preceding paragraph.

Children:

2. I. JONATHAN²; m. — Crawford. FAMILY 2.
3. II. JOHN²; m. — North; settled in Richmond, Va.; was probably the John Humphreys, ancestor of the "Chester Co., Pa., and Virginia Branch," given on pages 1001-3.

57. I. ALLISON.⁶ Res. (1886) with his mother.

[In regard to the connection presumably existing between the foregoing Tennessee, Kentucky, Mississippi and other Southern families, and the Pennsylvania Humphreys, the senior editor offers the following:

“With regard to the origin of the Tennessee and Southern affiliated families, I think there must be considerable allowance made for romancing and the repetition of the ‘three brothers’ story so apt to appear in the cloudy origin of families. The editor had frequent and long correspondence and consultation with Gov. Benjamin G. and with Gen. Andrew A. on the subject, and Benjamin G. concluded that the three brothers’ story had no foundation; in fact, that no brothers of the Humphrey family ever went anywhere together, unless under compulsion, and that the strong probability was that the Southern Humphreys were a branch of the Pennsylvania family; while Gen. A. A. Humphreys was firmly convinced of that fact and he argued that the name of the Gov., “Benjamin Grubb,” could hardly be accounted for, except as a namesake of Benjamin Grubb, a kinsman of the ancestors of the Pennsylvania family. And we have the farther concurrent testimony that one of the brothers of the father of Joshua went West, and of whose descendants we have no record, unless it be this Southern, or Tennessee, Kentucky and Mississippi family. The statement that they came down the Monongahela and then the Ohio and Mississippi in a flat boat (‘broad horn’) is contributory evidence of their Pennsylvania rather than Virginia origin.” F. H.]

THE FOLLOWING FAMILY IS PROBABLY CONNECTED WITH THE PRECEDING:

“OTIS M. HUMPHREY, M. D.:

“Dear Sir.—Your circular of late date duly received, and afforded me pleasure to hear of your enterprise, and I will cheerfully add a little to the list.

“My name is Western R. Humphrey; was born near Westport, Oldham County, Ky., Mch. 30, 1828. My father’s name is John M. Humphrey; born at Lexington, Ky., on the 24th of May, 1805—now living. His father’s (my grand-father) name was Holman Sneed Humphrey; was born May 24, 1781, in Kentucky (I think), and he died in this county, Feb., 1866. My great grand-father’s name was Merry Humphrey; he was born in Virginia, about the year 1750, and died in 1840, leaving some twenty children living. His father’s name was David Humphrey, who died in Virginia not many years after the close of the Revolutionary War. I have not been able to trace our family any further back than to above-named David Humphrey.

“I was married to Miss Annie Doughty, at Casey, Clark County, Ill., on the 23d Sept., 1852. We have six children, in the following order: Fannie, Floretta, John M., Rozee M., Laura A. and Charles W. Fannie is married to B. A. Langston, residing at Eureka Springs, Ark. Floretta and all the rest of our children are single, and residing with me, excepting our son John M., who is a licensed lawyer, and is now U. S. Pension Special Examiner, located at Wichita, Kan.

A MARYLAND FAMILY OF UMPHREY.

THOMAS UMPHREY was born on the Eastern shores of Maryland, 25 Dec., 1787. His parents were from Wales, and moved to Bourbon County, Ky., where he was reared to manhood; his father died when Thomas was but a small boy.

Thomas Umphrey was married to Mary Lear, 14 June, 1805. He moved from Kentucky to Ohio (Highland County) in the year 1826; moved from Ohio to Illinois (Stephenson County) in 1845. He died July 9, 1856. Mary Umphrey, his wife, was born May 15, 1787, and died Aug. 27, 1872. Thomas Umphrey’s mother’s name was Araminta Umphrey. She married a man by the name of Benjamin Williams after the death of her husband. Thomas Umphrey’s father’s name and age we do not know; he had but one brother, whose name was John. His mother died near the little Miami river, Ohio, between 1835 and 1840, as near as I can tell.

“COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Oct. 31, 1883.

“OTIS M. HUMPHREY, M. D., Minneapolis, Minn.:

“Dear Sir.—Your favor of the 27th inst. duly received and contents noted. In reply, will say that I am like many others, ‘know little or nothing of my ancestry,’ and about all I do know relating to them is what I remember hearing my grand-father say when I was a boy. If I remember correctly, my great, great grand-father came to this country direct from the North of Ireland, having gone to that country from Wales. He settled in Virginia, from whence our branch of the family sprang. A brother of his came to this country from Wales about the same time, settling in the East—Massachusetts, I think, and while they corresponded after coming to this country, they never met. My grand-father’s name was DAVID; was born (I think) in Virginia; married Miss Jane Young, and lived a number of years in Eastern Ohio—Jefferson and Harrison counties—afterward moved to Logan county, where he lived until his death, at the age of 87 years. They had six children (trusting to memory and in the absence of records) and in the following order: Mary, Joseph A., Nancy, Robert Y., Martha and John W. My father is Robert Y., who still lives at Bellefontaine, Logan Co., Ohio. All my uncles and aunts are still living, except Aunt Mary. I have heard my uncle Joseph speak of an uncle of his—Thomas Humphrey, a brother of grand-father—who (I think) lived in Ross County, Ohio, and who had a large family of sons, nearly all of whom settled in various places in the West. We have only kept up an intimate acquaintance with immediate relatives, and have not kept track of distant ones.

“Wishing you success in your undertaking, and hoping to hear from you again, I am

William Humphrey resided in Virginia; had four sons—SAMUEL, SIMEON, JOHN and THOMAS. He also had a brother named ROLLY. All died in Nelson County, Ky. SAMUEL, son of WILLIAM, removed from Virginia in 1787, and settled in Nelson County, Ky.; has a son SIMON, sheriff of the county, residing in Bardstown, Ky.

Stephen Humphrey was born about 1744; came to America, from England, when a young man; brought a race-horse with him, with which he was very successful, winning a large amount of money; became very wealthy, and bought a farm in Hunterdon County, N. J.; married ———, and had one child. He was about eighty years of age at the time of his death, which occurred about the year 1824.

Child:

- I. JOHN; m. Experience, dau. of — and — (Blackwall,* who was a second cousin of Lord Blackwall) Dunn. He resided (1869) in Tompkins County, N. Y., aged about 90 years. They had eleven children, only five of whom were living in 1869—three sons and two daughters. Children (as far as known):
 - i. George. Res. (1869) Philadelphia, Pa., aged about 64 years.
 - ii. Samuel B.; m. ———. Res. (1869) Milwaukee, Wis., aged 50 years. Children: (1) Seymour B.; living in 1869, aged 21 years. (2) Willard F.; living in 1869, aged 11 years.

Nicholas Humphries, a physician, was a surgeon in the New Jersey Vols.; settled in New Brunswick, and died at Sugar Island, in the year 1822.—Sabine's American Loyalists, pub. 1847.

Nicholas Humphries was an ensign in the New York Vols.—Idem.

James Humphrey was in Derby, Ct., as early as 1710, and was "felt maker," or hatter, at the "north end," or on Beaver Brook, back of Ansonia. He came, probably, from Milford. In the "List of Estates in Derby in 1718, by authority of the town," is "James Humphreys, £18." A division of a tract of land "at Great Hill, consisting of something over one hundred acres," was made on the 20th of March, 1756, "to the proprietors, which meant all who had paid toward the original purchases of the Indians, and none others except by a special vote of the town. Hence rights are named to the original settlers who had been deceased many years; and hence there are many deeds recorded signed by the heirs of such original proprietors." James Humphrey was number 60, the highest number being 83, and the lots containing about one and a half acres.† The name of James H.'s wife was not given in the History of Derby, but his children were.

Children:

- I. SAMUEL, b. 24 Dec., 1711; m. 18 Aug., 1735, Susannah Thomas, of Woodbury, Ct.
- II. JAMES, b. 10 Nov., 1715; m. 15 Mch., 1750, Submit Stevens. Children:
 - i. Mary, b. 23 Dec., 1750.
 - ii. James, b. 10 Dec., 1752. April 13th, 1778, James Humphrey took the "oath of fidelity" in Derby. This may have been his father. James Humphrey also served in the Revolutionary war; his name is found in the list of sea captains and seafaring men who resided in Derby Narrows. The following inscription is copied from a tombstone in the Episcopal burying-ground at Derby:

In memory of
Mrs. Sarah B. Humphreys, wife of Capt. James Humphreys, who departed this life
May 11, 1786, 10 days after the birth and death of her first child, in the 24th year of her age.

- iii. Samuel, b. 8 May, 1755.
- iv. John, b. 25 Mch., 1761.

III. MARY, b. 10 Dec., 1716; probably married, 5 June, 1735, Ephraim Harger, of Derby.*
We add the inscription on his tomb-stone in the old Episcopal grave-yard at Derby:

In Memory of
Mr. Ephraim Harger, who exchanged this mortal
Life for Immortality
Dec. 31, 1797,
aged 92 years and 2 months.
The Memory of the just is Blessed.

Children:

- i. Abraham, b. 14 Sept., 1735.
 - ii. Sarah, b. 24 Dec., 1739.
 - iii. Margaret, b. 26 Nov., 1741.
 - iv. Benjamin, b. 22 Dec., 1743; d. 15 Mch., 1779; m. 4 July, 1768, Amy Tuttle. Children:
(1) Benjamin, b. 12 Jan., 1769. (2) Sarah, b. 23 Jan., 1771. (3) Ephraim, b. 23 May, 1774. (4) Lucina, b. 17 Sept., 1776; d. 4 July, 1778. (5) Joseph, b. 19 Apr., 1779.
 - v. Abraham, b. 26 Oct., 1745; m. 25 Sept., 1766, Mary Clinton, of New Haven.
- IV. SARAH, b. 1 Aug., 1719; probably m., 21 Mch., 1745, Ephraim Andrus.† Children:
- i. Hannah, b. 22 June, 1745.
 - ii. Desire, b. 18 Mch., 1747.

IRA HUMPHREY, THE U. S. MAIL-CARRIER, WHO WAS BURNED TO DEATH IN A FOREST FIRE IN MICHIGAN, IN 1881.

Concerning this brave man, we take the following account from the report of Inspector E. C. Turner, on case of loss of pouch of mail in Sanilac County, Mich., sent him by Chief P. O. Inspector for investigation, and printed in an official circular:

"Ira Humphrey, the carrier, was a faithful fellow, and seemed to suppose that the United States mail must go, come life or death. Had he listened to the advice of three or four persons, who told him that it would be impossible to make the trip that day, he would, no doubt, have been alive now.

"During the winter of 1880 and 1881 he was on schedule time, and in no instance missed a trip during the unusually severe season and terrible roads.

"The mail upon this 5th of September was carried in a wagon, drawn by one horse. Humphreys started, accompanied by an old man in another conveyance. The old man wandered in a different direction than the one taken by Humphrey, and was saved alive, although badly and dangerously burned.

"Humphrey took refuge behind a school-house, with women and children, but this soon burned, driving them into a corn-field, where his body, and that of a woman and two little children, were found. The last act of Humphrey was a vain effort to save these children. The lock, clasps, rivets, &c., of the burned pouch were found in the road, near the irons of the burned wagon. I send you these locks, clasps, &c., to do as you may desire. Many of the rivets were found, and kept as relics, by the people in that vicinity.

"Ira Humphrey was a man about fifty-five or sixty years of age, very poor, and leaves a widow dependent. He owned a small piece of land, with a mortgage upon it for nearly its value.

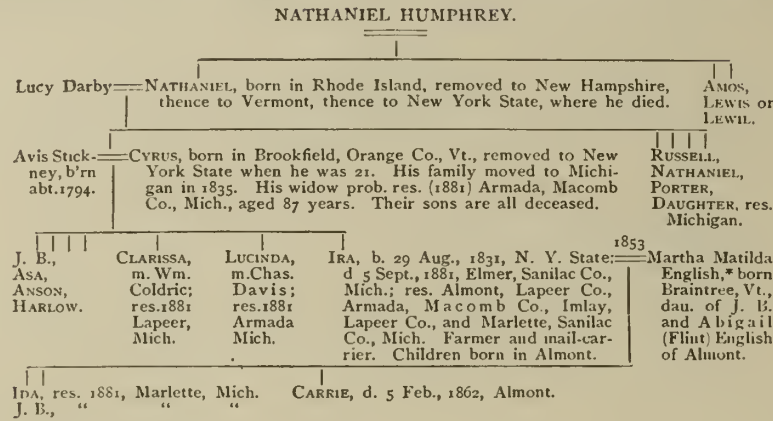

"Very respectfully,

"E. C. TURNER, Inspector."

* History of Derby, pp. 725, 818. † Page 693

A subscription for the relief of Ira Humphrey's family was made among the post office employees throughout the country.

The genealogy of Ira Humphrey, as far as it can be ascertained, is given in the following pedigree:

Edward Humphries† (from Ireland) was in Scituate, Mass., in 1740. He married Anna Sandlin, in 1739. He purchased land of the Randall family, one-quarter of a mile west of Wild-Cat Hill, where he resided.

Children:

- I. MARGARET, b. in 1741; m. William, son of Edward and Abigail (Russell), Corlew,† b. in 1744. She died in 1826, and left a family in Scituate. Children: William; Elijah (whose son Elijah was an officer in the Suffolk Bank); Charles; Anna; Joseph; Polly (m. — Colman, of Scituate); Jane.
- II. EDWARD, b. in 1742; a very worthy man; resided on the paternal place, in Scituate, Mass., and died in 1825; unmarried; had been a Revolutionary soldier.
- III. RICHARD, b. in 1744; was living, about 1831, in Littleton, Mass.
- IV. MARY, b. in 1748.
- V. JOHN, b. in 1749; resided and died in Littleton, Mass.

HUMPHREVILLE AND UMBERFIELD, OF NEW HAVEN COUNTY, CT.

The following items concerning the families bearing these names are merely contributions toward (as we hope) a future collection, by some other hands, of a connected line of lineage which we have not had time to trace. (F. H.)

John³ Humphreville (John,² *John*¹) married ———.

"The graves of the children of John³ Humphreville were to be found in the West Haven church-yard, adjoining the Episcopal church, twenty-five years ago, and I saw them then, and they were in a fair state of preservation, but now they are crumbled away and are gone. In the same yard there were also graves of the Umberfields.

* Mrs. Humphrey was married at Utica, Macomb County, Mich. She res. (1881) about two miles from the post office at Marlotte, Sanilac Co., Mich. She has 20 acres of land, with five acres improved; no buildings worth mentioning. "Is back on the place" $250.

† Deane's History of Scituate, p. 290. ‡ History of Scituate, p. 243.

 Lemuel G. Humphreville, who makes this statement (1883), writes that he thinks the only change made in the surname Humphreville by his ancestors was the prefixing of the H before U and the substituting of ff for ph. On all the earliest tombstones of the family the name is spelled as he now writes it. A great grand-daughter of Ebenezer [Fam. 3] had the surname Umberfield, and the question arises how was this change in the name introduced.

Children:

- I. SAMUEL⁴; m. ———. FAMILY 2.
- II. EBENEZER⁴; m. ———. FAMILY 3.
- III. LEMUEL⁴; m. ———. FAMILY 4.
- IV. JOHN⁴; was drowned when a young man.
- V. REBECCA.⁴
- VI. ABIGAIL.⁴

FAMILY 2.

Samuel⁴ Humphreville (John¹ John² John³) married ———. [Four daughters of this Samuel resided in Lanesborough, Mass.; names not ascertained.]

Child:

- I. SAMUEL⁵; probably resided in Lanesborough, Mass.

FAMILY 3.

Ebenezer⁴ Humphreville (John³ John² John¹) married ———.

Children (besides two daughters):

- I. EBENEZER.⁵
- II. JOHN.⁵
- III. JOSEPH.⁵
- IV. MOSES.⁵

FAMILY 4.

Lemuel⁴ Humphreville (John³ John² John¹) married ———.

Children:

- I. LEMUEL⁵; m. Ursula Preston. FAMILY 5.
- II. LIBERTY.⁵
- III. AVIS.⁵
- IV. LUCENA.⁵
- V. ANNA.⁵
- VI. POLLY.⁵
- VII. LURA.⁵
- VIII. DEBORAH.⁵
- IX. SUSAN.⁵

FAMILY 5.

Lemuel⁵ Humphreville (Lemuel⁴ John³ John² John¹) married Ursula Preston, whose mother was Elinor Stiles.* Lemuel, with his brother Liberty, removed from Milford or West Haven to Litchfield about the year 1800.

Children:

- I. LOUISA.⁶
- II. SUSAN.⁶

* A wild tradition in the Preston family (very common to the Stiles connection) makes her to have been a grand-dau. of President Stiles, of Yale College. As the President had no grand-children or great grand-children of the name of Elinor, we cannot entertain the tradition. (H. R. S.)

- III. LEMUEL GARNER.⁶
- IV. MARY.⁶
- V. ALBRO MADISON⁶; m. ———. FAMILY 6.
- VI. HARRIET.⁶
- VII. DEBORAH.⁶

FAMILY 6.

Albro Madison⁶ Humphreville (Lemuel,⁵ Lemuel,⁴ John,³ John,² John¹) married ———.

Children:

- I. LEMUEL G.⁷; m. ———. FAMILY 7.
- II. GILBERT LIBERTY⁷; d. in 1869.
- III. MARY JANE⁷; d. in 1853.

Lemuel G.⁷ Humphreville (Albro Madison,⁶ Lemuel,⁵ Lemuel,⁴ John,³ John,² John¹) married ———. Res. (1883) Northfield, Conn.

Children:

- I. M. JENNIE.⁸
- II. ETTA L.⁸
- III. BERTHA URSULA.⁸
- IV. LOUIS GILBERT.⁸
- V. LEMUEL BYRON.⁸

John seems to have been a favorite name at first. I have a record of SAMUEL HUMPHREVILLE, b. in 1666; m. Experience Miller, b. in 1679; JOHN, b. in 1701; THOMAS, b. in 1703; m. Sarah ———, b. in 1704; EBENEZER, b. in 1726; m. Esther ———, b. in 1732.—Letter of M. S. Giddings.

John Umberfield (or Umphevville) was born 17 Feb., 1776; died 9 Dec., 1829 (in Orange, Ct., I suppose. He married 26 Jan., 1800, Martha Hotchkiss, who was born 18 Apr., 1775, and died at New Haven, 12 Oct., 1856.

Children:

- I. HARLEY, b. 10 Apr., 1801; d. 20 Aug., 1835.
- II. MARCUS, b. 10 Mch., 1804; d. 12 July, 1834. (One of these married in Ohio and had two daughters.)
- III. SIDNEY, b. 26 June, 1806; d. 12 Oct., 1841; m. about 1835, Sarah (or Sally) Linsley, dau. of Capt. Joseph Linsley, a sea-captain and West India trader, who sold his place, taking in payment Continental money, which depreciated in value.

Sidney Umberfield was a merchant at New Haven. Sarah (his wife) died at New Haven, in June, 1856, æ. 44, leaving two daughters. Children:

- i. Emma Martha, b. at New Haven, 17 Apr., 1837; m. (1) 14 May, 1862, Dr. John B. Snow, of Bridgeport, a dental surgeon, who graduated at Philadelphia Dental College. He d. in Anoka, Minn., 10 June, 1871. She m. (2) 2 June, 1877, Minot S. Giddings, formerly a wholesale grocer at Bridgeport. They now reside at New Milford, Ct. (Mr. Giddings m. (1) 25 Nov., 1863, Nellie Canfield Giddings, who d. at New Milford, 22 May, 1876.) Child (by her first marriage): (1) William Emmons (Snow), b. 26 Sept., 1863; d. 26 Sept., 1864.

- i. Mary Ellen, b. in New Haven, 19 Aug., 1838; m. 1 June, 1868 (I think), Frederick C. Nichols, of the firm of Clark & Nichols, hat and fur merchants, Bridgeport, Ct. Children: (1) Marion, b. about Feb., 1869; d. in Apr., 1870. (2) Mary Louise, b. 16 May, 1871. (Letter of M. S. Giddings.)

Thomas Mallery, b. 15 Apr., 1659, m. 26 Mch., 1684, Mary Umberfield, supposed by Mr. Savage to be a sister of John Umberfield, who was in New Haven in 1674, and a proprietor there in 1685. Umberfield had lands in West Haven. He is supposed to have had children—at least Samuel, who had descendants commencing with Sarah in 1695. I presume also a daughter, Mary, who married 28 Nov., 1694, Ebenezer Downs. The name Umberfield remains in West Haven and in New Haven to this day. The name is also spelled in the early New Haven records Umphrevile, Humphrevile, Umfreeville, Umfrevile, Humfrevile, Humphereville, Humpherville, Humperville, Humphervel and Humphorvil.—From the Candee Genealogy.

There is a family in Northfield society, of Litchfield, who now spell their name Humphreville. I understand they changed it from Umberfield. The old lady died some two years since, aged 102 years. Presume you have their record. Also, from the History of Seymour (Ct.): In 1866, Sheldon, Willis and Miles Umberfield were appointed trustees of the church, and also for several years after. Catherine Umberfield is mentioned as a teacher in 1830.—Letter of M. S. Giddings.

THOMAS HUMPHREY was at Hartford in 1682.—Hinman Papers.

We find in Savage's Genealogical Dictionary the following: Umpherville, Umberfield, Humphreyville, or Umfreville, John, of New Haven 1674, a proprietor 1685, was, perhaps, father of Samuel and Mary, and may have had other children. One Mary Umberfield, perhaps his sister, married, 26 Mch., 1684, Thomas Mallery, of New Haven; and Mary Umphrevile, perhaps dau. of John, married, 28 Nov., 1694, Ebenezer Downes, of New Haven, which may justify a conjecture that two families of the name lived there. Samuel, of New Haven, perhaps son of the preceding, had by wife not named, Sarah, b. 2 Apr., 1695; Ann, b. 28 Apr., 1700; John, b. 15 Mch., 1702; Thomas, b. 8 Feb., 1705; Elizabeth, b. 27 Oct., 1708; Esther, b. 12 Sept., 1710; Mary, b. 28 Aug., 1714; David, b. 16 Aug., 1716.

It is possible that some of these surnames were changed to Humphrey, and that some of the members of these families removed to Hartford from New Haven.

We do not know that Sergt. John² Humphrey resided in New Haven, and his son Nathaniel,³ who resided in Hartford, Ct., died in December, 1711. He may have had a son or grand-son Nathaniel, who died in 1770. The Hartford Probate Records furnish the following: Administration on the estate of Nathaniel Humphry, late of Hartford, deceased, was granted to James Humphrey of Hartford, who, with Joseph Humphrey, of Hartford [see Fam. 7, J.²], gave bond Jan. 15, 1771. Inventory exhibited at the same time, amounting to £5-19-1, carpenter's tools and clothing; dated Dec. 26, 1770.

Estate of James Humphrey, of Hartford, deceased; administration granted to James Bunce and Consider Buel, Feb. 28, 1775; inventory £10-3-5, dated Mch. 1, 1775; estate reported insolvent Jan. 19, 1776, and com. appointed; their report accepted, 26 Feb., 1776.—Hartford Probate Records, xxi, 49; xxii, 37, 62, 109.

EDWIN HUMPHREYVILLE, and a sister, of Norway, Herkimer County, N. Y., were at Cazenovia Seminary, in 1851-2, with Rev. Lewis Bodwell, of Clifton Springs, N. Y.

Gideon Barnum and MARY HUMPHRY were married June 27, 1757, by JOSEPH HUMPHREY, Justice of the Peace. [See Fam. 7, *J.*²]

Jonathan Morgan, Jr., and MARY HUMPHERY were married 21 Mch., 1758, by John Rawson, J. P. Children: Mary, b. 28 Feb., 1759; Abigail, b. 16 Feb., 1763; Asenath, b. 18 Aug., 1764; Daniel Humphrey, b. 18 Oct., 1766.

Some of these records may relate to the New Haven or Hartford families mentioned.

From the Town Records of Kent, Ct.

ELIPHALET HUMPHREYVILLE married Martha ——. Children: Sarah, born 1 Oct., 1764; "Nabbe," b. 4 Aug., 1766.—History of Derby (Ct.), p. 736.

MARY HUMPHREY, from Barrington, joined the church at Hampton, Ct., in May, 1779.

RICHARD UMFREY was admitted to the church in Hampton, Ct., 13 June, 1731, or 9 July, 1732, and the first of the name there.

Umfray or Humphrey, had a home or house-lot in Fairfield (Ct.) in 1649, and other lands, a part of Holt's Island. He also purchased of John Grumman, of Fairfield, his dwelling-house and home-lot in Fairfield, Dec., 1655; also land of Richard Osborne and others; also of W. Pell and John Wheeler, admr. of the estate of Thomas Dimand, decd., in 1663.

ALBANY AND NEW YORK HUMPHRIES.

CONTRIBUTED BY GEORGE P. HUMPHRIES, OF ATLANTA, GA.*

John Humphries married — Cook, in Wales; emigrated from there to England, and purchased an estate near Coventry, which is in Warwickshire. They died within a very short time of each other, leaving four children. A brother of the mother, a Mr. Cook, was named as their guardian, and proved false to his trust, as he defrauded the orphans.

FAMILY 2.

William² Humphries (John¹) married Elizabeth Rogers, in London, Eng., and came to America in 1798. He settled in New York City, engaging in the wholesale manufacturing of boots and shoes, and became quite well off. He employed from 200 to 300 hands. It is related

* My great grand-father spelled the name Humphreys, but my grand-father and grand-uncle altered it to Humphries when they came to America, as I have heard said, because they were defrauded of their property in England. As to the coat-of-arms, I have heard my father say there was one, and that his grand-father came from an old family in Wales that at one time held large estates there, and have heard the name of it, but cannot remember now. My father has often said that perhaps some day I would get what was rightfully my own, but I have never attached much importance to it. He often promised to "tell me all," as he said, before he died, but the "all" never came, as he died suddenly, and all I have is what was written on a page of a book belonging to me, by my father, in 1862, while I was in the army.

of him that during the war with Great Britain, in 1812, he marched a regiment of soldiers into his establishment and shod the whole command as a present to the American cause. He also had the contract to supply the army with shoes. He went back to England in 1818, taking all the family, except his son Samuel, who was a student of medicine at that time with Drs. Yates and McNaughton, in Albany. After visiting in England two years, they returned to New York.

Children:

- I. MARTHA,³ b. in 1798; m. in England, ——— Saunders.

- VI. WILLIAM JOHN,⁴ b. 15 Jan., 1847; served through the late war, and although young in years, was noted for his gallantry, and after the war closed, went out on the frontier, where he perished, in Colorado, while fighting the Indians, with a party of ten men, under the command of Lieut. Kidder, of the Second U. S. Cavalry, sent to carry despatches from Gen. Sherman at Fort Wallace to Gen. Custar, then operating against the Indians. They were surrounded by a band of 800, and after fighting three days and nights, killing a large number of their assailants, they were put to death on the morning of July 2, 1867 (as near as we can learn). Their remains were found about two weeks afterward, by Gen. Custar's troopers, and brought into Fort Wallace, where a monument marks their resting place.

George Phares⁴ Humphries (William,³ William,² John¹) was born 13 Oct., 1837. He married in Cincinnati, Ohio, 11 Jan., 1865, Miss Frances Isabella (dau. of Frances and Agnes) Vatchet, who was born in Cincinnati, 25 Nov., 1843.

He enlisted as a private in Co. K, 5th Ohio Vol. Infantry, at Cincinnati, Apr. 19, 1861, on the call for the first 75,000 troops, made by President Lincoln, to serve three months. Before this term expired, he re-enlisted for three years, or during the war, and participated in the battle of Winchester, Mch. 23, 1862, where General "Jimmy" Shields defeated General Stonewall Jackson; also in the battles of Port Republic, Slaughter's Mountain, Antietam, three days' battle of the Wilderness, second Bull Run, and Lookout Mountain, under fighting "Joe" Hooker, and all those battles from Chattanooga to Atlanta, in Sherman's march to the sea. He missed Gettysburg on account of being sick in the hospital with typhoid fever, brought on by exposure and fatigue at the battle of the Wilderness, but participated in a great many small fights and skirmishes; was among the troops sent to New York to put down the riots on account of the draft. He was a prisoner twice during the war, but made his escape both times. Was discharged at Chattanooga, Tenn., by reason of expiration of service, June 19, 1864; at which time of discharge, he was quarter-master sergeant of his regiment. Is an architect. Res. (1884) Atlanta, Ga., being Southern Traveling Agent for the N. Y., L. E. & W. R. R., as lessee of the N. Y., Penn. and Ohio R. R.

A HUMPHREY FAMILY OF THE SOUTHERN TIER COUNTIES, N. Y.

Col. Cornelius¹ Humphrey was born 16 Oct., 1735; at beginning of Revolution was in the prime of life, well educated, a ready speaker, and a man active in public affairs. In 1775 he was chosen a member of the Second Provisional Congress of New York; he was appointed, by the New York Committee of Safety, 26 Mch., 1776, as Colonel of the Regiment of Minute Men, "he being now in service with the regiment and being well qualified for that position." He was, June 10, 1776, elected Colonel of Dutchess Co., N. Y., by the New York Provincial Congress. (Force's American Archives.)

In same work we find returns of Col. Humphrey's regiment (probably the same as above) in the U. S. service, dated Nov. 3, 1776; also, Nov. 14, at Forts Montgomery and Constitution. He was (according to Long Island Society's Memoirs, vol. iii, p. 12) in Gen. John Morin's command in Scott's Brigade, in the movements and battle on Long Island.

He also accompanied Washington from Philadelphia to New York when he was inaugurated president. He was member of Assembly from 1779 to 1785 inclusive. He was State Senator from the middle district for three years, commencing with 1787. He was again member from Dutchess County in 1800 and 1801. He then moved to Western New York, where he was appointed first Judge of Seneca County, on its organization, in 1804. He held this office six years, and during that time represented Seneca County in the legislature in 1806 and 1807. His faculties seem to have continued unimpaired to the last, as he was in the legislature when seventy-three years of age, and his term of County Judge did not expire until he was seventy-five years of age.

On the first organization of the Regents of the University of the State of New York, in 1784, he was a member. His emigration to the Western wilderness in his old age was the result of a too implicit confidence in the patriotism and good faith of his countrymen; being confident that the Continental currency would be redeemed, he sold his property in Dutchess County for $30,000, taking the entire sum in Continental money. After long years of waiting for the redemption, which never came, he saw the earnings of a life-time changed to worthless paper. His home was one mile East of what is now Mecklenburg. No vestige of the place now remains, save a portion of the apple trees he planted. Though himself a Presbyterian, he was instrumental in founding the Colony of Friends in the towns of Hector and Ulysses, N. Y.

He married Sarah —, who was born 19 Feb., 1732; died 25 Apr., 1810. Col. Humphrey died 10 Mch., 1812.

Children:

- I. MARY,² b. 20 Feb., 1758; m. Charles Carman, from whom sprang the Colony of Quakers in Hector and Ulysses, N. Y. She died 8 Dec., 1836.
- II. ELIZABETH,² b. 11 Nov., 1762; m. Levi Wood.
- III. CORNELIUS,² b. 18 May, 1768; m. Sarah Woolsey. FAMILY 2.
- IV. WILLIAM C.², b. 17 Dec., 1780; m. three times; resided near Altay, Schuyler County, N. Y.; had thirteen children, all but three now (1884) dead. Our informant, Mr. George H. Humphrey, of Breesport, asserts that one of William C.'s sons was Ira, the mail-carrier, burned in the Sanilac County (Mich.) fire (see p. 1055). This is, however, open to question.

FAMILY 2.

Cornelius² Humphrey (Col. Cornelius¹) was born 18 May, 1768. He married Sarah Woolsey, who died 5 Feb., 1849. He died 5 Apr., 1819.

Children:

- I. THOMAS³; m. Sally Koon. FAMILY 3.
- II. RICHARD³; was a wanderer.
- III. GEORGE³; m. Polly Galtry. FAMILY 4.
- IV. DORCAS³; m. Joseph Sanford; resided near Geneva, N. Y.; both (1886) dead; their family, with the exception of a daughter who married J. G. Humphrey, of Elmira, N. Y., are scattered in Western States.
- V. CORNELIUS C.³, b. 1 May, 1800; m. Sarah Brees. FAMILY 5.
- VI. SALLY³; m. Mahlon McConnel; had six children; removed to Indiana about 1836; she still (1884) survived.
- VII. CALEB³; died unmarried, in Indiana, about 1854.

FAMILY 3.

Thomas³ Humphrey (Cornelius,² Col. Cornelius¹) married Sally (dau. of Nathaniel) Koon. They lived, at one time, near Dundee, Yates Co., N. Y.; then moved to Candor, Tioga Co., N. Y., where he died, about 20 Feb., 1870, and was buried at Weltonville on the 22d. She died about 24 Dec., 1872, and was buried at Weltonville on Christmas. He was a soldier in the War of 1812.*

Children:

- I. CORNELIUS⁴; res. (1886) Wisconsin.
- II. HANNAH⁴; m. Samuel Cortright, of Weltonville, N. Y. (now dead); left six children.

* This family record contributed by D. Williams Patterson, of Newark Valley, N. Y.

- III. CYRUS,⁴ b. about eight miles from Dundee, N. Y., 9 Nov., 1815 or 1817; now lives at Newark Valley.
- IV. BETSEY⁴; m. Jacob Van Hauten; is (1886) a widow in Elmira, N. Y.
- V. SANFORD⁴; lives in Elmira, N. Y.
- VI. MARIA⁴; m. Henry Crane.
- VII. JAMES⁴; m. Mary Taylor (now dead); has two children; lives (1884) near Weltonville.
- VIII. LUCIUS A.⁴; a shoe manufacturer; res. (1884) in Elmira, N. Y.; has one child.
- IX. JOHN⁴; res. (1884) in Elmira, N. Y.; married, but has no children.
- X. CHARLOTTE⁴; m. Lorenzo De Garamo; res. (1884) Newark Valley, N. Y.; no issue.
- XI.* JOSEPH S.⁴, of Elmira, N. Y., m. Eliza Sanford; no issue.

FAMILY 4.

George³ Humphrey (Cornelius,² Col. Cornelius¹) married Polly Galtry, who survived him, and in 1884 was in her 92d year.

Children:

- I. DEBORAH⁴; m. Isaac Van Gorden. She died, leaving seven children, all scattered in the West.
- II. WILLIAM⁴; d. in 1852; m. Ann Neish, who still (1884) survives; had four children.
- III. JOHN⁴; m. Mary Neish (now dead); two children; res. (1884) near Horseheads, N. Y.
- IV. AMANDA⁴; m. Zophar Brees, who is dead; had eight children.
- V. MYRON⁴; d. in 1862; m. Sarah Fisk; had four children.
- VI. MAHLON⁴; res. (1884) with his family in Wisconsin.
- VII. SOPHIA⁴; m. Harrison Westlake; had one child.
- VIII. SCHUYLER⁴; d. in 1850.

FAMILY 5.

Cornelius C.³ Humphrey (Cornelius,² Col. Cornelius¹) was born 1 May, 1800. He married Sarah Brees, born 14 Mch., 1807. He died 1 Dec., 1869. She died 27 Aug., 1854.

Children:

- I. WILLIS B.⁴, b. 1 May, 1836; served in the war of the Civil Rebellion; was twice wounded; d. at David's Island Hospital, 1 Feb., 1864.
- II. GEORGE H.⁴, b. 4 Nov., 1826; served as Sergeant in Co. C., 89th N. Y. S. Vols., for three years; during the last year had charge of Gen. Heckman's private guard, 2d Div., 18th Army Corps; res. (1884) Breesport, N. Y.

American Archives preserves an order by Brig.-Gen. Petrus Ten Broeck, dated Rhinebeck, N. Y., 15 Sept., 1776, to Col. WILLIAM HUMPHREY, directing him to raise twenty-five men in Dutchess County, N. Y., as part of a levy ordered by the Convention. Probably this is the same William Humphrey mentioned in Lossing's Field Book of the Revolution (vol. i, p. 215), who was of Dutchess County and captain of New York troops in the expedition of 1758, under Col. Bradstreet, which captured Fort Frontenac (Kingston, Upper Canada) from the French.

There was also a Capt. WILLIAM HUMPHREY of the war of 1812, under whom Thomas Clark Holbrook (of Derby, Ct., in 1880) enlisted and served.—See History of Derby, Ct., p. 731.

* Letter of George H. Humphrey, of Breesport, N. Y.

Jonathan Humphrey* (a descendant of the first Jonathan Humphrey of Simsbury, Ct. †) "resided in the East Hill school-district, on land situated between the school-house and the farm belonging to Calvin Case, Jr. It fell to the late Cyrus Humphrey. He had seven children, four by his first wife and three by his second wife, who died in 1794." He died in 1796.—Early Settlers of West Simsbury.

Jonathan Humphrey, of West Simsbury—order to sell real estate Dec. 25, 1797. The inventory was dated Dec. 6, 1796; amt., £250-19-4; estate reported insolvent. Commissioners were appointed Jan. 2, 1797; debts, £153-18-9. (Simsbury Probate Records, III., 241, 281-2, 322.)

"Jonathan Humphrey, 2d," of West Simsbury—distribution of his estate, Jan. 31, 1800; daughters mentioned: Ruth, Alma, Lurina (or Lusina), wife of Consider Hopkins; Aurelia, wife of Garret Fosmer, and Ammi [Amoret?]. Sons mentioned: Jonathan and Cyrus. Cyrus Humphrey had land by deed of gift from the deceased, and had also purchased the rights of Lurina Hopkins and Aurelia Fosmer. (Simsbury Probate Records, IV., 283.)

Children (by 1st marriage), as given in "Early Settlers of West Simsbury":

I. LUCINA; m. Consider Hopkins.

II. CYRUS; d. in 1822; m. Amy (or Anna) Baldwin, of Waterbury. ‡ We find on Simsbury Prob. Rec. (IX., 194-7, 317-21, 514): Estate of Cyrus Humphrey, of Canton; James Humphrey, of Canton, appointed administrator July 3, 1822 [see Fam. 75, S.²]; inventory dated July 6, 1822; amt., $2,931.91; six months given for creditors.

* Jonathan Humphrey, son of Abigail Wilcockson, was born April 5, 1737.—Simsbury Records.

† This family has been copied from Abel Brown's Settlers of West Simsbury, with such additions as Judge J. O. Pettibone was able to make from memory. Judge Pettibone stated that this Jonathan, father of this family, was a publicly asserted natural child of Col. Jonathan, 2d, and Abigail Wilcox, dau. of Joseph Wilcox, Sr., who afterward married John Hill.

‡ According to Early Settlers of West Simsbury.

Feb. 3, 1823, necessaries set to widow, $124.70; real estate sold for $198. Distribution Apr. 15, 1823, to Widow Anna, heirs Ammi, half sister of deceased; Jonathan Humphrey, Ruth Griswold and Alma Roberts, half brother and sisters; heirs of Lucina Hopkins, sister of deceased; Aurelia Fosmer, sister of deceased.

III. AURELIA; m. Garret Fosmer.

IV. AMORET; died unmarried. In the distribution of the estate of Cyrus, Ammi (Amoret?) is said to be "half sister of deceased." If this is correct, there must be an error in placing her with the children by the first marriage, unless Cyrus was a child by the second marriage.

(By 2d marriage):

V. JONATHAN; d. in 1828; m. the widow of Jonathan Andrus, Jr. "Jonathan Humphreys, 2d, of Canton, Dec. 8, 1806, settled with his guardian, George Humphreys, and discharged him." (Simsbury Prob. Rec. VI., 86.)

"Jonathan Humphrey of Simsbury—adm. appointed Sept. 25, 1828, Whiting Shepard; com. appointed Oct. 13, 1828; six months given to creditors. Inventory exhibited Oct. 13, 1828; amount, $501.09. Widow Charlotte, necessaries set off, $134.04. Widow's third set off; no heirs named; is said to have had descendants who removed elsewhere. He was probably a shoemaker." (Simsbury Prob. Rec., XI., 9-16.)

"Charlotte Humphrey, wife of Jonathan," was admitted to membership in the Cong. Church, in Simsbury, 1824; was still a member in 1862.

VI. RUTH, b. in 1789; d. in 1829, æ. 40; first wife of Pliny Griswold.

VII. ALMA; m. Barzillai Roberts.

Descendants of Ozias Humphrey, contributed (in 1883) by Mr. H. L. Humphrey, of Webster's Crossing, Livingston County, N. Y., and supposed to be descendants of the OZIAS mentioned on page 179, as the head of family 31.

Ozias Humphrey was born at Simsbury, Ct., in 1789; his mother's name being Anna Andrus. He married Parnal Douglass, of New Hartford, Ct. He had no brothers or sisters, and was a man who said little or nothing about his early life. He removed, with his family, from Connecticut to Auburn, N. Y., about 1830, and thence to Springwater, N. Y.

- V. SUSAN.⁴
- VI. JEMIMA⁴; m. Charles Drurey, of New Jersey.
- VII. ELIZA.⁴
- VIII. EMMA.⁴
- IX. ROSINA.⁴

* Perhaps the emigrant Samuel above mentioned was Samuel, oldest son of Jonas, 2d, of Weymouth (one generation having been omitted in the tradition), as this contributor says that he was eight years old when he arrived, thus accounting for the non-arrival of Jonas, 2d, with his father at Dorchester—he having come to America, according to this, about the year 1657. Tradition says that Samuel's mother was captured and skelped by Indians.

FAMILY 2.

Hubbard Martin⁴ Humphrey (Samuel,³ George,² Samuel¹) was born at Goshen, N. H., 23 July, 1803. He married Sarah E. Hills, who was born at Nashua, N. H., 9 Dec., 1809.

(Furnished by Miss Nellie C.⁵ Humphrey, of South Merrimac, N. H., 1870.)

ADDITIONS—RECEIVED TOO LATE FOR INSERTION IN THEIR PROPER PLACE.

(P. 478.) EVALINA⁷ (HUMPHREY) LIPE (2012) died 9 Sept., 1829. Her husband married (2) in Apr., 1830, ———; had a dau., Josephine, b. 4 Mch., 1831.

(P. 587.) Eugenie B. Everingham (3137) married in 1874, at Sandusky, Ohio, Terence J. Goodwin, of Scotch and English extraction, who came to this country from Manchester, England, in the year 1860, and was seventeen years of age at the time of his arrival. He served four years and two months in the Union army during the war of the Rebellion, and held the rank of captain when he was mustered out of the service. On March 5th, 1863, he was captured, with his brigade, at Thompson's Station (Tenn.), and was sent to Libby prison, where he remained two months before he was exchanged. He participated in nearly all of the general engagements in the Department of the Cumberland and Tennessee. He was promoted for conspicuous gallantry at the battle of Nashville (Tenn.), for which he received a captain's commission, signed by the President of the United States. He is now a shirt manufacturer. Children (born at Syracuse, N. Y.): (1) Eugenie; d. in 1881, at the age of one year and two months. (2) Ethlynde Everingham.

(P. 588.) Herbert Everingham (3140) has middle name Grayson.

(P. 987.) William R.⁵ Humphrey (40) has been always prominently associated with the social and industrial progress of his native place. A gentleman of fine taste and reserved habits, he has felt unwilling to place a sketch of his life and public services at the disposal of the editor of this genealogy; and we must, therefore, content ourselves with a brief tribute to his worth and social position. For many years he has been identified with the railroad interests of his city, and, indeed, of the country; and in all the relations of life has proven himself an esteemed citizen and most worthy member of society.

GEORGE S.⁶ HUMPHREY (43) (*son of William R.*⁵) was for several years connected with the iron works at Oxford, N. J. He m. in 1883, Caroline Scranton, of Oxford. Res. Ithaca, N. Y.

CHARLES⁶ HUMPHREY (44) (*son of William R.*⁵) was graduated at Cornell University in 1880. He is now (1886) in Grant County, N. M., with the Carlisle Mining Company.

CHARLES D.⁵ HUMPHREY (36) (*brother of William R.*⁵) served during the Civil war, and was honorably discharged at its close. He was stationed for some time in Virginia, and afterward joined the fleet under Admiral Farragut. He was at the storming of Vicksburg, where he received a serious wound, from which he fully recovered. He died in 1870.

15. VI. ELIZABETH², b. in Walton County, Ga., 19 Apr., 1822; m. in Walton County, Ga., 26 Nov., 1838, Rev. Van Allen Brewster, who was born in Fairplay District, Morgan County, Ga., 21 May, 1817 (son of Sheriff and Rebecca Allen Brewster), of good Irish and South Carolina stock, who fought in the Revolutionary War. When he was twelve or fourteen years of age, his parents moved to Hamilton County, Tenn., and two years later into the Indian County, now Walker County, Ga. Brought up in the poverty and lack of advantages of a new county, amid savage surroundings, young Brewster had plenty of hard work and but scant schooling. He was a volunteer in the Seminole War, in 1837, after which he got a little schooling at Fayette County, Ga.; in 1842 was chosen Doorkeeper of the House of Representatives of Georgia; in 1843 was chosen Messenger to the Senate, which office he held for eight years; in 1843 he and his wife joined the Baptist church; in 1844 was elected Tax Collector of Fayette County, Ga.; about 1851 removed to Randolph County, Ala.; thence, in 1855, to Carroll County, Ga.; through his influence, in 1855, the county of Haralson was formed; he was licensed to preach in Alabama, and ordained about 1856, and has since served twenty-three churches and baptized nearly 1,000 people; was elected, by an overwhelming majority, Clerk of the Superior Court of Haralson County; in 1869 he removed to

Polk County, Ga., where he now (1886) resides, in the enjoyment of a serene old age, after a long life of great vicissitudes and labor. Children:

16. i. William Thomas,³ b. in Walton County, Ga., 1 Oct., 1839; his early education, owing to his father's frequent removals of residence, as well as to the lack of good schools, etc., in the Southwest, was precariously and with difficulty obtained, but was sought by him with a persistence which evidenced how greatly he appreciated its necessity and value. In 1861 he taught the first school in (then) Calhoun County, Ala., and from there he volunteered, 19 Sept., 1861, in the 35th Georgia C. S. Army; was at Richmond, and at Evansport, Va.; having, before Jan., 1862, had two severe illnesses, he was honorably discharged at Fredericksburg, Va. On the 6th of Aug., 1862, he again volunteered at Calhoun, Gordon County, Ga., in Col. Charles H. Almstead's regiment; served at Oglethorpe Barracks, Isle of Hope, and Whitmarsh Island, on the Augustine River; and 13 July, 1863, the regiment served at Charleston, S. C., and on Morris Island during its siege by the U. S. Naval forces. When the island was evacuated, the brigade to which he belonged (Mercer's) was sent to re-inforce Gen. Johnson, in Georgia, where Mr. Brewster was captured, 15 June, 1864, at Kencsaw Mountain, and was a prisoner at Rock Island, Ill., until released, 20 Mch., 1865, on parole. The close of the war found Mr. Brewster broken in health and disabled from active work, owing to his long exposure and privations in the field. Since then he has been a teacher of twenty-nine different primary schools, both in Georgia and Alabama, besides completing his own education; has also been a book agent, and served as colporteur for the American Bible Society. He became a member of the Baptist Church in 1852; and is a member of the F. & A. M., Caledonia Lodge, No. 121, at Cedartown, Polk County Ga., where he now (1886) resides. He married in Polk County, Ga., 22 July, 1877, Nancy Hartsell Irwin, who was born in Monroe County, Tenn., 15 June, 1858. Children: (1) John William Sheriff Van,⁴ b. in Polk County, Ga., 24 Apr., 1878; d. 13 July, 1886. MERRELL HUMPHREY.

(From the Connecticut Western News, Canaan, Ct., Jan. 27, 1886.)

MERRELL HUMPHREY [the head of Family 82, page 223] died 15 Jan., 1886. He came to Canaan, Ct., in 1841, and erected the building known as Humphrey's drug store, and commenced a small drug business, together with general merchandise. After one year he sold out to his brother, the late G. Humphrey, and returned to West Norfolk, where he opened a small store, which he kept for some time, and afterwards taught school for a number of years, also doing considerable land surveying, for which he was somewhat noted. He returned to Canaan in 1876, and in 1880 built the house in which he died. He did land surveying and other work here as long as he was able—was always a great worker and had an iron constitution. He contributed much valuable information for the Humphrey's Family Genealogy. He was a modest, unassuming person; a man of sterling integrity, who believed in doing what he thought was right though the heavens fell, and who shall say the world is not better for his having lived in it?

A former local editor of the Connecticut Western News voluntarily offers the following tribute: "With the death of Merrell Humphrey a remarkable character is withdrawn from mortal view; a remarkable career is closed and a master mind is conquered. On the altar of principles and honest conviction he laid sacrifices that would make men of less courage and greater worldly ambition hesitate, or retreat. In early life he espoused, with heart and soul, the cause of Abolition, before that cause was ripe and when the term 'Abolitionist' was a term of reproach, and a crime for which the penalty was social ostracism. The great principles of human liberty, and equality, he maintained, should apply with equal force to body, mind and soul; and in his relations, man to man, he proved his sincerity in that conviction. He measured men by the scale of character, and as 'shoddy' had no place in his own make-up, so it had in others no claim on his consideration.

He was a profound thinker and scholar and a masterly writer, a number of his productions having been given publicity in the News some five or six years ago over 'Dr. Longfellow,' 'Peter Pixley,' and other signatures, every sentence of which contained a deep-set jewel of thought.

He was a fascinating conversationalist and in his presence one always felt the magnetism of a giant intellect.

With his unswerving fidelity to his pronounced convictions, his wonderful fund of acquired information, his natural endowments of mind no less wonderful, and his unmistakable and convincing power of expression, it would seem that either a lack of physical energy, or of ambition for fame deterred him from taking such an active part in the warfare for human progress and equal rights as would have sent his name down in history as the peer of his co-patriots, Garrison and Phillips."

(P. 220.) Philemon⁷ Humphrey [780] died at Pontiac, Mich., 2 May, 1880. From about the age of 21, he was a member of the Baptist communion, in which he was subsequently a deacon. He was universally known as an intelligent, kind hearted, Christian gentleman, ever ready, by word or deed, to do all he could to benefit his fellow men.

His daughter, FRANCES MARION⁸ [787], married 3 June, 1875, Manville Jenks, of Ishpeming, Mich. She died 13 July, 1876, leaving a daughter Laura Frances,⁹ who was born 2 May, 1876, and died 15 Aug., 1876.

His son, George Dudley⁸ [Fam. 109 (972)], had two children: LETTIE MAY⁹ (973), born at Oakwood, Mich., 26 Nov., 1860; married 3 Aug., 1882, Ferris Smith Fitch, of Pontiac, Mich. GEORGE EMERY⁹ (974), born at Oakwood, Mich., 24 Sept., 1864; assumed the middle name Dudley, instead of Emory, after his father's death; resides (1887) at Pontiac, Mich.

(P. 705.) Capt. Charles F. Humphrey [3170], U. S. A., writes to complain that in the notice given of him and his military record, during the civil war, suitable care has not been taken to render his record as clear and complete as it might have been made from the ample records furnished. The most weighty allegation of omission is that the record does not make it quite clear that "his furlough was awarded him by a board of army officers, duly authorized, for meritorious services upon the field of battle." We had supposed the record given to have made plain this fact, though we confess we were not aware that such record had a military and technical value which the ordinary reader may not have recognized. We regret that our record of a worthy name and a distinguished officer was not so ample as to have covered the merits of the case.

(P. 685) Mrs. Harriette L., the widow of the late Rev. Dr. Zephaniah M. Humphrey, writes that she is sadly grieved and chagrined at the appearance of the wood-cut print of her husband, which appears in connection with his biography, on pp. 685 of the work, and she earnestly desires that we shall suppress the picture in the remaining numbers issued, and that all into whose hands the "cariacature" may have come, may expunge the same from the book. We confess that the cut is a disappointment. It does not do Dr. Humphrey justice, as we remember him. It is a strong head and has his features, but the coarse lines of the cut give an impression of coarseness, which was the very opposite of the man in character and appearance; for in no man was the element of refinement in thought, expression and person more ingrained and thorough than in him. The cut appeared in some religious journal in connection with a notice of Dr. Humphrey, and we supposed with the full knowledge and consent of the family, and so when offered to us by the owners we innocently purchased and used it. We have since made effort to obtain for publication the photo-engraving which appeared in a "memorial" of him, but without success, though we think it falls far short of justice to the man. We have done what we could to make amends for our error and misfortune, and must leave the subject with our readers. The picture can easily be omitted when the work is finally bound.

The MISSISSIPPI Family (p. 1034) numbers a Colonel in the Revolutionary War, and a Governor of that State, who was also one of its bravest Generals in the War of the Civil Rebellion.

The TENNESSEE AND KENTUCKY Family (p. 1048), comprising 16 sons, 12 daughters, and 21 children of the daughters—total 49—shows strong legal record, viz: five Lawyers and four married to Lawyers, and one to a noted Speaker of the Legislature; two Judges; one Sheriff; one President of an University; one Physician; one Surgeon; two Soldiers in War of 1812; one Artist; one Editor.

The SOUTHERN TIER COUNTIES Family, of N. Y. (p. 1054), aggregating 39 sons, 35 daughters, and children of daughters, records one Judge; one State Senator; one Colonel; one Sergeant; one Soldier in the War of 1812; one in the Civil War; one College Graduate.

BUYING A BABY.—A story worthy of preservation and alike reflecting credit on the individual as well as noting a family characteristic, is told of the Hon. Noah Humphrey Osborn. When a young man, he engaged for some years, like many of his active and enterprising associates, in the business of selling clocks in the Southern States. He had succeeded fairly well, and became the owner of his business, and was what may be called well-to-do. In his vocation he called at a house in an obscure neighborhood in lower Pennsylvania or upper Virginia, and asked the woman of the house the customary question, if she would not "like to purchase a clock?" "Yes," she replied, "I would like right well to have a clock, but I have nothing to pay you with, unless you will take one of my babies. I have got plenty of children, but no clock." "Well," said the dealer, willing to humor the joke, "I have plenty of clocks, but no children. Which one of yours would you like to exchange for the clock?" "Well," said the woman, "you may have that one," pointing to a little stubbed, shoeless and hatless boy, some two years old. "Well, my boy," said the dealer, "would you like to go with me and ride on the wagon and help take care of the horse?" The boy was not at all averse; so, after some further bantering, the clock was put up in its place on the wall, and the dealer then said to the mother, "I suppose you will let his clothes go with him—it is usual to give the halter when you sell the horse." "O, yes," said the mother, and she got his meagre traps upon him and at the conclusion lifted him up beside the dealer on his wagon, without a word of regret. The joke had now gone so far that the only way out, was to go through; so, with the little boy beside him, he slowly drove away, turning his eyes from time to time over his shoulder for some signal from the mother, to return with the child. But he looked in vain—no signal came. He spent his first night in the immediate neighborhood, not doubting that by morning the mother would have relented, and that she would come or send for her boy. But no mother or word came. He washed, fed and dressed the boy, riding with him by day, and sleeping with him at night, frequently in close proximity to the parents' home, but they never came for the child. After a time, the future Judge took the boy to one of his married sisters, paid his board and schooling, and when the Judge settled in life, he took the boy so strangely obtained and raised him in his family, as one of his own, giving him a fair education, and what was better, such example and council, as fitted him for good citizenship in life. When the lad had nearly arrived at man's estate, the Judge told him the entire story, and said to him: "You are free from all claim from me. Your parents live at such and such a place. You had better go down and visit them, and if you like, cast in your lot among them." The young man did so, remained some weeks, but returned, saying he preferred to take his name and his chances in life with the kind, worthy and humane man who had been his fast and firm friend from early childhood; and so he has remained, always calling himself and being known by the name of his foster father.

A good story is told of the Hon. Elijah O. Humphrey (pp. 381), characteristic of the historic energy of the family. He was raised upon the paternal farm in the Genesee Valley, and situated a few miles from the historic mansion of the Wadsworths', the owner of the largest tract of land in the Valley. The winter had been long and severe, and the fall pasture unusually short, and toward spring his cautious father, looking over the prospect, said to Elijah, then a lad not yet out of his teens, "Elijah, I fear we shall be short of fodder in the spring, and I wish you would hitch up and go over and see Mr. Wadsworth, and ask if he will spare us four or five tons of hay." Elijah did as his father desired, and was in due time ushered into the presence of the autocrat of the country, to whom he said, "My father, Mr. Humphrey, sent me to call upon you, and ask if you could not, as a favor, sell us some hay, as he fears we shall be short." "How much do you want?" replied Mr. Wadsworth. "Well," said Elijah, "four or five tons he thinks will do us." "Well," returned Mr. Wadsworth, "I never sell hay, as you may know. But," he added, reflectively, "there is a barn over in such a lot, which holds about forty tons. You may take what there is in the barn at such a price," naming a sum considerably below the then market value. "My father only told me to buy four or five ton," replied Elijah. "Yes, I know," said Mr. Wadsworth, "but I can only sell you the barn of hay, as I have named. You may take the hay and dispose of it as you like, and settle with me at your father's convenience. I know your family very well, and have entire confidence in the result." "Well," replied Elijah, "we will take the hay, and are obliged for your good opinion." When Elijah related the circumstance to his father, he was chided a little for his rashness in buying so large a lot of hay. But the result justified the judgment of the boy. He sold out the hay, to such of the neighbors as wanted it, paid Mr. Wadsworth for it, had enough for their own stock, and a very snug sum into the bargain, thus beginning a career of honorable prosperity which continued through life.

THE AMERICAN HUMPHREY FAMILIES,
Except that Descended from MICHAEL HUMPHREYS, of Connecticut
(WHICH WILL BE FOUND AT PAGES 745 TO 836.)

Born by the Name of HUMPHREY.

EXPLANATION.—In case of double numbers prefixed to the name, the first indicates the individual's number, giving his birth in the regular family series; and the second gives his number (also in the series) as the head of a family.
A single number prefixed to the name, indicates his (or her) place in the series.
The small number at right hand of names, indicates the generation to which they belong.

CONCLUDING PREFACE.

In concluding this to me, and to those personally engaged in it, long, laborious and anxious work, it only remains to speak, by way of apology, of some of our embarrassments; to acknowledge our many obligations to sympathizers and helpers, and to express our congratulations at the results attained.

Only those who have gone through a similar labor can well appreciate the difficulties attending the getting together of such an immense array of details, and of presenting them in the orderly sequence of families and of individuals, with the numerous dates and initials of each of the thousands of persons mentioned, with fidelity and precision. Such a labor can only be accomplished by those who have a love and aptitude for the work, with fortunate surroundings of comfort and leisure, as well as zeal for its performance. Even armed with these, their devotion will be sorely tried during its long and toilsome progress.

During the twenty years which have elapsed since its commencement, illness and the grave have not failed to claim their own, and often most sadly to interfere with plans and arrangements. Of those more directly engaged in the work may be mentioned Dr. OTIS M. HUMPHREYS, whose failure in health early caused his abandonment of it; Mrs. S. M. CHURCHILL, deceased, to whose unremitting industry for three years I am so much indebted, and to Gen. A. A. HUMPHREYS, who had only prepared to do so important a part when he was suddenly called hence; not to mention others. The building, indeed, has gone on, though the workmen have failed, but such failure has always entailed somewhat of disappointment, and doubtless of loss.

That defects and even errors should creep into such a work is inevitable. Those who construct can only work up, as best they may, the material furnished, and it can hardly be expected that all the details of such a plan should come together and be arranged in perfect order and harmony. Yet, it is a matter of congratulation that so few blemishes or errors have appeared, and that on every hand its wonderful precision has been so generally praised. If, in any case, justice has not been fully done, or the meed of praise been up to the standard of expectation, the censure should be mild toward those, who, like the faithful painter, have always desired and endeavored to present their subjects in the most favorable light.

My obligations are deep and sincere to the very many careful, painstaking men and women all over the country, who have from time to time, and even repeatedly, copied records, obtained and forwarded information and details innumerable, and thus made the work possible, yet whose names, owing to the loss of those since passed away, cannot now appear. But I may especially mention Mr. D. WILLIAMS PATTERSON, who early did considerable work for us in Connecticut; Mr. GILBERT NASH, who almost entirely furnished the Dorchester and Weymouth branch; Capt. JAMES J. HUMPHREY, of Yarmouthville, Me.; J. OTIS HUMPHREY, Esq., of Springfield, Ill.; Mr. GEORGE WILMOT HUMPHREYS, of Delphi, N. Y.; Prof. WILLIAM FINLEY HUMPHREYS, of Fulton, Mo.; CHARLES

E. KINCAID, Esq., of Washington, D. C.; Hon. NOAH H. OSBORN, of McGrawville, N. Y.; MOSES DYER, of Canton, Conn., and others, whose written contributions and encouragements have been ready and valuable. I mention especially Dr. H. R. STILES, who, all along, has been not only friend, counsellor and guide; but, of late, chief workman and director as well. Of the financial aspect I need not here speak, only in general, to express my thanks to those who have shown their interest in the work by becoming its subscribers, and in some cases by having, beyond such subscriptions, contributed liberally toward sharing my disbursements. At the close of the work is given the list of subscribers and amounts received, as experience teaches that such lists, while even now interesting, in future years, become almost invaluable.

It is cause of devout thanks to the All Father that in His kind Providence He has permitted me to see the close of this work, and I also congratulate all of the name and kin in having had placed within their reach so complete, minute, authentic and exhaustive a history of the origin and status of the family, and of its several distinctive branches. It is worthy of remark that the record of these several branches of the family is in no way connected on this side of the Atlantic, and perhaps even remotely in the old world, yet all exhibit the distinctive family traits of character. The same self-reliance, the artistic and poetic temperament, the faculty of language, the instinctive humor, the natural grace and ease of deportment, and in an eminent degree the faculty of construction, and the same sturdy independence of character which have all along characterized the race, are fully sustained in these allied branches. The positions in life towards which these gravitate, simply confirms the history as given in these pages of the family, who, having been free to choose their occupation or callings, have out of these developed those peculiarities or graces of character which have made them what they are. It is a record of which they may well be proud. In all those hundreds of pages and thousands of names I have seen nothing that needs to be concealed or which should cause one to blush; and, taken as a whole, it is a singularly honorable and blameless record. If few of the names have, of late years, obtained eminence in political life, it may, perhaps, be attributed to a preference for the less obtrusive duties of citizenship rather than to a want of talent, ability, or the confidence of the community.

That the work will remain, in the long years to come, an inspiration and incentive, as well as in some sort a monitor and guide, I have a conviction, and in this may well have my reward.

F. HUMPHREYS, M. D.

THE ARMS OF THE HUMPHREY FAMILY.

Anticipating that every family of the name, or in immediate connection with it, may desire a copy of this most inimitable MARSHALLING OF THE HUMPHREY ARMS, for framing, the author has had a limited number of copies enlarged, with an ornamental border, making the picture 15 x 21 inches. It will be accompanied with the certificate of authenticity, designed also to be framed, and suspended below the arms proper. They will be securely mailed to applicants for $3.00 each, or two complete copies for $5.00. The author hopes in this manner, not only to serve his kinsmen, but also to obtain some return for the large outlay involved. Address,

F. HUMPHREYS, 109 Fulton Street, N. Y.
